The Mirror of the Mode

By Mary Marshall

This sleeveless house dress is made of washable printed voile in shades of cool greens and browns.

None of the great French dressmakers ever deliberately set out to design dresses for the housewife to wear when she goes about her household tasks. And yet nowadays the up-to-date housewife wears house dresses that as clearly show the inspiration of the important designers as do the clothes she wears when she dances or dines, plays tennis or goes motoring.

The reason for this is that, though few housewives would call housework sport, sports dresses are perfectly adapted to the requirements of active housework. And more and more the master dress-makers here and abroad are devoting their artistic skill to designing smart, wearable and practical sports clothes.

The new house frocks for warm-weather wear are many of them sleeveless, like the dresses designed for warm-weather tennis; and many of them have slightly circular flaring skirts following the lines of the new sports dresses.

Gingham is used for many of the new house dresses, as it is for many of the new sports dresses. Linen has the advantage of being easily laundered but the disadvantage of showing wrinkles more quickly than cotton fabrics. There are new printed cotton voiles that need only the quickest sort of pressing to make them presentable after they have been washed.

Many of the new cotton and linen dresses this season are provided with light-weight hats of linen or pique suitable for country or resort wear.

FINAL REPORT IS PREPARED

CONCLUDE DRAFT TO-DAY.

PARIS, May 14 (Canadian Press).—The end of the Experts' Conference on Reparations, though possibly a very loose and unsatisfactory end, was in sight to-day. The experts have grown exceedingly restive, through delays of the past few days and their mood to-day did not favor further dragging out of the negotiations.

The storm of criticism which descended upon them last week from almost every quarter affected by the settlement they once proposed to effect so impressed the experts, they have become exceedingly reticent. Despite closed mouths, however, the expected procedure of the next few days was revealed.

It was regarded as certain that Dr. Hualmar Schacht, German spokes man, and Sir Josiah Stamp, head of the sub-committee drafting the experts' final report, would conclude a draft of the report some time to-day, to be submitted at a plenary session Wednesday.

The German reservations, which were understood to-day to provide for suspension or postponement of part of their annuities under certain adverse economic conditions and to provide for another conference at some later date, have found no favor among the French and Belgians. A complete lack of accord when the final debate is reached would be not at all surprising.

TOO MUCH MUSH!

And What It Means

With our daily three meals composed almost entirely of soft, "mushy" foods which require little or no chewing, which are swallowed almost with one gulp—is it any wonder that poor teeth and poor digestion are found in such an astonishingly large number of homes to-day?

We recognize the importance of exercising our bodies. We know that the finest physique—the strongest muscles—will deteriorate without use. Why should we think our teeth are exempt from this law?

From early childhood on through adult life, our teeth need exercise. When the three-year-old child chews vigorously he is influencing the welfare of both his temporary and his permanent teeth. He is developing the bones and muscles of his face and jaws, thus providing space for a fine, even set of permanent teeth instead of crowded, crooked ones. He is increasing the symmetry of his face and head. According to some authorities, he is favourably influencing the condition of the nasal passages and helping to prevent enlarged adenoids.

But without the exercise of chewing—without the pull of the strong jaw muscles which affects practically the entire face and head—all these parts lack the stimulation and circulation they must have in order to develop properly. That is why children should chew!

Adults should chew because stimulation and circulation are absolutely necessary to keep the gums and surrounding tissues of the teeth in healthy condition. No matter how well your teeth may have been built—no matter how strong and sound the enamel—disaster can come to them if exercise is lacking. Gums grow soft and tender. They lose their tone and bleed easily. Serious gingival disease may follow—infection—"pyorrhea"—and loss of teeth!

That is why you hear warnings sounded on all sides. Heed them! Set your teeth to work! Eat foods which require chewing. For no artificial stimulation of the gums dental authorities say, can be as completely efficacious as the natural stimulation that comes from proper mastication of food

BELANGER REGAINS FLYWEIGHT TITLE FROM HILL

Stops Hill In Sixth Round

Montreal Flyweight Unable To Stand Crashing Attack of Toronto Fighter.

AGGRESSIVE BATTLE.

Loser Down Eight Times Before Seconds Thorw Towel in the Ring.

TORONTO, Ont., May 14.—(By the Canadian Press.)— The sensational comeback of Albert (Frenchy) Belanger has again disproved the old ring adage that "they never come back" and to-day the Canadian flyweight crown once more rests upon the brow of the little Toronto Frenchman.

In regaining his title from Harry Hill of Montreal, at the Coliseum here last night, Belanger returned to the form of his preliminary days, battering the short-reigning champion to the floor time and again until a towel came flying into the ring in the sixth round.

Hill's fighting spirit and courageous heart carried him along in the face of one of the most savage attacks the Frenchman has unleashed in many a day. Down twice in the first round, the bell saving him on the second occasion, Hill always returned gamely to the storm of leather that tossed him groggily about the ring. Ready to drop at any moment from Belanger's punishing drive and from sheer exhaustion, the Montrealer turned on his challenger at times in sheer desperation, driving solidly to Belanger's head and body. In the fourth round, Hill's reserve power and flailing blows that flew from all angles in his awkward style, actually earned him an edge, but Belanger fought cleverly; watching for the many openings to drive in and land his hard, telling blows to the champion's jaw, chin and body.

Floored Many Times.

Hill went down for counts of six and three in the first round, and twice again in the second for four and six. The third round saw him floored again, this time taking eight. His rally in the fourth weakened him further, and in the fifth he was down for another eight count. He took a two count in the sixth and was again knocked down when the towel came flying in, but has just risen to his feet at nine when Referee Lou Marsh saw the token of surrender and stopped the battle.

SOFTBALL LEAGUES.

Public School League Opens Second Section of Schedule Thursday Afternoon.

LAKEFIELD, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—The softball league in the public school has run its first section through and on Thursday afternoon of this week the first game in second section will be played. The boys have gone into the game seriously and are learning to play well, learning loyalty to their captains and their teams, and the result of the season's play will be seen in a better spirit in the whole school.

The high school team played a game last week with some of the town boys who are seasoned players, with the students winning by a neat score This was most encouraging to the school boys, who are building up a strong, well balanced team.

Re-organization Meeting

A re-organization meeting of the Rifle Association will be held on Tuesday evening in the Town Hall and a good attendance is requested. The usual custom is to have the first shoot of the season on May 24th, and there is considerable business to be done before that date.

REAL RACE IN CANUCK CLASSIC

TURF SEASON OPENING

TORONTO, May 14.—(C.P.) —No matter who will win the King's Plate be a real race. The Canadian turf classic, the oldest continuously-run race on the American Continent, will feature the opening day of the brilliant meeting at old Woodbine Park, home of the Ontario Jockey Club, on May 18, and also of the Canadian turf season. The race is over the mile and a quarter distance with $15,000 added to the King's 50 guineas.

Last year the race turned out to be an individual triumph for the Seagram star, Young Kitty, who the year before had been undisputed Canadian two-year-old champion. This month the story is different. Half a dozen thoroughbreds are real contenders and were named in the entries for the 1929 renewal, and it is possible the field will set a new record.

Gathering added prestige as the years roll by, the King's plate has reached pre-eminence in the dominion similar to the Derby at Epsom and the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, which incidentally will also be run on May 18. It is limited to province-bred three and four-year-olds, and the four-year olds are those who have not won a race as three-year-olds.

King's Plate day will see a distinguished gathering at the beautiful track in the east end of Toronto. Its emerald infield and the sparkling waters of Lake Ontario offer a spectacle of natural beauty to the crowds that will throng its two great stands. Many other rich prizes are offered during the week and handicap races in particular have attracted some of the best horses in America competing in this class. Steeplechasing also is at its best at Woodbine, the O. J. C. having always given particular encouragement to this thrilling sport.

The leading contenders in the King's Plate on their workouts in the past few weeks are the Seagram star, Circulet, who has been training in company with Young Kitty; Irish Sphere, another Seagramite; Shorelint and Pinwheel from the Thorncliffe Stable; Assail; Mrs. E. Glassco's Daisy Fair; R. W. Cowie's Master Bobbie; Milestone and Cuddle Doon. And this does not exhaust the list of possible winners.

Pin Wheel and Circulet, at a rough estimation, appear the "ones to best." Circulet was undefeated as a two-year-old until he broke down in the Clarendon Plate in the fall, and Pin Wheel won the closing juvenile home-bred stakes. Pin Wheel was the first horse to best Circulet.

Given fair weather a record crowd may see the race and the conferring of the laurel wreath on the shoulders of the victorious thoroughbred.

INDIANS BEAT YANKS.

WINGS LOSE TO NEWARK

ROCHESTER, N.Y., May 14. (C.P.) —Rochester lost to Newark here yesterday in the opening game of the series 2 to 1, when two unearned runs were better than one unearned run.

The Bears scored two in the ninth on an error by Paul Florence, who tossed wildly to third as Wrightstone and Lee were hurdled around the bag. Both scored.

GUY CANTRELL HOLDS JERSEY TO TWO HITS

Sweeney's Triple in Seventh Inning Allows Toronto 3-0 Victory.

WINGS LOSE TO NEWARK..

Royals Cut Down Lead of Second Place Orioles To One Game.

TORONTO, May 14. (C.P.) — Guy Cantrell held the Jersey City tailenders to two hits down at the stadium yesterday. Bill Sweeney, the man from Toledo blasted a triple to the right field barrier with the bases crowded in the seventh and the Leafs won the first game of the series 3 to 0.

Not a chance from the start did the Jerseys have against the superb slinging of Cantrell, and it did not make a bit of difference what he served—curves, fast balls and slow ones. The Jerseys were just as helpless before one as the other, and seven went down by the strike-out route..

CHICAGO, Ills., May 14.—(Canadian Press).—The Red Sox bunched three hits in one inning yesterday and defeated the White Sox in the opening game of the series by 2 to 1.

With one out in the fourth Bigelow rammed a homer into the right field seats. Scarrett then scratched a single past Clancy and went to second on a passed ball.

PILE SUFFERERS

You can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Nothing but an internal remedy can do this—that's why cutting and salves fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, is guaranteed to quickly and safely banish any form of Pile misery or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell it with this guarantee.

Certainly beats the crowded cars!

ASK anyone who rides a C.C.M. Bicycle to work every day if he'd rather ride his wheel than take the street car? He'll laugh at such a question.

A wheel saves him from the rush-hour crowds. A wheel saves him from running to catch cars and waiting for transfers. A wheel saves him paying tribute for the privilege of standing in the aisle hanging on to a strap or a handrail. With a bicycle he can pick his own route home clear of traffic jams. A bicycle saves him time. It makes him feel better, work better, eat better and sleep better.

A C.C.M. has many points of superiority including—larger ball bearings for easy running, Triplex Crank Hanger, Hercules Coaster Brake, Dunlop Tires, 20-year Nickel Plating, three coats of Enamel baked on over a coat of rustproof.

Ask the nearest C.C.M. dealer for a C.C.M. catalogue showing the different models, or write to Canada Cycle & Motor Co., Limited, Weston, (Ont.), Montreal, Winnipeg or Vancouver.

"CHINATOWN NIGHTS."

This is one of those surprising pictures that may be viewed from two different angles. Looked at superficially, it is the portrayal of a slice of modern life.

Wallace Beery is Chuck Riley, boss of Chinatown in New York, insane with the desire for power and forging ahead to capture the undisturbed rule of his domain. Boston Charlie (Warner Oland) is his Chinese rival for power, and the two enlist the aid of their tong men "monkeys," as they term them, to fight their way to mastery. On a slumming expedition, a society girl (Florence Vidor) meets Chuck, standing over the body of a dead Chinaman, flung into the street, and a desire for sensation leads her to follow him to his dive. The next night, she comes back and eventually casts her lot in with his, sacrificing her life "uptown" to a morbid taste for thrills of a degrading type. Later, when Chuck casts her out, after she has betrayed his confidence, in a desire to save his life, she sinks lower and lower into the dregs of Chinatown. Jerry, the little lad who shadows Chuck through an undying affection for the hard man, helps her. In a sensational final episode, Riley is beaten by Boston Charlie, and the ending is quite satisfactory.

That is one way of watching the picture. The psychological angle gives it a more idealistic twist. "Chinatown Nights" depicts, more vividly than most screen dramas, the struggle of a woman for a man's soul. She pays a large price for the victory which is finally hers, when Chuck wakens to a realization of his real self, and one wonders if he was worth it.

"A May wind will overthrow a palm tree. It may be that a woman and a child will prove the downfall of Chuck Riley," said the Chinese tongue of Boston Charlie, as he looked at the woman lying in the gutter of Chinatown. Against the pride and cruel passion of the power-mad white man beat the undying affection of a gutter lad and a woman. "Chinatown Nights," oddly enough, if one chooses to look at it in that way, brings to mind one of the most spiritual and idealistic of poems, the immortal "Hound of Heaven" of Francis Thompson.

In any case, it is mighty good entertainment. Wallace Beery, who has done so much funny stuff in comedies of a high-powered type, makes a marvellous boss, and Florence Vidor, starting out stagily enough, deveops into an actress of striking dramatic power and pathos. Warner Oand is as fine as ever in his role of a Chinese overlord. —Jeanette.

KING GEORGE WINNERS 8-7

Public School League Teams Playing Smart Brand of Baseball.

PRINCE OF WALES LEADS.

Playing a brand of baseball that would do credit to players twice their size, King George and King Edward teams battled out a nip-and-tuck game in the Public School League yesterday afternoon. It was the closest game that has yet featured the season the King George nine finally notching out an 8 to 7 victory.

King Edward looked like winners in the first innings when they sent three runs across the plate. However, King George nabbed a cluster of four runs in the fourth frame to take the lead 5 to 4 and they came back with three more in the sixth to put the game on ice. King Edward nearly tied the score in the last innings when they got two runs to make the score 8 to 7 and had a man on third, but the King George successfully nipped any opportunity for the losers to score the other run.

The teams:—

King George—Williamson, Thornley, Calladine, Starr, Dixon, Mitchell, Hunter, Gardner and Epps.

Leads League

Prince of Wales took the leadership of the league when they defeated Central School 21 to 5. Although, Central never gave up they were playing against the smartest team in the league and were doomed to lose out.

Pro Hockey Franchise Secured By Rochester

ROCHESTER, May 14.—Rochester will be in the Canadian Pro Hockey League in 1920-30, it was announced here yesterday, a franchise having been purchased for Rochester interests at a recent league meeting by Harry Taber of Buffalo.

While officials of the local club were unable to say what franchise had been obtained, they expressed belief that it was the Kitchener, Ont., franchise. Taber will arrive in Rochester today, when the details of the franchise deal are expected to be announced.

BALL VETERAN PASSES AWAY

George Stallings, Veteran Club Manager, Dies While Sleeping.

OF HEART DISEASE.

HADDOCK, Ga., May 14.— Death yesterday claimed George T. Stallings, aged 63, veteran baseball player and manager, who wrote his name among the game's immortals in 1914 when he led the Boston National League Club from the cellar in July to a world's championship.

The veteran pilot died at his plantation home near here yesterday morning while he slept, bringing to an end his courageous battle of nearly a year against heart disease. A nurse going to his room at 6 o'clock found him dead, and physicians said death had some an hour before.

Colorful Figure.

Stallings, a colorful figure both as a player and a manager, was forced to relinquish active management of his Montreal club in the International League in the midst of the pennant campaign last season because of the heart affliction.

On advice of physicians, Stallings came to his plantation home where it was hoped the change in climate and rest would restore his health. He became worse, however, in a short time and was removed to a hospital at Macon, where for several days physicians despaired of his life. His fighting heart that carried him through many strenuous baseball campaigns served him in good stead, and he rallied and later was removed to Atlanta, where he improved, and after several weeks returned to his home.

He took several automobile rides about his plantation, but about a week ago suffered a relapse. Again he rallied and his condition was such that a night nurse was not considered necessary. Last night he seemed to be bearing up well.

Stallings, a native of Augusta, Ga., the home of Ty Cobb, another colorful baseball figure, first attracted notice as a manager of the New York Yankees, which club he built up from a tail-ender, when he took control in 1909, to runner-up, in 1910, but it was not until 1914 that his genius as a baseball tactician attracted widespread notice and won for him the title of "miracle man," which clung until his death.

His 1914 Triumph.

In that year Stallings startled the sports world by leading his last place Boston Braves in a triumphant march to the pennant and then defeated the famous Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games for the world's championship, which in itself established a new record.

Stallings retired in 1920, but the call of the game was too strong and he returned to the International League as owner-manager at Rochester, again retired, only to return to harness again with Montreal.

He is survived by his widow and three sons—George Stallings, Jr., who manages the plantation here; White Stallings of Chicago, and Vernon Stallings of New York.

Funeral services will be conducted from the plantation home near here, with the Rev. Father F. J. Clarkson, of St. Joseph's Catholic church, officiating.

Central Ontario League Chatter

By F. D. C.

CHATTER.

With the opening of the Central Ontario League scheduled for a week from Friday the Petes will have to grab off every opportunity that offers itself for practice. The squad had a good workout last night at the King Edward school and intended to practice there again to-night, today's rain making that impossible, however. To-morrow night at 7 o'clock, there will be a work-out in the Y.M.C.A. gym and it is hoped to work in several more outdoor practices this week.

With the exception of Al Heckman and Hap Harrison, who are out of town, Manager Swanston had practically his whole squad out at the King Edward campus last night. Two infields, one with Hickey at first, Rose at second, H. Hollingsworth at short and Mein at third, and the other with Ash at first, Marchen at second, Holyman at short and Johnston at third, put in a useful evening, while there was a flock of outfielders, including Legon, Jimmy Hall, L. Hollingsworth, Beavis and Fred Jones. Jeff Hardill and Lank Smythe threw them over to the batters in batting practice, while Manager Swanston and Doug. Hatton did the receiving.

Doug. Hatton, the Petes' recruit catcher, signed a new contract this morning. The ex-Royal is now enrolled in the Matrimonial League.

MIRACLE MAN OF BASEBALL PASSES

George Stallings, miracle man of baseball, has passed to his reward. After a lingering illness against which he fought valiantly, early yesterday morning at his home in Georgia death claimed the man who in 1914 lead the Boston Braves from the cellar to the Worlds Championship.

The baseball world will miss George Stallings. He was a power and outstanding figure in the great game. In later years he has been especially connected with the International League and the league could ill afford to lose him. His death makes the third gap in the ranks of the league.

BELANGER REGAINS TITLE

Staging one of his famous reversals of form that had twice previously won him the Canadian flyweight championship, "Frenchy" Belanger scored a knockout over Harry Hill, in the Coliseum last night to regain the title. Hill had won the title from Belanger in Montreal last month, but showing his true fighting ability the French-Canadian eight times knocked the English boy to the mat. In the sixth round with Hill just having lifted himself up on the count of nine, his second threw in the towel to save Hill further punishment.

The fight was listened to with great interest by fans here, and it can be safely said that all were enthusiastic about Belanger's complete superiority. Hill, however, took everything that Frenchy pushed at him, but never stopped trying.

MAY ORGANIZE SECOND CLUB

Herb Gardiner, Art Gagne and Paddy Patterson Figure in Startling Deal.

ENTER CANPRO LEAGUE.

BOSTON, May 14. — Though official confirmation was lacking, persons close to the Boston Bruins' management said that the acquisition of three hockey players from Les Canadiens and the drafting of three minor leaguers indicated that the world champions intended to have a second team, possibly in the Canadian-American League next season. Boston now has a club in the junior circuit, the Boston Tigers, winners of the league championship during the past season.

President C. F. Adams of the Bruins explained that the deal with Les Canadiens, by which he acquired Herb Gardiner, Art Gagne and George Patterson, was made on a straight cash basis. He also confirmed the drafting of three Canadian-American League players, Bob Taylor from the Boston Tigers, Martin Barry from New Haven and Art Chapman, from Providence.

Adams said that he obtained these new players to strengthen the Bruins, already considered the strongest club in the National League. These new players boosted the Bruins' roster to 23, and the club has strings on at least half a dozen others.

The Bruins' head repeated his denial that he intended to change the personnel of his championship club, and this led to the assumption that he planned to start a second club under the managership of Herb Gardiner, who was pilot of the Chicago Black Hawks before Les Canadiens.

HAGEN TAKES EARLY LEAD

SCORE OF 68.

MOORTOWN, Eng., May 14 (Canadian Press).—Walter Hagen, British open champion, took the lead in the first qualifying round of the Yorkshire Evening News thousand guineas tournament when he turned in a sensational 69. The champion went out in 35 strokes in spite of a hard wind and came home in 34.

George Duncan, Abe Mitchell and Leo Diegel were among the stars still out when Hagen finished in a gale and coaked by a rain which had come up while he was playing the second nine holes.

Hagen wrested the lead from Archie Compston, giant British golf pro., who had returned a count of 71.

Ed. Dudley, with 73, and Horton Smith, 75, completed their rounds before "the Haig." Leslie Cotton also scored 73, while Aubrey Boomer and Jose Jurado, the Argentine pro., were in a group credited with scores of 74.

CAN HE KEEP THE PACE?

THE YOUNG PENNSYLANIA PUNCHING PHENOM WHO MADE RATHER A SUCCESSFUL BID TO THE HALL OF POPULAR FAME BY CLIPPING THE BALTIMORE ORIOLES' WINGS IN TORONTO RECENTLY

The Leafs have apparently uncovered a real twirling wizard in their own camp in Joe Samuels. Joe got his second start recently against the Baltimore Orioles and what he did to them was a shame.

He went into the box with a man on first and one on third and only one out. He fanned the next batter and forced a pop fly from the third.

For the remainder of the game he had them just where he wanted them with a smoking hot delivery and a fast breaking hook that they couldn't make anything of.

This was his second appearance this year. His first game was with the Louisville Colonels, who found him just as hard to connect with as the Baltimore Birds did.

If this boy keeps up his performances he will certainly be one of the Leafs' biggest assets this season.

UNCLE OF A CHAMPION.

Well, Tom Turcotte is stepping high again to-day. See what his nephew did last night—regained the flyweight boxing championship of Canada at the Toronto Coliseum; stopped Harry Hill, the former English flyweight, of Montreal, in the sixth round after flooring him eight times for counts of from one to eight.

Sure; by this time you ought to know Tom's avuncular relationship is to the Canadian champion, Albert (Frenchy) Belanger, who held the world title for a time, and regained his Canadian crown last night.

Belanger is a quiet, modest youngster, but his uncle is just about as proud of him as if he had won the title or something like, himself; nonchalant about it, of course, but Tom can't conceal all his feeling.

Veteran Runner In Tie For Lap Lead

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 14. (C.P.) — C. C. Pyle's Bunioneers today had only a 24-mile jaunt to Albany, the 45th control station in the cross country race.

Herbert Hedeman, 55, New York, the grand old man of the derby, tied with his fellow townsman, Sam Richman, for first place on yesterday's 54 mile lap from Mineral Wells. They ran the distance in 7:25:50. For the third successive time, Pete Gavuzzi of England, and Johnny Salo, of Passaic, N.J., first and second in elapsed time, finished together in second place.

For eleven years Mr. Knott fought in India, in Peshawar of Afghanistan, on the frontiers of the Punjab. He may have been for all that he knows to the contrary, one of the men who inspired Kipling's famous stories of the soldiers of the Queen. He is a pensioner of the Imperial forces. For a year he was stationed at Aden, at the entrance of the Red Sea. He was in the Egyptian wars of 1878.

Those were the days when British soldiers used the old "Brown Bess" muzzle loading rifles, and when they received a pay of rour pence a day. Out of this they bought their own shirts, socks, boots and towels, and if anything chanced to mar the brightness of their scarlet coats, they had three pence a day deducted from their pay until the damage was repaired.

They flogged the men for mis-conduct in those times. At Preston Barracks in 1867, Mr. Knott saw a man named Mobbs get fifteen lashes for some middemeanor.

In 1882 Mr. Knott and his wife were were married at St. Thomas church, Hardwick Green, Manchester, and for twenty years before coming out to Canada, first in 1911, they kept a provisions store in the same city.

The climate of the Old Country appeals to them as particularly pleasing, after the rigid winters of Canada although they like the Dominion in other ways. Snow may fall two feet deep in the British Isles, they say, but the next morning sees its disappearance. They remember well an unprecedented occurrence in 1879, when thirteen weeks of frost created an extraordinary condition in England.

BOORMAN FAMILY SUPPLIES PROGRAM

Central Home and School Association Hears Excellent Entertainment.

Under the auspices of Central Home and School Association, a concert of a very high order was held last night. A large and appreciative audience of parents and friends gathered in the kindergarten room of the school to enjoy the splendid program of orchestral numbers, vocal solos, piano selections, and elocution numbers, all of which were put on by various members of the Boorman family.

A short business session was held before the concert commenced, at which Mrs. W. Flannery, president, presided.

The banner for the largest number of parents present again went to Miss Buck's room.

The President called on Mrs. W. R. Morris, who is President of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, to say a few words to the parents present. Mrs. Morris, in a clear and concise manner, called the attention of those present to a meeting which is to be held in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute on May 20th. This meeting is to be of especial interest and help to parents of children about to enter the Collegiate, inasmuch as the various speakers will outline the work of the different departments, and advise parents of how best they might guide their children in what courses to follow. Mr. Moon will talk for the shops. C. E. Jamieson will outline the commercial course. Academic work will be discussed by L. J. Pettit. The domestic science and other departments will also be explained. The orchestra of George Street United Church and the Male Voice Choir will put on several numbers. This meeting ought to be well patronized by parents and those interested in the educational matters of our city.

An orchestra under the leadership of J. W. Boorman delighted the listeners with their well-chosen numbers so harmoniously rendered. These were interspersed with the other items.

Miss Nellie Boorman, a clever elocutionist, delighted the audience with several readings. In an unfaltering, pleasing manner, her recital of "Leap Year Proposals" caused much merriment, whilst "Thinking of Something" was also well received.

Miss Gwenyth Boorman, a talented young pianist, received great applause for a skilfully played piano solo.

Mrs. Wilfred Boorman, in her rich melodious voice, added interest to the program in her presentation of two old familiar numbers, "I Love You Truly" and "Shadows." To both of these, Mrs. Boorman had to give encores.

Victor Boorman sang the old Irish favorite, "Mother Machree," in splendid voice, and responded to an encore with "One Fleeting Hour."

A cornet solo by J. W. Boorman, to which an accompaniment on the piano was played by Gwenyth Boorman, was well received.

Piano accompanists were: Mrs. Goodwin, Miss Nellie Boorman, and Gwenyth Boorman.

Mrs. Flannery, on behalf of the officers of the association, voiced her appreciation of the large number present, and of the splendid entertainment put on by these talented artists.

Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. D. McKinnon (convenor), assisted by Mesdames Weir, Metcalfe, A. Vass, Latimer, Vincent and Skitch.

THIRD PETERBOROUGH "VIMY" TROOP.

Last Friday night saw about 35 or 40 parents and friends of the members of the Third assembled in the headquarters on Simcoe street to watch to see what Scouting is and also to see how a troop meeting is conducted. The occasion was the first Parents' Night held by the Third since its beginning, just four years ago. The program followed exactly the regular course of a meeting with only slight variations and additions.

The meeting opened at 8 o'clock with flag break and a short inspection, which showed 17 Scouts present, or 100 per cent. attendance and all but two (who could not wear their shorts) were in full uniform.

After a brief explanation of the program and the object of the meeting by the S.M. the Foxes were called on for the first practical demonstration of the evening. Their stunt was a knot tieing competition in which they built a trestle for a model bridge from their staves, then each went through the tenderfoot knots in a race to see who could tie the knots the fastest.

The following Scouts were awarded their Second Class Badges, which they had worked hard to earn for the occasion: Barclay McKone, Gordon Duncan, Harry Marsh, John Weddell, Arthur Taylor and Harold Dawson. The boys were called out to the centre of the floor and each boy's mother was asked to come forward and present the badge to her boy.

A snappy game of "Kelly Says" followed. This game is one of the best mental developers known and calls for quick thinking on the part of the boys. It was won by Art Taylor of the Foxes, who did not make one mistake, with the Wolves in second place.

The Wolves put on a signalling competition in semaphore. They paired off and one pair sent a message to the other two. This was well sent and received and proved quite a race, with the slower pair winning because they had a perfect message at the end and the others lost the sense of theirs through mistakes. They change places then and the sender became the receiver for anothr message, won by the same pair.

A "soda cracker relay" game was played which proved the funniest event of the evening. Each boy had to eat a soda cracker and then whistle, which is harder than it sounds.

The presentation of the first class badges and proficiency badges earned followed. Once again the mothers of the boys were asked to present the badges to their boys as follows: Jack Gray and Bob Ross, first class, ambulance, camp cook, cyclist and fireman; Billie Inch, ambulance; Barclay McKone and Harold Dawson, laundryman.

The Hawks put on a demonstration of first aid which showed that they had thoroughly learned their work, each Hawk taking part and doing some bandaging. The final display was the bandaging of a broken thigh. While two of the Scouts did the bandaging, the other two constructed a stretcher from two staves and their coats and after the bandaging was completed, the four carried the patient off.

Then came what was perhaps the showiest event of the evening. The Chickadees showed how to obtain fire without matches. There were three Chickadees trying this who had all constructed their own fire bow sets. P.L. Billie Inch obtained fire within a couple of minutes, amid great applause Harold Dawson got fire a few minutes later and immediately after Jim Clark got his blaze going. This was exceptionally good work as usually on such an occasion the excitement is too much for the boys and they cannot get fire no matter how hard they work.

While the Chickadees were working on their fires, Art Taylor gave a fine demonstration of plain and fancy rope spinning.

Imm diately after this the Council Fire was arranged. An artificial camp fire of logs covered with red and orange paper was lit with a lamp bulb and "flames" were produced by means of an electric fan. Everyone gathered around the fire and a half hour was spent singing songs and playing a couple of camp fire games, "Poor Pussy" and "Lighting the Candles at Sea." After a reading by the S.M. on the Seventh Scout Law, the Council Fire was brought to a close.

This was the last event on the program, but there followed one of the most enjoyable parts of the evening's entertainment. Mrs. McKone and a few mothers had prepared refreshments and these were served by the Scouts and enjoyed by all The Scouts of the Third owe a good deal to Mr. and Mrs. McKone for their efforts to make the evening the success it was, and take this opportunity of thanking them again.

History of Peterborough

Written by Thomas W. Poole M.D., and Published in Peterborough 1867

CHAPTER V.

During the winter of 1827-8, a surplus of wheat was grown; about five thousand bushels of which were sold to the storekeepers in Peterborough. During the summer of 1827 as many as twenty new frame houses were erected, a tannery, a distillery, and other useful branches of business were in operation or proected), and indications of progress and prosperity appeared on every hand.

Doctor Reade having fulfilled his engagement in reference to the immigrants, withdrew after their location on their lands. Dr. Dowsley soon after located himself here, and was followed by Dr. Roddy, but he was ere long superseded by Dr. Hutchison, who had been for some time practising in Cavan, and was induced to settle in Peterborough about the year 1830. He was a man of much ability, and deservedly esteemed. Dr. Taylor came in at a later period, and was for some time associated with Dr. Hutchison in a co-partnership. By this time the little log store kept by Mr. James Gray Bethune, south of the market square, had been superseded by the frame building, known as "The Red Store," erected on the corner of Charlotte and Water streets, where it still stands, and forms the end of a long row of wooden houses, the property of Edmund Chamberlin, Esq.; but it is now no longer "red." Peterborough was then supplied by a weekly mail, and the postoffice was kept in this building, in connection with Mr. Bethune's store, the whole being managed, as formerly stated, by Mr. Thomas Valentine Tupper, Mr. James B. Ferguson (brother of Frederick Ferguson, Esq.) was subsequently appointed postmaster, and the office was kept by him in a small square frame building with a cottage roof, just south of the red store, to which it was attached, and may be recognized as forming an addition to the rear of the corner building. Its size is about 10 by 16 feet, and the door and one small window still look towards the river, as in former days. It may not be out of place to add that this part of Water street then contained the residences of the principal persons in Peterborough, and was for many years after the leading thoroughfare. Dr. Hutchison lived in the cottage built by Adam Scott, before referred to, as now the oldest house in Peterborough. Another medical gentleman at a later date lived in the larger frame house with wings at either end, just north of the cottage, and the large frame house on the river bank opposite was occupied more recently by a respected member of the legal profession—so that although this portion of the town is now dilapidated and its glory quite departed, yet old associations and memories hallowed by time cluser round it which we would fain rescue from oblivion.

The postoffice was subsequently transferred to the old Government house before referred to, where it was kept for several years by Ephraim Sanford, Esq., who unhappily ended his days in 1843 by suicide, at the American Hotel, where he was a lodger. Our present postmaster, S. J. Carver, Esq., succeeded to the office. At some time later and down to the year 1856 the postoffice was kept in a small frame building little larger than a shanty on the east side of Queen street, which still exists, unused and tenantless. After two further removals, one of which was occasioned by the destructive fire of 1861, it was removed to the building it now occupies on Water street.

In 1831, under the administration of Sir John Colborne, Captain Rubidge, R.N., was appointed immigration agent at Peterborough, and located a number of immigrants sent out from various parts of the United Kingdom. Most of these were located in Dummer, and will be referred to in our future narrative of the settlement of that township. A good many were also employed in various capacities by the older residents, or located on vacant lots in the former settlements.

HOME

Dear, plain old home, I bare my head to you,
And thank the Lord for what I took away
From your kind hand that unforgotten day
I sought the world; I took no wealth, 'tis true,
For luxury your children never knew—
Glad, curly heads that rose around your board;
But there the noblest virtues were adored,
Whose influence fell on our young hearts like dew
I took a faith in God I never lost;
And well I know how it has often been
An anchor when life's sea was tempest-tossed;
And if at wrong's appeal I e'er was seen
To hesitate, that time the touch was felt
Which I received when 'neath your roof I knelt.

—Alexander Louis Fraser.

Many Bands Coming.

Each day brings in requests for engagements by all sorts of bands from over the Province. Many of these are musical organizations with honorable pedigrees and fine reputations for ability to engage the attention of audiences. Sorry, gentlemen, but Peterborough is already well supplied. Five or six bands already stated to perform in our city, including the Toronto Scottish, the splendid band that the Toronto delegation are bringing with them, one from Rochester, from Lindsay, our own 57th, and the energetic blowers from the Curve Lake and Roseneath reservations. No use for radios in the musical line during Old Home Week.

Conservatory Reunion.

To celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Conservatory of Music, a reception and reunion is being planned for the afternoon of Tuesday, 2nd of July.

This will take the form of a big family party, where former teachers, pupils and friends, who number many hundreds, will be afforded an opportunity of meeting together to renew old friendships and talk over old times. Invitations are being sent to all former teachers and pupils whose addresses are known. A large committee of ladies is looking after the refreshments which will be served the guests; also decorating, etc. Mr. Gliddon is arranging for the Symphony Orchestra to play and the Madrigal Singers have kindly consented to give one or two numbers for the entertainment of the guests.

It will be twenty-five years in December since Mr. and Mrs. Gliddon came to the Conservatory, but in order to co-operate with the Old Home Week and add a further attraction to the long list arranged, it was thought by the Ladies' Committee, who are arranging for this anniversary celebration, that it should be celebrated during that week.

The hall of the Conservatory will be decorated by the ladies—in fact, the whole building will be open for anyone to come in and to rest a while. The reception will not be a formal affair, and it is hoped that it will prove most enjoyable to all the former teachers, pupils, visitors and friends.

Would Bring Nurses Home.

The Old Home Week office has addressed a nice and diplomatically worded letter to the superintendents of as many hospitals as could be remembered where Peterborough girls are in training for the nurses's profession, asking that if at all possible the girls be released for vacation during the weeks preceding and of the Old Home Week festivities. The girls deserve to get home and see the folks, and the fathers and mothers will be mighty pleased to see the girls. So mote it be.

Committee Meeting.

Dr. Greene's committee of teachers and others, arranging a part of the Old Home Week work, will hold a meeting at the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening, 15th inst., at 7.30 o'clock. All interested will please attend.

Veterans of 1866

Old Home Week readers will bear in mind, especially those who are not familiar with past history of the doings in the town and city, that we boast of two sets of veterans who took part in the military movements of so many years ago.

We have the veterans of the time of the Fenian Raid of 1866, and those who volunteered and moved off during what we know as the Riel Rebellion of 1884-5. Both were stirring episodes and not without danger and much privation.

A friend at Bridgenorth, Ont., writes that an invitation be sent to an old friend, Samuel Glass, at Cleveland, Ohio, and adds the thought that with exceptions of Mr. Glass and J. W. Miller, of Peterborough, all others who went forward in 1866 have passed away.

So the office took time to look up the facts and verify, with the result that eleven of those who marched off are found to be still living. Following are the names:

George Kingdon, George street; George Stenton, postoffice; Sam. Montgomery, Toronto; Rev. J. W. Bell, Manitoba; Col. J. W. Miller, city; Dawson Kennedy, city; Samuel Glass, Cleveland, Ohio; Thomas Lucas, Spanish River; W. J. Greene, tax collector; Roland Tivey, East City; Samuel Greene, Cleveland, Ohio; John Gibson, Parnell street.

Indeed, there may be others, but the above were all from Peterborough town. In addition, companies of troops went forward, as noted below;

Peterborough Rifle Co.	54
Peterborough Infantry Co., No 1	68
Ashburnham Infantry Co.	69
Lakefield Infantry Co.	49
Peterborough Infantry Co., No. 2	56
Norwood Infantry Co.	56
Hastings Infantry Co.	56
Springville Infantry Co.	58
Total men	468

Rochester Coming.

The Old Home Week office was favored with a call from A. Ringer, of Rochester, N. Y. He brings most glowing intelligence as to the activities of the Rochester bunch.

Tells that a meeting was held last Wednesday night, and that the meeting place was thronged and so successful that a further get-together gathering will be held on the evening of May 24. The committee expects that between 500 and 700 will make the trip to Peterborough, and they are already negotiating for one of the steamers that cross the lake (Cobourg to Charlotte) and come in a crowd. Rochester expects to own Peterborough when it arrives. Herbert Johnson is in charge of the delegation and is doing the thing to perfection.

APPEAL IS MADE FOR FUNDS FOR ST. MICHAEL'S

Big Drive Is Being Put On For Catholic College Extension Fund.

PRIESTS VISIT CITY.

Case Is Presented In Local Parishes at Sunday Masses.

The Catholic churches of the city last Sunday enjoyed the pleasure of hearing addresses given to them by three visiting clergymen who sought to explain the financial campaign in connection with St. Michael's College in Toronto.

The Reverend E. J. McCorkell, C.S.B., M.A., and superior of the college, spoke to the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral, at all masses, while Reverends H. Bullisle, C.S.B., M.A., was at the parish of the Immaculate Conception, and Dr. Phelan, Ph.D., addressed those at Sacred Heart in this connection.

The drive opens in Toronto the first week in June, and during the second week it will be put on in all sections of Ontario as well as an attempt to reach the graduates that are now resident in the United States.

Two reasons are given why the college needs financial help: There is an urgent need for new buildings, and there is an imperative need of an annual endowment sufficient to support a staff that can carry on the work of the Catholic College of Toronto University in a creditable manner.

Site Bought In 1919.

A word of explanation follows concerning the campaign. In 1919 the college bought a site as an initial step for expansion, but this site was destroyed by the widening of Bay Street, and has only recently been replaced by the purchase of the properties on both sides of Elmsley Place, Toronto. Meanwhile, numbers have increased and the task of expansion can no longer be deferred.

St. Michael's has pursued its career of service for three-quarters of a century, sending the succeeding generations of students to take their places in the Church and State. It has supplied with priests and bishops many dioceses on both sides of the international boundary.

Its greatest benefactor in all these years has been the Honorable John Elmsley, who donated the original site. There were two others who made generous gifts when the east wing was enlarged in 1902, the late Thomas Long and the late Eugene O'Keefe.

But the main support of the College during all these years has been the sacrifices of the Basilian Fathers who gave their services in return for a severely economical living and assisting at neighboring parishes to earn a few extra dollars to carry on the work.

There has been no public appeal for funds until now. St. Michael's is no longer an isolated college but the Catholic College of the University of Toronto enjoying partnership in the Provincial University with Victoria College of the United Church and Trinity College representing the Anglican Church.

So to the people of Peterborough the appeal was made. Peterborough was behind the drive in the opening gun when Frank P. O'Connor, an old Peterborough resident, gave $125,000 to the financial drive, which has received the endorsement of all the Bishops of Ontario and the Governors of the University of Toronto.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Murray Street Baptist parsonage, on Friday, May 10, by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, when Hazel Pammett was united in marriage to William Eason, both of Peterborough.

In Police Court

In County Police Court on Monday afternoon, a local man faced a second offence charge under the Liquor Control Act, and was fined $200.00, and costs, while his companion was fined $100.00, and costs for an offence against the same Act.

An Indian woman was allowed her freedom on suspended sentence after being charged with vagrancy, while two young men from Hastings were each fined $20.00, and costs, on charges of intoxication.

Five youths from the south part of the city were arraigned for breaking windows and doing damage to Exhibition Grounds buildings. After a severe talking to by the Magistrate they were allowed to go on payment of the court costs. There was no city Police Court session this morning.

IN MEMORIAM.

MURNEY. — In loving memory of our dear sister, Irene M. Murney, who passed away one year ago today, May 14, 1928.
Cherished memories of one so dear,
Daily recalled by silent tears;
'Tis only those we have loved and lost
Can realize the bitter cost.
While you suffered we were sad,
Brothers, Sister, Mother and Dad,
Praying for your recovery—but all in vain,
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tenderly and true,
There is not a day, dear Irene
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by Father and Mother, Sister and Brothers.

OPENS LEGION CARNIVAL TO-NIGHT

Brigadier-General Dennis C. Draper, C.M.G., D.S.O., chief constable of Toronto who will open the Legion carnival to-night in the Canadian Legion Hall.

SCORES DIE IN EXPLOSION

CANADIAN LEGION HALL IS READY FOR OPENING OF BIGGEST EVENT IN HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION

Brig.-General Draper, Chief Constable of Toronto, Opens Carnival To-night.

BRINGS BACK MEMORIES

Fine Exhibit of Several Hundred War Trophies Displayed in One Booth.

"Mademoiselle from Armentieres" is absent. And she's just about the only figure that isn't included in the presentation of war-time scenes and memories that have evolved themselves from nothing except a lot of beaver-board and some ingenious handling of it, at the Canadian Legion Hall.

The big Carnival opens tonight and those who attend it during the three days of its existence won't have anything to 'grouse' about.

A simulation of a shell-wracked street the onde Lille, at Ypres, that place with the name that probably added to the horors of war for many a Tommy, is the idea aimed at, with the Cloth Hall of Ypres at the south end.

Memories Brought Back

Plenty of plaster-board for the crazy edifices that will bring back to ex-soldiers memories of the days when they dodged shells in inadequate shelters, has been donated for the purpose by the A. McDonald Lumber Company and it has been arranged and decorated with all the skulJee patterns that prevailed in the days when the martial Hun was trying to make the landscape in front of him look like a battered sieve. Geometric patterns may be fashionable in modern furniture but they were a stern fact in war days. The jagged teeth of ruined roofs and walls stick up in memorable fashion in the formation of the booths that are ranged around both sides of the big central hall of the Legion. There is plenty of simulated mud and dust and sand-bags and humorous sign-posts and crazy brick walls. The civilian who only heard about it from a safe distance can glean a fine idea here of the ravages of war, but he will do it in an atmosphere of gayety and comfort, for the big hall will resound with cheerful laughter, if the many games which are being prepared have their worthy patronage.

The color scheme is appropriate. One sees the terra cotta of bricked walls, the dull burnt umber of mud floorings and the grey of the simulated stone buildings. At the end,

No Time Is Lost By These Birds

Perhaps the supply and demand of houses is a little disjointed in birdland, and apparently tenants are keen to get a roof over ther heads now that mid-May is here and the later birds are arriving every day, and there's the problem of of a family to be considered pretty soon.

At any rate two recently betrothed swallows made sure of their summer's nesting place this morning with a swift and unerring instinct. Harry Lucano, Albert street, climbed a tall post to set a bird house securely on its top and before he had a chance to hang out to "To Let" sign the newly-weds were flying round his head. He hadn't descended more than a yard before the swallows were on the little verandah, and with the fullest confidence, popped inside.

"Hardwood floors, breakfast room, casement windows, sleeping porch, isn't it lovely, Horace?" the lady chirped as she looked over the premises.

"Fine," said Horace, "let's go go shopping and get some things we need before the Browns hear about this place."

King Leaves Craigwell House

His Majesty Returns Like Conquering Hero To His Castle Home

All Windsor and Surrounding Countryside Are Out To Welcome Their Monarch Back After His Long Illness—Streets Gay With Decorations.

KING AND QUEEN SMILED HAPPILY AS THEY BOWED TOWARDS WHITE SEA OF FLUTTERING HANDKERCHIEFS

At Bottom of Castle Hill Mayor and Aldermen Awaited Royal Car—His Majesty Bore Journey Well and Showed No Signs of Fatigue.

WINDSOR, Eng., May 15.—(Canadian Press)—King George came back to his own fireside in this ancient home of British sovereigns to-day like a conquering hero.

All Windsor and the surrounding countryside were out to welcome their monarch back after his long illness which for many weary months had kept him from them.

Windsor was decorated as seldom before. Not a single house or shop on Castle Hill or in the Mun street of the city was without gay decorations.

The King, accompanied by Queen Mary, had a remarkable reception throughout their two and a quarter hours' trip from Craigwell House, Bognor, where the king had spent several months of convalescence. But it remained for the "Old Home Town" to outdo all the others as it welcomed again its most prominent resident.

Thousands of cheering spectators including 2,000 school children, and 1,000 Eton boys in silk hats and quaint jackets, lined the ancient thoroughfare. As the royal car drove through, bags of rose petals were emptied from the windows and fell in a crimson cascade about the machine.

It was the first time most of the inhabitants of Windsor had seen the king since the beginning of his illness late last year. All along the line there were cries of: "God Bless Your Majesties" and "Welcome Home" while there were tears on many faces.

The King and Queen were smiling happily as they bowed towards the white sea of fluttering handkerchiefs and once or twice the Queen brushed moisture from her eyes.

At the bottom of Castle Hill which rises steeply up towards the ancient grey tone pile were waiting the Mayor in his golden chains of office with his aldermen. The royal car halted and the door near which the King was sitting swung open the smiling face of the ruler appeared and he grasped the hand of the mayor as he said:

"Thank you very much. We are very pleased to be back in Windsor and I am very glad to see so many citizens here."

The king shook hands with the rest of the delegation and the car then swung up the hill towards home.

It was officially stated at the Castle that the King bore the journey well and that His Majesty showed no signs of undue fatigue. Soon after arriving at the castle, the King and Queen lunched together.

Seven Years In Service Of Peterborough

Local Fire Department Recognized As One of Most Efficient Units in Province.

FIRES ARE RECALLED.

Twenty Miles of Wire Now Connect Up City Fire Alarm System.

Seven years ago to-day Chief George Gimblett came to Peterborough from Hamilton, where previously he had had many years of experience in fire fighting, to take command of the city's Fire Department. Under his leadership the brigade has increased its standard and equipment until now, it is recognized as being one of the most efficient fire-fighting units in Ontario.

When Chief Gimblett came seven years ago many pieces of the apparatus were obsolete. It consisted then of the old No. 1 combination chemical and hose wagon, two horse drawn hose and ladder waggons, the horse-drawn steam engine, and the chief's car. Now, through the policy of greater fire protection established by the City Council and Chief Gimblett, the brigade is most modernly equipped with motor-driven apparatus throughout. It is housed in the station, ready to answer on an instant's notice an alarm with five pieces of fire-fighting apparatus, the large triple combination, the latest in efficiency, motor ladder truck, two motor combination chemical and ladder trucks, and the Chief's car.

Worst in His Career.

Recalling some of the most spectacular fires which proved dangerous and hard to control, during his time in Peterborough, the Chief stated that he remembered the Turnbull Store fire on March 31, 1923, as one of the worst in his career. In that fire the loss was $84,000. The fire started in the boiler room, and when the brigade pulled up to it at 2.45 in the morning, the whole ground floor was a raging furnace.

Another fire that sticks out in the Chief's memory is the Canadian Canoe Company's conflagration on December 17, 1926. The whole ground floor of that building was blazing madly when the brigade was called

INQUEST IS HELD INTO THE DEATH OF CAPT. WALSH

Purely An Accident Is Result of Verdict of Coroner's Jury.

EVIDENCE VAGUE

No One Actually Saw Accident Or Deceased Being Thrown Into Water.

(By W. J. E.)

The main factor contributing to the late Captain Joseph Walsh's death during the launching of a scow at Lock 20, recently, will probably always remain a mystery—despite a careful investigation, conducted before a coroner's jury, in the city buildings last night. That jury, called by Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young was only able to bring in the following indefinite verdict, after hearing a dozen witnesses:—"We, the undersigned jurors have come to the conclusion that Captain Joseph Walsh came to his death purely as the result of an accident in launching a dumping scow No. 12, at Lock 20, on April 30, 1929.

Not one of the twelve witnesses, mostly fellow workmen, saw what actually occurred—they could only give details of preparations for the launching or describe their rescue of the injured man after he had been precipitated into the icy waters of the Otonabee. Their evidence at best only indicated that through some inexplicable manner, the unfortunate man had become entangled in a rope attached to the scow and through its becoming turned about a tying hook on a shore crib (also unaccounted for) suffered terrible injury to both legs. Whether or not Captain Walsh had placed the rope around the hook, no one could say, although the rope had not originally been intended to be secured save to the scow.

May Have Tripped

Eight of the twelve witnesses had been called without shedding more than passing light upon the accident, when Albert Davis, the ninth man called told of holding the injured man after the accident. "I asked him what had happened and he said:—'I went to jump over the rope and tripped,' said Mr. Davis—thereby giving the first definite hint of what may have occurred.

William Garrett, the next witness, said in part: "I did not see the accident. I saw the scow starting off—then I saw Captain Walsh going into the water, and the rope around his legs which were like that" (witness placed the palms of his hands together indicating that the injured man's legs were held tightly together by the rope). "It looked as if he had put the rope around the hook and then got tangled in it."

Declines Rescuer's Role

Vincent Fitzgerald, the first witness called, had told of seeing the late Captain Walsh in hospital, and Thomas Ryan, a civil Engineer, had presented a plan of the shipyards which was later referred to quite frequently, before William Jobe took the stand.

Mr. Jobe, who had been overseeing the shipyards at the time, but who had not had charge of the launching, was perhaps the most informative witness called regarding conditions surrounding the launching. He told of Captain Walsh volunteering to watch a coiled rope one end of which had been placed on the scow and the other end of which had been coiled. It was intended to use the rope for holding the scow after it had been launched, or if the scow got away, the steam tug would be despatched to take it in tow. Witness had recoiled the rope in a running coil, and there was no need, he considered, for the rope to be run through the crib hook. Another man had been placed on the scow to secure the rope to a "nigger head" as soon as the launching had taken place, and if the rope was twisted about the hook, then Captain Walsh must have done it on his own initiative.

Captain Walsh had said: "Billy, I will look after this line" and witness had felt that he was an experienced man. Later, Mr. Laplante, the man on the scow had shouted that Captain Walsh was in the water. "When I saw him" said Mr. Jobe, "he had a hold of the crib and I believe he might have got out himself. I say this because there was a report going around that I had rescued Captain Walsh. He was not tangled as far as I could see. There was no rope on his feet when we took him out. The only reason for the accident as far as I can see, is that he must have picked up the slack caused by the scow's movement. That would be a risky thing to do.

"The coils were still in the rope after the accident, though the rope

Forty-Five Persons Lost Their Lives In Cleveland Hospital

Police Say Death List in Hospital Explosion May Reach Ninety-one, With Most of Those Killed Being Patients and the Rest Doctors and Nurses.

MANY OF DEAD TURN GHASTLY GREEN COLOR
PATIENTS ARE REMOVED THROUGH WINDOWS

Scores of Firemen Battled Scorching Flames, While Others Donned Gas Masks and Risked Their Lives Inside the Building.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 15 (Canadian Press). — Forty-five persons are known to have lost their lives and scores were injured in an explosion and fire at the Cleveland Clinic Hospital here to-day. Police said the death list might run as high as 91.

Most of those killed were patients of the hospital. A few were believed to be nurses and doctors.

Two hours after the building took fire, all of its occupants had been removed and the fire had been extinguished.

Most of the fatalities were the results of fire, but many were believed to have been suffocated by poisonous fumes from chemicals.

Some of the dead turned a ghastly green color when they were removed from the building, spectators said.

Hardly two hours was required to complete the tragedy. With the first alarm, all available fire apparatus in the eastern part of the city was rushed to the hospital, which is located at Euclid Avenue and East 93rd Street.

Scores of firemen battled scorching flames while others donned gas masks and risked their lives inside the building, in rescue work. Some of the patients were removed through windows. One group of patients, doctors and nurses were taken off the roof.

Cry Out in Fright.

Some of the victims were burned horribly. Others were unconscious. Many were crying out in fright and bewilderment. They were rushed as fast as possible to nearby hospitals.

Scores of bodies were brought out of the building with firemen unknowing whether the bodies were dead or alive.

The majority were dead.

Many of those who remained living a few hours after the fire, were expected by doctors to be added shortly to the list of dead.

More than 100 persons were in the building when the explosions occurred in the X-ray room. Fire broke out immediately.

Twenty-six persons were known to

The two men were travelling west along the Limehouse side road with MacVicar at the wheel. It was raining heavily at the time and a mist obscured the view of the crossing. The automobile had gone about half way acros sthe crossing when the eastbound radial car, travelling at a fast rate of speed, struck the car with terrific force, hurling the two men a distance of 30 feet.

HIGHER DUTIES ARE PROCLAIMED ON FLAXSEED, MILK AND CREAM

President Hoover Takes Advantage of Flexible Provisions of Existing Law.

Follows Recommendations.

Effort Is Made To Give Farmers Benefit of Tariff Commission's Findings.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 15. —(Canadian Press).—While a number of Republicans and Democrats were finding fault with the pending tariff bill in the house yesterday, President Hoover took advantage of the flexible provisions of the existing law to proclaim increases in duties on flaxseed, milk, cream, and window glass.

On recommendation of the Tariff Commission, the executive raised the tariff on flax seed from 40 to 56 cents, a bushel, the same rate proposed in the Lawy Bill. Some western Republicans, however, are not satisfied with the 56 cent rate.

The milk duty was increased from two and one-half to three-quarters cents a gallon. The bill provides a duty of five cents.

The rate on cream was raised from twenty to thirty cents a gallon. The bill proposed an increase to 48 cents.

The duties on window glass were boosted by varying degrees from the present rate range of one and one quarter to two and a half cents a pound. The bill provides similar in-

The Weather

There was another heavy rain last evening, and the situation is becoming serious to many of the farmers. This time the rainfall was .61, or not far from two-thirds of an inch. Every low-lying place is now a pool of water. The ground has become so thoroughly saturated that it can absorb no more. It has been observed however that even with late planting if the season afterward is favorable, the final results are usually good.—W. P.

Heir To British Throne Saves The Life Of Worker At Industrial Exposition

LONDON, Eng., May 15.—(Canadian Press).—The Daily Express to-day said the Prince of Wales yesterday saved a foreman at the industrial exposition at Newcastle from serious injury or worse.

The workman, named Guinnes, became entangled in the belting of a machine used to manufacture tin containers. The Prince, who had listened to him explain the mechanism, was standing only a yard away.

He instantly grabbed the man's overalls and pulled him clear, just as he was about to be drawn into the machinery which was revolving at a high speed. Once he lost his hold but recovered it.

Only a few officials saw the incident and the public was not aware of it. It was said the man would have lost his legs if not his life but for the timely intervention of the heir to the throne.

ADVISORY COMMITEE NAMED FOR RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Leaders in Every Branch of Ontario's Life Are Included in List.

ERECT $150,000 ADDITION

Funds Continue To Pour Into Treasury, Says Premier Ferguson.

TORONTO, Ont., May 15 (C.P.).—Leaders in every branch of Ontario's industrial, agricultural and scientific activity are included in the list of 26 men named by Premier Ferguson yesterday as the advisory committee which is to guide the work of the Ontario Research Foundation.

John Stanley McLean, president of Gunn's Limited, and secretary-treasurer of the Harris Abattoir, has been chosen vice-chairman. He will assist Sir Joseph Flavelle, who was appointed chairman some months ago.

Premier Ferguson announced that work would be started immediately on a $150,000 extension to the foundation's headquarters in the former Lockhart Gordon residence, Queen's Park. The extension will provide for ten more laboratories.

Funds Pour In

Funds continued to pour into the foundation treasury, the Premier said, about $60,000 having been contributed leading men in that field. The functhe total close to $1,900,000.

Discussing the appointments to the committee the Premier stated that so widespread was the interest in the work of the foundation that the difficulty was in making a selecton from the large number of men who were willing to give their services. The appointments had been made after each industry or science had been asked to submit the name of men available for appointment. The positions are honorory and without salary.

Members Of Anglican Synod Of Huron Criticize Sunday School System Of Church

LONDON, Ont., May 14.—(Canadian Press).—Decision to examine the Sunday School system of the Anglican church to see whether it is meeting the distinctive position of the church as regards public worship was decided on by the Synod of Huron last night after what Archbishop Williams described as "the warmest debate in years." The present Sunday school system came in for criticism from many angles, the attack being led by Venerable Archdeacon Rotheringham, of Brantford, Ont., who said that Anglican Sunday Schools were turning out members for a Christian society but not churchmen, least of all, Anglican churchmen. In too many cases Sunday School attendance was replacing church going, he declared.

SEVENTY-ONE DIVORCE BILLS BEFORE HOUSE

Opposition Quickly Developed in Canadian Commons Last Night.

AMENDMENT MOVED.

Bourassa Objects To Granting Divorce On Corroborative Evidence of Child of Fourteen.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 15 (Canadian Press).—Divorce measures made but slow progress through the House of Commons last night. With an hour before it to devote to consideration of private legislation, the House found itself confronted with seventy-one divorce bills in different stages of progress. Approximately two dozen of these bills were awaiting third reading, and it was to these that the House turned its attention.

Opposition developed quickly. Henri Bourassa, Independent member for Labelle, rose when the third bill was called and moved that it be referred back to the Private Bills Committee of the Commons for further consideration. He wished to have the legal opinion of experts as to whether or not Parliament had the right to make provision for children, of which there were four involved in this case. Also, Mr. Bourassa objected to the granting of a divorce on the corroborative evidence of a child of fourteen years.

His amendment was finally put to a vote, and was defeated by 83 to 54, as was another one.

Only half a dozen of the formidable list of divorce bills passed the House during the hour available for private legislation.

FEARED MURDER.

Denied Reports of Strife Between Canadiens and Americans On Board.

BUFFALO, May 15. (C.P.) — Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the Board of Trustees of Des Moines University, appeared unexpectedly at the opening session here last night of the 7th annual meeting of the Baptist Bible Union of North America, and taking the platform launched into a review of the situation that resulted in the closing of the Fundamentalists University at Des Moines.

Dr. Shields was received with cheers.

Regarding the informal meeting of the Board of Trustees here, Dr. Shields said that he had no idea when it would be, but some time during the week.

As to difference of opinion between Canadians and Americans on the Trustees Board, Dr. Shields declared such reports were groundless, and decried any attempt to make an international issue of the matter.

Forget National Relationships.

"The time is coming when all nations will forget national relationships in recognition of a common Lord," he declared. "Whoever raised the cry of trouble between British and Americans is no friend of mine," he added. "We are all one."

In speaking of Trustee Stevens, he said Stevens was taken on the board largely because he lived near Des Moines, and declared: "I advised Mr. Stevens he had better resign as all members must work to keep the University going."

Miss Edith Rebman, secretary of the Board of Trustees of the University, supporter of Dr. Shields, failed to arrive in time for the meeting.

Dr. Shields branded as a falsehood the report he had demanded the resignation of seven members of the school faculty "as Modernists." He said the president of the board had

LABOR LEADER STARTS TOUR OF SCOTLAND

Ramsay Macdonald Criticises Actions of Baldwin Leaders At Geneva.

PLAY LEADING PART.

Labor Party Stands For Successful Peace Policy, He Declares.

HAWICK, Scotland, May 15 (C.P.) Rt. Hon. Ramsay Macdonald brought the message of the Labor Party yesterday to the Scottish borderland. His meetings at Hawick and Selkirk marked the opening of a Scottish campaign tour which will take him back and forth across the Highlands.

Here in these border burghs, legend and story echo centuries of strife. But the message Mr. Macdonald brought was a message pre-eminently of peace among nations.

Unemployment and peace were the two great issues of the campaign, he said. But, "I place nothing in front of peace," he said. In the hall where he spoke were a great many women millworkers, and he pleaded with these, as sufferers who had gone repeatedly through the darkest shadows of the dark valley of grief and bereavement. The Labor party, he urged, stood fairly and squarely for a successful peace policy.

Plays Leading Role

"We ought to take our place at Geneva not merely as a nation which follows; not merely as a nation which waits until the United States has spoken and then says 'Yea' or 'Nay' or 'Yea-Nay,' or varies its answer with 'Nays.' If that is your conception of the role this country ought to play, it is certainly not mine."

He continued, "What you expect from your representatives at Geneva I am sure is not a cautious waiting until other people have spoken, but a courageous, well-thought-out and inspiring lead to that the nations of the world, weary of war and thirsting for peace, may turn to our country for light and leading guidance. That is what we tried to do in 1924. That is what I should like to be able to do in 1929."

As he spoke of trade development, Mr. Macdonald declared: "We come not to destroy, we come to fulfil." He claimed that during its short term in office the Labor Government of 1924 by appointment of the Balfour Commission had taken the most conspicuous step n a generation towards formulating a well-thought-out and scientific plan to stimulate British industry.

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES TO REDUCE RATE ON WHEAT

U. S. Reduction Is Interpreted As Belated Step To Influence Traffic.

LOGICAL REPLY MADE.

Steamship Companies Will Make Slight Modification of All Water Rates.

MONTREAL, Que., May 15 (Canadian Press). — "The effect of these reductions in rail rates will be some slight modification of the all water rate from Fort William and Port Arthur to Montreal and Quebec," said T. R. Enderby, general manager of the Canada Steamship Lines, in a statement in connection with the grain cut announced by railways in the United States and Canada.

"The reduction of two cents per bushel in the freight rate on grain from Buffalo to the American Atlantic seaboard ports may be interpreted as a somewhat belated attempt on the part of United States railways to influence the movement of grain traffic, now enjoyed by Montreal and the St. Lawrence route to the Buffalo gateway," said Mr. Enderby.

"The reduction by the Canadian Railways in the rate from Georgian Bay ports of two cents a bushel is the logical reply. By means of this cut the comparative rates and differentials are maintained, and the only result secured is a decrease in the revenue of both United States and Canadian Railways

"The effect of these reductions in the rail rates will be some slight modification of the all-water rate from Fort William and Port Arthur to Montreal and Quebec—a right for the reason that the average rate for this movement is in close proximity to the cost of carrying the grain, a condition which, it is said, prevailed with the railways prior to the reduction," he concluded.

TORIES PREPARE FOR ELECTION

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 15 (C.P.).—Vigorous preparation for a Dominion general election next year was urged by Dr. P. D. Ross at yesterday's session of the Ottawa Liberal-Conservative annual convention. Dr. Ross made his appeal in a brief address, accepting the presidency of the association for another term.

"We were defeated in the last federal election, although we polled 100,000 more votes than the Liberals, through an unholy alliance of the Liberals and the so-called Progressives," said Dr. Ross. "There are signs that this alliance is falling apart," he added, "and I feel sure that in the approaching election we shall defeat not only the Liberals but all the other parties combined by 100,000 votes."

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, M.P., for Fort William, dwelt at length with the record of the present Dominion administration, declaring that the Liberal party was "basking in the sunshine of prosperity Providence has created and in which they had no hand." He maintained that the Government's immgration policy was "nil and to nothing" and that British-born immigrants were decreasing each year and that this country's trade balance with the United States was

In 1832 the cholera appeared on this continent, and penetrated as far even as Peterborough, where the prospect of its approach created a good deal of alarm. There can be no doubt but that, as in all visitations of this kind, many died from fear and alarm at the approach of the disease. One prominent example of this kind is still remembered in the person of Mr. Silas Pearson, a strong robust farmer, residing on the shore of Mud Lake, about ten miles from Peterborough. At the first mention of the disease he took to bed in a state of mortal fear, and when the cholera did arrive was one of the first victims. The population of Peterborough at that time was under five hundred, and yet twenty-three deaths occurred from this disease. The township of Douro happily escaped without a single death, while in that of Dummer, lying beyond it and further in the interior, eleven persons died from this fatal epidemic. A few deaths also occurred in Otonabee, and the other townships adjoining Peterborough.

During the following year, 1833, the first member of the legal profession found his way to Peterborough. This was Elias Burnham, Esq., who has held a conspicuous place, from time to time, not only at the bar but in the management of the political, educational and municipal affairs of the town and county. His extensive block fronting on the market square, and other properties, entitle him to rank among our most wealthy, as he has long done, among our leading citizens.

The second legal gentleman resident in Peterborough was J. Shuter Smith, Esq., now M.P.P. for East Durham, and long a resident of Port Hope. His stay was scarcely protracted beyond a year. Stafford Kirkpatrick, Esq., became a resident of Peterborough in 1834, and since then we have had a long list of members of the bar, some of whom have held, or still hold, distinguished positions among the legal fraternity.

About this period, the religious element comes into prominence. Besides the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches, the pastors of which had arrived at a previous date, clergymen of several other denominations appeared in Peterborough, and formed the nucleus of churches and societies which have since largely increased, and now represent important interests in the community. It has been thought best to devote a special chapter to the churches of Peterborough, and for conveniences sake, this has been deferred to a future page.

We gladly insert in this place the following communication, continuing reminiscenes and personal experiences of the writer, well worthy of insertion in a work like this:

"Peterborough,
"October 29, 1866.

"Although to look back to the time of my settlement in Peterborough it seems but as yesterday, yet thirty-three long years have elapsed since then. What a long period to look back upon, and to count the various events and changes which have taken place within it!

"Well do I remember the evening that I first landed in Peterborough. It was late in November, in the year 1833; but it was indeed a lovely day, and the night was equally so; calm and still, and beautifully moonlight. I remember standing that evening on the very ground where now stands the Commercial Bank building (north-east corner of Water and Hunter streets). It was then in a state of nature, as was all that part of the town lying east of Water street, north of Hunter street, south of Aylmer street, and south of King street, with the exception of here and there, perhaps, some small house or shanty, few and far between. And within the limits indicated, the buildings were also few and insignificant. At that time, propert, was worth very little. A park lot was not worth much over £15, unless in a very few exceptional instances. On the west side of George street, and between Simcoe and Hunter streets there were, if I recollect right, only two decent houses; one on the south, where Mr. Sanford kept a store and one on the north, where Mr. Bailey kept a tavern. All that ground on which Mrs. Dixon's block of three-story brick buildings now stands, with the exception of the small part occupied by the store and a small dwelling house adjoining, was then used for a garden. And the same may be said of the remainder of the land up to Hunter street. On the east side of the street the buildings were about the same. And this was, at that time, about the best part of the town. The hotel, par excellence, was then kept near the bridge, by a man of the name of McFadden. Very few people who were in Peterborough when I first settled in it are here now. They have nearly all gone to 'that bourne from whence no traveller returns.'

"The country parts were quite in keeping with the town. Scarcely any roads, few settlers, and mostly a wilderness. Provisions were imported instead of being exported; and a journey then from the front, with a loaded team, occupied the best part of two days. People at this time can scarcely realize the difficulties, the trials and hardships of those early settlers; and when I look back to them, and to the many long, wearisome journeys which I have been compelled to make to and from the front—through paths only cut out through the woods—through mud and mire—over long swamp roads, badly provided with logs, which were often floating in the deep water, and across which I and my horse passed with danger and difficulty, my journey oftentimes extending far into the dark night—it seems now a wonder how I ever performed them, and how I ever lived through them. Truly, indeed, the progress both of town and country since that day is almost incredible.

"I often think of those early times and yet, with all their hardships, I sometimes think they were pleasanter than the times are now. But I suppose this was a good deal owing to circumstances. There were no politics here during those days. Everybody was sociable and friendly. People were too glad to see one another to quarrel over matters of mere opinion. I often wished, as I was tolling along to and from the front, over the bad roads, that the time would come when I would have a good turnpike road to travel upon, and I thought, if I only had that I would be satisfied. I got that, then a good macadamized road; and last, but not least, a railroad. Now, instead of taking from early in the morning till late at night to go to the front, weary and hungry, and often wet and cold, I can go in a comfortable railway car in a couple of hours. Truly, I have witnessed great changes in both town and country since I came to live in Peterborough.—B."

Mayor of Peterborough Regrets His Absence

Early in April the Old Home Week office forwarded an invitation and endorsing letter from Mayor Denne to His Excellency the Lord Mayor of Peterborough, England, requesting that His Excellency do us the honor of being present at the Old Home Week festivities, June 29 to July 7. This morning a reply was received, which is re-printed following. The letter is interesting, as showing how invariably courteous the English people regard a formal invitation and express regrets at having to decline:

Mayor's Parlour, Town Hall, Peterborough,
30th April, 1929.

Dear Mr. Dobbin,—

Your letter of the 8th instant has just reached me, and on behalf of my wife and myself I hasten to ask you to convey to the Worshipful the Mayor, to whom I am sending a personal note, our sincere thanks for his exceedingly kind invitation to attend your Old Home Week and Centennial Celebration, June 29th to July 7th, 1929.

We are, however, holding a Civic Week here which finishes on June 29th, the same date your celebration begins, and on June 28th we are to be honoured with a visit from H.R.H. the Prince George. If it had not been for these functions taking place about the same time we should have been most delighted to have paid you a visit.

If, however, you are having further celebrations at a later date during my term of office, and you again honour us with an invitation, we shall accept if at all possible.

Again thanking you for your kind invitation and good wishes which both the Mayoress and myself heartily reciprocate.

Believe me,
Yours very truly,
A. E. CRAIG, Mayor.

General Secretary, Centennial Celebrations,

Why it takes a

PENETRATING FOAM TO CLEAN TEETH COMPLETELY

The difference between Colgate's and ordinary toothpastes lies in the unique, active foam into which Colgate's bursts, the instant it is brushed on teeth.

For this sparkling foam not only carries a polishing agent that makes teeth sparkle brilliantly ... it does more! It possesses a remarkable property called low "surface-tension" which enables it to go down to the very bottom of all the tiny crevices and fissures in teeth and gums. There, it softens and dislodges the food particles and impurities which cause decay ... and washes them away in a foaming, detergent wave of cleanliness.

The reason why Colgate's acts in this way is because it contains the greatest cleansing agent known to man. This cleansing agent makes the famous Colgate foam whose action is described above and it is the presence of this particular ingredient which makes Colgate's a better cleanser; a more economical cleanser ... different in action and in results from ordinary, sluggish toothpastes which merely polish the outer surfaces of the teeth.

More dentists recommend Colgate's than any other toothpaste; more people use Colgate's than any other kind. This overwhelming leadership has been carried for over twenty-five years ... proof positive that Colgate's gives the extra degree of cleansing power which people prefer.

How Colgate's Cleans Tiny Tooth Crevices

Greatly magnified picture of tiny tooth crevice. Note how ordinary, sluggish toothpaste (having high "surface-tension") fails to penetrate down where causes of decay lurk.

This diagram shows how Colgate's active foam (having low "surface tension") penetrates deep down into the crevice, cleansing it completely where toothbrush cannot reach.

Colgate's sparkling foam surges deep into tiny crevices washing out the impurities which ordinary brushing cannot reach.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, May 15.— Fairly heavy shipments arrived on the wholesale market yesterday, and prices held steady. Storing is again becoming active, and reports from outside points indicate that production is at its peak.

The trend of prices was not definitely settled, but large dealers were quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, as follows: Fresh extras, 27c. to 28c.; firsts, 25c. to 26c.; and seconds, 22c. to 23c. per dozen.

Butter Is Firm.

A slightly firmer feeling appeared on the wholesale butter market, and trading was stronger. The stocks of New Zealand butter are rapdily moving into consumers hands, and next week will likely see dealers operating on domestic supplies.

No. 1 finest New Zealand was quoted at 36c. to 36¼c. per lb., and No. 2 grade was 1 cent per pound lower. Quotations to the retail trade were unchanged.

Trading remained quiet on the local cheese market, and the price of No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded supplies was steady at from 17¾c. to 18½c. per pound.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 15. — Good support developed around mid-session on yesterday's wheat market, wiping out fractional declines recorded in the first hour, and the market advanced about ½c over the previous close. The support continued until the close, and final quotations were ¾c to ⅞c above Monday's final figures.

Export business overnight was reported to be small, and houses with seaboard connections did not enter yesterday's market.

Cash wheat trading was fairly active, No 3 Northern and No. 4 wheat in good demand. Prices were unchanged to ⅜c easier at the close.

Oats, barley and rye held at unchanged prices in an inactive trade. Flax was practically neglected.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 15. — Hopeful reports that farm relief measures were coming into shape and however enacted would tend to advance prices did much to lift grain values yesterday. Upturns in quotations were also asscocated wth word that 1929 domestic spring wheat acreage has been reduced to a material extent and that delays to corn planting are becoming serious.

Corn Values Strong.

Upward swings in grain values developed most impetus as the day approached an end. Wheat especially rose fast during the final transactions and finished at the topmost level attained. A good deal of the late buying of wheat was on account of renewed attention to Washington advices concerning the outlook for farm bills. Wheat values toward the last were also evidently responding to a sharp advance in the price of corn owing to persistent wet cold weather over many of the chief producing parts of the corn belt rendering field work difficult and threatening possible decided curtailment of the new corn crop.

Crop News.

On the other hand, snow and rain in Canada giving needed relief from shortage of moisture tended to bring about early declines in wheat prices here, and so likewise did Liverpool wheat quotations lower than due.

There were forecasts, too, that the improvement of outlook for spring wheat because of timely moisture would be extended before to-day into drought sections of North Dakota. Besides, despatches at hand said wheat was coming into head in Northern Oklahoma and Southern Kansas, with indications pointing to a crop above a storage, and that Texas is giving promise of 4,000,000 to 9,000,000 bushels greater yield than the recent Government estimate, with some wheat already being cut in South Texas.

Favorable Factors

Rallies which took place later in wheat prices followed reports from elevator companies North-west telling of a substantial decrease of United States spring wheat acreage varying from 6 to 16 per cent. in some of the principal districts. Another late strengthening influence was announcement that in the last week the world's wheat available supply had decreased 6,498,000 bushels.

Corn traders gave special attention to general rains in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and Ohio. The forecast was for continued unsettled weather and lower temperatures. Aside from delay to planting, fears were expressed that much corn already in the ground may not germinate. Oats sympathized with corn and responded to signs of enlarged demand from consumers.

Scattered selling and lack of any aggressive buying eased down the provision market.

ST. PETER'S STEEPLE IS BEING PAINTED

Work Is Being Done By J. J. MacPherson and Norman Meehan.

St. Peter's Cathedral is being prepared for Old Home Week. The steeple is being re-painted and the gilt cross at the topmost peak is being re-gilded. New lightning rods will be affixed also.

The work is in charge of James J. MacPherson and his assistant, Norman Meehan. During the next six weeks, they may develop a somewhat supercilious tone of mind, on account of looking down so far on the little, ordinary people who walk below. When they reach the steeple's peak, they will be one hundred and eighty feet in the air, and Harris and Boddy, who will do the re-gilding of the cross, will be just a little bit higher.

Three coats of paint will be applied to the steeple and gold leaf to the cross. The work will take about six weeks, and will be finished in plenty of time for the opening of Old Home Week.

A swing scaffold is used for the support of the workers, who pull themselves up by means of a winch.

Mr. MacPherson says that the view from the steeple top, on a clear day, is a marvellous one, giving a panoramic idea of the beauty of the surrounding countryside.

DECLINE IN GOLD MINED.

CHEERED BY INHABITANTS.

BOGNOR, England, May 15 (C.P.) After a stay of 13½ weeks at Craigweil House, where he slowly regained his health after a long and serious illness, King George accompanied by Queen Mary left to-day for Windsor Castle.

The inhabitants of the district marked the occasion by a lavish display of flags and bunting along the promenade and trees leading out of the town. They turned out in crowds to bid bood-bye to the Royal visitor.

King George appeared in good spirits and smiled and waved his hat continually as the procession of three cars, containing Queen Mary and himself, his doctors, and his nurses, moved slowly through Bognor and out to Windsor. The crowds cheered him continually.

At the grandstand at Bognor a short halt was made while a member of the town council made a short address, wishing His Majesty God speed and a complete restoration of health. The King replied to him briefly.

$15,000 GRANT TO THE COUNCIL

Sum Turned Over To Town By Campbellford and Power Commission.

HEAVY EXPENSES.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 15.— (Examiner Staff Correspondence.) — There is always a silver lining, it has been said, and when the town council meets to-night for the express purpose of striking the tax rate for the year, they will see a light in the darkness which will be in the form of fifteen thousand dollars which the Water and Light Commission has granted the municipality.

Yesterday at five o'clock the commissioners continued their adjourned meeting of last week, to hear the report of the treasurer and to arrive at the amount which they could turn over to the town for municipal use this year. At the present time, the finances of the plant are not in their wealthiest condition due to the large amounts turned over to the town in previous years. Nevertheless, it was considered possible to grant fifteen thousand. The treasurer's report showed that the commission had had a surplus of slightly less than five thousand at the first of the year. Receipts since that time had been approximately twelve thousand. There had been a heavy expenditure during the first part of the year but in spite of this, it was believed possible to turn over $15,000, and a motion to this effect was made by Commissioner Riendeau and Mayor Davidson, at the suggestion of S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the commission. The money is part of the revenue from the electric power plant and has nothing to do with the water accounts or affairs. It was intimated that there was a surplus in this division, but it was considered advisable to allow it to remain untouched in view of the heavy expense of installing sewers and water mains during the past year and the similar work included in this year's program.

The grant was not made in a hurry. The finances of the town were discussed at some length. The obligations which the corporation must meet this year were carefully considered and compared to those which will be payable in future. The general opinion was that the tax rate would be higher next year unless the Commission was able to make a substantial grant and every effort is to be made to accumulate a surplus toward this end. Should the plant of the Commission arrive at maturity with the success that is expected, the tax rate will not be greatly increased, if at all.

Campbellford was one of the first municipalities to own and operate its own power plant. People, both citizens and visitors, have compared it to the fabled goose that laid the golden eggs. Certain it is that the "goose" does lay golden "eggs," which are decidedly advantageous to the municipality.

CIRCLE FORMED.

Catholic Women's League of Campbellford Church Form Charity Organization.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 15 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Feeling the need of a charity organization in this district, the Catholic Women's League of St. Mary's Church here have formed a sewing circle which is intended to function in the interests of the needy children of the parish, and of the district. While these are set down as its primary aims, it will also work in the interests of the orphanages and the Western missions. Mrs. Michael O'Sullivan was appointed convenor of the work and materials and other donations will be accepted from the parish and put to the best possible use.

was broken between the hook and the scow, showing that there must have been something for it to catch on. There was no need for the slack to be taken up. Mr. McWilliams was in charge of the launching.

Describes Injuries

Dr. J. M. O'Brien told of attending the injured man in the Hospital soon after the accident. The right leg had been practically torn off in the lower third part, while the left leg had a compound fracture. Witness believed that death was due to the injuries received in the accident.

John McWilliams had not seen the accident but had gone to phone for a doctor. He had known the deceased to be a careful experienced workman.

Roland Laplante had been instructed to go on the scow and secure the rope on the "niggerhead" as it moved away. He had seen the rope, lying loosely coiled, on the shore, and not fastened to anything prior to the launching. He had also pulled the broken rope up after the accident and had shouted when he saw Captain Walsh in the water. Later the scow had drifted out and so, being on its deck, he had not known what transpired afterward.

George Hickey and Fred Taylor had been working in the yards. The former had known Captain Walsh for many years. The latter had been at his side after the accident but the injured man had not said anything in particular as regarded the cause of the accident.

Robert Brotherston had not seen the accident either but had noticed one end of the rope on the scow. Witness could not say whether or not it had been tangled about Captain Walsh's legs.

Fred Skiff the last witness called said that he had been engaged in removing the blocks, working with Messrs. Garrett and Carew. He had not seen the accident. "My idea is Captain Walsh had his leg broken at the hook when the rope snapped, and when his legs were broken he fell into the water for want of something to stand on" he said.

Officials of Inquest

Last night's inquest, as ordered by Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, was conducted by Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., while John R. Corkery held a watching brief in behalf of the deceased man's widow. The jury comprised Foreman D. M. Minicola and Harry Richea, Fraser Skinner, Leland Wade, Norman Henry, John Kylie, Fred Allison, James Bowen, S. T. Harris, Harold Freeman, Robert Elliott and William Welch.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

ANNUAL MEETING.

Members of Grenfell Mission Hear Satisfactory Report On Year's Work.

The annual meeting of the Grenfell Mission took place in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. on Monday afternoon, May 13.

The report of the year's work was very gratifying. The garden party, sale of Christmas cards and illustrated lecture by Miss Warne all helped to augment the funds sent in to help the work of the mission. A substantial bale was sent to Harrington on the Canadian Labrador cost last year, and it was deecided that the new bale should be packed the last week of May.

The following officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. W. R. Morris; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. F. M. Somerville; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. W. E. Conway; secretary, Mrs. G. R. Langley; Treasurer, Mrs. R. J. Devey; Convenor of Dorcas Committee, Mrs. Jos. Welch; Convenor of Packing Committee, Mrs. J. C. Smith.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SCIENCE

The Honourable Robert Boyle, a distinguished natural philosopher, born in 1626, is looked upon as one of the founders of the science of modern chemistry.

With its branches embracing our civilization, Science, like a great Tree of Knowledge, offers its fruits for our daily use—and its roots, unseen but stretching far and wide as its branches, are the works of yesterday.

Canadian Industries Limited through its associations enjoys the advantage of the combined discoveries of two of the world's greatest chemical organizations.

OLD HOME WEEK.

As Old Home Week draws nearer it becomes more and more evident that the old boys do not intend to put the whole responsibility for entertaining them upon their old home town.

Many of the visitors expect to supply at least a portion of the entertainment, and in this respect the Toronto and Rochester contingents are setting the pace for the rest.

Ex-Peterboroughians in those cities have completed their organization, and they are coming home together in numbers that will surprise the home guard, each contingent bringing with it a band and each planning to take part with a will in the festivities and entertainment that will make Old Home Week a red letter occasion in Peterborough's history.

This enthusiasm on the part of the old boys and girls themselves is a wonderful stimulus to the local committee, who are determined that the celebration shall be worthy of the spirit displayed by ex-residents.

Splendid progress is being made in the local plans, and there is ground for general optimism in regard to the complete success of Peterborough's Old Home Week.

With enthusiasm at home and abroad, the reunion cannot possibly fail.

THE DUTY OF A NEWSPAPI

The Kent Presbytery of the United Church recently passed a resolution complaining, among other things, that full particulars of highway accidents are not published, intimating that the newspapers do not always tell when bottles of liquor have been found in ditched cars, etc.

It is possible that the papers do not always publish such details, and the reason is not difficult to locate.

In many cases it is difficult to obtain anything but hearsay evidence as regards the presence of liquor in wrecked cars, and hearsay evidence is not enough to justify a newspaper publishing any story, let alone one that accuses some one of being guilty of an offence.

It is one thing, as the St. Thomas Times-Journal points out, to say a bottle was found and another thing to prove it was found.

Condemning newspapers for refusing to do something that may put them in a position of having to substantiate their charges in court, will strike most people as decidedly unfair.

The police are expected to act in cases where liquor has been a factor in a traffic accident, and it seems to The Examiner that a paper does all that can be reasonably asked of it if it publishes the names of men convicted of having been drunk in charge of a car.

A WISE CHANGE.

Objections raised in the House of Commons by Milton N. Campbell (Progressive Mackenzie) to the increase from 25 to 50 per cent. in the British content requirement of goods to enter Canada under the British preference would seem to be inspired by a wrong conception of the actual situation.

Surely it is not unfair to insist that goods must be at least 50 per cent. British in material and workmanship to qualify as British under the preference.

If that they are not British to that extent they most assuredly are not entitled to any special consideration.

It has been the case in the past that many articles largely manufactured in continental countries have been imported into Great Britain and finished there and then have been admitted in Canada under the British preference, giving them an advantage that they did not really merit.

There is no reason why this country should pay a preference to foreign goods merely masquerading as British, and the raising of the content will not only stop this practice but will stimulate Empire trade by making it compulsory for British manufacturers who want to take advantage of the preference in the Canadian market to do more purchasing of Empire-produced materials.

A GREAT PORT.

The annual report of the Montreal Harbor Commissioners for last year shows that Canada's premier national port had the greatest year in its history in 1928.

This can be appreciated from the fact that the tons of all commodities handled, imports and exports, totalled 12,859,126, as against 11,921,173 in 1927, the latter the largest previous total for a single season.

The totals in terms of tonnage handled through the port of Montreal have, as a matter of fact, been established upon a steadily ascending scale, until Montreal has become one of the world's great seaports, outclassing, especially in grain deliveries, all the United States Atlantic and gulf coast ports.

The figures in regard to grain are interesting:

Montreal	211,295,379	bushels
New York	84,782,462	"
Baltimore	24,167,184	"
Galveston	22,432,287	"
New Orleans	15,336,537	"
Philadelphia	13,240,767	"
Boston	5,260,227	"
Norfolk, Va.	4,054,662	"
Portland, Me.	2,992,349	"

The total tonnage handled in Montreal harbor in 1923 was 12,589,126 as compared with 6,223,924 in 1921.

At the same time the harbor has not been a burden upon the taxpayer and the public treasury; its revenues have increased from $2,531,274.42 in 1921 to $5,589,327.12 in 1928.

The growth in trade handled through Montreal is gratifying to Canadians, not only because of the prestige that this showing in itself entails, but because of the evidence it gives of general Canadian prosperity.

THE ROLE OF ACCIDENT IN MINING.

Nothing is more impressive than the primary role played by accident in the development of Ontario's great mining industry. The construction of the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway by the Provincial Government about 1903 to open up the New Ontario Clay Belt for farming purposes, called for a deep rock cutting not far from Lake Timiskaming, and in the blasting of this cutting, the silver sidewalk appeared which finally developed into the Cobalt Camp, as the richest silver mining camp in the world, the ore often running thousands of dollars to the ton.

So it was with the discovery of the Sudbury nickel-copper mines. In 1856 a surveyor named Salter and a geologist named Murray noticed that the needle of their compass suffered from remarkable aberrations near the point where the great Creighton mine was afterwards developed. Here, as in Cobalt, the building of a railway led to the discovery that the region was rich in minerals. The first deposit actually found was that which afterwards came to be known as the Murray mine. It was a rock cutting on the pioneer Canadian Pacific Railway which in 1883 exposed the deposit to the light of day. The re-discovery of the Creighton followed in 1885.

The Sudbury deposits were at first worked for copper, as the name of the Canadian Copper Company, chief operating corporation of that day, signifies. Not until 1887 was it recognized that the ore contained any other valuable mineral. Analyses of the ore made no mention of nickel. What the assayers and geologists for nearly four years failed to remark was finally revealed by the smelters at the Orford Copper Company works in New Jersey. In the laboratory manipulation difficulties were encountered, and on investigation these were found to be due to that "spirit of the mine" that the old German miners cursed for inciting their copper ores to bad behaviour—in other words, to the presence of nickel. According to a record left by Mr. S. J. Ritchie, president of the Canadian Copper Company:

"The discovery of this nickel in these ores by the chemist of the Orford Company was unexpected news. We had no suspicion that they were anything but copper ores. This discovery changed the whole situation. We found that we had a great nickel deposit instead of a great copper deposit, or to be more correct, we had a great nickel and copper deposit."

The next step in the fortuitous development of the nickel industry came with the search of an English inventor for a metal compound that would withstand pressure from ammonia gas. The association of nickel and iron by nature in meteorites suggested the possibility of a similar mechanical alloy. Thus was obtained from the sky the message that finally led to all the subsequent developments in the nickel industry. Somebody made the statement that the famous Damascus sword blades of olden days contained a percentage of nickel. At any rate, the addition of nickel to iron produced a metal that soon came into demand for armaments.

The nickel industry was in a struggling condition when it was saved by the outbreak of the Spanish-American War and the consequent order for nickel steel for the United States navy and other armaments. The use of nickel steel for armament purposes spread to all countries and gave rise to the greatly broadened market for Sudbury nickel which reached its climax during the World War of 1914-1918. The close of the war jeopardized the industry by greatly curtailing the market, but in the subsequent ten years commercial uses for the metal have been so greatly developed that the demand exceeds anything witnessed before.

Another instance of the "hit or miss" development of the industry is found in the history of the Frood mine, now being opened up on a tremendous scale by the International Nickel Company. This property was first staked by a man named Frood in 1884, but about forty-three years were to elapse before the tremendous value of the deposit was realized. The report put forth by the Royal Ontario Nickel Commission in 1917 speaks of the Frood mine as "a very large deposit in which a great deal of ire has been blocked out but which is not being worked because the ore is a very low grade." Many years ago some deep diamond drilling was done, but such ill-luck pursued the efforts of the drillers that little evidence of increased values at depth was discovered. Only within the past couple of years did further exploration reveal the fact that the mine contains toward the 3,000-foot level very high values in copper and in precious metals. It was this belated discovery which started the wild speculation in International Nickel stock. Incidentally the mine appears to be turning into a copper mine, rather than a nickel mine, in the sense that with depth the ore contains a far heavier proportion of copper than of nickel.

In pointing out the part that accident has played in the development of a great industry, sight should not be lost of the services afforded the industry by the able geologists and engineers who have assisted capital in working out the problems to be solved in the north country. But for the scientists and men of vision employed by the Federal and Provincial Mines Departments, Canada could not have made the progress which it has made in the production of nickel and other minerals.—Ottawa Journal.

A Thought

TO THE "SHUT-INS"

As this beautiful spring weather is creeping over Mother Earth, I would like to say a few words to the "Shut-ins". I wonder how many readers are shut in behind the sunny window? How many aged are laying down their glasses for the fiftieth time to-day, wondering what to do with themselves? I am sure it is a tiresome life. But if you cannot walk in the open sunshine and enjoy the beauty of highway and meadow, you can, at least, have the sunshine in your soul.

There is no pleasure in pain. This condition makes everyone peevish and dissatisfied. But there are always bright clouds in the Heavens for patient sick folk. Storms do not always bury brightness. So cheer up, sick one, for the rainbow must be just lurking around the corner from you.

On account of your afflictions Heaven will be sweeter to you. What you are deprived of in this world, you will be given double fold in the next. If you can be happy here while bearing such pain, how well prepared you will be to take in the joys of the 'Glory Land".

How comforting it must be to all invalids and the sick that while so shut in on earth, they cannot be shut out of Heaven. Earth is not our abiding home. Someday, we shall all go to the Happy Play Ground where God is the only Physician. There, the lame will be able to run. The blind will see and the dumb utter words of joy. It will be, Good bye crutches, spectacles and signs."

We, who have health, should never feel despondent over our small troubles. We can come and go, run or walk and enjoy the beauty of God's world. Yet we find ourselves complaining more than the shut-ins.

Dear shut-in readers, there is always grace to feel that God still cares for you and will never forsake you. Grace to understand that there is strength provided for every trial.

So hurry up, Spring, and give the patient ones and the discouraged one more blessed sunshine. Send the flowers along to bloom in their variegated colors for the weary invalids. Give us healthy ones smiles and words to pass along to all the shut-ins."

Life Steps In

By RUBY M. AYRES

CHAPTER XL.

"Tom!" Ana said delightedly.

He turned eagerly.

"I thought you were never coming. Hullo, young man!"

He took the chair from Ana and wheeled the General into the little garden.

"We were motoring quite near," he told Ana, "so came to call."

"We?" Ana asked quickly.

"Yes; my sister is with me. She's in the sitting room."

"Oh, how nice. I am glad."

Ana really meant it, for fond as she was of the General, she often longed for someone of her own age to talk to. The evenings seemed long and lonely when she had nothing to do but sit and remember.

"We've come fifty miles out of the way to see you," Mrs. Inglis said dryly as they kissed. "Tom lied, of course, and said it was only ten. There's devotion for you."

Ana was busying herself getting tea, for Mollie only had a daily girl in from the village now, and she generally departed when the midday meal was washed up.

"Mollie's away," Ana said. "No, and don't follow me about," she warned Drake as he tried to insist on helping. "This cottage is only big enough for one to be busy at a time. Sit down and wait while I make the tea."

She went to the little kitchen, keeping up a flow of conversation across the tiny passage all the time.

"Mollie's up in town. I don't know when she will be back. She will be sorry to have missed you."

Florrie Inglis laughed.

"I don't flatter myself she will have any sleepless nights over it," she said dryly. "Besides she only saw us two nights ago."

"She saw you!" Ana came to the kitchen door, teapot in hand.

"Yes." Mrs. Inglis was busy lighting a cigarette. "She was at the next table to us at the Cafe de Paris."

"Oh!" There was a little anxious note of inquiry in Ana's voice, which both Tom and his sister ignored.

"Did she speak to you?" Ana saked.

"Um!" Mrs. Inglis threw the spent match out of the open window with a little vicious gesture. "She was with that worm, Mahon," she added deliberately.

The hot blood rushed to Ana's face.

"Oh; and she promised Anthony——" She began indignantly, and then checked herself. "I didn't know Mr. Mahon was in London," she said. "I thought he was in the south of France with his wife."

"There's no harm in thinking," Tom's sister said dryly.

She sat down in the armchair where Anthony had so often sat. "They say Phillis Mahon is dying," she added bluntly.

"Which will be a lucky release for Mahon, I should say," Drake cut in.

Ana turned on him in anger.

"How can you say such a thing? It's not her fault she's so ill. Do you think any woman wants to be crippled like she is?"

Drake flushed and shrugged his shoulders.

"All right, don't murder me, Ana! I only meant that I daresay the poor devil's had a lot to put up with, and anyone with half an eye can see how things are with him and Mrs. Hambledon."

"Tom!" his sister said sharply.

"I think that's a disgraceful thing to say," Ana cried. She was very pale. "Just because Mollie likes to have a good time."

Drake laughed.

"Some people have quaint ideas of a good time," he said deliberately. He was feeling very sore with Ana. Every time they met he hoped to find that she had softened toward him and her love seemed to have grown.

"It serves Hambledon right for leaving her for so long," he said brutally. "She's a darned pretty woman, and I wouldn't blame Mahon a bit if he bolted with her."

There was a tragic silence, then Ana turned on him.

"You ought to be ashamed, saying such things. You don't know who might hear, or what harm you might do. Anthony can't help having to be away; he's got his work to attend to." She longed to add, "And his wife's debts to pay."

The words trembled on her lips, and it was only with the greatest effort that she kept them back.

"You seem to forget that Mollie is my friend," she added tremulously.

"No quarrelling, children," Mrs. Inglis interrupted. "And can't we have tea? Here, I'll go and see if the kettle boils."

She thought she was being very tactful; she carefully closed the door of the sitting room behind her as she went.

"I'm sorry if you're annoyed," Drake said sullenly.

He looked at Ana and longed to take her in his arms.

"I'm more than annoyed," Ana answered passionately. "I don't feel as if I want to see you again. Mollie is my friend."

"Oh, is she?" There was a bitter sneer in his voice. "Well, then, all I can say is that you ought to ask to be preserved from your friends."

"How dare you say such a thing? What do you mean?"

"Ana!" He caught her arm, but she tried to wrench herself free. He could feel antagonism in every nerve of her body and it drove him almost beyond endurance.

"If Mrs. Hambledon was the friend you seem to think she is," he answered her furiously, "she wouldn't have told me what she did about you——"

"About me—about—what do you mean—about—me?" She tore her arm from his grasp.

"Don't dare to touch me," she panted. She was almost beside herself with rage. "You make me hate you."

"Hate me!" Drake's kindly face twitched as if with actual physical pain. "I suppose if I were Hambledon it would be a different story altogether, wouldn't it?"

Ana stood very still. The angry colour died slowly from her face, and her body seemed to grow cold.

For long moments they looked at one another before she could find voice enough to ask once again, very quietly: "What do you mean?"

"That you're in love with Hambledon," Drake answered furiously. "And that's why you won't look at me. I never guessed it until Mollie told me, but now——"

"Mollie told you!" Ana said in a whisper.

Mollie had said that! Mollie, whom she had defended all aong—Mollie, for whose sake she had given up her own happiness.

Any further conversation was interrupted by the return of Florrie Inglis.

"I think it boiled!" she explained anxiously, peering into the teapot which she was carrying. "But I'm such a perfect fool at cooking!"

Nobody answered. Drake had turned away and was looking out of the window, and Ana was bending over the cups on the tray. Her heart was beating so fast she could hardly breathe, an she was afraid to trust her voice.

"Beast! Beast!" she was saying over and over again in her heart. She had done her best for months not to hate Mollie, but she knew now that all pretence of friendship between them was at an end. Mollie had no truth, no loyalty. After everything that had happened—after everything——

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY ASSOCIATED CIRCUMSTANCES HELP US TO REMEMBER

"I can't remember names." How often you hear that. If you are one of those people who can't remember names, try associating the name with some peculiar trait about the person. If the name is Brown, associate brown with his brown eyes or some other fact of his general appearance. The more odd and unusual the thing you select the stronger will be the association and the more effective in recall.

Sometimes when you can't recall the name of a person, you say to yourself, "Let me think. Where did I meet this man?" And as soon as you think of the place or the peculiar circumstance involved you think of the name through the law of association. The more of these associations you have the quicker you will recall the name.

At times these associated circumstances are more easily recalled than the name. Thinking intently about these circumstances helps to recall the name for the following reason. In attempting to recall a name, we are trying to drive a nervous impulse through the name centre of the brain and it will not go. The more we try the less success we have.

Then we think of an associated circumstance. This means that we send an impulse through an associated center and hope that the impulse will go from there into the name center. If it will not go from one, we try another and another until finally we hit upon one which does slip over into the same center. The more associated centers we have, the greater the probability that from some one of them the impulse will slip over. These associated centers will turn the trick because when learning the name, a nervous impulse has passed between the two centers, thus diminishing the resistance between them and making the passage easier.

The conditions just described have to do with names only partically learned and therefore hard to recall. But it often happens that we are unable to recall names we know as well as our own and indeed sometimes a man may be temporarily unable to recall his own name even though he is perfectly well and sober.

In a case of this kind, there is a mental blocking. The names start two impulses going over the track that is necessary for the right name to travel in order to get to consciousness, with the result that neither is able to get the right of way.

GARDEN NOTES

BALANCED FLOWER PLANTINGS

On account of the heavier demand for flowers now that this end of gardening is getting to be much more popular than it used to be, and the multitude of varieties from which one can make a selection, it is important to place seed orders early. This particularly applies to rare and new varieties which are soon sold out. First of all get those seeds that need to be started indoors. Select your standard varieties first, but include a few novelties for the sake of gaining experience. As with the vegetables, one should, of course, stick to a certain amount of standard kinds that have done well in one's particular soil and general location, but a few new ones should also be added each year. It should be remembered that many of the older types of flowers have been wonderfully improved in the last few years, so that even if these were not to one's liking some time ago, they may be very desirable now. Zinnias, Asters, Sweet Peas and Scabiosas, only to mention a few, have been very much improved, and can now be secured in many different types, colors and heights. Have your order balanced—that is, include flowers for cutting, bedding, edging, background and fragrance. Arrange the beds so that there will always be something in bloom from early summer on, and also plant so that the early sorts will be replaced by something later on. A few nicotine should be included, not for beauty of foliage or flower, as these are not striking, but for the penetrating and spicy scent after evening has fallen. Seed of annual poppies, larkspur, and bachelor's button may be sowed outside on the last snow if the ground has been prepared in the fall. At any rate, they should be put in just as soon as the soil can be worked up, and this applies to sweet peas. In planning too, some attention should be paid to the color, so that clashing will be avoided and that there will always be some of the favorites in bloom.

ROTATE THE VEGETABLES

Even in the smallest garden, it is advisable to rotate, that is move your vegetables around from year to year. One vegetable grown in exactly the same location each year will exhaust all the particular fertilizer that htat vegetable requires, and may fill the soil full of disease. Then too some leguminous crops, such as peas and beans, which actually add fertilizer to the soil, must be moved around so the whole garden will benefit. These will compensate for the gross feeders like corn, beets and carrots. Take a chance on sowing a few rows of vegetables extra early, but save the bulk of the seed until the time specified in the seed catalogue, with a little left over to re-plant any spots which may have been visited by rabbits, children, frosts and flood.

ANNUAL PHLOX

A bed of annual phlox, or clumps of them here and there in the regular flower garden, will furnish a brilliant sheet of color for most of the summer. Everything except orange and deep yellow is represented. It is one of the easiest annuals to grow and comes into bloom very quickly. It is not particular as to soil, but the richer the ground the more vigorous the plant and the longer their season of bloom. Sow in the open ground as soon as the soil is warm and thin to six inches apart. It is better to sow and thin than to transplant, as phlox does not stand moving as well as some of the annuals. If it is necessary to transplant, the job should be done very carefully, disturbing the roots as little as possible and watering very freely for a day or two. When the plants are bought for a very early display, they should be moved carefully like this. There are semi-double sorts, but the single varieties are the most popular and the phlox come in several heights

KITCHEN GARDEN IS BIG ADVANTAGE

Perhaps it is more economical to buy fresh vegetables in the market if one figures his time on the basis of his daily income, but in the case of those vegetables which lose their crispness and flavor in a few hours, there is a big disadvantage. It is impossible, for instance, to buy quality in corn. To get it at its best, it must come out of the garden right at the door and it is surprising the amount that can be grown from even a dozen hills. The same is true of young carrots, peas, beans, lettuce, spinach, and in fact almost every vegetable that grows early in the year. So often too one forgets to order some vegetable at the store, particularly onions or some other little thing needed in flavoring. The fresher the vegetables, also, the more vitamines they contain for the young children. There is no secret in producing these. The main thing needed is a well-prepared garden, easily worked soil, and a sunny position. Plant the seed at the time advised in the catalogues, apply some quickly available fertilizer, like nitrate of soda, cultivate well, water when necessary, and a supply of fresh vegetable is assured.

MUCH BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF SOCIETY

Women's Institute Appoints Committee to Purchase Flowers For Soldiers' Memorial.

WILL REPAINT SIGN BOARDS.

Miss Emily Guest Will Be the Speaker at Summer Gathering.

MILLBROOK, May 15.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. T. G. Harkness, president of the Millbrook Branch of the Women's Institute, was hostess for the annual meeting held at her home on Saturday.

Business items receiving attention included the appointment of a committee to purchase the flowers for the Soldiers' Memorial in the Town Hall square, the members being Mrs. Harkness, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, and Mrs. J. W. Hilton; the decision to repaint the sign boards which the Institute erected three years ago at the four leading roads coming into the village, the tender of C. Thorndyke for this work being accepted; and the arrangements for serving lunch at the annual summer public gathering for Millbrook and Cavan Branches on Tuesday, May 21, in the Town Hall, when Miss Emily Guest, of Toronto, will be the speaker.

A letter from Mr. Putnam was read by the secretary giving notice of the short course in household science to be held here in June, probably on June 12 and 13, preparatory to choosing the representatives for the judging competition at the Royal Winter Fair, and the Canadian National Exhibition.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, showed a balance carried over from last year of $391.20 the year's total being $585.58; expenses $155.16; cash in bank $430.42.

Twelve meetings were held during the year, according to the report presented by the secretary, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, with a total attendance of 273; there were 87 members in 1928, and 11 papers and talks were given.

Officers Elected

The roll of members for 1929-30 is not yet completed, but a large number have paid their fees, and several new names have been added to the list.

The election of officers for 1929-30 resulted as follows:—President, Mrs. T. G. Harkness; vice-pres., Mrs. C. C. Garide; secretary, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong; treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Aiken; district representative, Mrs. J. W. Hilton; pianist, Mrs. R. J. McKnight; delegates to district annual, Miss Margaret Whyte, Mrs. Allie Fallis Mrs. Wesley Brown, Mrs. L. H. Morton, and the president and secretary.

On motion it was decided to send a special invitation to the members of the Junior Institute to attend the public meeting on May 21, as Miss Guest, who has a more than Dominion-wide reputations as an able and well-informed speaker, has had unusual experience in working among the girls. Miss Hazel Armstrong is president of the girls' organization, and Miss Margaret Luxon secretary.

The program committee for the June meeting will be Mrs. W. E. Ball, and Mrs. Fred Winslow.

The auditors, Mrs. J. L. Byam and Miss Whyte, reported having inspected the treasurer's books and found her figures correct in every detail; Mrs. George Fallis and Miss Pearl Burnham were appointed auditors for the ensuing year.

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed at the close when the hostess, assisted by a number of the members, served refreshments.

ISSUES DROP UNDER HIGHER MONEY RATES

Renewal of Selling Pressure Takes Place After Strong Opening.

RATE AT 12 PER CENT.

Packard Soars Within Two Points of Record Established in January.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil—Associated Press Financial Editor).

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 15.—High call money rates again proved an insurmountable barrier to speculators for the advance in to-day's stock market. Although the recovery in prices, which set in late yesterday, was resumed at the opening of to-day's market and continued in the face of a renewal rate of 10 per cent. for call money, the subsequent advance in the rate to 12 per cent., due to the heavy withdrawals of funds for mid-month disbursement, caused a renewal of selling pressure.

Pools succeeded in marking up about a score of issues to new high levels in the early flurry of buying to-day, but the small speculators were reluctant to follow up the advance.

Packard was the leader chosen by the "bull" forces soaring more than 6 points to 150 7-8, or about 2 points below the record high established in January. Chrysler and Marmon each ran up 3 points before the market succumbed to selling pressure. General Electric, which is expected to split up its stock, moved up four points to a new peak at 281 and then slumped to 275. Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, North American and Frank G. Shattuck all moved into new high ground.

Favorable Reports Send Prices Lower

CHICAGO, Ills., May 15 (Canadian Press).—Reports of auspicious crop conditions for domestic winter wheat, especially in Oklahoma, led to an early set-back in wheat prices today. On the downturns, though, buying enlarged, and considerable notice was taken of increasing advices pointing to damage from Hessian fly in soft wheat states. Opening at ¼ decline to 1-8 advance, wheat later showed downturns all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise easier, with corn starting 3-8 off to ¾ advance, and subsequently undergoing a general sag.

8 PUPILS WITHDRAW.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 15 (Canadian Press). — Eight of the 36 pupils of School Section No. 7, Pittsburg Township, have withdrawn and are receiving private tuition from A. J. Dilworth, their teacher, who was removed from the school and succeeded by Miss Mary Ahearn. It is understood other pupils of the school will also leave, and the situation is regarded as serious.

DENIES REPORT.

LOBLAW ADVANCES.

Oil Section Is Irregular—Home and Super-test Show Slight Losses.

TORONTO, Ont., May 15 (Canadian Press). — Marked price changes were exceptional in a steady trend on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. International Nickel, again the leader, held close to the morning's high of 51¼, a fractional advance. Loblaw gained 2 points to 19, Massey-Harris 1¾ to 69½, and Walkers 2⅜ to 67½. Brazilian was fractionally stronger at 51½.

Oils were not in demand, and became irregular, Imperial gaining 1⅝ to 116⅝, and North Star 1¼ to 26¼, while 45 shares of Home changed hands at 20.25, off 2.75. Supertest, at 31½, showed a loss of 1½ points.

LAX SESSION MINE MARKET

Ajax, Hollinger, Noranda and Ventures Only Issues Active On List.

OILS SLIGHTLY EASIER.

TORONTO, May 15. (C.P.) — With the exception of the unlisted oils and Ajax, Hollinger, Noranda and Ventures, prices were at a standstill on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Ajax was quite active and after reaching a high of 68 reacted to 61, a net gain of 3c.

Hollinger broke to a low of 6.00 with the noon price of 6.20, indicating a net loss of 40c, while Noranda remained at the morning's high mark of 55.75, up 50c. Ventures recovered a further 35c to 9.95.

The unlisted oils were slightly easier with Mayland tumbling to 13.25, while Home lost 50 to 22.50 and Dalhousie 20 to 5.05; Baltac and Associated were both off 15c at 4.75 and 2.85 respectively.

FORTY-FIVE KILLED IN EXPLOSION

be dead from the blast, fire and poison gasses that broke out from the chemical laboratories. These bodies were in several Cleveland hospitals, morgues, and a few were covered with blankets and lying on the ground near the hospital.

Many of the firemen risked their lives to rescue patients who were taken out through windows.

Atop the roof of the burning building were about a dozen patients who had been taken there by doctors and nurses through a sky-light.

The injured and dying were rushed to the Mount Sinai and Huron Road Hospital and the hospital clinic.

The flames shot out of the second floor window and patients on that floor were helpless.

There were no patients on the first floor. Firemen who rushed from all parts of the city concentrated their efforts on rescue work.

All physicians available were summoned. Automobiles and trucks, parked and in traffic, were commandeered and rushed to the scene.

Lying on Lawn.

Some of the victims of the explosion and fire were lying on the lawn of the hospital because there was not enough ambulances to rush them to other hospitals.

An interne at the Cleveland Clinic estimated that 100 patients, attendants and visitors were in the hospital when the explosion occurred. Those trapped on the second floor, he said, appeared to be stunned and were unable to escape from the flaming and stifling trap.

A woman is reported to have fallen down the elevator shaft. The elevator containing six persons is reported to have fallen and the passengers trapped, crushing beneath it the body of the woman that had fallen.

With the patients on the roof were some doctors and nurses. They were almost concealed from the thousands of spectators of the fire by flames and smoke.

The hospital was built in 1924. Dr. George W. Crile, its proprietor, is nationally known. He gained a wide repute for relief of goiters.

Clocks in the building were stopped at 11.35 a.m., indicating that the two explosions occurred at that time.

In Police Court

Magistrate O. A. Langley was back in police court this morning after conducting a rather unusual case at Havelock on Tuesday afternoon. J. J. Maloney of Belmont township, appeared before him in that village, charged with burning his own dwelling on May 7. Maloney had been remanded when he appeared in court in this city a week or so previous to yesterday's hearing.

After taking the necessary amount of information on the case, His Worship yesterday saw fit to commit Maloney for trial by Judge.

This morning's city police court session brought up a local man for failing to observe a stop sign before entering a through street. He was fined $5.00 and costs, while a Lakefield man was fined $10.00 and costs for driving without a proper license.

Yet another young man and his employer were arraigned because the former had been driving a truck without a chaffeur's license. The driver was fined $10.00 and costs while his employer was fined a similar amount.

"We got home-sick, so thought we might get to Montreal and work our way across the ocean on a cattle boat, three young lads of about eighteen years, told His Worship when they were brought in from Havelock by C.P.R. Officer Evans who had caught them on a railroad train. They had run away from farms west of Lindsay, after being placed there by the British Immigration Association of Montreal, and told The Examiner an "early-to-bed-early-to-rise" story that lacked much semblance of playtime. The three were remanded pending communication with the immigration authorities.

A man from Buckhorn, who appeared on a remand charge of making threats, was bound over to keep the peace and alowed to go without sentence.

SIDELIGHTS ON ELECTION

(By Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 15.—Elliott Dodds, the Liberal candidate in Halifax, is conducting open air meetings at the main point of the town lasting seven hours.

Sir Thomas Inskip, the Attorney-General, who is contesting Central Bristol against a Labor candidate, is shocked at an election poster being exhibited in the city which says: "Baldwin feeds pigs and starves children." Sir Thomas takes exception to "such slander that the Conservatives have been niggardly looking after the people's health."

Sir Martin Conway, Conservative candidate for the combined English Universities, issues a panegyric on Premier Baldwin in a classic vein: "He, like Varro after the Battle of Cannes, did not despair of the republic, but steadily preached the faith that it is by good relations between all classes, by kindliness, loyalty and hard work, that the evil of the time will be overcome and prosperity gradually return."

A certain proportion of women will have the opportunity of voting twice, like their husbands. Professional or business men with offices are given a vote for same in addition to their residences. If married, their wives may also exercise the vote in respect of their husbands' offices. This was ordained under the latest Representation Act.

Candidates Stage Lively Battle

LONDON, May 15 (Canadian Press Cable). — A lively three-cornered election meeting was held in the Albert Hall here last night when Right Hon. Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary in the Baldwin Government, debated on the platform with the Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, former Secretary of State for the Colonies in the Ramsay MacDonald Labor Government of 1924, with Right Hon. C. A. McCurdy, former Liberal Cabinet Minister, as chairman of the meeting.

Sir William Johnson-Hicks, in his opening remarks said there was no need to worry about the chairman's party, "there is an odd Liberal here and there, but the real battle is between Constitutionalism and Socialism."

CONGESTION AT MONTREAL HARBOR

Dull European demand for Canadian wheat, coupled with shortage of ocean-going tramps offering for charter, resulted this week in an almost unprecedented state of congestion in Montreal harbor. Grain elevators were plugged to capacity while more than 70 lake boats were in port waiting to unload. The prospect of clearing cargoes appeared so remote that many of them paid off their crews in the endeavor to put down overhead expenses while lying idle. Boats waiting to unload had stocks of nearly 7,000,000 bushels aboard while elevators held nearly 13,000,000 bushels, making a total on hand of almost 20,000,000 bushels. The illustration shows some of the delayed canal-size carries in the Windmill basin at Montreal.

for the Bingo game, is a red, white and blue platform.

A very fine exhibition of several hundreds of war trophies occupies the first position in the booth at the right of the main entrance. This section simulates the front of St. Martin's Cathedral at Ypres, and a casual glance this morning showed some wonderfully interesting souvenirs of wars, old and young. Here is a helmet worn by an English general in the famous war of 1870, a black helmet which belonged to the colonel of the 57th Regiment of Peterborough and a helmet worn in the Canadian Rebellion.

There are Germain steins and a German pocket flask of ornate design, surmounted by a screaming silver eagle. One face of this ornamental liquor container shows scenes in a soldier's life. A German garments are very long and enveloping and whose featured hat covers a countenance concealed in a sorrowful white handkerchief. There is also a soldier on "sentry go" and another departing on an ancient-looking train.

Rifles and regimental emblems, with a wicked-looking scimitar and a collection of swords that includes one in a finely jewelled scabbard, are only a portion of this interesting collection, one of the flint-lock guns on view was used in the war of 1812.

Next door is the fortune-telling and palmistry booth conducted by the ladies, who also have charge of the prettily decorated resting parlor and tea-room at the rear.

The dart games have a new device especially designed by President Heron who is using soldier dolls as targets.

At the end of the hall is an exhibit showing exactly the work carried on by the Legion and this section is in charge of two overseas nurses.

Amusements galore are provided by the big Bingo game, the "hit the nigger on the head" (if you can) booth, and the "sink 'em" ball.

A sign proclaims an "Estaminet," with vin rouge and vin blanc and cognac advertised above its door, there are hot coffee and equally hot dogs on sale, there is a "Wheel of Fortune" and a mystery tent, "for men only," where entertainment that is destined to appeal to return soldiers will be provided. The reason for excluding the ladies is simply that they mightn't enjoy the smoky atmosphere and the fare served here, which will include all the war-time delicacies of coffee served in tobacco tins, bully beef and hard tack on tin plates, to say nothing of the much-desired jam that the "Dumbells" used to rave about. The rum jars in evidence will contain comparatively innocent coffee.

Dugout of War Days

This is a cleverly-contrived tent, depicting a dugout of war days, with burlap roof and walls, pictures from "Le Vie Pariesienne" on its walls and sand on its floor, sand bags blocking the entrance, a brazier for heating and an extremely unattractive-looking hard bunk in one corner.

The sign here is "Hell's Fire Corner," written on a rough board, with a companion warning in "Keep Your 'ead down." It is designed to imitate as closely as possible the famous corner of the same name at Ypres, where guns and men went past at double-quick time and which the Germans raked with shell-fire every half hour. An exploded shrapnel shell at the door serves as a gas alarm, just as it might have done in war-time years.

Upstairs, the whole floor has been converted into a concert hall capable of seating two hundred and fifty people, quite comfortably. The stage is unique and striking in its imitation of a section of a trench in an advance machine gun post with a gas blanket screening the entrance of a dugout whose front is open to the audience. Here a company of soldier entertainers will give a program of an hour's length. The stage is equipped with footlights and a rear arrangement that permits of hearing a shell attack while seated comfortably in safe chairs and the real machine gun which occupies a portion of the post spits most realistically.

"Cootie Roost" and "Rum Alley" and "Airway Alley" are some of the signs on the dugout, which has burlap walls and a brazier and box seats for the performers.

Fine Program Arranged

The program arranged is calculated to coincide admirably with the war-time fun of the men who snatched a little respite from tragedy by making pleasantry in their own way. At the machine gun post, the corporal guard sings "When The Great Red Dawn is Shining." The concert promises to be one of the highlights of the evening's entertainment.

General Draper of Toronto, head of the Police Department there, will open the Carnival to-night, and it will be in full swing for the next three days and night. A splendid list of attractions has been prepared by President J. R. Heron and his corps of busy assistants, who have been working for weeks past on this event, and all who remember just how the boys were acclaimed in the war years should be eager to turn out and patronize the fine show they have prepared in entertainment that is striking and unusual and yet has the touch of reality about it, in its memories of those fateful times.

Colonel of 5th C.M.R.

"Daddy Draper." That's what they called Toronto's Chief of Police when he was Colonel of the 5th C.M.R. in France, will open the Carnival to-night.

He had always had military inclinations, and before the war was active in the non-permanent active Militia. With the commencement of hostilities he entered the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles as one of its original officers with the rank of Major.

On the night of June 2, 1916, as Major Draper, he earned for himself promotion to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and as well the coveted decoration of the Distinguished Service Order.

On that night at Maple Copse, after fire and generally trying conditions which cost the unit a number of casualties, the Commanding Officer, Col. Baker, was killed in action. Major Draper succeeded to the command, and carried on throughout a night of heavy fighting in which he distinguished himself brilliantly and repeatedly.

As Lieutenant-Colonel Draper he continued as O. C. of the 5th C.M.R. until May of 1918, when he was promoted to the command of the 8th Canadian Infantry Brigade, a position which he held until the Armistice. Since then he has interested himself in the re-establishment of returned men.

In recent years Brigadier-General Draper has been connected with the International Paper Company at Quebec. In 1921 he was Conservative candidate for Brome in the general elections. In religion he is a Presbyterian.

Born at Sutton Junction.

Dennis Colburn Draper, to use his full name, was born at Sutton Junction in 1873. He received his elementary and high school education at Sutton and took part of the law course at McGill University, Montreal, being a member of the class of 1902. As he puts it, he spent nearly all his life in the eastern townships of Quebec, the son of a farmer, and himself an ardent agriculturist. Previous to the war he served in the ranks from private in the 43rd Duke of Cornwall's Own Rifles at Ottawa, and the 3rd Victoria Rifles of Montreal, and the 3rd Scottish Light Dragoons of the eastern townships cavalry brigade.

General Draper became Chief of Police of Toronto just a year ago, at a salary of $7,500 a year. In September last he married a Miss Marjorie Hume, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Hume, of Leeds, Quebec. This was the culmination of a long friendship. The bride was formerly a Government librarian of Ottawa.

General Draper wears his rugged, picturesque head tucked down close to his shoulders. His voice is eastern townships and paternal. He had, despite the fact that when he was a General, he was in his mid-forties, a benevolent sort of air, he is a strict disciplinarian. But men do not win the nickname "Daddy" that way. General Draper was distinguished amongst Canadian soldiers for three things: aggressiveness, strict discipline, kindliness, that expressed itself unfailing in attending to the care and comfort of the men he commanded. That is where he got the "Daddy."

Received Decorations.

Three citations for distinguished service under fire stand in the records of the Canadian Expeditionary Force with reference to Brigadier-General Draper. The citations are not ration party decorations, but earned through the terrific barrages of action. In the first, though wounded himself, he carried his mortally wounded commanding officer back to temporary safety.

"D.S.O. — Awarded 19th August, 1918, for battle of Passchendaele, Oct. 1916.

"For conspicuous gallantry in the face of the enemy. He led reinforcements to exposed points and twice drove off determined hostile counter-attacks. Though himself wounded, he carried his mortally wounded C.O. from the firing line.

"Bar to D.S.O. awarded 4th February, 1918, for battle of Passchendaele, Oct., 1917.

"This officer has commanded his battalion since 2nd June, at the Somme, Vimy Ridge and Ypres. During this latter operation, his battalion attacked on the morning of the 30th October, and elements of his battalion after passing through severe machine gun and rifle fire, reached the line of their final objective, and held their position with the aid of two other companies as reinforcements, in spite of the fact that both flanks were in the air.

"Subsequently, two more companies from a brigade on the left flank were placed at this officer's disposal, and a defensive flank about 500 yards in length was formed under his supervision, which secured the left flank of the ground gained."

Held Position Firmly.

"The initial success gained, the prompt reinforcement of the garrison, reduced to a handful of men, the formation of a defensive flank and subsequent retention of the position were entirely due to the careful preparation and personal supervision by this officer.

"Lieut.-Col. Draper subsequently remained in the forward area after his battalion had been withdrawn, until he had personally satisfied himself that the majority of his wounded had been evacuated and that adequate arrangements had been made to remove the remainder.

"C.M.G.—awarded 1st Jan., 1919, for battles of Amiens and Arras, August, 1918.

"For great devotion to duty and the successful handling of his brigade in the operations east of Amiens and at Orange Hill and Monchy le Preux during the month of August, 1918. This officer's brigade carried Orange Hill and pushed on to Monchy le Preux with such energy and courage that both of these successes were largely due to the good leadership of Brigadier-General Draper."

POPULAR MERCHANT OF CHATHAM ACCEPTS POSITION IN PETERBORO

ALDERMAN AND EX-MAYOR

Valued Member of the Maple City Rotary Club and the Masonic Order.

Charles E. Clements, a former mayor, and up until a week ago, alderman in the city of Chatham, has been appointed assistant manager to the Robert Neill Shoe Company, with headquarters in this city. Mr. Clements was a shoe merchant in the Maple City, and brings to the R. Neill Company Limited a wide knowledge in the shoe retail trade. Mr. Clements took up his new position in this city the first of the week.

CHATHAM, May 15. — Ald. Clements is leaving the city. For some weeks he has had a certain proposition under consideration, and only a few of his intimate friends knew of the probability that he might be called upon to change his place of residence. Negotiations have reached the stage where his acceptance has been made, and his resignation from the city council will be necessary.

Ald. Clements becomes Assistant to the General Manager of the R. Neill Ltd., boot and shoe merchants of Peterborough, Ontario, with branches in Cornwall, Brockville, Oshawa (opened on the first of April last), Peterborough, Lindsay, Barrie, Midland, Brantford (opened recently), Galt, Woodstock and Ingersoll.

Goes to Peterborough

He will make his place of residence at the headquarters of the company in Peterborough. It is understood that he will commence his new duties at once, although he will not move his family to Peterborough until the close of the present school term.

Ald. Clements' removal from the city will mean a great loss to Chatham. He is a Kent boy, born in Charing Cross, but has lived practically his whole life in the Maple City. He entered the shoe business with the J. L. Campbell firm, and for the past nineteen years he has been in business for himself in his home town, and has been highly successful as a business executive.

Public Man.

He has taken a very prominent part in public life in Chatham, and is the only man in the city who has held all the public positions to which the ratepayers have the power to elect representatives. The only executive position he has not held is that of chairman of the Board of Education. He has been a member of the Education Board, an Alderman, Mayor, and member of the Public Utilities Commission, the Board of Water Commissioners, the Suburban Area Commission, the Police Commission, Board of Trade, etc., etc., and in each of these capacities he has rendered excellent service which is shown by the fact that he has never been defeated for an elective office.

Prominent in Service.

He is a valued member of the Chatham Rotary Club ,St. Andrew's Church and the Masonic Order. He was Master of Wellington Lodge in 1914, and after the war he was largely instrumental in the formation of Victory Lodge, and was its first Master. He has been District Deputy Grand Master for this district, and is at present a member of the Board of General Purposes of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Ontario, one of the chief executive position in the order, to which position he was appointed by the Grand Master, Hon. J. S. Martin, last year.

He was in past years prominently associated with the 24th Kent Regiment and in those days contributed largely to the success of the unit.

NEW ASSISTANT MANAGER

CHARLES E. CLEMENTS,
Recently of Chatham, who has been Appointed Assistant Manager of Robert Neill Company Ltd.

ARTIST SCORES UNIQUE SUCCESS AT BIG RECITAL

ASSISTED BY SOLOIST.

Program Was Under Auspices of Women's Association of Murray Street.

(By Jeanette)

An example of a type of elocution that is seldom heard in a youthful performer was demonstrated at Murray street Baptist church last evening, when Miss Viola Payton (pupil of Mrs. Jessie Alexander Roberts, of Toronto) gave a dramatic recital. It is the sort of reading that weaves a picture for the hearers and subordinates the reader's own personality to the mind of the author of the composition. Instead of laboring for a distinctly individual and very dramatic effect, Miss Payton did what the finest readers do: she took a piece of composition, and made it live for her audience. It takes a complete absorption in one's work, an unfaltering memory, an entire absence of self-consciousness, and a flexible, musical voice to do this .Miss Payton possesses all of these attributes and she added a graceful and pleasing platform presence to the whole.

So the audience went with the inquisitive Hebrew to the marriage and noted little details, like the cost of the bride's flowers and the manner of the lady who "enjoyed poor health," it saw the dead child and the fearful wolf, the "loup garou," in Drummond's story of "Pelang," it glowed with interest in the collie dog of Pauline Johnson's "Beyond the Blue," and it shivered at the horrors of war, as graphically described in the terrifying word picture by John Oxenham. But they didn't respond very enthusiastically to the sombre pathos of Owen Meredith's "Aux Italiens," which one listener at least considered the very best of an exceptionally fine program.

Assisted by Mrs. Westington.

Miss Payton, in a lovely rose-pink frock, was assisted by Mrs. Daisy Murray Westington of Toronto, dramatic soprano, and Miss Elizabeth McKee Webber, concert pianist, both of whom scored immediate successes with their hearers. Applause for the three artists was vouchsafed whole-heartedly after each number, and encores were numerous.

The introduction to the program, which was under the auspices of the Women's Association of the church, was voiced by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe. The attendance, considering the inclement weather, was very satisfactory.

Miss Payton's program was an extremely interesting one. It ranged from grave to gay, and was of an unusually pleasing intellectual type. The idea that the average audience is composed to a large extent of semi-morons that seem to prevail among some elocutionists, was not stressed, and the hearers did their own thinking, responding to the variations of mood and theme in the splendid selections.

The readings included "Levinsky at the Wedding," which is a comical description of the reactions of a Hebrew guest at a marriage ceremony, with an encore in "A Little Girl's Secret," and "A Voice from Afar," the pathetic story of an old couple whose daughter, a famous prima donna, sends them a record of her own voice as a birthday gift. Mrs. Westington, off stage, sang "Home, Sweet Home," for this effective presentation, which had an encore in a bit of Scotch drollery.

A composition by a Canadian poet Wilson Macdonald, gave a little word picture of the Irish girl, "Mary Mahone," who won a crown in eternity by her kind acts, and its companion "What do we see out There, My Lad?" was a bit of the terrible descriptive things of the war, written by John Oxenham.

Bit of Whimsical Humor

A reading from Dr. Drummond's works, "Pelang," was the next selection, in dialect, and its encore, "Auction Extraordinary," was another bit of whimsical humor, well presented. The Drummand recitation had a musical accompaniment in the softly-played "Humoresque," while the strains of "Ah Che Le Morte" echoed from the piano for Owen Meredith's masterly "Aux Italiens." This is a strange thing in its resurrection of a dead and unforgiven love by a man whose bride sits beside him in the midst of a gay throng, and harps on the refrain, "If only the dead knew the moment when to come back and be forgiven," but it has a dramatic, grand atmosphere that lends it a tragic interest and a moving pathos all its own. It was a powerful bit of word painting.

In "Beyond the Blue," by Pauline Johnson, Miss Payton painted the picture of a much-loved collie dog, owned by Ben, who went "beyond the blue" and the audience responded at once to the appeal of the human-interest story.

Mrs. Westington, who sings with all the happy, buoyant sweetness, the dramatic, powerful range of a big, true, clear soprano, was as successful as usual in a very pleasing program of songs that brought her renewed applause at each appearance. She wore a gown of Venetian blue georgette and her accompaniments were played very finely by Miss Elizabeth Webber.

The first song was the difficult aria, "How Shall I Sing That Majesty?" with an encore in the jaunty bit of sweetness, "Good Morning, Brother Sunshine." "Love's a Merchant" came next, and a popular bit of old-time melody in "Comin' Thru the Rye." Other vocal numbers were "A Psalm of Love," "Spring Has Come" and the always wonderful "Land of Hope and Glory," which had a repetition of its chorus in response to the repeated applause which greeted its rendition.

The piano solo numbers by Miss Elizabeth Webber, who was in black lace, were pleasing additions to the program. Playing with a fine grasp of technical difficulties, a clear, bell-like, firm tone and an adequate interpretation of the varied demands of her selections, Miss Webber gave Tschaikowski's "Romance," Liszt's "Liebestraume" Number Two ("Happy Death"), and a little gay French dance, in "Passepied."

Ladies who assisted at the door last evening were Mrs. D. A. Loomis, Mrs. J. Kingsbury and Miss Sadie Garrett, and ushers were the Misses Lorraine Middleton, Viola Harvey, Isabel Scott, and Leota Wilson.

Circulet—three-year-old, by Golden Sphere-Letty by Quantock.—Here is the favorite for the King's Plate and he has every right to be. Circulet was easily the champion Canadian-bred juvenile last year and on cold dope alone he figures the most probable winner. A winner in three of his four starts and with a bona-fide excuse for his only defeat, his record stands out.

Circulet won his first three starts in easy manner over the same lot, outside of Daisy Fair, that he will match strides with a week from to-day and I cannot see any reason why he will not repeat the same performance this season, Daisy Fair included.

In the Clarendon Plate at Thorncliffe he was defeated by Pin Wheel, but only because he had the misfortune to have an injury during the running of the race. He has entirely recovered from that mishap under the capable hands of Trainer Wm. Brinkloe and is as sound right now as he ever was.

Circulet has grown considerably during the winter months and is well advanced in his training. With the modern and up-to-date facilities that his stable has at Waterloo and with the advantage of having an indoor training track Circulet is probably two weeks ahead in his training of any other of the Plate candidates.

SCHOOL CONCERT.

Madoc Public School Pupils Provide Good Program in Empire Theatre.

MADOC, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Thursday evening, May 9, Madoc Public School senior pupils, under the capable direction of their principal, J. B. Hough, held a most interesting and successful concert in the Empire Theatre. Miss Margaret McKenzie, as president of the Senior Literary Society, acted as chairman. Introductory music was furnished by several of the pupils, Jack Kincaid, Helen Lewis, Vera McGhee, and others.

In the oratorical contest the first speaker was Lawson Blakely, who chose as his subject "Canadians in the Air." Jack Kincaid followed, taking as his subject, "Winter Sports in Canada."

Next came a song by Lorena Vansickle, "That Old-Fashioned Mother of Mine."

Gladys Pitts was the third speaker with the subject "Confederation Park at Ottawa." Doris Golan chose "Education" as her subject. Misses Iveh Spencer and Lois Reid gave a very pretty piano duet.

Grey Rivers was the fifth speaker, taking "Modern Inventions" as his subject, and James Golan, "What a Boy Can Do on a Farm"

Th judges were George White and Miss L. Connor, and during the intermission the boys and girls carried on a most flourishing sale of home-made candy.

A good program followed, and included a chorus by the girls, "Behind the Clouds for You"; animated dialogue by the boys, "Dutch Justice", song by Vera McGhee and Helen Lewis.

Mrs. G. W. Rivers was then called on to present the prizes in be alf of Madoc W.C.T.U. She briefly and clearly explained the conditions and character of the contests in essays, posters, and health books, then called on the winners to come to the platform. In the High School, the Upper School prizes were won by Miss Alice Hale and Miss Alta Reid. In the Lower School, Thornton Love received first and Roswald Dafoe second. A special prize was awarded Clarence Hall, of Queensboro.

For the posters, two firsts and two seconds were awarded: Firsts, Freda Avery and Florence Lee; seconds, Alice Armstrong and Laura Ross.

In the Public School:

IV. Class—1, Gordon Sager; 2, Margaret McKenzie.

Sr. III. Class—1, Kelvin Kincaid; 2, Morna Reynolds; 3, Phyllis Reid.

Jr. III.—1, Bernice Blakely; 2, Robert Caskey; 3, Jean Nickle.

Mrs. Rivers also announced that of the county prizes, Madoc Schools receive three firsts, four seconds, and one special prize. The names of the winners will be given at the convention at Napanee Much applause was given the young prize-winners.

A pleasing guitar duet was given by William Stockloser and James Kellar, which received a very enthusiastic encore.

Another dialogue was given by girls and boys entitled "Father Time." This was well given and much enjoyed. The girls gave a chorus, "Japanese Sandman," followed by a dialogue by six girls, "The Mothers' Reform Club." Misses Myrtle Kellar, Lola Embury, and Blanche Ellis sang "Highways Are Happy Ways."

The judges were called on for their decision, and Mr. White announced that with all the speakers doing so well, it had been no easy task, but first place was awarded to Doris Golan, second to Jack Kincaid, Grey Rivers third, and James Golan fourth.

He congratulated the youthful speakers, and wished them every success for the future.

MUSICAL RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss Verna Mairs Present Pleasing Program at Madoc.

MADOC, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Friday evening the pupils of Miss Verna Mairs gave a very interesting and enjoyable recital in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in behalf of Madoc Public Library. In all, twenty-two numbers were given, and when it is remembered that many of the pupils are small, some only seven or eight years of age, and that for most of them this was their first public appearance in a musical program, it is surprising the talent exhibited and the general progress shown. The church was beautifully decorated with many-hued flowers of different kinds. Rev. T. G. Marshall prefaced the program with a few words referring to the object of the recital, and praising the work done in preparing for it, and hoped that being the first appearance of many of the pupils the audience would give an appreciative attention. The youngsters did extremely well, especially those numbers in which two pianos were used, and these also showed how thoroughly they had worked.

In the closing number, in which pipe organ, piano, and two violins were used, the effect was wonderfully good, and all the players gave their parts with precision, accuracy, and harmony. The program was as follows:

Piano quartette—Dance of the Winds (Peabody), Miss Ross, Thornton Love, Madeline Ellis, and Wilhelmine McKenzie. Piano solo—"Jolly Darkies," Edith Cotton. Piano solo—"Chiming Bells,' Ruth Cordy. Vocal solo, "The Dear Little Shamrock." William Hawthorne. Piano duet (two pianos), "May Time" H. H. Brown), Betty Nicol and Helen Whytock. Piano solo, "Serenade Sans Paroles" (Meyer Helmund), Miss Curran. Piano trio, "Iris" (Renard), M. Cassidy, J. Gould, M. Young. Piano solo, "A School Dance" (Louise Wright), Reta Lahey. Vocal solo, "Serenade" (Louise Wright), Miss Vandervoort. Piano solo, "In a Monastery Garden" (Kettlery), Raymond Cotton. Piano quartette (two pianos) "No Surrender" (Morrison), march, Margaret McKenzie, Marjorie Ellis, Maragret Moon, and Jean Phillips. Piano duet (two pianos), "Pussy's Lullaby" (M. H. Brown), Doris and Carmel Golan. Vocal duet ,"Just a-Wearying for You," Mr. and Mrs. Bedford. Piano duet (two pianos), "Charge of the Hussars '(Splendler), Marion Robertson and Miss Curran. Piano solo, "Berceuse from Jocelyn" (Godard), Alda Langowin. Piano solo, "Pride of the Regiment" (Craigmont), Kenneth West. Piano trio, "Twilight Idylls" (P. A. Sceniecker), G. Lahey, M. Walsh, P. Lahey. Vocal solo, "The Photo of the Girl I Left Behind" (Cherry), William Hawthorne. Piano quartette (two pianos) "Gallop Di Bravura" (Schulhoff), Marion Robertson, George Maybee, Pauline Foote, Agnes Miller. Piano solo, "Humoreske' '(Dvorak), Norman Bowers. Quartette (pipe organ, piano and two violins), Intermezzo Sinfonica from "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni), Miss Mairs, George Maybee, Miss Ross, and Mr. Sills.

Opportunity knocks more than once at everyone's door

No age limit on success if you keep fit

PEOPLE used to think that if you hadn't made your mark by the time you were 40, you never would. "That's all bunk," people say today. There's many a man who'll tell you he was past 50 when he made his first big success. Their experience runs something like this.

"I'd been going through life, always just missing out on everything. Worked like a dog, too. But never seemed to get anywhere.

"It was a doctor who put me wise to myself. Told me not to blame it on luck. That the trouble was with me —right inside myself. He recommended Nujol. I took it for three months. Never missed a day. And, say, I began to feel like a younger brother myself. Decided there was life in the old dog yet. When my big chance came, I was all ready, waiting to grab it. And I did."

Nujol keeps your body functioning just as Nature meant it to, under all conditions. Contains no drugs or medicines. Just a pure substance that works normally and naturally. It not only keeps an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them) but aids in their removal. These poisons slow you up mentally and physically, dull your whole outlook on life, make you half-hearted.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 14.—While removing storm windowks from his home here Monday, Benjamin Magnusson, 67, was fatally injured. A window struck him on the shoulder, knocking the aged man down, and a jagged edge of a broken glass severed a main artery. He died in hospital.

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICES

KNOX PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

HAVELOCK, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—A very excellent program was carried out at the morning service at Knox Presbyterian Church, under the leadership of Rev. John Lennox for Mother's Day.

The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. McNichol, sang appropriate hymns, and Miss V. Rorke contributed a vocal solo.

Rev. John Lennon in his sermon, gave a very helpful talk to parents and children. He impressed upon the children to remember that the best friends they will ever have in this world are their parents and that they should never do anything to cause them unnecessary worry or anxiety. He said they should always take God into their confidence.

At St. John's Church

Mother's Day was observed at St. John's Church on Sunday when special music was provided by the choir, an anthem being sung with the duet part being taken very effectively by Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard and Mrs. (Dr.) D. Holdcroft

The Rector, Rev. P. C. Howard, based his sermon on Proverbs 31:14, "She is like the merchants' ships." He pointed out to his congregation that both the mothers and the merchant ships were products of a world other than that in which they operate. They are alike in that they depend upon a magnetic centre for their gudance. As the ship depends upon the north star, so motherhood depends upon the guidance of the Star of Bethlehem.

Attend Service

In the evening the local lodges of Oddfellows and Rebekahs attended service at St. John's Church, the edifice beng filled to capacity. Many brethren were present from outside points.

The Rev. P. C. Howard preached on the subject of "Immortality," pointing out to his hearers that as God is gradually revealing to His people the enormous power of the unseen forces around us, we are being faced with the thought, not of "How much we know," but "How much we do not know." "To tell those of a few generations ago of the coming possibility of trans-Atlantic travel either beneath the surface of the ocean or among the clouds above the ocean, would have been to tell them something less likely to have been accepted than the doctrine of immortality.

"Certan savage races visited for the first time by a white man were found already to have a belief in the survival of the soul, although in their unlightened state they believed that the soul of the human being at the death of the body, entered into some animal. Undoubtedly the conviction of immortality is a distinctly human characteristic."

CAVAN UNITED CHURCH.

CAVAN, May 15.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—On Sunday afternoon in Cavan United church, Mothers' Day service was held and the regular Mothers' Day program was used.

The superintendent, James Douglas, conducted the service, assisted by the assistant superintendent, F. M. Staples. Miss Doris Tinney gave a recitation, "The Givers of Life," and Miss Ruth Staples told the story of "The Quest." Mrs. A. B. Kennedy and Mrs. R. S. Staples sang a duet, appropriate to the day.

The Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe, of Peterborough, delivered a fine address, emphasizing the mission of the mother to teach her child the right conception of God, that He is a God of love, to be loved and trusted.

Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe delighted his hearers with a solo sung in pleasing manner, in harmony with his subject. The church was beautiful with blooming plants and bouquets of tulips and carnations.

At the conclusion of the service, as is the custom, bouquets were presented to the two oldest mothers of the congregation, Mrs. David Hunter and Mrs. Robert Sutton. Two members of the Primary class, Rex Carr and Jackie Newton, presented the flowers. Mrs. Hunter was present at the service, but Mrs. Sutton, being unable to attend, her daughter, Miss Sutton, received the flowers for her.

Evening Service.

In the evening in Cavan church, the pastor, the Rev. F. Carpenter, preached from the topic, "Mother." The scriptural lessons were found in Ruth, 3:9 and St. John 19:23.

Mr. Carpenter in fitting manner paid tribute to mothers, giving the attributes of a true mother to be intuition, courage, comfort, sacrifice, patience, forgiveness and faith. He pointed out that a mother's love is unchangeable toward her child, ever ready to give all, or make any sacrifice in its interests. She stands next to God in her dealings with her child. The choir added to the pleasure of the service by their music, and Miss Irene Carpenter sang "My Mother's Hand" as a solo.

At the conclusion of the regular service a baptismal service was held. The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Will White were baptized, receiving the names Russell William and Ronald Fontaine. Also the little son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Friseau were baptized. The little boy was given the name Raymond Robert, and the little girl Rosaline Amelia.

TRENT RIVER CHURCH.

TRENT RIVER, May 15.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Mothers' Day was appropriately observed at the United church on Sunday afternoon when the pastor, Rev. W. R. Archer, had charge of the service.

The reading, "The Spirit of Motherhood," was given in unison and the story, "The Quest" was given by Reta Thompson. Other numbers on the program included a poem, "The Givers of Life" by John Ruttan; trio, "When Mother Prayed" by John Ruttan, Wesley Redden and Rufus Redden; address, "Golden Glimpses of Motherhood" by Rev. W. R. Archer.

The pastor's text was taken from John 19:29, "Behold Thy Mother." The minister said that there is no comforter anywhere like the mother and advised the young girls never to get so far away from their mother that they cannot tell her everything. Mother has learned the way of comfort, her hair becomes gray because she has travelled a long way. In the valley of the shadow of death she brought us. Rev. Mr. Archer, said the white carnation signified purity, fragrance and beauty— purity belongs to mother. The day Lincoln was inaugurated to the Presidency of the United States, he said all he had he owed to his mother. The greatest painting ever produced is the "Madonna." Mother is the most beautiful woman in the world to her son. The essence of motherhood is serve and serving. Mother asks us to be true and good; her love never faileth.

The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion with potted plants around the altar rail and in the windows. The choir sang suitable hymns and Miss Bessie G. French supplied as organist for the services.

WESTWOOD UNITED CHURCH

WESTWOOD, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Bamfield, the African missionary who is home on a furlough, addressed the United church congregation, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society, on Sunday morning. Her vivid description of the country, customs and needs of this vast race, was mose interesting and help the rapt attention of the large congregation.

In recognition of Mother's Day, the choir, composed entirely of mothers, gave appropriate music. A quartette "Mother Knows," by Mesdames D. Brackenridge, P. Graham, D. Tucker and F. Mortlock, was much enjoyed.

Another interesting feature of the service was the distrbution of the prizes and diplomas won in the recent great temperance contest of the W.C.-T.U. throughout Canada. The Sunday school pupils, who took part in this contest are to be congratulated on their excellent work, in view of the fact that there were more than 12,000 contestants throughout the Dominion. Miss Annie Cameron, who won more than 190 marks out of a possible 200, was presented with a book; Miss Ruth Cameron, who was within the inner thousand, with a pin; while honor diplomas were won by Misses Jean Commiskey, Helen Cameron, Leta Slade, Virginia Lobb, and Martha Commiskey.

ROSLIN UNITED CHURCH.

ROSLIN, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mother's Day was observed in the United Church here on Sunday. Rev. W. Flatt took charge of the service.

J. C. Skelcher (lay reader), of Belleville Christ Church, took charge of services in St. Paul's Church here in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Smith.

WOOLER UNITED CHURCH.

WOOLER, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—The United Church was attractively decorated for the Mother's Day service, with the superintendent, C. F. Wessels, in charge.

Clifford Rogers sang a solo, "Mother's Love to Me," and Miss Muriel McColl gave a reading, "The Givers of Life."

The address at this service was ably given by the pastor, Rev. H. B. Neal.

AT WARSAW.

WARSAW, May 15. — (Examiner Correspondence). — Services were conducted in the Anglican Church on Sunday morning and at the Baptist Church. At the Presbyterian Sunday School, the Mother's Day program was carried out, led by the superintendent, Dr. Munro. One of the teachers read the story, "The Quest"; Helen William recited, "A Mother" and Della Tucker read "The Givers of Life." The special collection was taken up by Tom Hawthorne and Teddy Rose.

Dr. Munro gave the address on "Golden Glimpses of Motherhood." He dwelt on the pictures depicting motherhood in different forms. The greatest artists of the world have taken the theme and the homes of Roman Catholic folks have these pictures more than any other folk. They have them as an inspiration. Madonnas in different aspects are found everywhere. One great picture shows the Madonna with many children around her head, showing the mother to be the link between religion and God the Father. "Jesus drew a picture of God as a Father. He also told a story of a woman praying in the Vatican, and gave as her reason for praying to Mary, that she was a woman. Let any great sorrow come in the home it is the mother who suffers most. Parents will sacrifice everything for their children, and there is nothing a mother will not bear for her child." He pictured the flight to Egypt, hard enough for Joseph, infinitely harder for Mary. God is like that only better still.

To-day there are many things to take the attention from the mothers, but Dr. Munro strongly stressed that children should always do as their mothers advise; they will not advise wrongly. By so doing mothers will carry less burden. A man must be a better citizen because he appreciates his mother. The greatest things of the spiritual life go to make a good citizen.

NORWOOD UNITED CHURCH

NORWOOD, May 15.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mother's Day was very fittingly observed at the morning service of the United Church. The order of service prepared by the Ontario Religious Education Council was followed and was led by G. A. Brethen, the Sunday School superintendent. The pupils of the Sunday School filled the large choir loft and the mothers occupied the centre pews of the church. The story entitled "The Quest" was given by Miss Ruth Harper; the poem, "The Givers of Life" was recited by Maynard Bongard, and the address, "Golden Glimpses of Motherhood" was given by the pastor, Rev. R. F. Stillman. Musical selections during the service consisted of a solo by C. Gunstone; solo, Jack Duffield; chorus by Mr. Little's class of boys and a duet by Ariel Wildman and Helen Dickson.

OMEMEE UNITED CHURCH.

OMEMEE, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Sunday morning service in Trinity United Church was particularly appropriate for Mother's Day. Following the regular Sunday School service, the scholars and teachers gathered in the auditorium of the church, where the centre pews were reserved and the special Mother's Day program prepared by the Ontario Religious Education Council was observed. The superintendents, T. C. Ivory and H. Lamb, acted as leaders. The boys and girls participated in the responses and a story, "The Quest," was read by Howard Vaughan, and a poem, "The Givers of Life," by Madeleine Gray. Rev. Mr. Blanchard gave a very interesting and suitable address on "Golden Glimpses of Motherhood."

A profusion of beautiful flowers adorned the pulpit and communion table, some of which were placed there in memory of departed friends by their loved ones.

BETHESDA UNITED CHURCH.

CROOKSTON, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mother's Day service at Bethesda United Church was well attended on Sunday afternoon. The altar was suitably decorated with flowers, and the regular service was preceded by a baptismal service, in which three young children were received into the church through the ordinance of baptism. Among the special features of the service was a duet by two little girls, Jean Flett and Blanche Haines, who sang very sweetly, "Tell me the stories of Jesus." Later in the service another duet was fittingly sung by Misses Mona and Margaret McCauley, of Fuller.

Instead of the usual address, the pastor, Rev. Lovelace, arranged that ten short readings be given by members of the school on the subject, "The Spirit of Motherhood," and the service was brought to a conclusion by a few well-chosen remarks from the pastor.

HOUSE TO PROROGUE FIRST WEEK IN JUNE

Governor-General Will Take Up Residence at Quebec on June 12.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 15 (Canadian Press). — While there is no definite indication as to when the Parliamentary session will conclude, it is noted here that His Excellency the Governor-General plans to take up residence at Quebec, on June 12, for two months. As His Excellency will almost certainly prorogue Parliament it is suggested now that the work of the session will be concluded in time for the House to close before he leaves Ottawa.

The House of Commons has been making excellent progress with the estimates during the past few days of sitting, and should the pace be maintained, there seems no reason why the session should not conclude during the first part of June.

INSTITUTE MEETS.

Marmora Society Discusses Arrangements For Summer Meeting On June 4.

MARMORA, May 15. — (Examiner Correspondence).—Especially interesting was the monthly meeting of Marmora Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. C. A. Bleecker on Thursday evening. The roll call was responded to by the payment of annual dues. In the unavoidable absence of Mrs. W. F. Bowen, president, Mrs. M. S. Doupe, vice-president, took charge.

Arrangements were made for the summer speaker, Mrs. Myers, of Dundas, to come on June 4. The subject accepted out of several sent was, "Is Home Life and Influence Declining? If So, Why?"

Partial arrangements were made for the year's program, completion to take place at a special meeting later.

The election of officers next claimed attention, and resulted as follows: President, Mrs. M. S. Doupe; 1st vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Bleecker; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. U. Penner; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. R. Wells; directors, Mrs. E. C. Prentice, Mrs. R. Nayler and Mrs. F. Sweet; representatives to district annual meeting, Mrs. H. R. Haacke, Mrs. C. A. Bleecker and Mrs. D. E. Bell; auditors, Mrs. C. A. Bleecker and Mrs. D. L. Curtis; district director, Mrs. (Dr.) D. Thomson; pianist, Mrs. E. C. Prentice.

A dainty lunch concluded the evening's program.

Waits On Council.

A deputation from the Stirling Horticultural Society waited on the Council at their meeting recently and asked permission to plant a bed of perennials in the cemetery. They also asked that good soil be placed along the pond between St. Andrew's Church and Mr. Burkitt's in order that the place may be beautiful by the planting of shrubs. Ivy will be planted along the west side of the new community hall.

"Only A Pin"

Only a pin—yet it calmly lay
On the carpeted floor in the light of day,
And shone serene and clear and bright,
Reflecting back the noonday light.

Only a boy—but he saw that pin,
And his face assumed a fiendish grin;
And he slyly stooped with look intent,
Till both he and the pin alike were bent.

Only a chair—yet upon its seat
That well bent pin found safe retreat;
Nor could the keenest eye discern
That heavenward its point did turn.

Only a man—but he chanced to drop
Upon that chair, when—bang! whiz! pop!
Like the cork from a bottle of champagne,
He bounded up from that chair again.

Only a yell—but an honest one;
It lacked the remotest idea of fun,
And man and boy, and pin and chair
In close communion mingled there.

Only the pin—out of all the four,
Alone no traces of damage bore;
The man was mad and dreadfully sore—
And he lathered the boy behind and before—
The chair lay smashed upon the floor,
The seat was not hurt—but the boy was sore.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By BETSY CALLISTER

In the life of every housewife there are days when it seems as if everything went wrong. The coffee boils over before breakfast baby overturns her cup of milk, the line is busy when it comes time to telephone the grocer, the ice man is late. There are numerous little setbacks like that and then to cap the climax you discover, when daylight fades, that a fuse has been burned out and you have to grope to bed by candlelight. It is just one thing after another all day long.

Did you ever stop to think that there are other days when everything goes right? Breakfast passes without a hitch. Baby is as good as good can be, the new pudding that you make for dinner is received with decided approval, quite by accident you find tucked away in your desk some money you thought you had lost, you receive an inspiring letter from a friend. In the life of every housewife there are days like that—days that smooth away some of the wrinkles that come on other all-wrong days.

Wrinkles, of course, come from worry and fretting more than anything else, and worrying and fretting may quite easily come from wrinkles. If you start the day with your face puckered up in a hundred lines and furrows you are bound to fret and worry—short of real calamity—you are going to look serene, the chances are that things will go quite smoothly.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

Chronic Appendicitis

A news item a couple of years ago told of a couple of mining engineers who were going many miles into the interior, far from any doctor or hospital. In order to take no chances with appendicitis they went into the hospital in their home city and both of them had the appendix removed. As both men were in excellent condition they made rapid recovery and went on their prospecting trip.

This seems almost like being too cautious, but an acute appendix, a couple of hundred of miles from anywhere, would likely result fatally.

And yet you perhaps meet folks who tell you that they have chronic appendicitis, and can't make up their mind to undergo an operation. Now is an operation always necessary in chronic appendicitis, that is where the patient has pains from time to time in the region of the appendix?

Dr. Frank H. Lahey, Boston, tells us that, if a patient that never before has had pain in the lower right side of the abdomen—the appendix region—then has a definite attack of acute appendicitis from which he recovers, and then has pain from time to time in that region, it may be assumed that he possibly has chronic appendicitis and operation may be advised with a clear conscience.

Although the X ray evidence is of value in diagnosing chronic appendicitis, the pain and discomfort, and the tenderness over the appendix, are more important factors.

As you know, by the use of the fluorscope the appendix may be seen and the physician is able to apply pressure directly over the appendix. If this gives pain, the appendix is at fault.

The point then is that because you have occasional pains in the region of the appendix, it does not mean that an operation is necessary. If however, you've had a definite acute attack, and then have a pain in appendix region from time to time, and your doctor recommends an operation, you would be well to take his advice.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

I came across a poem the other day and it made me wonder if there were many such people in Peterborough. I wondered if there were many who hoarded their money while they are living in this world.

* * * * * *

Here is the poem, I do not know by whom it was written, but I do think we all should take heed of it:

* * * * * *

"Use your money while you're living;
Do not hoard it to be proud;
You can never take it with you—
There's no pocket in a shroud.

Gold can help you on no farther
Than the graveyard where you lie;
And though you're rich while living,
You're a pauper when you die.

Use it then, some lives to brighten,
As through life they weary plod.
Place your bank account in heaven,
And grow richer toward your God.

Use it wisely; use it freely;
Do not hoard it to be proud;
You can never take it with you—
There's no pocket in a shroud."

* * * * * *

I think many people do not seem to realize that we are not permitted to take what we earn on this earth, with us when we pass on.

* * * * * *

Some of us do without the necessities of life in order to save our money, and then, perhaps, something happens and it is no good to us. We might have spent it when it would have done some good.

* * * * * *

There are some people, too, who hoard their money for display purposes, but I certainly do not think there are such people in Peterborough.

* * * * * *

It is all right, of course, to take care of one's money; in fact, it is the only way one can get along in this world. It is well to spend one's money wisely.

* * * * * *

But should you have more money than you need to live comfortably, don't you think you would be doing right in giving some of it to people who are less fortunate than you are.

* * * * * *

You need not give them all you have—just a little donation and you will be more than rewarded in time to come. A little donation would brighten considerably the lives of those to whom it is given.

* * * * * *

People in Peterborough, you know, are very greatly indebted to the late Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls for the large donations she gave to institutions here.

* * * * * *

Had she hoarded her money, Peterborough would have had to spend much money to provide the institutions which Mrs. Nicholls gave. Many people in Peterborough enjoy a walk through some of the parks but I wonder if they realize to whom they are indebted for them.

* * * * * *

Wouldn't it be nice during Old Home Week in Peterborough, for each family to plan individual re-unions just for one day? You might choose one day in the Week when the program would fit in with your plans.

* * * * * *

There are to be boat excursions you know, and perhaps you could take in one of these. Or you might load all the family into the auto and speed out to the country where you could spend a pleasant afternoon.

* * * * * *

Most of us have heard the saying, "God gives us our relatives, but we must choose our friends." The family reunion is a festivity which should not be forgotten.

* * * * * *

If most of the members of the family are employed and unable to take the time off for the re-union, then plan to have it on a holiday and during Old Home Week, we have July 1, as a holiday.

* * * * * *

Should you be planning a reunion, do not plan an old fashioned one, but a modern one. Your family will be more comfortable if they spend the night in a hotel than sleeping on the floor in the old-fashioned way.

* * * * * *

Plan your menu a few days in advance, and if at all possible, prepare it a few days ahead of time. Of course you will have to choose dishes which may be prepared a couple of days ahead and which will not become stale.

* * * * * *

If there are a large number in the family, and they wish to help you out by bringing something for the dinner, do not hesitate in letting them do so. Perhaps one would help in the preparations by bringing a salad and another a cake and so on.

* * * * * *

By all means, though, see that the meal is well balanced. It would be well for you to see that there is an abundance of everything, but a meal where one will feel satisfied when he is finished and not "stuffed."

* * * * * *

Most housewives know that fowl is ideal for the meat course, but you may have delicious dressing and gravy and mashed potatoes with roast beef or pork.

* * * * * *

Do not forget, either, to serve salads where raw vegetables are used, such vegetables as cauliflower, turnips, etc., and to add attractiveness to the meal, pickles, sauces, fruits and jellies.

* * * * * *

To add to the festive appearance, decorate the tables with gay colors and to add to the jollity of the affair, provide little souvenir trinkets for the guests.

* * * * * *

Then after dinner, while the dishes are being washed, it would be a good idea for you to provide some entertainment for the guests. Some of the guests might be called upon to play the piano and perhaps some of the older members could contribute toward the impromptu program by relating some old-time experience.

* * * * * *

Then when everyone is ready, an auto ride into the country would appeal to some, or a boat trip up or down the river. But whatever entertainment is planned, plan it so that the time will not drag for any of the guests.

* * * * * *

It is said that family appreciation and thankfulness should be the keynote of the family reunion. The following poem was written by Phoebe Cary:

* * * * * *

"Draw near the board with plenty spread,
And if, in the accustomed place,
You see the father's reverent head,
Or mother's patient, loving face,
Whate'er your life may have of ill,

SHORT STORY

It was a fashionable bazaar at the beautiful country home of the Forbes family, who were keen about themselves and schemed to lure money from the unwary rich for philanthropic purposes. So all the world of society was there, among them Boyd Mercer, one of the richest young men in the country, and one of the best! Everybody liked him, and many scheming mothers thought of him as a desirable husband for young daughters, or, possibly, daughters not young! Boyd had met a thousand girls, and not one had raised more than a thrill of admiration in his stony heart. He was like the "cold prince" one reads about in fairy tales.

Boyd was here today at the Forbes-Forbes bazaar, and as usual he was wandering around, finding friends and a welcome at every turn. He bought flowers and distributed them to older women, he bought sweets and cigarettes which he also distributed. He took all sorts of chances and had phenomenal luck, and then, suddenly bored, he wandered off by himself, admiring the soft lighting of the different gay tents that had arisen like mushrooms all over the place.

In one tent he found the smell of fresh violets and was not surprised to discover a great crystal bowl filled with the purple flowers. Within this tent a pale green curtain separated the cyrstal gazer from her clients, who waited in the outer part of the tent, until they were summoned behind the curtain where the "seance" took place. Boyd stood there in the outer tent, gazing down at the bowl of violets, and hearing the sound of a gentle voice nearby. Suddenly he was aware that it must be the voice of the crystal gazer and he listened eagerly, shamelessly, for he was fascinated by the sweetness of the tone with its occasional lilt. Then the voice ceased and he heard a girl's soft laughter, and a merry goodbye, then utter silence. At last, a slim mulatto girl in swathings of Eastern draperies glided toward him and salaamed. Then as she straightened herself, she swept one arm in a graceful gesture inviting Boyd to enter behind the second green curtain.

Boyd found himself in the presence of a woman, a straight, slim figure, clad in a long medieval gown of jade green with the lower part of the face hidden in a swathing of white.

The woman lifted such wonderful eyes to Boyd Mercer that for the first time in his carefree bachelorhood, he felt a peculiar agitation in the region of his heart. "Hold it!" he told himself savagely, "the rest of her face is most likely hideous. Eyes are deceiving!"

"Eyes are the windows of the soul," came the lilting voice of the woman in green, as she sank into a straight, high-backed chair that was a fitting throne for her medieval figure. Her voice had followed so swiftly upon his mental conclusions, that it was just as if she had read his mind.

As she pulled toward her on the green-covered table a crystal ball, she looked up and caught his intense gaze with the snare of her unusual eyes. Then she dropped them swiftly and murmured, "Now, I will gaze into the heart of the future and read fortune's gifts for you."

"Well done" Boyd was thinking. "Very well done. I should like to know that girl."

"Deep in the well of silence lie the great secrets. Think not—concentrate on nothing—the future will be revealed," came the voice of the crystal gazer.

Boyd lost himself in thoughts of what she was doing, gazing deep, deep into the crystal's heart. He sat tensely trying to think about nothing—a difficult task for an amateur. Then came the voice again, strange, far-away, as if her mind was in the future and her voice was in sympathy with it. "You have wealth—all the wealth of the world could not make you richer if you were not the poorest man in the world! You have not the love of any woman who is not related to you—you have looked in countless eyes—and looked away. Always you will be alone, surrounded by friends who are fond of you. Your face is here in the crystal—but you are always alone. Fame you may have, for you are talented. Go forth and seek the love of a woman for no fortune teller can tell the fate of a man who—"

Noiselessly Boyd Mercer crossed the rug and stood on the other side of the table. He, too, leaned over the crystal gazer's great ball and their faces were reflected together in the dark surface.

"Who says that I cannot love, oh, gazer of crystals! Tell me who you are in real life, where you have been all your days that I have never met you before?"

At the sound of the tension in his subdued voice, the crystal gazer sighed deeply, then murmured lightly, "I have always lived in California. When my people took a trip around the world they left me with your cousin Mrs. Hilton, who was my godmother! I am Grace Allen. Your interview is over, sir. A silver dollar for sweet charity's sake!" And then the brown maid was bowing him out, perhaps with subdued laughter in her eyes.

Of course, Boyd Mercer sought and found his cousin, Myra Hilton, and heard about her friend the crystal gazer. And later, when Grace Allen came from her tent, laughing, radiantly lovely, she held Boyd's cold heart in the hollow of her little warm hands. And she never gave it back to him!

SUCCESS OF "HUSKY" PUTS BLAME FOR MUCH SICKNESS ON CATARRHAL IRRITATION

Discoverers of the Medicine Called "Husky" Have Created Much discussion Through Their Opinion That a Very Common Evil Is Responsible for So Much of Our Suffering From Sour Stomach, Headaches, Nervousness, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Etc.

MRS. L. G. MACAINSH.

"Very few people know what goes wrong with their system when they begin suffering from sour stomach, indigestion, bloating, gas, belching, bad breath, headaches, nervousness, no appetite, can't sleep, skin breaks out, joints get stiff, muscles flabby, feel tired out continually and lose weight," says the Husky Expert, who is now at Bond's Drug Store, this city, for the purpose of explaining the wonderful medicine, Husky, to the people of Peterborough.

"They probably realize that something unusual is wrong," the Husky Expert continued, "but don't consider it serious until, as time goes on, they exert themselves. Life becomes really a burden to them and they hardly know where to turn next for relief. That's the way you feel when catarrh or an over-supply of acidity gets in your system. The discoverers of Husky, knowing these facts, labored to find a remedy and their final and successful effort is the marvelous medicine, Husky, which is now amazing the entire Dominion.

"The unusual success of Husky, as shown by the many enthusiastic statements being made by people who have tested it, is proving more forceful than words can tell that you can depend on Husky for relief."

Mrs. L. G. MacAinsh, of 371 King Street West, Toronto, and a prominent resident of that city, writes:

"I had quite bad headaches every day, which made me unfit for my work, as I felt so bad all the time. Not only did my head hurt me severely every day, but I suffered terribly from stomach trouble. I had such cutting pains through my stomach after eating anything that I thought I couldn't stand it. I felt so bad that at times I would get real weak.

"I started taking Husky because some friends were taking it and they found it to be very good. Now, after taking several bottles of Husky, I think I am a real 'Husky' myself as I have gained so in strength. I've found Husky to be all that is claimed for it. My headaches have disappeared and my stomach never pains me like it used to do every time I ate anything. I can eat anything I want to now. Husky surely has helped me a lot and I certainly do recommend it."

Call at Bond's Drug Store.

Call on the Husky Expert at Bond's Drug Store to-morrow and let him explain to you how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine. "I want everyone in Peterborough to know that I am here for the sole purpose of giving free information about Husky, and that they incur no obligation by calling on me," says the Husky Expert. Call on him, your visit may lead you to relief from your suffering just as similar visits have led hundreds in Peterborough to new health and strength.

SUIT SPRING

This is to be a spring of suits. The little silk suit with pleated, gored or circular skirt and matching unlined cardigan coat will be the most popular, perhaps. But the silk suit of faille, or some other fine silk, that gets a feminine cut to its coat wins the race for chic.

CLOUD HOSIERY

The newest Paris hosiery is "cloud" shade. This is a light grey-brown tone, greyer than beige and yet light.

OLD-FASHIONED BOW

A navy taffeta flecked in tiny silver diamonds has a pin-tucked sleeveless blouse of off-white chiffon with a large bow of the blue taffeta attached at the point of the V neck reminiscent of the pre-war blouse bows of dark velvet.

NEW COMBINATION

An interesting black lace dinner goan combines long, tight sleeves with a very low back decolletage from which a bolero of lace swings.

MOTHER'S DAY.

MARMORA, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence). — The usual observance of Mothers Day was carried out at the United and Anglican Churches and Sunday Schools. The order of service at the morning session of the United Sunday School followed closely the program issued by the Ontario Religious Education Council.

At St. Paul's Sunday School, Rev. A. B. Caldwell made fitting allusion to the day. At the United Church in the evening a short, appropriate service was followed by the pageant, "Mothers of the Bible."

At the evensong in St. Paul's the rector chose "The Woman at the Cross" as his subject. Having stated that the women by the cross presented a scene of incomparable heroism for standing to the last by Him who died that we might live, the preacher showed that the significance of the picture increases when we ask the question, "Where were the followers of our Lord?" Continuing he said: "It seems that all that can be said and sung about the virtue and greatness of woman has been pressed into that sublime scene on Calvary—the women by the cross. They acted under adverse criticism. Up to the time of His arrest, the followers of Jesus formed a unit. Then diplomacy began to set in. One can imagine how they argued among themselves in regard to the best policy to be pursued. There was no agreement. Consequently we find the cautious and calculating men retiring to safe places and attitudes, while the heedless and audacious women followed the impulse to stay by Him, even in the hour of death. So we have here, in the sublimest hour of the world's history, the strange picture of women as the last persons by the cross and on Easter morning the first at the grave.

"Does man want to be initial of men? Not at all It is simply a matter of difference in their nature. History is full of instances when women ignored the judgment of men. Perpetua of Carthage and women prominent during the time of the Reformation were illustrations here cited. "There are women among us to-day who are just as heroic and stand by the cross of Christ. Heroic though these women are who stand by the cross, they are women who love home life. It is often argued that woman's place is the home, and that for this reason they should find no time to attend to public activities which a wholesome community life requires. But here by the cross, she, whom all generations called blessed, we find far away from Nazareth her home, here in Jerusalem. Shall a good homemaker find time to follow the Master, even to the cross? The question has been settled once for all by Jesus Himself. The value of the life to which women as home-loving folk have been called lies in the fact that it enables them to give themselves without distraction to the one thing needful." The story of the home at Bethany was here touched upon. "It is the home-making, motherly instinct in woman, linked with the divine, which in history is demonstrating as being one of the greatest powers for good in the world Divine self-sacricing love as exemplified in true womanhood and motherhood is not satisfied with merely coming up to that which is expected or what other people may do Such love plans sweet surprises and gives more than is legally expected. And so woman's nature counts it a real delight to make some undemanded gift to the object of her devotion. This element is needed in our social life, in the church as much as in the home, and in the whole wide world as much as in any particular country."

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

A PART OR THE GAME

There's a fellow on first, and on second, and third,
And then the loud crack of the willow is heard,
And the ball's in the bleachers! Now hark to the din—
You have hit a home run, and four runs have come in!
You must tip them your cap when you're crossing the plate,
They are shouting your name, they are calling you great.
That's the way of the world, that's the way people are;
Once they called you a bum, but to-day you're a star.

But there comes a new day, and there comes a new game,
And you hear the same shout, yet it isn't the same,
For you dropped a long fly, or you fumbled a throw,
Or you fanned in a pinch on a drop that was low.
They are shouting again, but the words that they shout
Are "Go back to bush!" "Get the hook!" "Take him out!"
That's the way of the world, nothing more, nothing less—
You're a hero to-day, and to-morrow a mess.

In the great game of life learn a lesson from this,
For to-day it's a shout and to-morrow a hiss,
And the world soon forgets all the good that you do
When a fellow striked out, or a ball trickles through.
Take the cheers with a smile, take the catcalls the same,
It's the way of the world, it's a part of the game—
Neither spoiled by applause nor by blame overcome,
For to-day you're a hero, to-morrow a bum.

They Keep Him in Best of Condition

"My husband had a very heavy job, far too heavy, in fact, but we found that by using Dodd's Kidney Pills regularly that he kept in fine condition," writes Mrs. F. Waters, 93 Winnett Street, Woodstock, Ont. "I could mention several cases that I know of, particularly one of a blacksmith, where Dodd's Kidney Pills saved him from an operation. We wouldn't be without a box in the house." Rest may give temporary relief, but Dodd's help remove the cause of the pain.

By Mary Marshall

This small bonnet-shaped hat of hair straw is worn tilted off the forehead at one side and over the ear at the other.

A correspondent in Paris writes saying that now, for the first time in many seasons, women are tilting their hats. The more formal sort of hat, to be sure, is not meant to be tilted. The milliner in making it gives it precisely the right droop or slant. To tilt it would be to spoil the effect of the design. But there are informal little berets and caps of the crushable sort, the smartness of which depends on the angle at which they are worn. And this, says my correspondent, is reminiscent of the days when the smartness of every hat depended on the angle at which it was worn.

There are so many brimless little hats at present that every woman is tempted to possess one or two of them at least. But these hats that cast no flattering half tones over the face and that often leave quite a patch of forehead exposed ought never to be worn by anyone whose complexion is not exceptionally good. For the woman who depends on a generous use of makeup hats with some sort of brim are certainly preferable.

Hats of dark or natural tone are usually much better for the woman whose skin tones are not perfect than hats of bright color. There are new wide-brimmed hats of natural-colored straw that many women will find more becoming than those of clear bright blue, yellow, green, orange or chartreuse.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY IN THE PET SHOP

(Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"What have I done now?" asked poor Uncle Wiggily as the Park Dog rushed up to him where the bunny gentleman sat on the edge of the goldfish pond.

"You have picked some Don't Flowers," barked the Dog.

"Don't Flowers?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily in surprise. He looked at the blossoms in his paw. "Why, these are buttercups and daisies and wild roses," said the rabbit. "Out in the country where I live, they call them Wild Flowers."

"They are Don't Flowers here!" chuckled the Dog. "Can't you read the signs?" and he pointed to one which said any one would be arrested who picked a leaf or flower.

"Even a leaf!" murmured Uncle Wiggily. "Well, a city is a queer place! Where I came from, Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, make beds of leaves and roll in them to beds of leaves and roll in the scratch their backs."

"Fancy that, now!" whined the Park Dog. "Well, leaves are scarce in the city, and if everbody picked all the leaves and blossoms they wanted in our Park, there would soon be nothing left. So they have to call these Don't Flowers."

"I suppose so," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "It is no wonder my cousin Let wrote to me that, though he'd like me to come and see him in his pet shop, perhaps I wouldn't like it in the city. I don't and I haven't been here long, either."

Uncle Wiggily had brought his lunch and set off on a picnic to the city to visit his cousin Let, which was a short name for Lettuce.

"Oh, we have some jolly good things here in the city," said the Park Dog. "Did you ever see so many autos?"

"No," answered Uncle Wiggily, "I never did. And, to tell you the truth, I don't care much for them. I had to dodge in and out on my way here to keep from being run over."

"Oh, you'll get used to that," chuckled the dog.

"Get used to being run over? Never!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"No, I mean you'll get used to dodging autos," went on the Park Dog. "But please keep off the grass and do not pluck a leaf or flower if you are going to stay around here. I'm sorry, but those are the rules."

"I'm not going to stay here!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I didn't know one had to be so careful in a City Park. But I suppose, as you say, if everybody picked flowers and leaves there would be none left. I'll go see my Cousin Let in the pet shop and then I'll go back home."

"I think, myself, that you are better off in the country," barked the Dog.

"I used to live in the country myself, and it was a jolly place. But now I'm so used to the noise and excitement of the city I am afraid I should find the country slow."

"Yes, it is slow, but it's safe," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, I'll hop along and see Let."

The Park Dog had pointed out the way to the city pet shop and though once or twice Uncle Wiggily was nearly caught by boys and girls who chased him, at last he came to the store where, so his cousin had written him, he had a cozy little house.

It happened that the man who kept the pet shop had left the front door open, and as there were few persons on the street just then, Uncle Wiggily managed to hop in without being seen.

And as soon as he got in he had to hold his paws over his ears, to keep out the noise. For dogs were barking, cats were mewing, monkeys and squirrels were chattering, parrots were shrieking and a bird with a big bill was clashing it so it sounded like a pair of shears cutting tin.

"My, what a jolly lot of animal folk!" cried Uncle Wiggily. He knew what they were, but he knew none of them by name as he knew the animals in his Woodland home near his bungalow. "I wonder where Let is?" he murmured. Then he saw at the end of the pet shop some boxes with wire on the front and in these cages were rabbits. Uncle Wiggily saw his cousin and called:

"Hello, Let!"

"Oh, it's Wig!" cried the pet shop rabbit, peering out through holes in the wire. "I'm so glad you got here! Come on in!"

"Can't you come out?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, no," answered Cousin Lettuce. "I'm shut up in here until I am sold to some boy or girl who wants a pet rabbit. And, now that I think of it, you can't get in here until the man opens the cage door. Dear me! What are we going to do! I'd like to have a long talk with you, but it would be more cozy if you were in here with me and the other rabbits."

Uncle Wiggily didn't know what to do. He didn't like going in the cage, even with his cousin. But, all of a cudden, the pet shop man came in, caught Uncle Wiggily by his ears, opened the cage door and thrust him inside with Cousin Lettuce. The old bunny was caught!

CHOIR IS ASKED TO SING SUNDAY

LEAVE MAY 23

The Associated Glee Clubs of America mass chorus concert and prize competition is being held this year in Madison Square Garden, New York

The date of this magnificent concert gathering has been set as May 2 4 and 25—just nine days hence, and the splendid choir of massive proportions (over 4,000 voices are expected to be on the platform) will be drawn from almost every state of the Union—and not the least important of the seventy-six choirs will be that of the four Canadian aggregations of male voices: Toronto Harmony, Ottawa Temple, Hamilton Harmonic and —Peterborough Male Voice Choir. These four are in the Federation.

Choir Well Represented.

Peterborough's representatives will number 45, it is expected, under the leadership of Martin B. Chenhall, A. R.C.O., organist of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

The choir will leave Peterborough on the afternoon of May 23, reaching New York on the morning of May 24 (Victoria Day.) A rehearsal will be held at 1.30, with the mass choir under two conductors, for the purpose of having an acquaintance with what will be demanded from the choristers.

At 8.30 in the evening (New York time) the concert will take place in Madison Square Garden, which seats 18,000 people.

The Program.

The following are the numbers to be rendered, in order, in the revised program:

Creation's Hymn, (Beethoven.)
Shenandoah (Bartholomew).
Reaper's Song, (Davison.)
Soloist.
On the Road to Mandalay, (Speaks)
On Wings of Song, (Mendelssohn - LeFebvre.)
Calm as the Night, (Bohn-And - rews.)
Land of Hope and Glory, (Elgar.)
Intermission, Dr. Parkes Cadman.
Laudamus, (Protheroe.)
Music When Soft Voices Die, (Dickenson.)
Sweet Canaan, (Reddick.)
Morning, (Speaks-Badwin.)
Soloist.
Drums, (Meals-Salter.)
Lullaby, (Brahms-Zander.)
Prayer of Thanksgiving, (Kremser.)

The Test Piece.

On Saturday morning the competition for choirs will be held. The "a" number is "Twilight" (Mair) and "b" number "A Lullaby of Love," (Fletcher.) There are eighteen choirs competing in "b" section (Peterborough Male Voice Choir is among this list), and nine in the former class. The local choir is due to sing their piece at 1.30 and the time schedule will be strictly adhered to by the entrants.

In the event or a tie, each choir is requested to be prepared to sing (a capella) a selection of its own choice. As the piece chosen by Mr. Chenhall, "New Life, New Love," (T. Tertius Noble) will be prepared for his organization.

Invited to sing on Sunday.

Further honor, and to which every member of the choir is looking forward with keen enthusiasm, has been bestowed on conductor and chorus. Last week Mr. Chenhall received two invitations to sing in churches—one in Newark, New Jersey (Old First Church, Presbyterian), Broad street, near market, of which Rev. William Hiram Foulkes, D.D., is pastor ,and the other Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth street, New York. On May 26, Memorial Day, will be observed in the United States, and notwithstanding this important event of their calendar, these churches have kindly invited the choir to take part in the morning service at eleven o'clock.

Will Probably Broadcast.

The first-named church (which was organized in 1666, present building dedicated in 1791) broadcasts through Station WAAM, and though not mentioned in their letter, Fifth Avenue Church will doubtless broadcast the service. This fact is also pleasing to the members, knowing that their selections will be heard by listeners in at home.

Transportation would be provided by the Newark church, from New York, but nothing definite having been decided it is thought possible, owing to the limited time, the choir will accept the invitation of the ..ew York church.

At the rehearsal last night, it was decided to accept the invitation of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. The letters received by Mr. Chenhall from the pastors of both churches were couched in the most kindly of terms, expressing a hearty welcome to the choir on its visit.

This is a wonderful opportunity for the Peterborough Male Voice Choir to be heard on the air, and to become a bigger body of men on account of participation in these three fine educational and musical events.

Pundé of Montreal

Beauty Advisor to Fashionable Women

agrees with MASSÉ of Paris on this 2-minute complexion treatment

"I attribute a great part of my success to my insistence that foundation cleansing become a daily habit. Twice-a-day, I say to my customers, do not fail to cleanse your face thoroughly with Palmolive Soap."

Emile Massé, head of the establishment bearing his name, on the Rue Daunou, Paris. His word on care of the skin is authoritative.

The charm of the fine old inlaid floor, the grandeur of typical Parisian decoration characterize the Massé salon at 16 Rue Daunou. Fittings are essentially feminine, designed to appeal to the discriminating clientele of M. Massé.

"Efficient but gentle cleansing of the skin at home is an absolute requirement of success in our work. That means the consistent, thorough use of Palmolive Soap which combines deep cleansing with the well-known cosmetic effects of palm and olive oils."

E. Massé

16 Rue Daunou, Paris

AT 16 Rue Daunou, Paris, many of the world's most distinguished women are accustomed to consult E. Massé on problems of skin care. Massé gives much time and thought to home beauty methods, as well as to the treatments given in his artistic salon de beauté.

"Efficient but gentle cleansing of the skin at home is an absolute requirement of success in our work," says Massé. "Clients who follow our advice never use any soap except Palmolive, and they are the ones whose skin shows the greatest improvement as a result of the treatments we give in the salon."

Other authorities agree

All the leading figures in the Parisian world of beauty culture agree with M. Massé. Lina Cavalieri, Vincent, Mme. Valentin le Brun—these are just a few of the many French authorities who recommend this same treatment. In Berlin, Vienna, London —everywhere—one gets this same advice.

What palm and olive oils do

The need for thorough, but gentle, cleansing of the skin is universally recognized. Oil secretions, dust, dirt, make-up, clog the pores. Unless they are removed daily, they will harden into blackheads and pimples or cause sallowness and a dull, lifeless skin.

Palmolive Soap, as Massé says, "combines deep cleansing with the well-known cosmetic effect of palm and olive oils."

This treatment, twice a day, is the advice of beauty experts in Canada and all over the world, to retain skin loveliness: first, a rich lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water, to be rubbed, with both hands, well into the skin. Two minutes of soap massage; a rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. A final cold water rinse as astringent.

In this 2-minute treatment millions of women find a solution to their problems of skin care. Palmolive is now the leading complexion soap not only in Canada but also in 48 other countries.

The social leaders of Montreal, because of the constant round of important social affairs, must have dependable advice on matters of beauty. They consult M. Pundé frequently.

M. Pundé, whose attractive shop is shown above, says: "My exclusive beauty methods have won a reputation that is outstanding in this city. The smartest women are exclusive patrons of my beauty salon.

"I attribute a great part of my success to my insistence that foundation cleansing become a daily habit. Twice-a-day, I say to my customers, do not fail to thoroughly cleanse your face with Palmolive Soap. If they do this I know that all foreign matter, dust, powder and rouge is completely removed from the face."

M. Pundé has travelled as personal beautician to such theatrical celebrities as Jane Harding, Ellen Terry, Sarah Bernhardt, and May Robson. His word on matters of beauty is authoritative.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TENNIS CLUB

Campbellford Club Will Be Officially Opened On May 24.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 15.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence). — In spite of bad weather there was a good attendance of tennis players at the annual meeting of the local Tennis Club held in the council chamber at eight o'clock last night. Clifford Weston, last year's vice president, occupied the chair, in the absence of J. H. Bell who has removed from town. The chief items of business were the election of officers for the year, appointing of committees and so forth. The club's finances are reported in healthy condition, which is viewed with pleasure by the members when they recall the fact that last year they erected a club house at a cost of several hundred dollars. It was expected last year that one more court would be added to the three already in use, but finances this season would not permit such a large outlay in the beginning. There is still some hope that the much needed court will be built before the present playing season closes. Although play has already started for the year, the club will be officially opened by a local tournament, May 24. The play will begin at nine-thirty in the morning. Full membership fees this year will be seven dollars. The restricted fee will be five dollars. This limits these member to the use of the courts only until four o'clock in the afternoon. On legal holidays there will be no restriction.

NEWS AROUND THE CIRCUIT

Clippings From C.O.B.L.

Just twelve more days until the Central League baseball lid is pried off at the Belleville Exhibition Grounds.

And also just twelve more days for the Nationals to get the kinks out of whatever they use to throw the ball around with, and to get their optics trained on a Spalding which does queer things after the opposition pitcher heaves it in the general direction of plate.

Deloro Smelters are the Nationals' opposition here on the 24th. Practically all of last year's team with a couple from Kingston throw nine will strut their stuff before the admiring (?) Belleville fans on that date. Harold Buck and Bob Elliott, both from the Penitentiary Town, have removed their habitat to R. A. Elliott's metropolis.

Peterborough apparently is not to be caught napping this year as far as training is concerned. They have been working out nightly at the Y.M.C.A. in bad weather and outside in good. This is simply a long way of saying they have been working out at the Y.M.C.A. all the time.

'Cause it sure is rotten baseball weather.

Oshawa General Motors' team have also been out a few times, but try to find out anything about their team.

You have about as much chance to get information there as you have to chisel one pound four ounces and six pence out of a Kiltie.—Belleville Intelligencer.

SMITH ROAD RATE SET AT FOUR MILLS

Regular Monthly Meeting of Township Council Held at Court House.

The municipal council of Smith met on the call of Reeve H. D. Coons on Saturday, May 11, at 1.30 p.m. All the members being present.

Messrs. A. G. Turnbull and R. P. Banbridge were present in the capacity of salesmen for Adams' graders and Cleveland tractors. General information and prices were given.

It was moved by Councillor Milburn and seconded by Deputy-reeve Fitzgerald, that a cheque be drawn in Mr. Edmison's favor to cover his stated loss.

A resolution was passed recommending that the township road rate for 1929 be four mills.

Reeve Coons, Councillor Mullen and Road Superintendent, T. H. Graham were appointed a committee to investigate the best kind and cost of a culvert or bridge to be placed on the middle line near the river road.

Council adjourned to meet on May 31st at 10 a.m. or sooner on the call of the Reeve.

TORONTO CLUB IN THIRD PLACE

Double-header To Be Played To-day As Result of Idleness Yesterday.

MEET JERSEY CITY.

TORONTO, May 15—Although the rain kept the Maple Leafs and the Jersey City Black Cats indoors yesterday, the Leafs profited to some extent. Baltimore's defeat of Montreal moved the men of Steve O'Neill into third place. The Leafs hope to get into action today and get a firmer grasp on the position. They will meet the Black Cats in a double-header this afternoon, the first game starting at 2 o'clock.

Manager O'Neill has selected Clarence Fisher and "Hoot" Gibson to carry the pitching responsibilities today. It will be Fisher's first chance to start a game, and his recent appearances in a relief role have given every indication that he is due to go the route and turn in a real effective performance. Last week he pitched a number of innings against Newark after Jess Doyle had been routed in the first frame and Clarence made a fine impression on that occasion. He was due to start in one of the games billed for last Saturday against Reading, but rain interfered. Fisher is confident of having a good season and his work to date has shown that he is in excellent condition and ready to do his part to keep the Leafs in the pennant scramble.

Cobourg Club In Lake Shore Group

COBOURG, May 15. — Cobourg Baseball Club has decided to affiliate with the Lake Shore Intermediate Baseball League, and expects to have a good team to enter. Local fans are talking baseball enthusiastically, and there are a number of good players ready to get into the game. Entries with the Lake Shore League closed yesterday. It is expected that it will be composed of four teams — Port Hope, Cobourg, Oshawa and Peterborough.

Port Hope Organizes For Junior Lacrosse

PORT HOPE, May 15. — Junior lacrosse got away to a good start last night and the enthusiasm of the younger element which has been apparent during the past few weeks, was crystalized into concrete action, when four teams were organized under a capable directorate. Plans were made for arranging the season's play and soon the youngsters will be sent away on what the promoters believe will be the beginning of the biggest lacrosse boom in this district in its history. Lacrosse sticks have been supplied by the O.A.C., and the O.A.L.A., and the members of each of the four teams will undertake to supply their uniforms by asking their friends to contribute such amounts as they see fit to aid the youngsters.

In addition to familiarizing themselves with the game, the youngsters will be in line for handsome prizes for the season's competition for the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association has donated a gold cup for the winning team, and the Ontario Athletic Commission has given a set of medals (also of gold) which will be the personal property of the members of the winning team. Fred C. Waghorne who made several visits to town and who interested the promoters in rehabilitating the game here, was present at the meeting and expressed satisfaction with the fine progress made.

Intended Murder

Touching on the scenes during the egg throwing in the riot, he told the audience he was convinced the instigators of the riot "intended murder," and he repeated former charges that Des Moines policemen failed to arrive on time to quell the row.

In speaking further on the report that students and faculty revolted under what they considered "Canadian domination," Dr. Shields, a Canadian, said his own church in Toronto had contributed $18,000 to help pay expenses of the University and $10,000 more to help pay teachers' salaries.

"If that is Canadian domination, I wish some one would dominate me that way," he declared.

Oliver W. Vanosdel, of Grand Rapids, and Harold G. Hamilton, trustees of the school, spoke before Dr. Shields arrived in praise of Fundamentalists as opposed to Modernists.

Hamilton, quoting from President Hoover's speech before members of the Association Press, declared the President, in laying the cause of the bulk of crime in the country to bootlegging and kindred disorders, "didn't lay his finger on one of the mysterious causes. Nationalist universities are the real fountains of lawlessness," he declared, "where God is defied, the Bible disguised and man defied."

Braves And Cardinals In Tie For Leadership

BOSTON, Mass., May 15. (C.P.)— Doubles by Berney James, a Rookie infielder, and Al. Spohrer, with one out in the 12th, gave the Braves a 6 to 5 victory over the Cubs here yesterday and dropped the Chicago visitors into a tie with the Cardinals. It was Pat Malone's first defeat after five victories.

ORIOLES WIN SECOND GAME

Birds Drive Hargrove From Royal Mound in Third Inning.

WINNERS BY 5-1 COUNT.

MONTREAL, Que., May 15. (C.P.) —Baltimore reversed the opening day proceedings on the Royals here yesterday afternoon, taking the second game of the series 5 to 1.

Andrew Chambers was tapped for ten hits but had his knuckle ball working with deadly accuracy in the pinches and the Royals just escaped a shut out.

The Birds drove Asa William Hargrove from the mound in the third with a four run barrage and picked up another tally in the sixth at the expense of Roy Buckalew, who relieved.

FINAL WORKOUT FOR RUNNERS

Members of C. G. E. Club Will Take Part in Millbrook Race.

ENTERING TORONTO MEET.

Next Saturday several members of the track and field branch of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club will motor to Millbrook accompanied by Willoughby, an unattached runner to stage a three mile run. This race will be the last strenuous workout for the C.G.E. boys before May 24th, when they intend to enter at least three runners in the three mile race to be held at Toronto.

This workout will also provide Jim Larmer the Millbrook boy who has been training for the Toronto race with a little bit of competition. Larmer is arranging all the details with regards to the Saturday jaunt and is keen to match his speed against the local boys.

The C.G.E. runners usually have a cross country run each Saturday and lately have been going on a hike on Sunday mornings. This style of training is appealing to the fellows and should put them in first class condition in a short time.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE WILL BE COMPOSED OF FOUR TEAMS; SCHEDULE OPENS ON MAY 24TH

Entries Received and Loop Officers Elected At Annual Meeting.

SECOND TEAM IN E.P.L.

Club To Arrange Schedule So That It Will Not Conflict With C.O.B.L. Games.

A Peterborough team will play in the Lakeshore Intermediate League this season. The Raybestos Baseball Club, formerly of the East Peterborough League, made formal entry and were accepted into the league at a meeting held in the Agricultural Building at Port Hope yesterday afternoon.

Representatives were present from Port Hope, Cobourg, Oshawa, as well as the Raybestos delegation of Wilfred Rogers and Art Primeau. It was hoped that Bowmanville would also enter, but no one attended the meeting as a representative of that club, and the chances are slim that they will be in.

A strong slate of officers were elected, consisting of: President, Jerry Gummow, of Cobourg; vice-president, William Kay, of Peterborough; secretary-treasurer, T. Perkins of Port Hope. The executive will be rounded out by a representative from each club.

The Lakeshore League has been in operation for several years and is a flourishing organization. Hopes ran high at the meeting that this would be one of the most successful years in its history and the Peterborough team was welcomed as an indication of its increasing scope.

May Enter Second Team.

The Raybestos Club will not play in the East Peterborough League this year, The Examiner was informed this morning by Bill Kay, manager. However, if necessary to maintain the local league intact, the Rays will enter their second team in the East Peterborough League.

The opening date for the Lakeshore League was set for May 24, Cobourg playing Port Hope, and the Oshawa team likely coming here for the curtain raiser on that day.

Another meeting of the league will be held in Port Hope on Tuesday, when final arrangements will be completed and the schedule drawn up.

The Raybestos Club will play all their home games on James Stevenson Park, arranging their schedule so that it will not conflict with the Central League games. It is likely that many of the games will be twilight fixtures played on Wednesday afternoons, giving the citizens an opportunity to see classy baseball.

Major McCalmont's Mr. Jinks was second, and Lord Rosebery's Midlothian third. Seven ran.

JUSTICE GREENSHIELDS SWORN IN AS CHIEF JUSTICE OF QUEBEC BAR

In Inaugural Address His Lordship Urges Responsibility of Permanent Judges.

IMPOSES HIGH STANDARDS

Permanency Gives Judges Immunity From the Popular Clamor, He Says.

Montreal, Que., May 15 (By the Canadian Press)—"We hold our office during good behaviour; its tenure is not dependent upon the ever-changing and oftime unreasoning public opinion. This gives to the members of the Bench complete immunity from the assaults of popular clamor. At the same time, and by way of compensation it burdens us with the obligation of so conducting ourselves as to command the confidence and complete respect of public opinion."

In these words Mr. Justice R. A. E. Greenshield addressed his fellow judges and the lawyers "who are the judges of tomorrow", upon the occasion of his taking the oath of office, as acting chief justice of the Superior Court of Montreal, recently, in the presence of Chief Justice Anglin of the Supreme Court of Canada. Mr. Justice Greenshields succeeded the late Chief Justice Martin.

Mr. Justice Greenshields rejoiced that the judges received their appointment at the hands of His Gracious Majesty the King. The thought of the continuity of office "is, and should be, an inspiration to make of us fair and fearless judges, whose judgments, as day by day given, will make known and render certain, to all and sundry, that none is so lofty as to be above the law, and none so lowly as to be beyond its protection," the acting chief justice continued.

Possesses Great Power

"I have on other occasions pointed out, with pride, that each and every judge of this court is given the power to order and control all things, animate and inanimate, all things corporeal and intangible, on earth, in sky and sea. Even the sanctity of the cemetery does not escape that controlling power, and where justice demands, an exhuming order will run to resurrect the body, if not the spirit, of the buried dead.

'A judge of this court, by a stroke of his pen, or even of the more handy pencil, on any day of the week, and on any hour of the day, at any place, bedecked with his robe of office on his bench, in the seclusion of his court chambers, on his golf course, or even basking in the sun in an abbreviated bathing costume on the sandy slopes of his favorite lake or stream, in church or at market, in theatre or in club—wherever he may be, he may issue the age-old habeas corpus, the recognition of which was at Runnymede wrung by the bold barons from the obstinate, but terrified king. That writ flings wide open all doors, be they those of castle or hut, the gaol or school or convent, in order that there may go free therefrom, any and all who have been by the oppressor illegally deprived of the God-given liberty."

His Lordship touched in the same manner upon prerogative writ of prohibition, mandamus and injunction, and continued, "it is needless to say that the possession of these great and extraordinary powers burdens the possessor with the great responsibility to exercise them not hastily, imprudently or improvidently, but justly, impartially and with full consciousness of and respect to the rights of the mightiest and the lowliest in the land.

"We are privileged to hold these powers; we are weighted with the responsibility of the daily exercise of the same; for all of which we are jealously proud."

His lordship concluded by asking for strength from "The great dispenser of benign infinite justice, of which man's finite justice is but a dim reflection," to aid him in his duties.

STUDENTS PREPARING FOR ATHLETIC MEET.

The athletes of the Public Schools have been working out in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium under the direction of Doug. Loomis, physical director of the "Y", during the past month in preparation for the big school boy athletic meet to be held in Exhibition Park on Saturday, May 25. While the P.C.I. boys have been improving their skill on the track of the park every afternoon during the past month, when the weather has been suitable. In fact every effort is being made to encourage the Peterborough students to enter the meet and prepare them to uphold this city's honor against the many outside schools that are expected here for the competition.

It is likely that the wet weather will have a damaging effect on the numbers participating and also on the class of the competitors. Any consistent practising that might have been planned has been impossible because of the weather. However, depite this it is fully expected that the meet will do something to re-establish school boy track and field events in this district. Central Ontario is far behind many other districts of the province in this regard, the inspiration of the accomplishments of Canadian athletes at the last Olympic Games having awakened the school boys to greater endeavour in many sections.

SIX ENTRIES FOR SOFTBALL LOOP

Although no word on the softball program for the season has been announced since meeting some weeks ago it is said that those interested in the game have been working quietly. In fact it is understood that six sure entries have already been lined up and several of them have their rosters complete. There is every possibility that the league will comprise eight teams. The following six teams are practically assured:—Harrison's, Bridgenorth Wildcats, Teco Store, Western Clock, Knights of Columbus, and C.G.E. DeLaval and Lockworks, who fielded strong teams last year, will be back again this year it is hoped.

A meeting will likely be called for the end of the week to make final arrangements for the season and receive entries.

GOOD MATERIAL FOR LACROSSE TEAM

Johnny Sutherland, one of the most enthusiastic lacrosse men in the district, was in the city this week. Johnny is now established in Campbellford and he is doing all he can to aid the big revival of lacrosse that seems to be taking place there. He said that he and a bunch of the boys were sure coming to Peterborough for Old Home Week and they were all keyed up about the promised game among the Old Boys.

Johnny and Shocky Mein made a determined effort some years ago to bring back lacrosse here and they succeeded in fielding a smart junior team for several successive years. He would like to see some action taken here to revive the game, being confident that there is material.

VETERAN PLAYER LEAVING BASEBALL WORLD

Eddie Vollins feels that he is slipping out of the baseball picture. "I am passing, and I'll be out soon," said Collins recently. Few players ever knew when they reached the end of the trail.

He was asked to name the best team he ever saw. His answer: "The 1919 Chicago Americans was the best offensive team I ever played with. They had the ability to make runs and they had the ability to come from behind and win out."

"The best-balanced team I ever played with, the best all-round team, was the Philadelphia Athletics' outfit of 1913 and 1914. McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker formed the infield of that team, and we had a great pitching staff. Bender, Plank and Combs were working in regular turn, Joe Bush was just developing.

OLD TIMERS IN INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Although the International League is no Old Men's Rest Home there is more than a fair sprinkling of seasoned old players on the rosters of its clubs. Someone has figured out the average years of a Major leaguer under the big top number ten. A glance at the International will show where they go then.

Nineteen players who have been tossing balls for more than seventeen summers are now in the International. Four catchers, five infielders, and five outfielders complete the list. The pitchers who are veterans of long standing are:—Leverenz, Jim Ragby, Jess Barnes, Fritz Coumbe, Al Mamaux and Rollie Naylor. Leverenz is putting in his twenty-second season and as soon as the weather warms up he will be doing turrent duty for the Leafs.

Steve O'Neill, the Leafs' pilot and Harry Lake of Reading are the oldest catchers in point of service. O'Neill graduated from Villinova college in 1909, and he played his first pro league game with Elmira in 1910. Ed. Onslow has played 19 years, Fritz Maisel 20 summers, Everet Scott 21 years. So the story goes; the old timers are still holding their own against the coming stars.

MISS GLENNA COLLETT BEATS BERYL BROWN

United States' Player Eliminates Opponent in Third Round of Play.

JOYCE WETHERED WINS.

Defeat of Miss Jean McCulloch One of the Surprises of the Match.

ST. ANDREWS, May 15.—(A.P.)—Glenna Collett, United States' champion, continued her march to the finals of the British Women's Golf Championship to-day, defeating Beryl Brown, of Formby, four and two, in a third round match.

Miss Joyice Wethered, leading English contender, defeated Miss C. Shewan five and three.

Miss Wethered did not play in her usual form. She was out in 42, a much higher total than she has been compiling, but came home in even fours for the six holes it was necessary for her to play.

She was troubled most by the storm at the seventh. Here she was on the green, 27 yards from the cup in two, yet needed four more shots to hole out.

Enid Wilson, young English champion, easily disposed of Miss G. E. C. Rudgard, 7 and 6.

Doris Park, daughter of "Young" Willie Park, one-time famous Scottish pro, sprung a surprise by defeating Miss D. R. Fowler, former English champion, one up at the 19th.

Another upset was the defeat of Miss Jean McCulloch, present Scottish champion, by Mrs. J. B. Watson, a veteran Edinburgh player, and three times Scottish titleholder.

MEETS GLENNA COLLETT.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 15.—(A.P.)—Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, of Toronto, Ont., single Canadian contestant for the British Women's Golf Championship, to-day achieved a decisive victory over Mrs. J. B. Walker, of Great Britain, turning in a card of seven up and six to play.

Mrs. Mulqueen will play the United States' champion, Miss Glenna Collett, in the fourth round this afternoon.

Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen Defeated

ST. ANDREW'S, Scotland, May 15 (C.P.).—Canada's single entry in the tournament for British women's golf championship honors, Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, after surviving three rounds, went down to defeat this afternoon before the masterly strokes of Miss Glenna Collett, the United States champion, by a score of seven up and six to play.

The Toronto woman was in good form this morning in her victorious match with a prominent British player, Mrs. J. B. Walker, and she was expected to give the American champion a tussle, but the strain and the big gallery which watched the contest put her off her game considerably. Miss Collett will enter the fifth round to-morrow morning and is expected to clash with the British hope, Miss Joyce Wethered, in the final on Friday.

Bigger and Better than
'McFadden's Flats'

Theatre this week is one of the most interesting portions of the program. There are nineteen youths from the gymnasium classes of the 'Y' and they do some expert work.

A group of seven boys, with a very small lad included in the outfit, do mat work and tumbling, displaying the utmost agility in their quick somersaults and flips, and twelve boys of larger size give an exhibition of pyramid building that is clever and very entertaining. They build up fancy figures that are intricate and difficult displaying, like the younger boys, a great deal of real skill and expert training.

The boys in the smaller group are Newt Hamilton, Sam Freeman, Carlos Routley, Ken Weldon, Bill McPherson, Vincent McLean and George McLean.

The larger group comprises Trevor Miller, Bob Allen, Gordon Dobbin, 'Hap' Grose, Jack Wolstenholm, Arnold Reynolds, Grant Palmer, Malcolm Latimer, Wilbert Ward, Newt Hamilton, Sam Freeman and Carlos Routley.

There is a snappy vaudeville team, Keefer and Alberts, in a skit entitled "Golfing," with a lady in a fiery red costume and a deep bass voice, and a small gentleman in sporting togs. They develop a rapid-fire outburst of persiflage that brings much broad laughter from the audience and get a great "hand" from the gallery.

The comedy is a hilarious affair with a Beau Brummel youth who tires of his father's office and leans toward the modiste shop in the same building, and a harassed painter who suffers from a mental brainstorm.—Jeanette.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"Alias Jimmy Valentine," William Haines' Great Crook Story, and That Funny Vaudeville team, Keeffer and Alberts in "The Butcher Boy," at the Capitol the Last Half of This Week, Commencing To-Morrow.

That funny vaudeville team, Keeffer and Alberts, will be seen at the Capitol, the last three days of this week, in a very funny farce entitled "The Butcher Boy."

"Alias Jimmy Valentine"

For the past fifteen years, "Alias Jimmy Valentine" has been perhaps the most sensationally and perennially successful play on the stage.

For over a generation, young and old alike have thrilled, laughed and cried over the story of the dashing young crook who outwits the police forces of half a dozen cities, only to give himself away at last by cracking the safe in which is imprisoned the sister of the girl he loves.

Now Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has taken the story and made it as modern as the costumes of the year after next. The picture with William Haines as the star, opens at the Capitol to-morrow.

Haines, who gained his first reputation as the premier wise-cracker of the screen, brings to "Alias Jimmy Valentine" a sense of comedy that has been mellowed and softened by experience. To assist him in his laughs, Karl Dane and Tully Marshall, two of the most experienced laugh-getters of the screen, contribute what is perhaps the best performance of their career. The three of them bring a new idea to the screen, that of a new comedy trio instead of a comedy team. Their work together is a sensation.

As leading lady, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer selected Leila Hyams, who was chosen by Henry Clive, the noted artist and illustrator, as the most beautiful blonde in Hollywood. Clive interviewed more than 5,000 blondes before making his decision. Miss Hyams brings to "Alias Jimmy Valentine" more than a year's experience with motion pictures as well as a verve and personality that is vivid and refreshing.

THIRTY-SIX CANDIDATES CONFIRMED

Rev. J. R. Lucas, a Former Bishop of Mackenzie River, Conducts Ceremony.

AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Despite Weather Large Congregation is Present at Beautiful Service.

The sacred and inspiring service of confirming thirty-six candidates into the Anglican Church was conducted by the Right Reverend J. R. Lucas, formerly Bishop of the Mackenzie River and Warden of the Canadian Church Army, in St. John's Church last evening. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, vicar of St. John's, presented the class at the beautiful ceremony, and Bishop Lucas received them into the church, assisted by Rev. G. J. Bousfield of St. Luke's Church, and Rev. J. L. Hughes of St. George's Church.

Despite the rainy weather a large congregation comfortably filled the church for this inspiringly beautiful service. Twenty-three girls and ladies, wearing their stainless white veils, and thirteen boys and men wearing dark suits and white carnations, solemnly, with full knowledge of the gravity and seriousness of their step and its full meaning, walked up the aisle to be confirmed.

The service followed the ceremony as ordered by the Church of England; inspiring in its simplicity and beauty of its words and devout phrases.

Rev. G. J. Bousfield read the lesson and Rev. J. L. Hughes read the scriptures in the confirmation service.

Strive With Greater Effort

Taking his text from the first chapter of Paul's Epistle to the Colossians, tenth verse, "That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God," Bishop Lucas preached a thoughtful and directing sermon to those who had been confirmed.

The messenger had brought Paul word of the splendid way that the new Christians in the heathen city of Colossus were conducting themselves, and although Paul was delighted with the message, he sent word back exhorting these Christians to do even better; to strive with greater effort to walk the Christ-like life, said the speaker.

He pointed out the meaning of the words "unto all pleasing," stating that in those days a young man would cringe and by every manner curry favor with his patrons, although there was no love in the service. But when Paul used these words he lifted them far above their ordinary meaning, and the motive underlying them was love. "We must by our deeds and life show our love to God," said Bishop Lucas.

Continuing the speaker said that Paul knew that he was asking a great deal of the new converts, but he also knew that fulfillment was not impossible, because they would be aided through the Holy Ghost can you work through the Holy Ghost can work unto all pleasing," emphasized the speaker. The Holy Ghost is the Comforter, which enheartens, fortifies, encourages and enables great deeds in God's service," he said.

"Do not think that because you have been confirmed that temptation will be less strong—but do think of the strength of the Holy Ghost, the spirit of counsel afforded you and knowledge and strength. Every day striving and learning to be more worthy."

Speaking of the wide field for service that still lay open to Christians, the Bishop said, "No greater thing can happen than that this young man or women may go out from this service full of zeal to do God's work." The speaker concluded his address with a strong plea that all would be prepared and ready to answer that plea of service when it sounded in their lives.

PEACE RIVER R. R. OUTLET DISCUSSED

RICH IN MINERALS.

Increase Present Season On Mackenzie Two and One-Half Months.

Ottawa, Ont., May 15.—(Canadian Press).—Construction of railway outlet for the Peace River country from the Mackenzie River to Vancouver, through Peace Pass, which he claimed would increase the present season on the Mackenzie to the Arctic from two and one half to four and one half months, was advocated in the House of Commons last night by General A. D. McCrae, (Conservative Vancouver North).

He was speaking when the house was in committee on the bill to incorporate the Northern Alberta Railways Company. The bill was still under discussion when the house rose at eleven o'clock.

"The economic outlet for this part of the Peace River Country," General McRae declared, is undoubtedly by the Peace Pass, Prince George and Vancouver and willingly or otherwise that is where the railway is to develope that great empire, must be construed."

General McRae drew word picture of the rich mineral, agricultural and waterpower districts which would be served by such an outlet with freight-producing results.

Old Time Torture No Worse Than

Mr. McArthur's experience with inflamed kidneys.

Gin Pills brought relief

As he himself puts it, "I suffered for 6 months with kidney trouble. Doctors said I would have to go to a hospital before I could go back to my heavy work in the machine shops." Fortunately, at this critical time, his druggist suggested Gin Pills. What a boon! "After taking 3 boxes," Mr. McArthur concludes gratefully, "I had no more trouble."

Gin Pills have relieved countless cases of acute kidney condition similar to this. Before serious trouble can develop, take this reliable remedy—at the first sign of bad backache, stubborn headaches, brick dust in urine, swollen joints, dizziness, a burning sensation attendant on scanty or too frequent urination. WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE.

AMARILLO, Tex., May 14.— Mrs. Grace Morrison of Plainview, Texas, was shot and killed in front of a hotel in the downtown district here last night by Mrs. L. P. Stallworth, of Amarillo. Mrs. Stallworth surrendered to the police and told them, they said, that Mrs. Morrison had broken up her home.

Mrs. Stallworth was taken to jail from the scene of the shooting. Her mother-in-law was also held as a material witness.

Here they are, Mother!

WOMEN in millions of homes rely on Bon Ami Powder and Cake for dozens of cleaning and polishing tasks.

The soft, snowy-white Powder is so convenient to use on bathtubs, basins and tiling; fine kitchen utensils of aluminium, enamel and agate ware; floors of marble, tile, Congoleum, etc., painted woodwork—and ever so many other things.

And there's the handy, compact Cake to bring back shining spotlessness to cloudy windows and mirrors . . . to restore the lustrous gleam to nickel, brass and copper.

Cleaning with magic Bon Ami is easy as pie—quick as a wink! Just apply the Bon Ami with a damp cloth. In a moment it dries. Then a few brisk rubs with a clean, dry cloth and everything glistens with shining cleanliness.

CITY TO GRAVEL MONAHGAN ROAD

Old Street Car Tracks Will Be Removed During Summer.

TOWNSHIP TO HELP

The North Monaghan Council held their monthly meeting on Monday, May 14, at the Court House, with all the members present. Reeve Rye presided.

Reeve Rye called on Mayor Denne and Alderman Hamilton, who were present, and the Council discussed with the city representatives the question of taking up the old street railway track on Monaghan Road. The Township Council passed the following resolution: Moved by Councillors Kent and Bourne, "That the City of Peterborough proceed to take up the rails and ties of the old street railway from Monaghan Road, and that the said city gravel Monaghan Road with good material, removed from streets where paving operations are taking place in the city adjacent thereto, and that the said city gravel Monaghan Road from McDonnel Street to Jackson Park and from Sherbrooke Street to Charlotte Street, the city to give the township one-half the proceeds from the sale of the rails at $8.00 per ton, the city to put this used gravel on to Monaghan Road at $1.00 per load of one and one-half yards, the township to pay one-half the said cost."

The Council placed the limit of expenditure by the township at $400.

Wants Road Gravelled.

Roy Emery came before the Council and requested it to do something toward the gravelling of the road through the dump ground. A resolution was passed that Councillors Whitfield and Kent be a committee with full power to act, to look after building a road through the dump ground and also digging a trench. The Clerk was instructed to acknowledge receipt of bolts and clips for power grader, which have been supplied by the Dominion Road Machinery Company without charge.

A. Cheyne, tax collector, made his report in regard to outstanding taxes.

A resolution was passed that the Court of Revision be held on Monday, May 27, at 2 p.m., at the Court House, Peterborough, and that after the adjournment of the Court of Revision the Council will proceed with other business, including the acceptance of the tax collector's final returns. The tax collector was instructed to take immediate proceedings to collect all outstanding taxes.

A letter was read from the Ontario Department of Agriculture re the Weed Control Act of Ontario, asking the township to appoint an inspector for 1929. A resolution was passed that Fred Dunbar, of Morrow Street, be appointed weed inspector for the current year, wages to be 35 cents per hour for time actually engaged.

J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative, wrote to the Council asking it to give a grant to help the Rural School Fairs. Y.M.C.A. DRIVE MEETING WITH HUGE SUCCESS

Over Twenty-five Per Cent of $8,000 Objective Has Been Reached.

NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Letters From Organizations Received in Appreciation of Work Done.

Success is crowning the efforts of the workers who are canvassing the city to raise $8,000 for the Y.M.C.A. Over 25 per cent. of the objective has been secured was the report given out from headquarters at noon yesterday, the campaign only having been under way for one-half day.

The canvassers are being well received by citizens and optimism the only note yet sounded. Two important features of the campaign so far are the increased amount from old subscribers and the number of new subscriptions secured.

Letters of appreciation and commendation of the work that the Y.M.C.A. is doing and has done among the boys of this city are being received daily by G. H. Roper, general secretary of the Association. These letters speak in glowing terms of the large development of the "Y" and its building for virile manhood and high citizenship among the boys.

Splendid Community Work.

A letter from Kiwanis Club states: "Kiwanis Club has watched for some years, with interest, the development of the Y.M.C.A. into the big community development organization that it is now. Being particularly interested in the work among boys Kiwanis Club appreciates to the full the work that the Y.M.C.A. is accomplishing.

"In looking back over old records, it is very interesting to find that most of the athletes of many years ago are to-day most useful citizens. In building up the physical development of boys, you are therefore doing a splendid community work, and it is a fact, too, that a healthy mind usually goes with a healthy body.

"Kiwanis Club wishes you all success in the continuation of your work and a satisfactory result to your present campaign."

A letter from J. Abraham, past president of Canadian Legion, states: "The work of the above organization is needed in every direction, and is worthy of great commendation their wonderful work in the past. And the splendid work done should not be forgotten with the signing of the Armistice. Their labors during the Great War, one must admit, stood out and were remembered by a thankful people who appreciated a public service and that was still being ably rendered. The reputation of the Y.M.C.A. was not confined to Canada and the British Empire at large, but is of world-wide renown.

"Fellowship As a Motto."

"And I notice that most of the Associations had some sort of "motto" to represent their principles, but so far as the Y.M.C.A. was concerned, I have not noticed one, and I think a good one to suggest would be 'Fellowship.' That seems to me to signify the principles of their work more than anything else. It was one of the highest qualities of human nature; it was essentially a British quality. The Y.M.C.A. in its work tried to replace home influence; this work dealt with young men at the commencement of their life and in numerous cases where some young men were probably away from their homes for the first time. The Y.M.C.A. tried by every means possible to help the young men's welfare, and when the association had their influence and confidence established then the rest followed as a matter of course. When you remember the Y.M.C.A. in their work thought of the Seven Worlds of Youth—the World of Adolescence, the ordinary Workday World, the World of Leisure, the World of Sport, the World of Knowledge, the World of Sex, and the World of Religion, they were carrying on work with those ideas in view. It was the easiest thing possible for Youth to miss its way in any of these worlds The Association tries to provide an attractive counter-attraction to stem all vice; this in a great measure was being accomplished, and more especially during the Great War when the Y.M.C.A. took upon themselves a tremendous responsibility unaided, and this being recognized by the work they undertook among our boys. And that work they are still carrying on and their efforts call for special admiration from all."

Mrs. C. H. Edwards Gives Review of Parents' and Teachers' Convention Held At Toronto.

At an interesting meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association, held last evening, Mrs. H. C. Edwards, president of the Local Council of Women, gave a very comprehensive review of the Parents' and Teachers' Convention, held recently in Toronto

The president, Mrs. S. Huffman, was in the chair, and announced the numbers on the program, which included songs by the Misses Jessie and Margaret Hill, and readings by Miss Helen Ross and little Betty Kirn.

The serving of dainty refreshments brought the evening to a close.

WEDDING BELLS

HATTON—O'GRADY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at six o'clock on Tuesday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart, by the Rev. C. Maloney, when Lillian Ann, eldest daughter of Mrs. A. O.'Grady and the late David O'Grady, became the bride of Douglas William Hatton, eldest son of Arnold H. Hatton and the late Mrs. Hatton.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Jack Legrow, wore a lovely dress of honey beige with cracker shade trimming. Her hat and shoes were in matching tones and she wore a fox fur neckpiece.

Attendants were the sister of the bridegroom, Miss Thelma Hatton, wearing delphine blue, and Mr. Bernard Jones.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. Hatton and his bride left on the 7.35 train for a trip to Niagara Falls, N.Y., after which they will live in Peterborough.

The many handsome gifts received testified to the popularity of the young people with a large circle of friends.

at 5 a.m. However due to the efforts of the firemen the loss reached the comparatively small figure of $26,000.

Another fire which the brigade will not soon forget, and Robert Carr especially, who was knocked from a ladder during the excitement, and had to be removed to the hospital with injuries, was that of the Peterborough Lock Company on January 29, 1928.

The total number of fires during Chief Gimblett's regime up until today, number 367, and the total loss during the seven years reached $436,087.73.

Something close to twenty miles of wire now connect up the city's modern fire alarm system. The alarm boxes are wisely and conveniently distributed throughout the city, all working to give complete fire protection to Peterborough citizens.

Springville

SPRINGVILLE, May 15.—(Examiner Correspondence).—An extremely interesting program was enjoyed by the Springville W.M.S. at the monthly meeting held on Wednesday, May 8, in the basement of the church.

The response to the roll call was good. The minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Johnston and business was discussed.

Mrs. A. Hunter gave an excellent summary of the third chapter of the study book, "Drums in Darkness." The important characters and events were gathered together into a simple story of the Africans and the struggle of the Christian missionaries in that country.

Rev. A. H. McConnachie, pastor of the church, addressed the society on the humanness of religion choosing his subject from John 10:18-19.

"Religion," said Rev Mr. McConnachie," is often misunderstood. It is thought to be something taken on externally. We are, however, most religious, when we are most natural. Jesus is approachable and lovable because of His great human sympathy and human heart. We must cultivate the noble human in order to attain unto the divine.

"Religion helps us back to the form of life that God intended for us when sin was not a dominant power. Our Bible is made clear for us by the human element surrounding it. It is written by human men, collected into one volume by human minds and hands—It is a human book.

"We are most like Jesus and most pleasing to God when we are most human."

A pretty new quilt was given to the society by Mrs. T. A. Young. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Young on behalf of the society by Mrs. William Whitfield, seconded by Mrs. M. Clark.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. H. Young, seconded by Mrs. M. Johnston, to Rev. Mr. McConnachie for his sincere address and kindly assistance toward the success of the meeting. Thanks were also extended to Mrs. William Whitfield, who contributed a quilt lining to the society.

At the close of the W.M.S. program a Ladies' Aid meeting was called by the president, Mrs. A Hunter, to make plans as to the day and date of the garden party. The decision was for Monday, June 24, following the anniversary services of Sunday, June 23, when Rev. Dr. Pedlay, of Toronto, will speak in Springville United Church both morning and evening.

The garden party this year will have a new and interesting feature. Beside the refreshment booth there will be a booth resembling a bazaar where articles of many descriptions will be sold. The quilt donated by Mrs. Young will be one of the articles for sale.

Further arrangements were held over until a later meeting.

Did you know that the McCormick-Deering 10-20 and 15-30 Tractors have main frames consisting of a single casting — no rivets or bolts to work loose or break — no joints to leak—frames which keep oil in and dirt out and are strong and rigid?

MANY ATTEND OPENING NIGHT OF BIG CARNIVAL

Brigadier-General Draper Is Unable to Officiate at Ceremony.

LUNCHEON HELD.

M. McIntyre Hood, of Oshawa, Acts as "Pinch Hitter" For Toronto's Chief Constable.

An eleventh hour telephone call bringing the disappointing news that Brigadier General Dennis C. Draper of Toronto would be unable to officiate at the formal opening of the Canadian Legion Carnival last evening proved a genuine disappointment to local members of the militia. But the emergency was ably met by M. McIntyre Hood, of Oshawa, who came as General Draper's emissary and discharged his duties with the known alacrity and ability that had warranted his selection as a "Pinch-hitter" for the Toronto police chief.

Addressing first a luncheon gathering of local and visiting military men at the Empress Hotel on the subject of "The British Empire Service League and the Legion's affiliation with it" and later at the formal opening of the carnival where he urged an whole-hearted public response to the veterans' show, Comrade Hood showed his ability as a speaker and his knowledge of post-war conditions among the ex-service men.

He was accompanied at the opening by Lieut.-Colonel Charles H. Ackerman president of the Ontario Command; Comrade Alex. Shields, Secretary of the Provincial body and John R. Heron, President of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, who preceded Mr. Hood with a brief explanation of the carnival's objects, and a welcome to the large crowd already assembled. Lieut.-Colonel Ackerman ably introduced the speaker.

Urges Public Support

Expressing in his behalf, General Draper's regret at being unavoidably absent owing to stress of duty, Mr. Hood first corroborated President Heron's description of the carnival as a means of making money to assist ex-service men and their families, by stating that the number requiring assistance had actually grown in the past eleven years because of after effects not looked for at time of dismissal from the army. He told of the Legion's interest in the affairs of the Dominion, particularly as regards immigration of non-British subjects; of its influence in obtaining Governmental consideration for ex-service men, not already given adequate help, and of the necessity for co-operation between veterans, members of the Legion, and the general citizenry, in peace-time as in war-time. "It is with this hope that it may be an outstanding success, and that you will offer your moral and financial support, that I take pleasure in coming here for the purpose of opening the carnival for the purpose to which it was dedicated" said Mr. Hood by way of conclusion.

Dinner Enjoyed

Previous to the formal opening, the dinner gathering at the Empress Hotel was enjoyed by nearly twenty military men and prominent citizens. Alderman G. A. McDonald representing the city, and Colonel Ackerman presiding most acceptably as chairman, in the absence of President Heron.

Among those present were two un-

Section Workmen Injured In Wreck

CAMPBELL, N.Y., May 16.—(Canadian Press).—At least eight section hands were rushed to hospitals in Bath and Corning, several probably fatally injured, after sixteen cars of an eastbound Delaware, Lackawanna and Western freight train left the track directly in front of the station here to-day and crashed into a tool house, burying the workers under a mass of wreckage.

Several of the injured were burned when the shattered building took fire, which spread to the demolished freight cars.

DEFENSE COUNSEL ARGUES CASE

Schedule Must Be Kept

CASE IS CLOSED.

Foaming Boiler Is Blamed For Engineer Running Over Switch at Drocourt.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., May 1. — (C.P.)—One engineer whose train was wrecked a year ago to-day came to the assistance of another whose train was wrecked two months ago.. Leonard Bradford, engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway train which was wrecked at Dockrill more than a year ago with heavy loss of life was called as a witness for the defence at the trial of G. V. Alexander, driver of the engine on the northbound Canadian National Railway train in the Drocourt collision of March 20.

Alexander is being tried for manslaughter and criminal negligence. Bradford also had had a criminal prosecution as a result of the wreck of his train but he was acquitted.

The witness was introduced as an expert and said he had served during the war with the Royal Engineers, also as a boiler expert for the French government. He said the "foaming" of an engine was a very serious matter and a difficult problem for an engineer. Alexander said yesterday his engine was foaming prior to the wreck.

Not Have Stopped Train.

Questioned by Mr. Justice Raney, the witness said he would not have stopped a passenger train in a case of a foaming boiler. The engineer had to maintain his schedule.

"Surely he does not have to maintain schedules at all costs, or at the risk of the lives of the passengers or crew," said His Lordship.. "No," said the witness, and the Judge continued, "Then there is a higher responsibility on the engineer than to maintain schedules."

On cross-examination by the Crown, Bradford admitted he had been discharged from the Canadian Pacific Railway after the wreck he had figured in. "That's the price we have to pay," he said

Will G. Strachan, master mechanic of Allandale, said he had charge of the inspection and supervision of locomotives. He said he had ridden in the engine with Alexander repeatedly and had found him an excellent engineer.

Causes Great Anxiety.

"There is nothing that causes more anxiety to an engineer than a foaming boiler," he said.

Strachan was questioned both by defence counsel and the Judge as to the possibility of stopping the train to correct the boiler trouble. He said it would have taken at least 30 minutes and he would not have done so had he been driving the engine. He said, however, that had Alexander stopped he would have been criticized.

In reply to a question by Mr. Roebuck, Strachan said Alexander had been chosen to drive the train carrying the Prince of Wales when he travelled over the Canadian National lines. The evidence was completed and Mr. Roebuck at once began his address to the jury.

Excellent Record.

Mr. Roebuck said the case was unusual in criminal courts. It involved a decision as to whether a man with a good record and an excellent citizen, should be sent to jail with habitual criminals. Counsel stressed Alexander's record as an engineer, and pointed to the fact that in 17 years' service he had only two marks on his record and they were merit marks.

He argued it was not a question of a mistake, but a question of whether

St. Clair Fishermen Threaten To Use Force To Stop Nightly Lifting Of Their Nets

WINDSOR, Ont., May 16 (Canadian Press). — Despite the pleas which have been made to officials, fishermen along the shores of Lake St. Clair are daily losing hundreds of dollars in the loss of the catches at the hands of marauders, thought to be either Americans or rum-runners from the Canadian side of the International boundary. Early each morning the nets of the St. Clair fishermen are lifted, torn to bits, and their contents emptied into high-powered speed boats.

The ravages of the thieves appear to have been, and are, directed at those fishermen who are living along the shores of the near-eastern lake, and within the shore line boundary of Tecumseh. The situation has come to such an impasse that these fishermen threaten to arm themselves with rifles and revolvers, take the law in their own hands, and seek the capture of those responsible for the loss of their livelihood.

GRAPHIC DETAILS OF TRAGEDY DESCRIBED BY LOCAL GIRLS WHO WERE IN CLEVEAND CLINIC

Miss Doris Cowan and Miss Dohma Roberts Describe Hospital Explosion.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

People Walked Out Apparently Alright, Only to Drop Dead On the Street..

(By Doris Cowan—Special to The Examiner).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 15.—"At eleven-thirty yesterday morning I was in the diabetic house of the Cleveland Clinic, about one hundred feet behind the clinic building, when a five-year-old diabetic child rushed in and told me there was an explosion at the clinic, a four-storey building. I ran out to the street and over to the clinic, where crowds of people were gathered. Dense thick smoke with a pea color odor was pouring from every window in the building. Great flames were crackling in the inside.

"I looked up and saw two men and one girl hanging out of a third storey window. She was choking, desperately spitting and calling for help. Ladders were being put up to her, but something prevented them from reaching the window. By this time a large net was procured and the order was given to jump. She was hesitant about doing so, and was noticeably growing weaker. Finally the two men forced her to release her hold, and she fell into the net. The two men then followed.

Removing Doctor.

"Just then I turned and saw them taking Dr. John Philips, one of the founders of the clinic, formerly of Welland, Ont., out of the building. He looked terrible. He was gasping for breath, and was a most dreadful color. They whirled him away, and the latest report is that he is dead.

"Just after this a girl came to the window on the fourth floor and climbed up on the window sill.

"As they told her to jump instead of toppling outward and into the net, she fell back into the room dead.

"The gas had struck her. I ran around to the other side of the building and looked up on the roof and saw about ten men, all desperately fanning people who had been carried out of the ruins. The ladders were put up and they were gradually brought down.

"Just as I got there one of the young doctors came down the ladder. He looked to be in perfect condition, as I noticed him walking toward the hospital, but an hour or so later he too was one of the lost.

"Being a Canadian, I was naturally on the lookout for all the Canadian doctors and girls I knew. Finally, I saw Dr. McCullough, a Canadian, and he said that Dr. Anderson, a Winnipeg man, was missing. He later was identified at the city morgue. The other six Canadian doctors got out safely.

"As I was talking to Dr. McCullough there was a rumbling noise and a second explosion occurred. Windows, hitherto intact, were blown to bits, and more smoke and fumes gushed forth. This frightened the people so that they kept farther away from the building, which aided a little in the rescue work."

Dead Being Carried Out.

"By this time the dead were being carried out, and five men were taken right by me on stretchers. They were all a ghastly yellow green color from the smoke and fumes.

"Then came a woman foaming at the mouth, and then a nurse staggering on the arm of one of the doctors. After her came some more bodies.

"I then returned to the diabetic house, and they brought a woman stumbling along. She was in a terrible nervous condition, but after administering some bromides, she quiet-

Other Nations Must Assist In Debt Paying

LONDON, May 16 (Canadian Press). — "Foreign nations must not expect Great Britain to do all the disarming and the debt paying," declared Prime Minister Baldwin in a campaign speech at Monmouth yesterday, when he discussed the work of the League of Nations.

"That is not the spirit of the League and the Covenant," he went on. "We have all to march forward together and we will march with the quickest, as we have been doing. We are marching a little quicker at the moment, but the other nations cannot lag indefinitely behind. The last thing we want to see is Europe split once more into hostile camps."

CANADIANS ARE HEAVY LOSERS IN BIG EXPLOSION

Hand of Tragedy Reaches Many Parts of Canada.

SEVERAL INJURED.

Dr. John Phillips, Far-Famed Canadian Physician, Loses His Life in Fire.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16 (C.P.).—The hand of tragedy, reaching out from the midst of the Cleveland Clinic disaster yesterday, struck hard at the heart of Toronto and at other parts of Canada, stirring alarm and anxiety particularly throughout the ranks of the medical and nursing professions of this city, from which a substantial proportion of the ill-fated Clinic's staff was drawn

Dr. John Phillips, native of Welland, honor graduate of the University of Toronto, succumbed to the effects of the deadly gas let loose by the explosion.

Dr. Phillips was a graduate of 1902 and was famed as one of the founders of the Clinic and as one of the greatest specialists upon this continent. His death occurred after long hours of suffering.

Dr. Harry Andison, a native of Winnipeg and a graduate of the University of Manitoba, is dead. Miss Roberts, a Canadian whose address is unknown, secretary to one of the leading surgeons of the Clinic, also is dead, and a number of other Canadians—Torontonians—graduates of the University of Toronto and elsewhere, suffered injuries.

Suffering Injuries

The following shows a list of Canadian doctors, members of the Clinic staff and their injuries, in addition to those above:

Dr. Wallace Duncan, graduate of the University of Toronto, member of the Clinic orthopedic department, suffering from effects of gas. Recovery certain.

Dr. J. B. Anderson, graduate of the University of Toronto and member of the medical department of the Clinic. Suffering from slight gas effects. Jumped from Third story window to safety.

Dr. Perry McCullough of Vancouver, graduate of the University of Manitoba. Suffering from gas fumes.

Dr. James Dickson, graduate of the University of Toronto. Not in Clinic at time. Was parking his car in the hospital grounds when explosion occurred.

Dr. Robert Hugh McDonald, graduate of the University of Toronto and member of the medical department. Suffering from effects of gas.

The parents of Miss Dohma Robers, of Peterborough, were plunged into mourning, only to be overjoyed last night by a wire that she was safe and only slightly injured.

GRAF ZEPPELIN SPEEDING ACROSS SPAIN ON SECOND VOYAGE TO NORTH AMERICA

Giant Dirigible Should Land at Lakehurst Late On Saturday.

GORILLA ON BOARD.

Forty Members of Crew and Eighteen Passengers Making Trip.

PARIS, May 16 (C.P.).—The great trans-Atlantic air liner Graf Zeppelin, which left Friedrichshafen, Germany, on her second voyage to the United States early this morning, was speeding across Spain late to-day.

The huge ship, carrying eighteen passengers, including Mrs. Mary Pierce of New York, the only woman abroard, left Friedrichshafen at 5.57 a.m., and crossed into France from Bazel, Switzerland, about an hour and a half later.

Swinging southwest, the dirigible passed over Lyons and then turned directly south down the Valley of the Rhone to cross over Nimes. From Nimes, she headed southwest again and at 2.35 p.m. (8.35 a.m. eastern standard time) she was sighted over Barcelona, Spain

From the route which Dr. Hugo Eckener, her commander, was following, it was certain that he would fly the southern course.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 16 (C.P.).—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, mighty mistress of the air, raced westward with the sun to-day above southwestern Europe on its second trip across the Atlantic to America.

Before it lay a variable course above Gibraltar, probably the Azores and Bermuda, to Lakehurst, N.J., which the dirigible's master, Dr. Hugo Eckener, did not expect to reach before late Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Aboard the ship were 40 of the crew, 18 passengers, and the female gorilla, "Susi." The only woman passenger was Mrs. Mary Pierce, wife of a New York utilities broker, who made the trip despite urgent pleadings of her husband and mother. Among the men was Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer.

The ship was trundled from its hangar at 5.45 a.m., and at the pilot's command was released for its long voyage at 5.57 (11.57 p.m. eastern standard time Wednesday). It rose slowly in an intermitten drizzle, while two hundred or more spectators cheered, it circled the field once, and disappeared in ten minutes in the direction of the Lake Constance and Bazel, Switzerland.

After flying over Walashut and Saechingen the dirigible arrved over Bazel at 7.30 a.m., a fog obliging it to descend close to the ground to discharge its first load of air mail. Five Swiss airplanes joined it there and acted as an escort as far as the French frontier, which it wirelessed it had crossed at 7.55 a.m.

Dr. Eckener, before he left, announced his course. "After leaving France we will go along the coast of Spain until we reach Gibraltar and then we will see what next.

"Whether we will cross The Azores I cannot tell as yet. When we get out there we'll stick our noses in the air, take a good sniff, and decide where to turn next.

Passengers and members of the ship's crew began to arrive at the dirigible's hangar shortly after five o'clock. The gorilla "Susi," was taken aboard first, the dirigible's human freight following.

RESULTS WILL BE LATE

There will be millions more votes to count, and those results that are announced on election night will be later than hitherto.

Poisonous Fumes Continue To Take Lives Of Victims

Brownish Stain Noticed On the Faces of the Bodies in the Morgues Smeared the Outside of the Clinic Building To-day.

INVESTIGATION OPENS INTO CAUSE OF EXPLOSION WHICH SNUFFED OUT AT LEAST 120 LIVES

Terrific Force of the Gasses Which Sent 300 Persons Into a Panic Split Walls, Shattered Windows and Cleared Medicine Cabinets.

CLEVELAND, O., May 16. (C.P.)—The noxious brownish gas which shattered the Cleveland Clinic Hospital and dropped patients, doctors and nurses in their tracks as they fought for escape, continued its insidious work to-day, driving the death total toward the 150 mark.

The two terrific explosions and the fire which followed ignition of X-ray films in the basement yesterday, and which took scores of lives, did not do all the damage. The poisonous fumes contined to act on the blood of the victims throughout the night, and resulted in hourly reports of additional deaths.

The great maority of the 120 dead reported before noon were residents of this city, a score being from other cities.

Investigations by Governor Myers Y. Cooper, Coroner A. J. Pearse and City Manager William R. Hopkins, were put under way early in an attempt to solve the tragedy in the white brick, four-storey clinic building.

City Manager Hopkins and firemen who examined the building after the tragedy came to the conclusion that the vault guarding the films had been open because the only damage to it was from heat. It was intact on its hinges.

Brownish Stain on Walls.

The brownish stain noticed on the faces of the bodies in the morgues, smeared the outside of the clinic building to-day.

The terrific force of the gases which sent 300 persons into a panic, split walls, shattered windows, cleared medicine cabinets, mirrors and pictures from walls and crashed in ceilings, was seen clearly

The route of the scorching flames from the basement to the roof could be followed up the stairway to the first floor on the handrails, the charred woodwork and stained fittings of the hospital. The door leading to the hospital in the rear, where most of the victims were taken, withstood the flames. The tunnel it guarded was wood lined and had the white hot flames of the burning gas reached it the deaths resulting might have been many times greater.

The victims were compared to the "walking gas cases" of the Great War—gassed soldiers who withstood the inroads of the poison for a few days and then fell over dead.

Some of the survivors were patients, nurses and doctors at the clinic. Others were firemen and policemen who risked their lives in the acrid, yellow smoke to remove the bodies. Some were volunteers who had worked feverishly with them. Physicians said most of them had but little chance for their lives.

The impossibility of nourishing the blood against the attacks of the gas points to death in more serious cases, the physicains declared. Administration of oygen and blood transfusions already have failed in some instances.

Collapses On Way Home.

Such a case was that of Dr. John Phillips, a Canadian, one of the founders of the clinic. Two tanks of oxygen were used but he collapsed after walking some distance to his home from the clinic. This recourse having failed, Dr. George W. Crile, co-founder and head of the clinic performed a blood transfusion upon his colleague.

In spite of everything that could be done for him he died.

Six similar cases were recorded at Mount Sinai Hospital last night, three of them victims who had left the charred clinic with no apparent effects of the noxious fumes. One was Miss Ella Moeller, stenographer at Former Teacher On Peterborough Nromal Staff Dies in Toronto.

BORN IN EMBRO.

PETERBOROUGH MAN ON SCENE SOON AFTER CLINIC EXPLOSION

Lightly Damaged Condition of Building a Surprise in View of Loss of Life.

THE ODOR OF GAS.

George Dormer Says Smell Was Noticeable Several Blocks From Clinic.

"The most surprising feature was the undamaged condition of the building as contrasted with the great loss of life," was the comment of George Dormer, proprietor of 'The Sugar Bowl,' George Street, in reference to the explosion and fire which took such a toll in the Cleveland Clinic Hospital yesterday.

Mr. Dormer, who arrived home at noon to-day, has been visiting his brothers in Cleveland, and although he was some forty blocks away from the hospital yesterday when the explosion occurred, the rush of traffic officers to the scene was intimation of a serious accident, and Mr. Dormer and his brother reached the hospital within a short time and watched some of the victims being carried out of the building.

The watching crowd were able to get only a faint idea of what was happening owing to the confusion and excitement, and the congestion of automobiles and ambulances. Inmates of the hospital were carried out and placed in ambulances and rushed off, whether dead or alive, the onlookers could not be sure, although there was little doubt in the case of those whose bodies were placed on the lawn in front of the hospital.

"The smell of the gas was quite noticeable where I stood," said Mr. Dormer; "in fact, it could be detected several blocks away."

Except that the windows were gone, there was little in the appearance of the building to indicate that nearly one hundred lives had been lost there.

Armed Rum Runner Chases Newspaper Men

WINDSOR, May 16. — (C.P.) —Armed Detroit River rum-runners to-day chased newspaper reporters and camera men away from a disabled rum cruiser lying in shore at the foot of Pillett Road, Ford City. A "look-out" for the rum runners sat in an automobile on the Riverside drive, and followed the second boat to its destination. The bombs were used after stones were alleged to have been thrown at buses and automobiles in which employees of the mills were riding Those arrested were herded into the court house here.

One of the buses dashed through a group of strikers trying to block the road, injuring four of them.

Two Prominent Canadian Doctors Are Lost In Fire

Ninety-nine Are Known To Have Been Killed and Forty-three More Injured When Explosion Shakes Cleveland Clinic Hospital.

DEATHS ARE ATTRIBUTED TO DEADLY GAS WHICH FILTERED THROUGH BUILDING

Victims of Disaster Are Dying At Short Intervals and Physicians Send Out Appeal For Oxygen, Which Is BecomingScarce.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 16 (Canadian Press). — Poison gas and two explosions which followed burning the X-ray films in the Cleveland Clinic yesterday claimed 100 lives.

There were 99 known dead, and hospital authorities worked desperately to administer artificial respiration to 43 more who were overcome. Victims of the disaster were dying at short intervals, and physicians sent out appeals for additional oxygen in the fear that the supply in the city might prove insufficient. Oxygen is declared the only effective means of overcoming gas burns.

Nearly all of the deaths were attributed to the deadly gas which filtered through the four-storey brick building slowly at first, and then, augmented by a second and greater explosion than the first, rushed up from the basement and cut off escape down the stairways and elevators.

Survivors said those asphyxiated were dead, their faces turning a sickly yellowish-brown color, within two minutes after inhaling the gas.

The fumes were given off by fire of undetermined origin which destroyed X-ray films in the basement. Some pharmacists said it was bromine gas, while Dr. William E. Lower, one of the founders of the clinic, said it resembled the deadly phosgene gas employed in the Great War.

Fire Loss $50,000.

Despite the heavy loss of life, firemen estimated the property damage at only $50,000.

The first explosion occurred in the basement. On the floors above, waiting rooms were crowded with clinical patients. Many of them died where they sat, some in wheel chairs unable to move, as the deadly fumes rapidly penetrated to all floors.

The hollow centre of the building first was filled with gases. The intense heat below sent the fumes swirling upward. Before any one had opportunity to escape, a second blast blew out the skylight and filled the entire building with the deadly fumes. Occupants had no way to escape, but the windows, and few were able to reach them. These were enveloped in the fumes which hung about the building, and they collapsed.

A detachment of National Guardsmen was despatched immediately to the scene.

OLD RESIDENTS ARE RETURNING

Committees Actively Engaged in Completing Arangements For Old Home Week.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Although there is not much being heard about it, Campbellford's Old Home Week preparation is going forward with all earnestness, and everything that can possibly be done to assure success, is being done. The invitations have been going through the mails for some time and already some of the former residents have signified their intention of returning for that particular week. Most of them have sent in their fee of one dollar to become a member of the Old Boy's Association. Scores of invitations have been accepted from within a radius of five hundred miles and almost as many from more distant points on the continent. Way down in Texas, Campbellford Old Boys have accepted the invitation of their old home town, and will be returning for the week.

The various committees are actively engaged in completing their arrangements so that the program committees are actively engaged in completing their arrangements so that the program committee may get started on their work of compiling an attractive booklet for the week's activities. A historical sketch of the town is also being written and will be on sale during the week by the local branch of the Canadian Legion or agents appointed by them. This work is expected and destined to prove interesting to every citizen of the town regardless of where their present residence may be. Campbellford has an interesting history as some of the old residents may recall. Long before the town was ever dreamed of, the Indians tossed gifts of tobacco and other valuables into the swirling waters of Ranney Falls and the Gorge Rapids thinking to appease the angry gods. Evidence of their camps and their battle grounds are still unearthed in the near vicinity. Champlain passed along this river on his famous voyage into the interior. Three quarters of a century ago, the first settlers filtered into the district through the virgin hardwood forests. The original settlement was known as The Patch, and was situated about where the southern boundary of the town now is located. Later the residences and places of business were erected where the town now stands. From those pioneer days to the present modern times, is all vividly pictured in the historical booklet that is being prepared. For the older folks, it will recall the scenes of former days. For the younger generations, it will furnish a wealth of information.

ENGINE TROUBLE CAUSED ENGINEER TO FORGET ORDERS

Alexander Explains in His Own Defense Why Drocourt Siding Was Passed.

SAW MILE POST.

Failed To Get Conductor's Signal As He Was Approaching Siding.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., May 16 (By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Worried by trouble in his engine, which he was struggling to correct, G. V. Alexander, engineer on Canadian National Railways train No. 3, which crashed head-on with deadly consequence into another train at Drocourt, March 20th, forgot the order he had received an hour earlier to stop and take the siding. He told this to Justice Raney and a jury yesterday in giving evidence in his own defence at his trial on charges of manslaughter and criminal negligence resulting in grievous bodily harm.

Alexander said he saw the mile post at Drocourt and blew his whistle, knowing he was coming to Drocourt Station. He also saw the lights at either end of the switch. He did not, however, he said, receive the customary warning signal of two blasts of the air whistle from the conductor.

"Why did you not stop?" asked Crown Attorney W. L. Haight in cross-examination.

"I was busy with the engine and worrying over its condition, and I did not get the conductor's signal, it slipped my mind," he replied. A short time before Dr. M. H. Limbert, who assisted the wounded at the wreck, told of a conversation with the engineer, in which the latter had said, "I forgot my meet."

Seventeen persons were killed in the wreck.

COUNCIL FAILS TO STRIKE TAX RATE FOR CAMPBELLFORD

Residents of Trent Town May Expect Higher Levy in 1929 Than Last Year.

HALF HOLIDAY ENDORSED.

Post Office Will Remain Closed Half Day a Week.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — What will be the tax rate for the town this year is not yet definitely settled, although it is expected that it will be slightly higher than last year. All the members of the council were present last night at the special meeting held in the clerk's office for the especial purpose of arriving at the rate of taxation. Only one other item of business was discussed, and that was the matter of the half holiday for the post office. At the first of the meeting, the clerk read a letter at the request of the Mayor, who said it had been handed to him by the post master. It was from the district superintendent of post offices and asked for the opinion of the council before any further action would be taken regarding the closing of the local post office on the weekly half holiday. The council expressed themselves as being unanimously in favor of the closing.

With this matter behind them the councillors plunged into the colums of figures relative to taxation. F. W. Wood, municipal treasurer, was present and assisted in the work. The total assessment, according to the figures given out was approximately one and one-half million dollars with the high school assessment rate struck on a slightly larger figure, the public schaal on a slightly smaller one and the separate school on an amount and safeguards your family with

Healthful Cleanliness

Old Dutch Cleanser homes are healthful homes

Old Dutch Cleanser protects your home with Healthful Cleanliness because it removes the dangerous invisible impurities as well as the visible uncleanliness. Old Dutch chases all dirt—none is left behind.

There is nothing else like Old Dutch. To the eye it looks like a fine powder but through the microscope you see thousands of flaky, flat-shaped particles of distinctive character. These particles possess natural detergent qualities—they erase the dirt.

This drawing of a highly magnified Old Dutch particle illustrates how completely and safely Old Dutch works. Being flat-shaped, these particles make a perfect contact with the surface. They make a clean sweep and leave the surface smooth and free from scratches. Old Dutch doesn't harm the hands.

Old Dutch doesn't scratch. Avoid damaging grit. This drawing shows a highly magnified particle of hard, scratchy grit at work. Being of irregular shape the sharp, hard points dig into the surface and leave scratches which not only mar its beauty but are lodging places for dirt and impurities.

Now! the health vitamin of sunshine put in a whole wheat food

Ultra-violet Rays give to Muffets . . . the whole-wheat cereal... the vitamin that builds hard teeth, strong bones. No increase in price!

YOU'VE read about it:—that "something" in sunlight which has such a beneficial effect upon health. The magazines and newspapers are constantly telling of the newly-discovered importance to health of the sun's rays.

Now Professor Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin, famed scientist, has found a way to put the Vitamin "D" of sunlight into Muffets by irradiating this whole-wheat cereal with Ultra-Violet Rays. Muffets so irradiated pass on to you the precious sunshine vitamin!

Nutritionists hail the irradiation of cereals as one of the most important health discoveries in years. Children need a constant supply of Vitamin "D" to build hard, sound teeth and strong bones. Adults, likewise, need the sun vitamin.

The ultra violet rays of the sun cannot penetrate through ordinary glass, and they are effectively stopped by fog or smoke, and even by the clothes you wear.

Eaten alone or with sliced bananas, stewed figs, or other fruit, Muffets make a perfect cereal dish.

A Muffet is a "ribbon" of cooked whole wheat wound 'round and 'round and baked to a delicious crispness. Crumbles easily in the hand. Eaten with sugar and cream, with berries or fruit added . . . Um-m-mm! What a meal!

Won't you try irradiated Muffets? Learn how delicious and good they are and from them get the "sunshine vitamin." There is no increase in price.

Nutritionists stress the need of sunshine's Vitamin "D" to help build sound bodies. And this precious health vitamin is now brought you in a delicious crisp, crunchy whole-wheat food!

All Muffets are Irradiated

All Muffets on your grocer's shelves have been irradiated, whether so stated on the package or not. There are two Muffets packages, but only one kind of Muffets — in every package the same irradiation, the same quality, the same wholesomeness of the whole wheat.

WEDDING BELLS

NELSON-NELSON

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, May 11, at the home of the bride in Otonabee, when Margret Gladys, eldest daughter of Mrs. A. Nelson and the late Andrew Nelson, became the bride of J. Fredrick Nelson, of Indian River.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. V. McNeely, of Keene, Ont., after which the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Quebec.

CROWLEY—GOWETTE.

HASTINGS, May 16. — More than ordinary interest centred in the marriage which took place in St. John's church, Waubaushene, at nine o'clock on Monday, April 29th, when Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gowette, became the bride of James J. Crowley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Crowley, Hastings, Ont. The ceremony was performed in the Sanctuary before a simple arrangement of roses and ferns. Rev. Father Brovette was the officiating clergyman and during the offertory members of the choir sang Ave Marie and O'Salutaris.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her dress of beige georgette with hat and hose to match, and carried an arm bouquet of lilies and Canterbury bells. Miss Kathleen Gowette was her sister's bridesmaid, and looked charming in an Alice blue crepe de chine trimmed with biege lace with hat and hose to match, and carried an arm bouquet of carnations. Mr. John Howard a life-long friend and companion of the groom was the best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Crowley left later on a motor trip, and upon their return will reside near Hastings.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, May 16.—An evidence of a firmer feeling was displayed in local wholesale egg circles yesterday, and, although prices were not advanced, country shippers were reluctant to ship their eggs at present prices. Receipts were more than sufficient to look after the demands of the retail trade, with the result that storing was active.

Large dealers were paying country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, at the following range: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen: firsts, 25c to 26c, and seconds, 22c to 23c per dozen.

Butter Prices Firm

Trading was slightly more active on the wholesale butter market, and the price of No. 1 finest New Zealand creamery appeared to be firm at 36¼c per lb., with No. 2 grade at 35¼c per lb. Dealers are still operating in hand-to-mouth fashion, with the hope of easier prices.

Production of domestic butter is steadily increasing throughout the Province, and supplies from this source are more than enough to balance the consumptive demand.

Trading in cheese was quiet, and prices were unchanged.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 16—Heavy offerings and buyers' disinclination to follow bulges checked an advance in prices on yesterday's wheat market and closing prices were unchanged to ¾c lower for the day. New York interests entered the market during the first hour and with good buying from other sources the values moved higher. Interest waned near the close, resulting in prices losing their advance.

Cash wheat was well bought by shippers, exporters and millers. Grades No. 3 Northern and Nos. 4, 5 and 6 were the most active with prices ¼c to ¾c higher for the day. No. 3 and No. 4 durum advanced about one cent.

Flax featured the coarse grain section with a surprising advance of 3½c, due, it was stated, to the increase by the United States Government in the tariff on flaxseed. Oats, barley and rye were fairly active and prices held firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 16. — Blocking of farm relief measures at Washington, went hand in hand here yesterday with lower prices for wheat. Word that the House and Senate were in a deadlock over the debenture plan led to lively selling and to a sudden drop in wheat values that contrasted with advances which earlier had followed predictions of frost last night both for Kansas and Nebraska.

Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 1-8c to 3-4c a bushel net lower, with corn a shade to 1-2c off; oats 1-8c to 1-2c advanced and provisions unchanged to 5c down.

Selling Inspired.

Wheat finished at but little above the day's lowest price level with many of Tuesday's buyers shifted to the selling side of the market. In addition to set-backs which were the result of news that for at least the time being farm relief legislation had been halted, selling of wheat received impetus also from disappointment shown over scantiness of North American export business, the total volume of European purchases of wheat from North America yesterday being confined to 400,000 bushels. Kansas City messages, however, said export flour sales from the southwest had been the largest in several months.

Corn Easier.

Corn values gave way with wheat, despite an exceptional dearth of corn arrivals and notwithstanding active cash demand here for corn. Offerings of oats were light, May delivery in particular although 350,000 bushels of oats were sold into store here yesterday.

Provisions averaged lower, sympathizing with hog values.

expected but heartily welcomed guests in the persons of Colonel S. H. Hill, Director of Cadet Services for Canada, and the District Cadet Officer, Captain Isbester. Both men had been in Lindsay on Tuesday, Lakefield on Wednesday, and were to have proceeded to Havelock for the inspection of the school corps there to-day. Magistrate O. A. Langley, Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, Comrade Shields of the Provincial body, Majors Dodds, Winterbottom, and C. H. Stuart, Chief Constable Samuel J. Newhall, W. F. Huycke, Captains James Turnbull and J. A. Dewart were among those present also, and during the after-dinner half-hour, brief addresses were delivered by Colonel Ackerman, Colonel Hall, and Comrade Shields.

Arriving late, Mr. Hood and A. H. Power, both of Oshawa, were heartily welcomed, and the former called upon for a brief address.

In responding, Mr. Hood, chairman of the Executive committee of the Oshawa Legion, and formerly a prominent Legion worker in Woodstock, desired to leave one thought with the ex-service men—that they should get the ideal that the Legion is striving to obtain. His text was found in wording of "The British Empire Service League." First, essentially British, secondly born in service and with service as its greatest membership qualification and finally, a League with one great spirit—thus the speaker set a mark for the Legion to aim at, in solving the ever-occurring problems of ex-service men in the Dominion, and as one of the most powerful single organizations in assisting the Government of the Country.

Colonel Hill had previouly been heard in a most informative outline of cadet work in Canada and Provincial Secretary Shields had spoken likening the Legion to a great service club.

Four four hours the councillors and civic officials juggled columns of figures, and when midnight arrived, the desired solution had not yet been arrived at. As a body they gave it up and appointed the finance committee with others, to meet this afternoon at four o'clock, to complete the calculations. Some of the councillors decided to call it a night and went home. Half an hour later those who were left had discovered the "missing link," and solved the problem. Nevertheless, the committee as appointed last night, will meet this afternoon and verify or alter the figures as they now stand. A second council meeting will be called and the necessary by-law passed. Although it has not been officially stated at the present time, there is every reason to believe that the rate will be higher this year by perhaps three mills. The exact figures will be available soon.

For 1928, Campbellford's rate of taxation was 40 mills. This total was made up: County rate 5.6; town debenture rate, 10.9; school debenture rate, 4.8; school trustee rate (public school), 11.8; school trustee rate (high school) 2.8; electric light debenture rate, 2.9; town rate, 1.2; being a total of 40 mills.

BETTER OUT OF THE PARADE.

The decision of the Board of Education that school children should not be allowed to participate in a body in the Old Home Week parade is one with which many parents will be in sympathy.

While the schools furnished a most interesting portion of the Diamond Jubilee parade two years ago there are not many people who saw how tired and hot the little folks were on that occasion, would care to see the experience repeated.

A long march on a blazing summer day is too much for children, and while the sight of thousands of bright-faced juvenile marchers is always thrilling, it is something that can be spared from the Old Home Week procession in view of the fact that suffering is likely to be caused.

The youngsters will get inspiration enough out of the re-union without being asked to take part in a route march in summer weather.

There must be some other way in which they can be featured during the celebration.

EMPIRE SHOPPING.

Toronto school board has decided that the children in the public schools will be so busy with preparation for examinations early in June that they will not have the time to devote to essays on Empire Shopping Week.

After all there does not seem much to be gained by interesting children in Empire shopping; the appeal to be really effective must be directed to the parents and if the interest of the adult Canadian in the movement can be gained that would seem all that is needed to produce the desired results.

Empire Shopping Week should, this year above any other, commend itself to the people of Canada in view of the increased United States tariff against Canadian products and the necessity of finding other markets for those products.

The wisdom of great buying within the Empire will probably strike Canadians with greater force than usually on this occasion and Empire Week propaganda will, on that account, fall on very fruitful soil.

Peterborough's share in the campaign should be proportionate to the importance of the effort.

PATRONIZE THE CARNIVAL.

The Canadian Legion carnival, so successfuly opened last night, is being continued to-night and to-morrow and in view of its own drawing power as a novel entertainment feature and of the merit of the causes for which it is being held, should be liberally patronized.

It is not necessary, surely, at this late date to say very much about the work carried on by the Canadian Legion, a work that helps materially to smooth the path of the returned men, of their families and of the dependents of those who made the supreme sacrifice.

Peterborough citizens have long been familiar with the efforts of the Legion to solve those problems that are a heritage of the war years and are thoroughly in sympathy with the aims and objects of the organization.

That being so the present opportunity of offering very material assistance to the Legion should be responsible for a record attendance at the carnival—an effort from which the officers of the Legion hope to secure the funds that are so urgently needed for the organization's relief and general work.

THE RESEARCH BOARD.

The personnel of the Advisory Committee which is to aid Sir Joseph Flavelle and his staff of experts in administering the Ontario Research Foundation — 26 members in all—will meet with general approval.

No difficulty has been experienced in getting prominent men to give their services in an honorary position; in fact the committee could have been filled several times over.

As announced by the Premier the committee is most thoroughly representative, covering practically every branch of endeavor in Ontario.

Industry, finance, the colleges, agriculture, all have their representatives, the interest of the agriculture being looked after by Dr. Christie, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Principal Bell of the Kemptville Agricultural School and also by such outstanding farmers as W. A. Dryden of Brooklin, Robert Miller of Stouffville, Col. Robert McEwan of London, and Dr. R. M. Jenkins of Donlands.

The calibre of the men who have offered their services for this great work gives every reason for confidence that the Research Foundation will bring about splendid results.

Certainly the combined experience and wisdom of the members of the Advisory Committee should be of the greatest value in guiding the work along lines that will guarantee success.

With Sir Joseph Flavelle at its head, a well balanced advisory committee, and an enthusiastic staff of well qualified technical experts, the Foundation starts under most encouraging auspices.

A ROTARY PLEA.

The Peterborough Rotary has received the following most interesting letter from the Rotary Club of Bilbao, Spain:

"The Rotary Club of Bilbao, which since its inauguration has taken particular care to maintain tight bonds of solidarity with all the Rotary Clubs of the world, consider it their duty to apply to them in order to secure their valuable help for a work of justice and reparation.

"Spain, a cradle of nations, luminary of civilization through the centuries, is a constant victim of a campaign of libelling which diminishes her prestige before the foreign countries. This persistent mischief, to which the very same Spaniards are not unfrequently strange, has its period of apparent calmness and recrudescence, but is always in a latent state in some determined sectors, awaiting the propicious moment to harm Spain.

"Incidents of national life, which passed quite unnoticed in the street, have ultimately been the pretext for disfigured events to be presented to the foreign opinion under a bloody appearance, thus keeping from their design of visiting Spain many of those who were preparing to take advantage of the exhibitions which are to take place this year in Sevilla and Barcelona.

"On this occasion, Spain will open her breast to foreign nations and offer them for contemplation her art treasures, her natural beauties, her flourishing industry, her material progress, increasing every day, and, above all, the urbanity and nobleness of her sons. She anxiously desires the world to know her and to judge her, because she is aware that, being known, she will be loved and her friendship desired.

"Any foul intent to dwindle, in the present hours, the prestige of Spain, by drawing between Spain and the world a curtain of calumny and falsehood, has to meet the execration of every well-bred man, and moreover if, to his quality of honorable man, he joins that of being "rotary," coveting to gird the earth with a tight chain of affection.

"For this reason, the Rotary Club of Bilbao takes the present initiative and applies to all the Rotary Clubs of the world, entreating them to take up arms on behalf of the cause of Spain and to use all their means of publicity, all their recourses and relations to let the whole world be informed that the notices depicting Spain as being transformed in a field of disputes and struggles are totally false and interested. Echos of a black legend, they endeavour to isolate Spain once more, for in none of our cities has normal life been suspended even for one instant.

"The Rotary Club of Bilbao is faithful to its statutory duties and holds itself aloof from all interventions in political strife. It is composed of men of the century, each one of which insists on his right to judge according to his patriotism and his conscience the development of the events of the political life of his country. But, whatever our individual convictions be, we all, brotherly united, collectively demand the due tribute to truth and, for our country, the respect and consideration due to her for her past and her present.

FERGUSON AMONG THE PHRASEMAKERS.

There is more fun and good humor and sparkling wit in a British general election than in any other political contest of which we know. Men like Lloyd George and Winston Churchill are exceedingly clever with their tongues, Lord Birkenhead is the prolific author of pungent expressions, and even a staid Conservative like Mr. Stanley Baldwin "gets off some good ones" in the course of a campaign. The listener wonders if these brilliant talkers think of all the smart sayings themselves, or if they have a corps of humorists suggesting happy quips and catchy phrases for their benefit.

It has been said of Mr. Lloyd George that "Slogans drip from his lips like dew-drops from the April grass." The Liberal leader has the faculty of using language that is understood of the common people—that smacks of every-day life and every-day activities in the every-day home. In addressing a vast audience of women, he asked if the Government was "sweeping the room or just raising the dust." Every housewife and indeed every flapper certainly got that point. Mr. Churchill, being queried as to how the election would come out, wittily replied, "It is on the laps of the goddesses," meaning of course that the five million new flapper votes would decide the issue. In labelling his opponent's policy as a "skimpy chicken" the late Sir James Whitney, usually a very ordinary speaker, used an expression that went home to the amused intelligence of every wayside farmer. So Sir John Macdonald could employ telling topical language to good advantage.

There is now at the head of the Ontario Government a man who gives increasing evidence of possessing the genius for the homely, homespun phrase. There were examples of what we mean in his address to the Conservative Convention at London. In explaining the educational reforms by which he proposes to make two years of high school work available in the public schools, with a similar readjustment between the university and the high schools, the Premier declared that, "The boy in the small centre should not have to go to the large centre for an ordinary education." The lower form work of the secondary schools will be done in the common schools. "Under my proposal you will have your boys and girls at home two years longer—under mother's care and at reduced expense to Dad." There we have a direct appeal to the average father and mother, living in the country or in a small place, who want their children to have the best and yet can ill-afford to pay their board in town, and at the same time fear for their safety away from home at such a tender age. It is an appeal to the thrift and moral sensibilities which dominate the majority of Ontario households. So the boys and girls are to have two years more under the parental roof, without sacrifice of education advantage—two more years "under mother's care and at reduced expense to Dad." That certainly is a phrase that gets down to bedrock, clarifies the air, makes the coming school changes plain to the plain man—a phrase that will go far to carry Mr. Ferguson's educational project to victory throughout the province.—Ottawa Journal.

MEMORIES

Memory is one of the most precious gifts given by God to our human faculties. We have memory of people, memory of experience, memory of loved ones, gone to abide in that Heavenly Home. Also memory of kind acts, one to the other, memory of regrets and sorrows, oh! could we but recall some of them. And memory of home, the home of our childhood, when we gathered around that family circle and were held and protected, under the shadow of the parental wing.

Such fond memories.

Memories pass as a fleeting shadow, flying on to the great eternity. Oh! reader worldly gifts will rust and decay through time, but, memories last forever.

Alas! when the days of our apprenticeship is over, and we hasten on to that promised Home, may the memories we leave behind us, be like the leaves that make the forest, like the minutes that constitute the ages, and may they be examples of golden fruits which have ripened into Love, Hope and Sacrifice. I say "Blessed, most Blessed, is he whose memories are happy ones.

THE ORLAND BRIDGE.

Orland, Ont., May 14.

The Examiner.

The public are somewhat prone to censure Mr. Samuel Hazlewood who constructed a plank bridge across Cold Creek for his own convenience, because he makes a charge to parties who wish to use it to escape what was perhaps one of the worst four-mile detours in the province.

It seems that the people who live in the vicinity when they make a protest are told by the county officials that cement work could not be put in during the month of February, yet many public works were being carried on elsewhere in the province. And later, nothing could be done in April as the water was too high, yet bridges are constructed over rivers where ten times the water has to be dealt with.

Prominent men, such as Mr. Sam. Nesbitt, ex-M.P.P.; Major Belford, ex-M.P.P.; Chas. Davidson, ex Warden of the United Counties, and Reeve Morgan pronounce strongly against the delinquency of the officials responsible for nothing being done in any way for the replacing of the bridge that was washed out on January 19th, nearly four months ago, on one of the heaviest travelled roads running northward between Toronto and Montreal.

Delegations that waited on the Provincial authorities on December 4th, 1928, and March 12th, asking for something to be done, got no assurance as to their request being granted, and were told that the county officials should be the parties to do the work, while county officials say that the Province will take the matter up in the near future, so the Orland bridge seems to be a football between the province and the county, to be kicked from one to the other.

CRUSHED STONE ON ROADS.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,— The last letter of the Kicker savors of he, being the gent to throw the balls that are manufactured by another gent, inasmuch as he wavers from crushed stones to "uncrushed stones."

Why is he not requested to fire his balls at Douro, Dummer, Belmont, Harvey and Smith, that have mile after mile of crushed stones that are pointed out by the local residents as a "marked improvement," and to a great extent crushed with the same crusher machine.

It appears to the uninterested that there is no scalp desired in those other townships.

The gents that are firing the already prepared balls will observe that notwithstanding the possibility of the prompter forming a joint stock company to finance his aspirations, they may rest assured that the goal he is after cannot be wrecked with such balls and, no doubt, will subsequently be referred to as a "dream."

Life Steps In

By RUBY M. AYRES

CHAPTER XLI.

"What's the matter with you two?" Mrs. Inglis asked in blank amazement, and with a great effort Ana roused herself to answer.

"I'm angry with him. He has made me very angry." Then suddenly she pulled herself together and managed a laugh. "No, I'm not. It's all nonsense. Let's have tea."

She sat down and took up the teapot, but her hand shook so badly she spilled some on the cloth.

"You're making an awful mess," the General said gravely. He was sitting up at the table with cushions banked around him, his solemn eyes fixed on Ana.

Mrs. Inglis looked at her brother's forbidding back.

"Where are your manners, Tom?" she demanded sharply. "Come and make yourself useful. God knows you're not ornamental."

Drake obeyed sullenly, but it was a most uncomfortable meal.

Ana talked all the time, though she hardly knew what she said, and Dolly did her best to play up to her, but she was conscious of tragedy in the little room, and it was a relief to everyone when she informed her brother it was time they were going.

"I've got to be back in London to-night at any cost," she said briskly. "I've come fifty miles out of my way to oblige you, my lad, and now I think it's a pity I did. You've hardly opened your mouth. Go out and start the car. I want to talk to Ana."

Drake obeyed without answering. He was seething with rage and jealousy. Until this afternoon he had discredited Mollie's light declaration that Ana was in love with Anthony Hambledon, but now he knew it as positively as if she had admitted it. The telltale flash in her eyes—the sharp indrawn breath when his name was mentioned—Drake ground his teeth as he went out into the road and mechanically opened the bonnet of the car.

The little town was bathed in glorious sunset tints, and the peace of approaching evening pervaded everything.

Drake looked up at the wonderful sky and hated it. He wished he had been killed last year when he and Ana met with their accident at Honiton. What was the use of going on living? Life was only made up of disillusionment and disappointments.

He hated Ana . . . he wished he had never seen her. He wished he had not insisted upon coming to Lyme Regis to-day. An hour ago he had been so happy, so excited, and it had all come to nothing.

Mrs. Inglis and Ana joined him.

"What a lovely evening!" Ana said. She spoke very quietly, with the desperate control of one whose heart is shaking.

"It looks like a storm," Mrs. Inglis said with obvious meaning. She tapped her brother's arm. "And you are the blackest of black thunder clouds," she scolded. "Laugh, for heaven's sake! When you've lived as long as I have you'll realize that there's nothing in the world that can't be cured if you laugh."

But Tom would not even smile. He shook hands frigidly with Ana and got into the car.

"Thank you for coming," Ana said with an effort. "It's been ever so nice to see you both."

"Liar!" Mrs. Inglis answered calmly. She drew the rug round her, waved her hand, and the little car started away down the hill at a tremendous pace. At the bend leading to the town Mrs. Inglis turned and blew Ana a kiss, but Drake gave no sign.

Ana shut the gate and stood for a moment leaning against it. It was such a wonderful evening. The glow in the sky had deepened till in places it was almost blood-red. The window of a little house opposite caught the light and reflected it in rays of fire.

So many roads we tramped together, dear,
So many roads in many a place;
Now though I trail the streets of all the world,
I shall not see your face.

The words of the poem Ana had read that afternoon in the magazine came back to her mind.

Once for many weeks she and Anthony had been happy together in this very place. They had slept under the same roof, stood together at this very gate, walked along the sands with just such a glorious sunset in their eyes—more than a year ago now!

Oh, why had they not realized all that those lightly spent days would mean to them afterward; why had they not cherished them more deeply?

If I could only have it over again I would never let him leave me," Ana told herself passionately, but she knew that she would do just the same thing to-day as she had done in that forever-gone yesterday.

It was not to be—no, to be! No happy ending—no happy ending. Always those words seemed to ring in her ears; sometimes at night she woke up with them on her lips—No happy ending!

And yet hope would not utterly die. She told herself frantically that surely some day, somewhere, life would be kind and let her come face to face with Hambledon round the quiet corner of some street.

The General called to her from the cottage, and she turned guiltily and went in to him.

"Have they gone?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Good job!" the General grumbled, and something in the tone of his child voice sounded so like Anthony's when he was cross that the tears rose to Ana's eyes even while she smiled.

"It's unkind to say that," she said.

The General was silent for a moment, then he said with an air of lofty superiority:

"Horses cost more money than motors."

"It all depends," Ana said cautiously. There was another silence, then the General announced: "I don't like that man."

"Don't you? Why not?"

"Because he made you angry."

Ana laid a hand on his shoulder.

"That was my fault, and very silly. It's always silly to get angry over things that can't be helped."

That was true enough, she told herself. It was silly to get angry, and yet—in her heart there was still such a burning rage that she was afraid.

She was glad Mollie was away. If she had been in the cottage she knew that terrible words might have passed between them; as it was she would have time to calm down and be more reasonable.

There was a knock at the cottage door, and when Ana went to open it a telegraph boy stood lounging against the wooden framework.

"Name of Fabian!" he said mechanically.

"Yes." Ana took the envelope and broke it open. Could it be from Anthony?—how foolish, no doubt it was only from Mollie, and yet the same thought always sprang to her heart, that perhaps Anthony was coming home. But it was from Mollie.

Expect me to-night.

"No answer."

Ana went back to the cottage with a dreadful feeling of coldness. In a few hours she would have to meet Mollie, and take her kisses—and listen to her selfish prattle and hide all that she herself was feeling.

"I can't, I can't," she told herself in despair. "I don't want to see her. I never want to see her again."

But she knew she would have to. And presently when she had got the General to bed, she went into Mollie's room to see that everything was in readiness.

The narrow little window stood open to the dusk and in the sea breeze the short muslin curtains fluttered like moth wings. A set of expensive enamel brushes lay incongruously on the plain wooden dressing table. They had not been there when Anthony was in England, and Ana knew without being told that they were a gift from Mahon.

"Beast! Beast!" Ana's heart said again.

She had never felt such passionate rage and hatred before; it was like a live thing gnawing at her heart.

"I must go away; I can't stay here any longer!" she told herself even as she moved about the little room turning the bed down for Mollie and putting things straight.

There was a photograph on the narrow mantelshelf of the Hambledons' home in Rhodesia—a plain, low-roofed bungalow, with a group of men on the stoop outside, and Mollie very much in evidence in the foreground.

Hambledon was there too, standing a little apart from the rest, tall and sombre—even then looking as if either he or they had no real place in the picture. There was a sort of puzzled tolerance in his expression that seemed to ask: "What am I doing here with all these people? Or what do they want here with me?"

"Oh, my dear, my dear," Ana said in a voiceless whisper.

Had he too watched the sunset to-night, she wondered? Had he thought of her even as she had thought of him? It seemed a crude absurdity that they must live their lives apart while the years raced so callously away.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— by John Hix

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

LYRICS OF LIFE
WHICH TO LOVE

I don't know which to love the more,
My mother or my father, for
My little bed, my little chair,
The dinner that is always there,
My story books, the clothes I wear,
And all the other things they do
To make our house so comfy, too.

Of course, my father works and works,
Yes, every day, and not by jerks
Like some men do, and then he brings
The money home, and mother sings,
And goes downtown and buys the things,
And watches for the bargain days—
So mother ought to get some praise.

My father pays the grocer man,
And brings us berries, when he can,
But mother is the one to make
The apple pie, the johnny-cake,
The shortcake, too. My goodness sake,
Just buying things, that's not the worst—
My mother has to cook them first.

My father pays for house and heat,
But mother keeps it nice and neat.
It's really rather hard to say
Which one to love the more each day,
And so I guess the wisest way
Is just an average to strike
And try to love them both alike.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FRIDAY, MAY 17, 1929

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

Astrologers read this as an unimportant day in planetary government. Adverse aspects balance those of benefic influence.

There is a sign sinister for entering into new partnerships or for signing leases on contracts.

It is well to delay affixing signatures to important papers until a more promising configuration prevails.

Newspapers may carry to-day's reports of world affairs that are more or less sensational. International relations may be peculiarly interesting.

Women are subject to stimulating and energizing influences of the stars. They should make the most of to-day's opportunities of every sort.

Legislative bodies are to benefit through the membership of women, it is foretold, and in Congress one or two will gain fame for courageous utterances.

The seers point out that in the new order of things women will gradually gain political power of the right sort and slowly establish themselves in places for which they are fitted.

This should be a lucky day for lovers, for romance is encouraged by the stars.

This should be a fortunate day for theatres and all places of amusement. Musicians should profit. The summer is to be a lucky period for them.

Shopping is subject to the best possible direction of the stars. Merchants should rejoice in large sales.

Although thrift has been preached persistently, there will be a continuation of lavish spending on the part of persons of every financial class, it is foretold.

The habit of speculation is to be especially avoided at this time when the stars encourage whatever offers quick gain. Gambling will become more and more prevalent in society.

Persons whose birthdate it is, should be careful in the coming year which may bring the harvest of what has been sown. False friends may cause losses.

Children born on this day may be fond of amusement, travel and excitement. They probably will have bright minds, but should be taught concentration.

King Alfonso XIII of Spain, was born on this date, 1886. Edward Jenner, 1749, discoverer of the benefits of vaccination, also had this as his birthday.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY SEEING AN ACCIDENT STIRS US MORE THAN READING ABOUT IT

The fatal victim of an automobile accident is just as fully dead whether you read about the accident or whether you see it take place. But you are no equally moved.

You are more deeply stirred by seeing an accident than by reading about it. In witnessing the accident you get more impressions than you do in reading. There are also many more mental processes involved. The stimuli that react on you come with greater mental processes involved. The stimuli force, more intense vividness and from many more sources. The result is that great nervous resistance is encountered, resulting in strong feeling.

In the case of reading about an accident you are only mildly stirred because less of your personality is involved. The impressions come not from the outside world through the gateway of the senses but are internally aroused by means of association. The latter is always less vivid and less strong.

This is why we wouldn't think of passing up a hungry child in the street who appeals to us for something to eat while we do very little about the thousands of starving children in famine countries we read about. The one is vivid, concrete and arouses our emotions; the other is remote, abstract and arouses little feeling.

The mental state involved has wider application. Selling goods by means of real live salesmen who secure personal interviews and demonstrate their products is much more effective than descriptive literature sent through the mails. That is why so many traveling salesmen are employed. The expense is great. But it pays.

This also explains why the effort to sell goods through letters and circulars and advertising is supplemented by colored plates of the article for sale and other devices calculated to take the place of the personality of the salesman. In other words, an effective ad must be as vivid as possible. As many of the senses as possible must be appealed to. The sense of sight is the mostimportant means, and yet through colors and pictures and other means the sense of taste and smell and hearing, the touch are also suggested.

All of these things are based on the general law that whatever you experience first-hand is always more vivid and accompanied with a greater degree of feeling and emotion. Incidentally this explains why you are ready to empty your pockets into the hat of the eloquent speaker raising funds for a worthy cause if you are within sound of his voice. Later when you are by yourself, the emotional appeal is diminished even though the cause remains as worthy as before. And you are inclined to cut down your subscription.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LITTLE BOY

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

For a moment or two, after he had been thrust into the cage in the pet shop with his city cousin, Mr. Lettuce, poor Uncle Wiggily did not know what to do. His ears still tingled where the pet shop man had lifted him by them, though the man didn't want to hurt Uncle Wiggily.

Then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily heard the man speak. And as it happened, the old rabbit gentleman could understand what the pet shop keeper said. And what the pet shop keeper said was this:

"I certainly have caught a queer rabbit this time!"

"What do you mean—caught a queer rabbit?" asked the wife of the pet shop man.

"Look here!" he called and she came from where she was feeding bananas to a monkey and stood in front of the cage where Uncle Wiggily was shut in with Cousin Lettuce and some other store bunnies.

"Oh, I should say you had! What a queer rabbit!" cried the wife.

And no wonder, for Uncle Wiggily wore his tall, silk hat, his black coat and red trousers. He was nicely dressed, for when he started out that morning to come to the city to visit his cousin he had thought he had better look as stylish as possible and he put on his best clothes.

"However do you suppose a rabbit got dressed this way, and how did he come to be in our store?" asked the pet shop keeper's wife.

"I think this new rabbit must belong to some children," answered the man, "and they dressed him like this, as if he was in a circus. But I guess the poor old bunny got tired of being with the children and ran away. He must have known we kept rabbits so he turned in here."

"And look!" cried the woman. "He has a basket of lunch!"

"Well, what do you know about that?" cried the man with a laugh. For he was a jolly good fellow if even he did keep animals shut up in wire cages for pets. "This sure is a funny rabbit!"

"What are you going to do with him?" asked the woman.

"I'll keep him shut up here until the boy or girl who owns him comes looking for him," answered the man. "They'll be along pretty soon, I guess, for they wouldn't want to lose a circus rabbit like this! Ha! Ha! He sure is funny!" The man and his wife laughed again as they stood in front of the cage and looked at Uncle Wiggily.

"Don't mind what they say," spoke Cousin Let, as Uncle Wiggily called him for short. "They don't mean to be rude."

"Oh, I don't mind," answered Uncle Wiggily good naturedly, in rabbit talk, of course. He and Cousin Let were speaking to each other, now that the man and his wife walked away to feed their dogs and cats. "I've been in cages and traps before," went on Mr. Longears, "and I have been chased by the Fox, Bob Cat and other Bad Chaps. But I always managed to get away. I will now, too."

"I'm sorry you had such bad luck, coming to see me," said the city rabbit. "Perhaps I should have told you that you might have to be shut up in a cage as I am."

"Oh, that's all right!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "This is really only a jolly adventure. But don't you mind being shut up in a cage like this, Cousin Let?"

"I did at first, but I don't any more," answered the city bunny. "Once I used to hop around the woods and fields as you do. But so many Bad Chaps chased me that I was glad when a kind man caught me and put me here in his pet shop. One day I shall be sold to some little girl or boy and I'm sure they will treat me kindly and feed me well."

"I hope so," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, here I am and I might as well make the best of it, though it is queer not to be able to hop around as much as I like."

"I think some little boy or girl will soon get you," spoke Cousin Let. "You look so cute all dressed up. I haven't worn any clothes since I came here. I'm just in my natural fur."

As they spoke a little boy came into the pet shop with his mother.

"Oh, buy me that rabbit!" he cried as soon as he saw Uncle Wiggily. "Look, he's just like a circus rabbit! Oh, buy him for me!"

"Yes, that dressed up rabbit is for sale," said the pet shop man. "But I shall have to keep him here a few days to see if any one claims him. If they don't, you may buy him, little boy."

Well, a few days after that, during which time Uncle Wiggily lived in the cage with his cousin, being well cared for by the man, a few days after that the little boy and his mother came back.

"Yes, you may have the circus rabbit now," said the pet shop man. "No one has called for him." So Uncle Wiggily tall, silk hat and all, was put in a basket and taken away by the little boy.

"I wonder what will happen now?" thought Mr. Longears as he was carried away in the basket.

OIL GOSSIP

Through Solloway, Mills and Company.

Further details of Alberta Pacific Consolidated's drilling program reveals ten wells on Turner Valley acreage alone and two more wells in Coutts district. Two outfits are to be kept working steadily in the Turner Valley until the ten wells have been completed. Contract with large Oklahoma drilling company calls for the first well to be spudded in before June 15th, and the second well within a month of that date.

Eight to ten wells will be underway in the Wainright field within the next six weeks, and four of these have already been started. Active companies include Wainwell, Sasko-Wainright, British Wainright, Anwood-Wainright, Fabyan Petroleum and Wanright Oil and Gas.

Supervisor Walling states that the gas flow at the Calmont is steadily increasing. The presence of a quantity of crude in the well made bailing imperative and several hours of this work were necessary to reduce the flow so that drilling could be resumed. There is only about 15 feet of hole left to clean out and the management is now expecting large production at any moment.

Three wells will be sunk on the Ghost River structure in Section 27, near the junction of the Bow and Ghost Rivers in search for oil this summer. The companies operating will include the Burdick Syndicate of Vancouver, under the supervision of Russel Johnston, independent geologist, and a newly formed syndicate of Winnipeg and Calgary operators headed by C. R. Jones, of Winnipeg. These operations, entering a new field, which however, has been known to geologists for several years, is considered the biggest stride in the exploration of new structures since the Waite Valley venture was undertaken.

The Winnipeg-Calgary syndicate has secured the oil rights on 1,000 acres in the centre of the Hudson's Bay-Marland holdings. In addition to this, they have holdings in the Herron, Highwood, Sinclair, Waite Valley, and Jumping Pound structures. This syndicate's well will be the first started.

The Vancouver syndicate will commence operations under the supervision of Russel Johnston in Township 27, Range 6, west of the Fifth, as soon as weather permits.

Aerolite Oil Corporation, Ltd., has completed its sales organization for Vancouver and British Columbia, locating its operating office at 727 Rogers Building. Its properties are located both in Turner Valley and Highwood and final plans for drilling have now been completed.

A merger of Calmont with Dallas could be consummated any time now, state Solloway, Mills and Company, but it is likely that matters will rest until the drills at Calmont No. 2 take a couple of months.

McDougall No. 2 is no said to be making approximately 80 barrels a day.

Wheat Prices Down; Provisions Steady

CHICAGO, Ills., May 16.—(Canadian Press).—Owing largely to reports that frosts predicted for Kansas and Nebraska had proved to be inconsequential, wheat values underwent early declines to-day. Besides, evidence pointed to selling of wheat future deliveries here on the part of foreigners. Opening ⅛c to ⅜c off, wheat afterward kept near the initial range. Corn prices also were easy, starting ¼c to ⅜c off to ⅛ to ¼c up, and subsequently showing but little change. Oats tended upward. Provisions held steady.

Dance Is Big Feature Of the Legion Carnival

The Canadian Legion Carnival ended last night's session with a splendid dance, for which Eric Roberts' orchestra furnished the music. Reg. Turner was manager for the evening, and hundreds of people gathered to join in the dance or watch the dancers.

Mr. Turner is making special arrangements to-night to handle the crowds that are expected. Seats will be provided for those who do not wish to dance.

IRREGULARITY IN OIL SECTION

Ajax Oil and Newbec Leads Trading On Standard Exchange.

NORANDA WEAKENS.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16 (C.P.).—A further decline in Hollinger, active trading in Ajax Oil and Newbec, and unevenness in the oil, marked the morning session on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Hollinger came out at 6.20 and then sold off to 6.00, the morning's low, where it showed a loss of 15 cents. Lake Shore was off 55 at 25.45, while Noranda weakened 25 to 45.75, as did McIntyre to 17.25.

Ajax started off strongly and after touching a high of 67, reacted to 61, off 2 points, while Newbec, in the heaviest turnover on the list, weakened 2½ to 57.

Home, Mayland, Baltac and Asosociated oils were all a little softer.

ISSUES ADVANCE WITH LOWERING OF MONEY RATE

Wide Fluctuations in Rates Arouses Widespread Criticism Among Brokers.

COPPER SHARES WEAKER.

Public Utilities Prominent in Early Afternoon Upturn at New York.

NEW YORK N.Y., May 16 (Canadian Press).—The stock market turned completely around to-day, breaking sharply at the opening when the call money renewal rate was fixed at 14 per cent., and then rallying in spectacular fashion when the money rate dropped to 10 and loans were offered in the "outside market" as low as 8 per cent. The wide fluctuations in money rates aroused widespread criticism among brokers and stock traders.

Renewed weakness of the copper shares, several of which dropped to new lows on selling inspired by the announcement that the Anaconda, Chile and Andes companies would curtail output 10 per cent. created uneasiness in the early trading. Anaconda dropped to 121, as contrasted with the year's high of 174 7-8, but recovered its loss by snapping back to 125. Greene Cananea sank 4 points to a new low at 146 5-8, and Phelps Dodge, Inspiration and American Metals also broke into new low ground, but made up all or part of their losses.

Extreme declines of 4 to 8 points were recorded by Wright Aeronautical, Commonwealth Power, By Products Coke, A. M. Byers, Packard Motors, Simmons and General Electric, but all snapped back on the lowering of call money rates, General Electric soaring to another new high record at 282 7-8.

Public Utilities were prominent in the early afternoon upturn, North American climbing more than 3 points to a new high at 115½. G. Shattuck extended its gain to 5 points by touching a new peak at 156¾, and Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance moved up 3½ points to a new top at 111¾. Kraft-Phoenix Cheese also sold at the year's highest level.

TORONTO LIST HOLDS STEADY

Trading Extremely Quiet With General Lack of Interest On Toronto Curb.

CANADA BREAD ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16.—(C.P.)—Though there was a general lack of interest and trading was extremely quiet, prices were fairly steady on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. In only two cases were declines market and these were in the higher-priced stocks. Goodyear slumped five points to 350 while DeForest Crossley lost its 3 point advance of yesterday, to hold at 64.

Canada Bread was the outstanding performer, selling up to an extreme peak of 208, with the noon price of 200 showing a net advance of 10 points. C.P.R. selling ex-rights, was three points stronger at 233. International Nickel advanced fractionally higher at 49 7-8. The oils all recorded fractional losses.

He Didn't Need a Mask But the Idea Was Good

"I thought I had to have my gas mask on before I could get into the dugout."

This was the answer of one visitor at the Canadian Legion Carnival last night. He had the old army gas mask strapped around his neck. But, really, he didn't need it. The dugout provides a lot of fun, but it doesn't need a gas mask. It is a real reminder of the old war days—and it will give the civilian visitor an idea of the living conditions in the front line.

M. J. Maher Wins First Prize At the Carnival

The three winners were: M. J. Maher, 372 Rubidge Street, set of china donated by Teco Stores; W. E. Heard, 158 Lake Street, $5.00 worth of records, donated by Heintzman Hall; Mrs. A. Lemming, 64 Auburn Street, brass kettle, donated by R. J. Soden.

The prizes will be delivered on Monday of next week.

Financial News and Briefs

A Special Service to the Examiner

DeForest, Crosley Will Display New Models in June

The Financial News Bureau learns that the DeForest, Crosley Dealers Convention is to be held in the Royal York Hotel on June 12 and 13 when, it is stated, a complete line of the newest models will be shown. The convention, coming as it does at a time when the stock is holding at a high level, will perhaps hold more than ordinary interest for the stockholders. DeForest Crosley products have enjoyed remarkable increase in sales during the last couple of years and any innovation in the machines they turn out will be watched with considerable interest.

Questioned regarding a possible future connection with another company, or any new development, officials merely stated that the satisfactory earnings were having their reflection in the increased purchasing of stock and that prospects at the present time left nothing to be desired.

Noranda's "C" Ore Body Expected to Duplicate Famous "H" Ore Body

Latest reports reaching here are to the effect that the picking up of the "C" ore body on the Noranda Mines property gives evidence of being a development of major importance. At the time of President Murdoch's visit to Montreal at the beginning of the month, he made special reference to this occurrence, stating that the ore was running from 7 per cent to 8 per cent on copper, with good gold values showing.

According to the more recent advices, it is stated that interests who have been in close touch with the situation have expressed the opinion that the new find is likely to prove of almost equal importance as the famous "H" ore body in point of extent and values.

Estimates that before the end of the year output will have increased to a point which promises substantially higher earnings than were forecasted at the beginning of the year have resulted in a steady accumulation of the stock over the past week or two. The presence of rights has been a factor in the market position of the stock. These, however, will disappear after May 22nd. The Street is expressing keen interest in the performance of Noranda when it is left to its own devices, and without being affected by the fluctuations in the rights.

New England Power Output up 12.6 Per Cent

New England Power Association, controlled by International Paper and Power Company, reports that the output of electric energy of its properties in the first three months of this year was 12. per cent over the production in the corresponding period of 1928. This compares with an increase of 10.8 per cent in the output of all public utility power plants in the United States as reported by the United States Geological Survey. In March, the production of electric energy by New England Power Association was 12.0 per cent over that of March of last year, while the total production of the United States increased 10.6 per cent in the same period. Industrial activity in the New England States during the first quarter of this year was maintained at a higher level than in any other first quarter on record. New peaks in production were made in steel, automobiles, automobile tires, in the manufacture of farm implements, radios, machine tools, and in a number of lesser lines.

WORKMEN HAVE CLOSE ESCAPE

HYDRO LINE TROUBLE.

One of a number of men came within six feet of being struck by a large mast and the others had almost equally miraculous escapes from injury yesterday afternoon at the William Hamilton plant. The large stiff-legged derrick, weighing many tons, was being used in hoisting a 16,000 pound load when a guy wire, secured to a large pole snapped the pole. The large mast began to fall, and but for the other guy wires staying it, the men would not have escaped so easily.

The guy wire fell across hydro lines, causing considerable trouble but the main feature of the accident was the narrow escape of the men.

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICES

KEENE UNITED CHURCH.

KEENE, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—"Mother's Day" was fittingly observed in the United Church on Sunday. At the Sunday School session the "Mother's Day" program was given, which included readings by Helen Nelson and Roland Rennie.

A pleasing feature of this session was the presentation of a red letter Testament to the youngest member there, this being won by the young son of Mr. and Mrs. David McIntyre, and a bouquet of flowers to the oldest member present, this being won by David Armstrong. In thanking the Sunday School, Mr. Armstrong quoted a few reasons why he supported the Sunday School, and quoted an eminent judge, who recently said that very few Sunday School scholars were seen in criminal courts. Somebody has asked the question, "How long will I attend Sunday School, or when will I be too old to attend?" Mr. Armstrong told his listeners and particularly the younger ones, to ask their mothers that question, and she would attend to the rest of it.

Mr. Armstrong was the former Sunday School superintendent, being succeeded by David Edwards.

Mr. Armstrong presented the Testament to the little boy, while little Phyllis Kempt presented the bouquet of flowers to Mr. Armstrong.

At the morning church service, the Rev. Mr. McNeely preached a very fine sermon coinciding with Mother's Day.

Also at the church service was a baptismal service, when four babies were baptized.

The floral decorations, both in the Sunday School and church, were beautiful.

Many Enjoy Service.

At the evening meeting of the Young People's Club, another large gathering attended this increasing popular service put on entirely by the young people.

A sing-song of fifteen or twenty minutes precedes the devotional part of the program, which on Sunday evening was in the nature of a pageant by a number of young girls under the direction of Mrs. (Rev.) McNeely, entitled "The Spirit of Motherhood," which was followed by a solo by A. E. Fletcher.

SPRINGVILLE UNITED CHURCH.

SPRINGVILLE, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mother's Day services of both church and Sunday school were well attended. Mrs. M. Johnston and Rev. A. H. McConnachie spoke at Sunday school on "The Origin and Significance of Mother's Day." At the morning service, Rev. Mr. McConnachie chose for the subject of his sermon, "A True Home." Two beautiful bouquets of tulips and daffodils decorated the church. These were given by a member of the church, who always honors the memory of his mother in this manner. After the service the flowers were distributed among the elderly mothers of the church.

WARSAW UNITED CHURCH.

WARSAW, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — Rev. H. B. Herrington, assisted by John Sargent, assistant superintendent of the United Church Sunday School, conducted the Mother's Day service in the United Church on Sunday evening. The choir was made up of young people from Mrs. George Taylor's and Rufus Payne's classes. The church was prettily decorated with flowering plants. Miss Lena Miller read the story, "The Quest," Rufus Payne read "The Givers of Life." Iris Darling recited "Oh, the Love!" and Cressa Payne, Florence Bolton, Enid Darling, and Jean Hawthorne recited "Your Mother."

Rev. Mr. Herrington began his address by telling the story of an African mother who was hoeing, with her baby strapped to her back. The little head was hot, so she unstrapped the child and laid it in the shade. A leopard soon picked up the baby, whose cries attracted the mother, and she ran with the only weapon she had, her hoe, and succeeded in regaining her child at the risk of her own life. It was simply one of the many illustrations of mother love. All do not run the same risks, because not called upon so to do. When a mother loves so, her advice is to be heeded; it is wisdom to listen to and think about mother's advice. Sometimes young people consider mother old-fashioned. Young men leaving home should be very careful in choosing their companions, either girls or boys, especially should they beware of girls whom they meet on the street. Girls should be careful of their companions, actions and dress, and not lay themselves open to coarse jests. Mother advises the church and Jesus Christ, study, clean hands and faces. Children and young people can help mother by putting things in place and doing as she wishes."

To Hold Classes.

The annual coaching classes will be held in the Institute Room on Monday afternoon, May 20, and Monday, May 27. Holding the classes a week apart gives the girls a chance to think over the first lesson. The time is short, but the classes may be larger. These classes are to aid the girls in their homes, and also to get a team or individuals to judge at Peterborough Fair and at Toronto.

Personal.

Grace Presbyterian Church

MILLBROOK, May 16.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Grace Presbyterian church was well filled on Sunday evening when a special Mother's Day service was held, a joint session of the Sunday school and the regular congregation featuring the occasion, and a children's choir of more than thirty voices, largely from the primary and junior departments of the school, adding greatly to the interest, and the spiritual significance of the worship period.

Within the altar were beautiful floral decorations, the colors specially chosen for Mother's Day, pink and white, being shown in the fragrant blossoms. Throughout the congregation, as in other churches of the community, it was noted that practically everyone, including the minister in the pulpit and the little ones filling the choir loft, had acceded to the request always broadcast at this time to 'wear a flower in honor of mother'; the fact of its being colored or white told the story whether mother was still with her loved ones, or had been called a higher home.

BABY'S OWN SOAP for the Nursery

Best for You and Baby too

The order of service in the official programs issued by the O.R.E.C was followed, with some necessary changes, these latter including an alteration in the matter of the hymns, the children singing the ones with which they were more familiar: "Jesus Bids Us Shine"; "Jesus Loves Me"; and "Dare to be a Daniel". A duet, one of the songs specially dedicated to motherhood, sung by two young boys, Joseph Thorndyke and A. T. Armstrong, was also much enjoyed.

The minister, Rev. Mr. Riddell, had "Golden Glimpses of Motherhood" as his theme, emphasizing especially a mother's love and the lengths to which it will go in reclaiming any wandering child, seeking at any personal sacrifice the highest welfare of her family.

Referring to the mother of Christ, and her great love for her divine Son, the speaker went on to show the fearlessness of such love and the fact that no man can realize the full extent of a mother's love, and the risks which will be undertaken, and the suffering uncomplainingly borne, if the well being of a loved one is at stake, and the desire for service fills her heart.

"Men love deeply, but their love is of a different quality, and is apt to show itself by a fighting spirit, as when Peter, in the garden, to show his devotion to Christ though loyalty at that hour might mean death, yet drew his sword and would have destroyed the high priest's servant, the glancing blow, however, escaping the head, and striking off his ear only. That the later denied his Lord did not mean that love was dead, but only that fear, for the time, had triumphed.

"A mother's training of her children sometimes finds its prototype in God's disciplining of His family, an unfailing love being the underlying principle that directs the course of action. A true mother, giving herself unselfishly and unceasingly to the welfare and development of her sons and daughters, will see in later years, as the lives unfold, that the character formed will stand the test of circumstances, and is of the fibre that fits for eternity. It will all lead up to this—that God is love, and love is of God, and true motherhood is the finest expression of these truths of which the world has knowledge."

At the United Church

Mother's Day services were observed in the United Church with a men's choir at night, and a joint gathering of the Sunday school and the congregation at 10.30 a.m., pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., and the superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, being on the pulpit platform, and together conducting the service.

The hymns and responsive readings were chosen from the official program issued by the Ontario Religious Council, and the special offering in aid of this organization was taken up. The ushers were chosen from the younger men, Arnold Fallis, Oliver Brock, Lawrence Rowland, and Ernest Burnham.

A feature of peculiar interest, and of deep religious significance, was the reception service when more than thirty were received into full connection as church members, the elders assisting the pastor with this part of the ritual. Among those who came to the altar, and made public profession of their faith in Jesus Christ by allaying themselves with His church, was the entire class of Senior Trail Rangers, sixteen 'teen age boys, with their teacher, C. C. Garside; the hymn being sung at the time was, most appropriate: "Just as I am, Young, Strong, and Free".

Miss Wilma Fallis gave the reading, "The Guest", and Miss Beatrice Jones followed with, "The Givers of Life". The choir sang, "The Prodigal's Mother", W. H. Coombe taking the solo and obligato parts.

The pastor chose as his theme, "Mother's Love", developing the thought that in the Old Testament God chose to manifest Himself to men through paternity, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and others, having special revelations of His plans and promises, but this is changed in the New Testament where Jesus, through His Incarnation, shows that God is making Himself known through motherhood.

"To reform the world one must begin the work by enlisting the mothers. They are God's appointed guides for the people. Men like to work through things and forces, so God made mothers as an expression of His kindness, and the far reaches of His love."

"A mother's throne is peculiarly in the realm of affection. They suffer when their children go wrong; their patience, long-suffering, and forgiveness are seemingly without limit. No one that prays on earth has such influence as a mother. Jesus was showing that God is like that when He fed the hungry, healed the sick, received the fallen, and the outcast; made it clear that God is not a stern dispenser of justice, with no pity for His children, but rather is filled with compassion, and has an untiring love that reaches out to bring the farthest prodigal into His fold, and into a personal experience of His great heart of affection.

"The determination to enter into the next war should be left with the mothers", was a closing quotation as the speaker referred to the influence of motherhood on art, literature, music, and theology.

The report, presented by the secretary, showed 23 teachers and officers present, 313 scholars and an offering of $17.76. This was the largest attendance of the school at a public session that has been known for several years. Beginning Sunday, May 19, the school sessions will be at 10 a. m., with public worship at 11 o'clock, and will so continue until October at least.

The pastor announced for another reception service on the first Sunday in July, which will be the date for a regular communion service. The reception on Sunday morning was the second service of the kind within a few weeks, more than thirty being added to the church membership each time, some by letter from the church where they formerly resided, but the majority following a desire personally expressed to serve Christ, and have their names enrolled among His people on the church register.

ROSENEATH UNITED CHURCH

ROSENEATH, May 16.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The United church was filled to capacity on Sunday evening to hear the excellent and impressive sermon delivered by Rev. M. R. Brown who spoke on Mother's Day, taking his text from Isaiah 66:13, "As one whom his mother comforteth so will I comfort you."

"There are two figures of women which stand alone in history for their singular beauty and fascination.

They are Joan of Arc and Mary of Nazareth. The latter most highly favoured among women, was a real women, and it is by her virtue and virile womanhood and mother-love not divinity, that has strengthened the souls of people till the present time. If Mary be no goddess yet Mary to all our minds must always be in a sense divine.

That mild calm of Mary round whose feet surged all the storms of agony and anxiety; frantic and fear of which Mother love is susceptible, yet above which she triumphantly rose and has been to all mothers the great tonic and inspiration in time of need.

No doubt there is in Christ all that sympathetic understanding which we look for in a woman's soul, but nevertheless and especially to women there is a unique fountain of peace and rest which the thought of motherhood triumphant in Mary of Nazareth opens up, amid those experiences of life, which are woman's secret, woman's danger, woman's glory. Motherliness is Divine. Fatherliness is very fine but it does not cover all the ground.

If God had been just a father we should all have been like the little children in the painting.

"As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you."

The Jews have a beautiful saying: 'God could not be everywhere, so he made mothers'."

In concluding Rev. Mr. Brown told a story of a bird. After a forest fire in Northern Ontario the firerangers were walking over the burnt grounds when one of them noticing a something uncommon lying on the ground, kicked it with his foot, only to find it the charred body of a mother partridge who had saved her young by covering and protecting them from the fire. The little chicks were alive and hearty nearly ready to fly. Oh what a mother!

"If I were hanged on the highest hill
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother O' mine."

The service was thoroughly enjoyed and the choir consisted of mothers whose songs of praise blended with the day.

How to protect winter clothes and bedding from moths

Edited by HILDA DORAN ROSS Home Economics Counselor

A big problem which presents itself every spring is that of putting away the warm winter clothing and bedding. How can one be certain that they are safe from the moths? Cedar and camphor are the old standbys, but many a discouraged housewife has told me how ineffective these have proved. I have found that the real trouble lies in not putting the winter things away until after the moth eggs have been deposited, and neither cedar nor camphor will destroy moth eggs, or even prevent them developing.

Such washable things as woollen stockings and underwear should be washed in warm Princess suds, being exceedingly careful to rinse them in water of the same temperature as the washing water.

And remember when washing woollen garments that they should not be allowed to become cold between washing and rinsing. As soon as they are wrung out from the warm suds, they should be placed immediately into a rinsing tub of equally warm water. Otherwise it is impossible to guard against a change of temperature and the consequent shrinking.

By washing in warm water and drying in the sun the eggs and larvae of the moths will be destroyed before putting the garment away.

The best and most effective way I know of for keeping winter clothes and bedding through the summer is my mothers', and I want to give it to you. First of all everything you are going to pack away should be carefully examined, especially at the seams, hems, collars, etc., and all traces of moths destroyed. Then give everything a good airing and sunning, shaking well or beating. When you are sure that all the things are, at the time of packing, free from moths or eggs, wrap them in either newspaper or wrapping paper. Moths do not eat paper, and if your woollen or silk things are well wrapped they will be safe. Camphor or cedar may be used as a further precaution, but they are not necessary.

All washable garments and bedding should be washed with Princess Flakes before putting them away for the summer, because that is the surest way to destroy all eggs and larvae.

I use Princess Flakes for all my washing tasks—dishes, floors, woodwork and the family washing, because I have tested them and found them to be a pure soap—not a lot of chemical filler to give bulk and make a bigger package. Princess Flakes will never give you red hands, and it is safe to use them for washing anything which will stand plain, tepid water.

If you would like to try Princess Flakes write to me at 64 Natalie Street, Toronto 8, Ont., enclosing 4c in stamps, and I will see that you receive a free trial package. I will be glad, too, to help you with any of your washing problems.

GENERAL OTTER BURIED WITH MILITARY HONORS

Following a quiet service at St. John's Garrison church, Toronto, on May 9, the body of the late General Sir William Otter was removed to the armories, where it lay in state. The photograph here shows the procession leaving the church, while an escort of the Royal Canadian Regiment pays a military tribute. On the RIGHT, leading, is Rev. J. Russell MacLean, rector and garrison chaplain, who officiated at the service, while on the LEFT is Rev. Canon W. L. Baynes-Reed, rural dean of Toronto, who assisted. As well as members of the family, the service was also attended by members of the headquarters staff.

Read this wonderful letter from a man of 76 who is "more active than 40 years ago," thanks to the "daily dimeful" of Kruschen Salts.

"As a subject of both gout and rheumatism for just over 50 years, I wish to acknowledge that I have found nothing so absolutely certain as Kruschen Salts. Epsom and other things all have their virtues, but also their drawbacks. Kruschen Salts I have so far found, after 5 years or more of using them, have no drawbacks and no counter-effect whatever. I am 76 and more active than 40 years ago."

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at drug and department stores in Canada at 75c. a bottle. A bottle contains enough to last for 4 or 5 months—good health for half-a-cent a day.

After Using Two Boxes The Pains Have Gone

Ontario Man Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Fred Jordan Suffered With Pains in His Back and Hips

Bolton, Ont., May 15.—(Special).—Mr. F. Jordan of R.R. No. 3, Bolton, Ont., relates his experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills in the following letter. He states:—"I had pains in my back and hips, and for some time thought it was a cold and that it would leave me again. However, instead of doing so, it got worse, until I was badly crippled and had to clutch something to pull myself up out of a chair. Then it struck me that it was my kidneys. I bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and soon got relief. After taking a second box the pains have all gone Now I always keep a box in the house."

The best and most practical system of relief in the world today, is the one in which the sufferers ascertains for himself the nature of his disease and then chooses the most certain means of healing; this has been known for the past thirty years as Dodd's Kidneys Pill treatment.

CONDITIONS ARE UNCHANGED IN DURHAM TOWN

Poverty of Few Months Ago Still Exists in Wilton Park Mining Area.

STRENGTH SAPPED AWAY.

One Married Man Has Only Worked Seven Weeks in Past Eight Years.

BISHOP AUCKLAND, Durham, Eng., May 16 (By George Hambleton —Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Among the mining villages of Durham, Witton Park remains in its poverty and its distraction. When the writer visited Witton Park last January, ill-fed children with pinched faces stood about the streets shivering in the raw cold of the north country. Four months have brought changes. From various relief sources clothing came into the village. The children in the streets seem better nourished.

But the bettering of trade of other centres passed Witton Park by on the other side. A number of the younger men have been transferred, but the great basic problem of unemployed married men is still unsolved. He is anchored. And young men still lounge around doing nothing, their continued idleness and scarcity of food sapping their vitality and steadily wearing away any initiative they ever possessed.

The writer talked with two of the idle married men to-day. One of them with five children, has worked only eleven weeks in the past eight years; the other has not worked at all for six years. According to the latter's own story, he must maintain his wife and four children on poor law relief of $8.25 a week. Out of that sum he pays $1.25 for rent.

"What did you have for dinner?" the man was asked.

"Bread and margarine," he replied.

"And what else?" the writer asked.

"Oh, I just pulled the old belt a bit tighter," he replied.

So, with its dismal, ill-kept street, its wretchedness and its destitution, Witton Park remains—still waiting for something to turn up.

SOCIETY HEARS SYNOD REPORT

Knox Christian Endeavor Society To Hold Strawberry Festival in June.

HAVELOCK NEWS.

HAVELOCK, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence). — At the regular meeting of Knox Christian Endeavor Society, held on Monday evening in the schoolroom of the Knox Presbyterian Church, a report of the Synod meeting held in Toronto last year was given. The president, H. F. McNichol, presided. It was decided to hold a strawberry festival on the manse lawn on June 20.

Entertain W.M.S.

Mrs. (Rev) J. Lennox entertained the Knox W. M. S. at the manse for the May meeting, when an excellent report of the Ontario Provincial W. M. S. Convention, held recently at Hamilton, was given by the delegate, Miss M. Sexsmith. The president, Mrs. Lennox, also spoke briefly on the convention, stating that it was the largest in the history of the church; five hundred delegates being in attendance, and also referring to the splendid hospitality shown the delegates by the Hamilton branches of the W.M.S.

A very interesting portion from the study book, "The Royal Road," dealing with the Indians and the government in the early stages of Canadian history, was read by Miss K. Anderson. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. (Rev.) H. Brown for her kindness in taking the delegates from the W.M.S. and Y.W.A. in her car to the Hamilton convention.

At the close of the meeting a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and a social hour spent.

RELIEF FROM GAS STOMACH PAINS DIZZINESS

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent. of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mrs. George Bell, of 82 King St., London, Ont., writes as follows:

"I had suffered for years with stomach trouble, gas would form and bloat me up so I could hardly catch my breath, my nerves were shattered, I did not sleep, became weak and run-down, and spent enough on medicines to furnish a home.

"Two months after starting Tanlac, however, I had gained eleven pounds and was entirely free of indigestion. Now I have no gas, no pains in my stomach. The headaches have disappeared. My nerves are calm. I sleep like a child, am always ready for my meals, and my housework seems like play to me."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausae, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run-down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist to-day. Money back if it doesn't help you.

PAINTING STEEPLE IS HAZARDOUS JOB

James J. MacPherson Describes Method Followed in Erecting Scaffold.

So many people have been endangering their necks by gazing upward at the workmen in charge of the repainting of St. Peter's Cathedral steeple, in preparation for Old Home Week festivities, that it might be interesting to know just how preparations were made for this extremely hazardous-looking job. James J. MacPherson, who has charge of the painting, has kindly described the method followed.

Three ladders were securely wired together, their lengths being respectively sixteen, twenty-two and thirty feet. These were placed in readiness against the side of the church. Mr. MacPherson then went up inside the steeple and cut a small hole which allowed him to put out a block and tackle. This was lowered and the men on the ground below affixed the waiting ladders and they were hoisted up. Mr. MacPherson, inside the steeple, steered them into place and they were snubbed and tied securely. From the height in the steeple at which he worked, the ladders reached up to the ball on its eminence.

Mr. MacPherson, who remarked simply, "this was the pernickety part of the job," then went out of the hole in the steeple and climbed up the twenty-five feet of ladder which remained unsecured, with its weight carried by the snubbing below. At the base of the cross which surmounts the steeple, he placed a ¾-inch rope, to secure the scaffold or cage from swaying in the wind.

For the cage a 5/16-inch crucible steel cable is used, with the block at the top and a small winch on the centre of the scaffold.

The Compensation Board requires a lifeline for each man, so a line of this type is attached at the top and is 200 feet in length. Each man also wears a lineman's belt and the lifeline runs through two rings attached to it. If the cage fails, the man can slide to the ground on his lifeline. These lines are attached to the top of the spire, above the ball.

FACES MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

PARRY SOUND, Ont., May 16. — (C.P.) Anthony Tucker, the 13 year old Trout Creek lad, who shot and killed his father, must stand trial for manslaughter. The grand jury at the spring assizes here yesterday brought in a true bill against him.

Tucker's father is alleged to have been in the act of assaulting his wife in a drunken rage when the boy fired the fatal shot.

Miss Jackson, of Murray Street Baptist Church, Gives Instructive Address.

The May meeting of St. James's United Auxiliary of the W. M. S. was held on Tuesday in the church parlors, with Mrs. J. H. Dudgeon presiding. The carefully planned program was under the direction of the West Group.

The services opened with prayer, led by Mrs. Davis, followed by the hymn "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus." The beautiful scripture lesson was read by Mrs. J. Fairbrother.

Reports of the various departments of work were given by their respective secretaries, and an excellent showing of financial standing given by the treasurer. Following the offering, all joined in singing the hymn "We Give Thee but Thine Own."

The secretary of temperance education, Mrs. Plunkett, brought a message from the Bay of Quinte branch meeting, held in Kingston, on May 1-3. This report dealt with the experience of government control and its effect upon the individual, the community and the province. A resolution from the branch regarding the stand to be taken by the W. M. S. upon this question was sent down to the dominion board.

Mrs. Plunkett also gave a list of the Branch officers for the coming year, which is of great interest to local auxiliary members.

A duet that was very much enjoyed was sweetly sung by Mrs. H. A. Bonney and Aileen Rose.

The "Watch Tower" was reported by Mrs. English as a herald from India and Mrs. Rose on Africa, each bringing short stories of life and conditions in our mission stations there.

Instructive Address

The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Jackson of Murray street Baptist church, who took as her theme, "Christian Stewardship." She presented the subject in a story entitled "Giving to the Lord". This she divided into three questions, "What is It?" "What is the Rule", "What is the Measure". The question is one that has ong been discussed and in the present case was answered for one woman in a dream by an angel. God has not left it to us to frame a rule but has given it to us in His holy word. "Giving to God" is returning to Him His own with interest.

The measure of your duty in the matter of giving is your obligation to God.

It was urged that each one should take this rule of service and make it a living force in their work for Christ. Immediately following this splendid talk on Christian stewardship the Consecration hymn was sung and the service was brought to a conclusion by brief prayers offered by Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Davidson, Miss Kidd and Mrs. Dudgeon.

Do You Buy Your Grease Blindfolded?

TOO many drivers "just leave the car in to have the transmission and differential greased." It sounds simple enough—but very few of them have any idea what quality or quantity of grease they actually get. They go back to the station—pay the bill—and drive away in complete ignorance of what has happened. That is buying "blindfolded."

"WHIZ" dealers are equipped with the "WHIZ" METERED GREASE dispensing unit—a meter attached to the grease dispenser which shows exactly how much grease has actually been put into the transmission and differential. And of course, the fact that it is "WHIZ" GEAR GREASE assures you of getting the best quality of grease.

Your dealer sells and recommends "WHIZ" GEAR GREASE. Drop in to-morrow and have him flush out the old Winter grease and replace it with "WHIZ" summer grease.

"One pound of fresh grease added to four pounds of worn grease means five pounds of old grease."

MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

Mrs. Haddow, Returned Missionary From Bolivia, Gives Instructive Address.

AT LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—An open meeting of the Baptist Mission Circle of the Lakefield Baptist church was held on Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. J. C. Harvey, in the chair and Miss Beulah Northey at the organ.

Mrs. Haddow, a missionary on furlough from Bolivia, was introduced and gave an interesting address on her work. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Haddow went to Bolivia in 1915 for the first time, and they have served two terms, and are having their second furlough. They made the journey via New York and the Panama Canal and landed at a port in Chili and made the journey overland into Bolivia. They are literally in the mountain tops, as they work at an altitude of 12,300 feet and when they go for a holiday, they go to an altitude of 78,000 feet. No one who has not lived in the mountain tops can understand the joy of getting down into the valley, as the high altitude is very trying.

Their headquarters were at La Paz at first, and there their three older children were born. Mrs. Haddow had a severe attack of smallpox, contracted from a woman who sat next her in church, and which so seriously menaced her health that it was feared she could not return, but through the providence of God she recovered sufficiently to do so. Mrs. Haddow, before her marriage, took a course in practical nursing which has been of untold value to her in her work and has enabled her to do a great deal to help the poor people.

When they returned to Bolivia after their first furlough they were stationed at Oruro, living first in the mission house, where a room was fitted up as an infirmary through the generosity of the Others Bible Class of Murray Street Church, Peterborough. Later the Haddows have resided in the college which has been built in Oruro. A room there has been fitted up through the generosity of the Mission Circle of Murray Street Church and there Mrs. Haddow has her patients. She has nursed a large number of maternity cases and has a layette which was given her by the Others Bible Class.

The Bolivians are an easy-going race of very indolent habits, free and easy morally and do not set a very high value on human life. They also have a casual attitude toward indebtedness and will calmly say, "If I don't pay you, God will," which is hardly reassuring to the creditor.

A missionary to succeed must educate patience, nose and stomach very thoroughly.

Infant mortality is terrible and is partially due to the fact that the babies are not especially welcome and mother-love is painfully lacking.

The people are frightfully addicted to lying, which is not second nature but first nature; their idea of cleanliness is not that of Canadians, and an annual bath taken with one's clothes on suffices for their needs, in their own opinion.

A missionary's life is a busy one and a free day is an unknown luxury. Fuel is enormously high: Coal $75 per ton and wood $1.50 per cwt., while coal oil is 60 cents for an American gallon which is less than Canadian measure. There is no means of warming the houses and there is often great discomfort.

Mrs. Haddow wears heavy underwear the year round for although Bolivia is a tropical country, it is cold in the high altitude. The mercurial Latin temperament is hard to deal with and very hard to make a lasting impression upon. At a meeting if you ask all who wish to follow Christ to come forward, they all flock to the front; but it means little or nothing, as they quickly forget. Idolatry and adultery are very common and almost impossible to combat. One has to teach them as children, using familiar illustrations, as our Lord did.

So many missionaries speak of their conversions, the people clamoring for the gospel and the wonderful meetings they have; but Mrs. Haddow could give no such story, as the people are self-satisfied and indifferent and they may never really see the reaping of the harvest. After thirty years of mission work in five stations there are not more than one hundred and fifty converts and of that number not more than one-third are really consecrated believers. This shows the discouragements. The Ro-

By special request, Mrs. Haddow sang in Spanish, "Come to The Saviour, Make No Delay," with Miss Northey at the organ.

Mrs. G. Craig Bell contributed a beautiful sacred solo with the accompaniment played by Mrs. G. E. Renwick.

Rev. J. B. McCormack spoke a few words in closing before giving the Benediction. Rev. Mr. McCormack said he could see where Lakefield people could learn a lesson from the Bolivians in their desire to go forward as here the teondency is to fill the back seats first.

Mr. McCormack expressed a hope that the interest in missions would be greatly augmented by the visit of Mrs. Haddow.

On motion of Mrs. McCormack and Mrs. A. Mitchell a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Haddow, which was endorsed by the audience.

Afternoon tea was served in the schoolroom and a social half hour was spent.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Miss Gladys McKenzie Honored By Friends at Social Evening.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Monday evening a group of young people from Zion Sabbath School and their friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnum to spend a social evening with Miss Gladys McKenzie, who is leaving the community where she has resided for several years, to join her father at Blue River, British Columbia.

The evening was spent with songs, games and stunts, closing with a dainty lunch. Rev. F. G. MacTavish acted as chairman for the more formal part of the affair, and Gladys Petherick read an appropriate address.

Miss McKenze was then presented with a handsome purse by Gladys Simpson, after which she made a splendid reply. Mrs. Barnum, teacher of her class and Rev. Mr. McTavish both spoke briefly.

First Game Played

Early in the evening the first softball game of the season was played between Fred Barnum's Tuxis class and the intermediate boys. The older boys were handicapped by lack of numbers, being able to muster only four men to their opponents eight, until the fifth inning, when three more arrived. In spite of this, they led until the fourth, when a batting rally by the juniors tied the score at eighteen all. Playing in semi-darkness, the Tuxis boys managed to scrape in the odd counter in the fifth to win 21 to 20.

The Tuxis group lined up as follows: Fred Barnum, Ted Owens, Fred Fry, Don Kerr, Arthur Petherick, Gerald Petherick, Don Watson, Gerald Barnum.

Intermediate Class.—Grant Kerr, Roy Fry, George Brunton, Lindsay Anderson, Carl Owens, Clarence Barnum, Roy Barnum.

Umpire—Don Barnum.

Owing to a short left field fence and no ground rules, home runs were quite common. Gerald Petherick pulled off the prize catch in the last frame to stop a rally by the older boys.

Mother's Day Observed

Mother's Day was fittingly observed in Zion church on Sunday, when Rev. F. G. MacTavsh led the service. The church was well filled and all entered into the spirit of the occason. A choir of mothers supplied special music. Readings by Laura Watson and George Brunton were well given and the address on "Mother's Day," by Rev. Mr. MacTavish was very inspiring.

CHAIN STORES ORIGINATED IN DOMINION

Group of Englishmen Established First Set Over 200 Years Ago.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY

The first chain stores in the modern sense were established in Canada by a group of Englishmen over two hundred and sixty years ago. And they, the chain stores, are still going strong.

Charles the Second of England gave the charter to the first chain store system in the world, the Hudson Bay Company.

These chain stores were operated on exactly the same system as the chain stores of today. That is, buying in wholesale quantities at the closest price and distributed by a central warehouse to all stores in the chain.

They started with a couple of stores, then they had five, and soon, so successful was the chain store idea, they had hundreds of stores across the continent.

Some of these stores were located in territory that is now in the United States.

The Hudson Bay Company have great stores today in the Canadian West.

Thus the first and biggest chain store system, in the history of this continent, was in Canada.

Mount Pleasant

MOUNT PLEASANT, May 16. — (Examiner Correspondence). — The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Mount Pleasant branch of East Durham Women's Institute was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Thomas Graham, on Wednesday afternoon.

The roll call for May was "Suggestions for Next Year's Program." Eleven members answered to this very important subject with several enlightening messages.

During the business hour discussions were held regarding inviting a play to be staged in the near future, but owing to the serious illness of a member no definite arrangements were made. It was also decided that enough shingles be bought to finish shingling the remaining portion of the roof of the hall.

Regarding having a garden party, plans were left over until the next meeting.

Mrs. George Jamieson and Mrs. T. C. Morden were a committee appointed to make the necessary arrangements regarding the visit to the Bethany Institute on May 17.

Mrs. Ira Lowe and Mrs. Garnet Shield were appointed in charge of the program, etc., for the evening meeting to be held on May 20 as a joint meeting for the men as well as the ladies and open to the public. A lady speaker from the department will address the gathering in the interests of the ladies, and a gentleman speaker will also be present from the department to address the gentlemen.

A letter of thanks was read for flowers sent during illness and bereavement of one of the members.

A member also expressed her appreciation of fruit and kindness given by the Institute during her recent illness.

The president expressed the loss sustained by the Institute by the death of the late Mrs. McLean, who was ever willing to help in the different undertakings and was always present at the meetings when it was possible for her to attend.

A splendid report was prepared and read by the secretary, Mrs. T. C. Morden, outlining the different activities of the branch during the past year.

The treasurer, Mrs. George Jamieson, also gave a report of the year's receipts and expenditures, stating that a balance of $24.13 was in the Institute treasury.

On motion, the 1928-29 staff of officers was re-elected. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. Thos. Graham; vice-president, Mrs. Ira Lowe; secretary, Mrs. Clew. Annual Report.

The 24th annual report of the Mount Pleasant branch of the East Durham Women's Institute is as follows:

Number of members, 21; number of meetings held, 14—12 regular meetings and two special meetings; one where the branch joined with the Cavan Institute for the Summer series meeting, the speaker being Mrs. Macoun, secretary of the Federated Women's Institutes; the other special meeting was held in honor of an old member, Mrs. James Hunter; attendance at the 12 regular meetings, 204; average attendance, 17; largest attendance at a meeting, 37; number of papers, 12; a contest, a floral wedding story, a game "The Magic Spoon," also various readings and recitations made up the programs during the past year; 2 papers were sent in to the department, and a splendid report of the convention held in Toronto was given at the December meeting by Mrs. Ira Lowe.

At the July meeting a treat of strawberries and cream was provided by the losing side of the roll call rally contest. Mrs. J. R. Eakins, the district secretary, and Miss Burnham, of Millbrook, visited the branch at this meeting. Mrs. Eakins gave an excellent paper on "Helping To Make Life Better By Being More Cheerful"; also a poem, "A Smile." Miss Burnham expressed her pleasure at being present.

The Institute visited the Cavan branch at the regular meeting in August, the Cavan members joining with the branch at the October meeting.

During the past year the Grand Temperance Lodge gave the Temperance Hall in this village to the Institute, and it has made a few improvements on this building; also rented it to the Canadian Order of Foresters, the rent for the first year to be $12.50.

A free-will offering was given by members and friends in the community toward repairs on the hall.

Two plays from outside points were given under the auspices of the Institute.

Mrs. Ira Lowe was appointed a member of the League of Nations Society and the membership fee of $1 was sent to the Society.

A donation was given in aid of the girls' judging competition; also a donation to the Red Cross Society.

Fruit and flowers were sent to the sick; also flowers to the bereaved of the members. Christmas cheer was sent to a needy family in the community on Christmas Eve.

The members have contributed blocks for a quilt to be made.

The Institute also has made plans for a course in first aid and home nursing to be held in June of the coming year.

Is your daughter enjoying life?

IT is just in her "teen age" that a girl should be getting the most fun out of life!—Yet so often it happens that girls of sixteen-to-twenty have outgrown their strength—are quickly tired, pale, nervous, generally run-down and unhappy!

These are sure signs of anaemia, a condition that results from thin, worn-out, under-nourished blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have corrected this in thousands of girls. Here is the actual experience of Mrs. Ben Nicholas of Erieau, Ont.

"My daughter was in a run-down state. She was easily tired and did not wish to associate with others. As this was unnatural, I began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they soon made a strong healthy girl of her. Now she is as happy a girl as one would wish to see."

Start your daughter on this proven treatment now by buying Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist's or any dealer in medicine or by mail, 50 cents, postpaid, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 1-25

14,613 MILES BEEN COVERED BY U.S. TOURIST

H. M. Ritscher, of Pasadena, California, is Spending Few Days in City.

HOMEWARD BOUND

Mr. Ritscher is Brother-in-Law of E. C. Patterson.

H. M. Ritscher of Pasadena, Cal., brother-in-law of E. G. Patterson, is a tourist visitor in Peterborough, homeward bound on a trip that has already counted off 14,613 miles on the speedometer of his limousine. He is accompanied by his wife.

Mr. Ritscher's extended travels first led up the Pacific coast through California, Oregon and Washington, crossing into Canada at Vancouver. He then retraced his highway course south and turned east through Arizona, Texas, Louisiana, and covered 3,700 miles of Florida visiting all the popular winter resorts, of which St. Petersburg is his favorite. He then headed north by leisurely progress to the Ontario boundary at Morrisburg, and will resume his last, homeward stretch of mileage by way of Detroit, having circled the United States between Canada and Mexico.

The graduation of his daughter, Ruth from the University of California, southern branch, on June 14, is one engagement which he and Mrs. Ritscher are looking forward to with parental affection. Another daughter Evelyn is an undergraduate of the U. of C.

The California license plate on the car parked on George street this morning prompted a friendly enquiry which turned up a vein of local interest in Mr. and Mrs. Ritscher's Peterborough relationship.

"We have enjoyed the trip," Mr. Ritscher remarked, "but it has been a long grind and succession of hotels until we reached Peterborough."

To the Examiner's enquiry he said the prohibition law was proving to be an effective measure in Pasadena. It was apparently more successful there than in the east. And of Ontario's government control he believed it was a good law although he had not been here long enough to form a conclusive opinion.

"I haven't seen any intoxicated persons here, neither have I seen one in Pasadena since we have had prohibition. Personally, I'm in favor of it."

and advised me to use it. I used four bottles and my face is now completely clear of pimples."

Warsaw

WARSAW, May 16.—(Examiner Correspondence). — An executive meeting of Dummer Sunday School Association is called in Warsaw on Monday evening, May 20 at 8 o'clock p.m.

Much Rain Falls.

The down pour on Saturday night was one of the heaviest rains that ever visited this district. In many places the water was still running over the roads on Sunday afternoon. Low places are covered with ponds.

A few farmers on high land are almost through seeding; others where the land lies low or is not well-drained, have very little sown. In a few places where there was fall plowing the grass is growing, and some of the earliest seeding has never been harrowed. Very few are complaining. If they cannot sow the early crops they can sow the later ones. Where earth could be washed off stones it is and where the roads were clay, they are beaten hard.

Tomato jelly is often recommended by up-to-date doctors for patients on a light, sick-a-bed diet. The tomato juice itself has important vitamines and the gelatine has special virtues of its own. Then too a nicely made small mould of clear tomato jelly is very attractive and it takes barely more effort to eat it than to drink a cup of strained orange juice.

Here is a good recipe for tomato jelly:

One can of tomatoes or six ripe tomatoes, one-half onion chopped fine, two and a half tablespoons of granulated gelatine, one tablespoon of lemon juice, one-quarter cup of vinegar, two tablespoons of sugar, salt, pepper, a half bay leaf, and two cloves.

Cook the tomatoes with the seasoning, then strain. Add a little water if needed to produce two cups of tomato juice. Add sugar, lemon juice and vinegar and bring the juice to a boil. Soak the gelatine in a half cup of cold water, add to the hot tomato juice and stir until dissolved. Let cool and then put into molds and put on ice until set. For invalids any or all of the spices may be omitted as well as the vinegar.

Tomato jelly served in the centers of scooped-out fresh tomatoes makes a good dish. Molds of stiff tomato jelly may be served with cold meats, or added to a mixed vegetable salad. Small molds of tomato salad may be arranged on beds of shredded cabbage with mayonnaise.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"To shrive his soul from the pangs of hell
The only requiem bells that rang
Were the harebell and the heather bell.
Hushed he is with the holy spell
In the gentle hymn the wind sang.
And he lies quiet and sleeps well."

—"The Dead Knight" by John Mansfield.

In recognition of the work of a very much liked president, the executive members of the Women's Art Association, along with the members of the "Causerie Francaise" or French Conversation Class, which is a branch of that society, gathered this week at the home of one of the members, to present Mrs. W. Blackwell with a pretty gift of china, which was enclosed in a very pretty green wicker basket, and had a little unusual touch in a poem especially written for the occasion by Donald Heins, who is a violin teacher of note in Toronto and comes to teach at the local Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. Blackwell, who has guided the destinies of the Women's Art Association during the past four seasons to a very successful standing in the life of the community, has proven herself to be a very popular executive. Her energy and tact and good will, combined with a delightful sense of the humour of things which gives her the ability to look constantly on the bright side, make her a most satisfactory president and it was with greatest sincerity in their giving that the ladies gathered to show appreciation of her services.

The little poem by Mr. Heins follows:—

"The thought we hold should be enshrined
Within a golden casket,
But sad it is, the daily grind
Confines us to a basket.

"Upon your kindly hands we press
A simple little token
Which never really can express
The thought we should have spoken.

"Your love for us, our love for you,
Your interest in the arts,
Must fill your life with all that's true,
As you now fill all hearts.

"These china baubles are a mark
A symbol of affection.
We'd like to dedicate a park,
And give you the direction."

He was just a youthful lad. His whistle sounded valiantly cheerful as he came down the street.

"What a pretty flower," we said, looking at the pure white tulip in his coat lapel.

He grinned. "I bought half a dozen of them yesterday" he said. "They cost me sixty-five cents."

"What did you do with the others?" we asked, carelessly.

"They are in the cemetery" he said.

We looked at him again. His eyes were red above the grin.

It was Mother's Day.

COSMOS, zinnias, and many other flowers, as well as tomatoes, cabbage, head lettuce, etc., should be transplanted at least once before being placed in their permanent positions. When this work is done carefully, the root system is strengthened and a stronger plant results.

* * * * * *

If taken direct from the original flat in which the seed was sown and set directly out in the garden, the plant is inclined to be spindly and tender. In moving from the hotbed, harden off gradually by exposing more and more each day in a cold-frame, removing all cover a day or two before transplanting outside. At setting out time, give a stimulant of nitrate of soda—dissolving this quick-acting fertilizer in water, one ounce to the gallon for each four square yards, and apply at intervals of two weeks,—and your plants will shoot ahead.

* * * * * *

The gladiolus comes into bloom in from fifty to ninety days, depending on variety. If the quick-flowering sorts are used, they may be grown almost anywhere in Canada, while a long-flowering season is possible by using early, medium and late varieties where the weather is more temperate.

* * * * * *

Plant the bulbs after danger of frost is over. The gladiolus will grow in almost any soil but is at its best in rich open loam, properly drained. Plenty of moisture and sunshine is necessary, though it is best to plant in a position where the bed will be shaded a little by light tree growth during the middle of the day. The gladiolus bed should be changed from season to season to avoid injury from fungus diseases in the soil. In sandy loam, plant four to five inches deep, but only half this depth in heavy clay.

* * * * * *

A greater decorative effect can be obtained if planted in clumps of about a dozen, spaced about eight inches apart, but where cut flowers are wanted, one may plant about four inches apart in rows in the regular vegetable garden. The tiny bulbs found clinging to the main bulbs or corms when dug in the Fall, may be planted about an inch apart in rows like onions and, if lifted up in the Fall and planted again each Spring, will attain flowering size in a year or two.

* * * * * *

Dig the soil to a good depth, plant the bulbs and cultivate frequently until the foliage makes this impossible. Special hand cultivators shaped roughly like a couple of bent fingers will be found useful for cultivating around these and other flowers. In cool weather, water late in the day and in very warm weather in morning as well as the evening.

* * * * * *

It is all very well to argue that it is cheaper to buy vegetables than to grow them, but if quality is taken into consideration the debate invariably goes to the man who has a kitchen garden at his door. There is a certain flavor about corn, peas, beans, and other perishable vegetables that simply cannot be obtained unless they are in the pot within an hour or two of picking.

* * * * * *

A continuous supply of these and other fine vegetables, such as carrots, beets, and onions, may be obtained right through the season if plantings are spread over a month or so in the Spring at intervals of a week or ten days. One must cultivate frequently and thin well, and in very dry weather soak the garden with water every three or four days. It is well to remember that one thorough soaking a week is worth a dozen daily sprinklings. After watering, get out the hoe and loose up the top soil.

The early crops are followed with later maturing sorts such as tomatoes, beets, carrots, beans and corn. These can be interplanted with the early vegetables as they will not need full room until the first named are taken out and consumed.

* * * * * *

Dahlias are another bulb or tuber which should not go in until all danger of frost is over. Sandy well-drained, deeply-cultivated and generously fertilized loam is the best soil. A little coal ashes or well-rotted humus which is simply decayed vegetable material will loosen up heavy clay and make it suitable.

* * * * * *

As dahlias grow to a height of from three to six feet, they will require staking, and the stakes should be places at the same time as the tubers so that the latter will not be injured. The tubers should be placed on their sides with the buds pointing upwards in holes about six inches deep. Of course, before planting, separate the clumps of tubers, taking care that each tuber contains a sprout.

* * * * * *

As the plant begins to grow, tie loosely to the stake. Nip off all but one or two side shoots and at least two-thirds of the buds if extra large flowers are desired. Order tubers early as the choicest varieties are soon sold out.

Minden Valley District Menaced By Flood Waters

LINDSAY, May 16. — (Special to The Examiner.)—Owing to the recent very heavy rains, flood conditions exist in the Minden Valley, in Haliburton County, almost equal to that of six years ago, when Minden village was seriously menaced. Acres of land along the Burnt river are under water and houses are surrounded by the overflow. Many of the gardens and much farm lands are under water, cellars are filled and boats have to be used on some of the streets.

The peak was reached on Saturday night following the heavy downpour. Reports state that the northern reservoirs are higher than at any time in years, but the flow through Burnt and Gull rivers are held in check by extra stop logs being placed in the dams.

PAINTING SCREENS.

Screens, window boxes, garden furniture and all other summery things should be painted freshly and put in perfect order before the first summer zephyr arrives.

STICKING CAKE

A cake that sticks to the tin may be loosened by placing a tin over a bowl of boiling water or turning the cake upside down on the table and placing a rag dipped in hot water over the bottom of the pan.

IDEAS FOR THE DYE-WISE

PRIZE LETTER FOR WISE DYEING

Mrs. Hughes Tells Secret of Nice Things at Little Cost

"I have used Sunset Dyes with wonderful success for many years. With a family of seven children and little money I proudly feel that my home was always cozy, bright and cheerful, and my children neatly and comfortably dressed. I was able with the indispensable, miraculous help of Sunset Dyes to turn out things really attractive and wearable.

"Certain coats have kept every member of the family warm at some time, made over, cut down, and changed in colour with Sunset. Old soft felt hats dyed with Sunset make attractive little girls' bonnets. Worn shirts, dyed pretty bright shades with Sunset make attractive dresses and nice blouses, and fine aprons. From bleached cloth flour bags dyed with Sunset, I have made rompers, bloomer dresses, aprons, boys' blouses, kitchen curtains, bureau scarfs and even patchwork quilts.

"Sunset-dyed, cheap, unbleached muslin makes attractive gifts of luncheon sets, bureau scarfs, pretty towels. A few cents invested in Sunset Dyes will make things just as bright and good as new; it is so easy and so quick to use."—Mrs. Thos. A. Hughes.

For fast dyeing, Sunset, 15c. a cake. For beautiful tinting, Dytint, wonderful new tint, big box, 10c. Made in Canada.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"THORA"

(Contributed by "Leatherhead")

I stand in a land of roses, but I dream of a land of snow,
When you and I were happy, in the days of long ago;
Nightingales in the branches; stars in the magic sky—
I only hear you singing, I only see your eyes;
I only hear you singing, I only see your eyes.

Chorus

Speak, speak, speak to me, Thora
Speak from your heaven to me;
Child of my dreams, light of my life,
Angel of love to me;
Child of my dreams, light of my life,
Angel of love to me, Angel of love to me.

I stand again in the Northland, but in silence and in shame,
Your grave is my only landmark, and men have forgotten my name;
'Tis a tale that is truer and older, than any the Sagas tell;
I loved you in life too little; I love you in death too well.
I loved you in life too little, I love you n death too well.

Chorus

Come, come, come to me, Thora,
Come once again and be—
Child of my dreams, love of my life,
Hope of my world to be;
Child of my dreams, love of my life,
Hope of my world to be.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

SAVING MIDDLE AGED FOLKS

If the death rate in New York State was 21 per thousand in 1890, and only 12 per thousand in 1927, it means that the death rate dropped 43 per cent in 37 years.

Now you know of course that this doesn't mean that in forty odd years from now there will not be any deaths.

It does prove however, that the lowering of the death rate has been due to the prevention and control of certain diseases which formerly carried off large contingents of infants and children. After middle life the death rates have not changed to any extent. It is safe to say that most of the important diseases of childhood are preventable, and that in the very near future deaths from diarrhoea, diphtheria, measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough will join smallpox and yellow fever as memories only.

But if more babies and children are saved because the above ailments have been overcome, then it means that there will naturally be more deaths in middle life and old age.

Now the point is that babies and infants are saved, because the state, in the form of public health administration, sees the children are examined in the schools, and the children are quarantined that have contracted infectious diseasss.

The babies get a better start in life than ever before because mothers now receive more care and attention before the child is born than they did in former days.

Now what are folks of middle and old age to do if the number of deaths at that age is to be lessened?

Simply go to their family physician and have a real "check up" on the entire body.

The family physician is now equipped to give a thorough examination and he has the added advantage in that he knows more about the patients personal history and peculiarities, than any other doctor possibly can know.

Then the dentist should be consulted and even if this has been done twice a year it is not a real check up on the teeth if there has not been an X-ray every two or three years.

If this check up by physician and dentist is done regularly, there will not only be a lessening of the death rate but more happiness because of good health.

Dr. J. V. DePorte reminds us that from the point of view of society as a whole, sickness is more important than death.

The Mirror of the Mode

By Mary Marshall

Quilting is effectively combined with embroidery in this cardigan of mauve crepe de chine worn over a pale pink frock.

Cardigans have been with us for several seasons, but this year they have assumed a place of unusual importance. Once when we spoke of a cardigan we thought of a single-breasted coat sweater—similar to the coarse woolen jacket long worn in Cardiganshire Wales. This season we have cardigans of crepe de chine or linen, or cotton, pique or even of chiffon. The word merely indicates the cut of the jacket—short, straight and usually collarless.

These convenient little cardigans made as they are of all weights of material will, I think, prove real blessings in solving the summer dress problem for many women. Many of the new dresses have cardigans or other little jackets to go with them, but it is possible to find separate cardigans that will harmonize with dresses of various fabrics and colors.

For the girl who likes to wear linen or silk frocks of the sports genre to business on summer days a cardigan in lightweight fabric provides just the right sort of wrap to make the dress appropriate for street wear. Sleeveless summer frocks are given a wider range of usefulness by accompanying cardigans which are of course long sleeved.

The cardigan shown is of mauve crepe de chine elaborately quilted and embroidered and the dress is of pale pink. With a similar type of dress in natural-colored pongee or shantung silk a navy-blue cardigan might be worn. Then the hat should be of light-weight navy-blue straw with beige ribbon trimming device. Such an ensemble would be an appropriate outdoor ensemble almost anywhere on a warm summer day.

PETERBOROUGH ASTOUNDED OVER WAY HUSKY RELIEVES ILLS OF LONG STANDING

Many Who Had Been Able To Find Only Temporary Relief Are Now Getting Permanent Benefits From This Medicine—Indigestion, Constipation, Headaches, Catarrhal Troubles, Rheumatic Pains, Kidney Ailments, Nervousness and Weak, Run-Down Conditions Responding.

Call at Bond's Drug Store and Let Husky Expert Explain How Best and Quickest Results Are Obtained—His Information Has Assisted Hundreds Here To Regain Health.

That "Husky" will relieve you even after scores of other efforts have failed, has been proven to hundreds of people in Peterborough and vicinity, who are now marveling over the way this medicine is putting an end to suffering with which they had been afflicted for years in some instances.

"Husky," which is now being introduced here by Bond's Drug Store, is probably the greatest preparation for the general upbuilding of health ever known. Famous chemists put their best efforts into the preparation of Husky, which is purely vegetable and therefore suitable for use by everyone.

One cannot go anywhere now without hearing the talk which is spreading about the amazing things this new treatment is doing here for people who had complained of sour stomach, gas, indigestion, headaches, rheumatism, biliousness, constipation, nervousness, sleeplessness, broken-out skin, etc. Wherever groups get together the absorbing subject of discussion seems to centre around Husky.

J. E. Leduc, known as the "Husky" Expert, because of his thorough knowledge of this medicine, is here from the Husky Laboratories at Toronto for the purpose of explaining this preparation and its treatment to Peterborough people. He is making his headquarters at Bond's Drug Store.

"The people of Peterborough have praised Husky very highly for giving relief from indigestion, gas on stomach, heartburn, full feelings after eating, constipation, nervousness, sleeplessness, broken-out skin, etc.," said Mr. Leduc to-day. "But," he continued, "the greatest thanks have come from those who have suffered for months or even years and have gotten relief.

"Those who had suffered for years from constipation, rheumatic pains in their backs and limbs, catarrhal conditions, stomach trouble and other ailments are now reporting real benefits. Very few of these were helped much by the first bottle of Husky, but the second began doing the work. A man told me yesterday that he thought taking Husky was useless two weeks ago as he had suffered with his stomach for years and nothing had ever given him relief for more than a day or two at a time. He said that he was all wrong, however, as it has helped his stomach so much that he can eat things he hadn't touched for years and they don't hurt him a bit. Others have reported relief from long standing cases of constipation, rheumatic pains and other ills.

"These reports are easy to explain when we realize how much of our suffering is the result of catarrh or acidity, which irritates the delicate stomach lining until it becomes inflamed and secretes mucus. This mucus surrounds the food we eat, causes gas and stomach pains, constipates us and our food sends impurities, rather than nourishment and energy, into our blood. Weak feelings and all manner of suffering follow.

CRESSWELL HULBERT.

"Husky's ingredients cleanse the system of this mucus and soothe the irritated membranes. That's why Husky makes you feel better so quick and why a treatment of several bottles gives permanent relief. For lasting results at least three bottles should be used in order that the medicine's soothing qualities may be given sufficient time to complete their work."

Cresswell Hulbert, of 1014 Inverness St., Victoria, B. C., one of the thousands who have reported relief from old ailments through the use of Husky, writes:

"When you have suffered with your stomach for months and then find something that relieved you, you are mighty happy, and that's why I'm praising Husky.

"All my food was disagreeing and I was suffering from gas on my stomach and heartburn. My stomach was very acid and I would spit up bitter bits of food. Recently a friend advised me about Husky, and it was good advice. I haven't been troubled with my stomach since I started this medicine.

"The acidity is gone from my stomach and the gas and heartburn no longer appear. I eat what I please, feel all right and am gaining in weight. I feel better in every particular than I have in years, thanks to Husky."

Call on the Husky Expert at Bond's Drug Store to-morrow and let him explain to you how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine. "I want everyone in Peterborough to know that I am here for the sole purpose of giving free information about Husky and they incur no obligation by calling on me," says the Husky Expert. Call on him, your visit may lead you to relief from your suffering just as similar visits have led hundreds in Peterborough to new health and strength.

Stirling

STIRLING, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Monday while men were engaged in burning brush on the government highway near Marsh Hill, by the shifting of the wind, sparks were carried to the roof of the nearby United Church, completely destroyed the building. Attention was turned to the saving of other buildings, and Col. R. Vanderwater's re-forested pinery. Not a tree was damaged.

On Tuesday a congregation meeting was held, when it was decided to rebuild the church at once.

GENERAL BRIDGE SURVEY SUGGESTED

Farmers's Enterprise Is Wrongly Resented—Many Bridges Destroyed This Spring.

BRIGHTON, May 16.—Resentment is frequently misdirected. At Orland on the Brighton-Campbellford road on January 18, the country bridge was washed out. The county officials, apparently hibernating or deeming it inexpedient to replace the bridge in the winter, did nothing about it. There was a four-mile detour available. The abnormal traffic was too much for the detour and it degenerated into an execrable condition.

Samuel Hazelwood, a farmer who lives beside the demolished bridge, constructed and maintained a plank bridge nearby, and charged a 25-cent toll for its use. This charge has been resented. He had the enterprise, vision and courage to make an investment. His charge by any criterion was not excessive let alone extortionate. He deserved the thanks not the abuse of those he so well served. Their abuse should have been directed at the county officials, not at Mr. Hazelwood. He built the bridge. The labor, logs and planks were his, and his charge for a structure that would be very soon supplanted was a very modest one.

Speaking of bridges brings to mind the fact that probably more bridges were destroyed or injured in old Ontario this spring than ever before—some with tragic results. Many motorists have remarked that they now drive over bridges with some misgiving. There are still in use in this province rattly, old viaducts that were never constructed for the continuity and type of load they are called upon to carry.

It has been suggested that it would contribute much to public confidence and possibly avert further loss of life and limb if thorough surveys of our highway and railroad bridges were made, and the public advised accordingly.

TOWN AUDITOR WARNS COUNCIL

Lindsay Facing Serious Financial Conditions Relative to Civic Expenditure.

ON HIGHWAYS.

LINDSAY, May 16.— (Special to The Examiner.)—Owing to the serious financial conditions with which this town is confronted, H. J. Lytle, town auditor, has issued a note of warning to the council relative to civic expenditures.

He drew the council's attention to the large sums of money being spent by the town on roads both in the municipality and in the county. The good roads expenditures, he points out, has been expanding at a rate that calls for serious consideration. The town has spent $80,000 on paved roads as well as contributing annually amounts for the same throughout the county, totalling $181,217.

The auditor does not question the desirability of good roads, but when the startling changes that are removing many of the former merchants (whose places are being taken by chain stores and oil service stations) are considered, the future of the town could not be viewed with the confidence of former years.

Little Grain Unloaded At Midland Elevators

LINDSAY, May 16.— (Special to The Examiner.)—While grain congestion of a serious nature is reported from Buffalo and Port Colborne ports, C.N.R. employees in Lindsay are standing by waiting for the grain movement over this division to the east, whenever that takes place. Notwithstanding the fact that the elevators at Midland are the nearest to the head of the lake ports, Fort William and Port Arthur, very little grain is being unloaded at this port. Railroad men are at a loss to understand why this situation exists, but are inclined to lay the responsibility on the Canadian Wheat Board.

The situation is somewhat different at Port McNicholl. Considerable western grain is finding its way to the C.P.R. port, which is attested by the number of long freights passing through Lindsay and Peterborough for the east.

Colborne

COLBORNE, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. and Mrs. F. Simmonds paid Colborne a visit on Sunday and called on old neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Harndon spent Sunday in Port Hope.

Miss Thelma Davis, of Toronto General Hospital, spent the week-end at the home of her parents.

Miss Marjorie Davis is in Belleville General Hospital, convalescing after an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Reginald Grant is ill with pleural pneumonia.

Salem Church was nicely decorated for Mother's Day, and the service was appropriate. Mr. Faulkner conducted the service. In the afternoon Mrs. Frost was pianist for the service, with an unusually large choir.

THIS GREAT HEALING OIL MUST BANISH ECZEMA AND SKIN TROUBLE

Or Your Money Back. That's the Plan On Which Emerald Oil Is Sold By McDermid Drug Co., McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and All Good Druggists.

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

Go to McDermid Drug Co. Ltd., McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered the way to restore your skin to perfect health.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

GOOD PROGRAM IS PROVIDED BY ENTERTAINERS

Concert Presented By Ex-Service Men at Legion Carnival.

REALISTIC STAGE SETTING.

War-time Melodies and Humor Brings Back Memories of Martial Days.

(By Jeanette)

"Oh, oh, oh, it's a lovely war. What do we want with eggs and 'am, when we've got plum and apple jam?".

Just one of the songs that the war and, later on, Red Newman in the "Dumbells," made famous, as it echoed in the upper hall of the Canadian Legion building last evening, when a group of soldier boys sat in their dugout, with shellfire breaking realistically overhead, and entertained themselves and their audiences with a glimpse of their lives in those gloomy days just before the Armistice was declared.

A part of the entertainment for the Carnival at the Legion Hall this week is a concert presented by soldiers, who are in khaki suits and have all the accoutrements of Johnny Canuck, when he shouldered his rifle and marched away to fight for King and country.

Just as they gathered in their shell refuges in France, so they group together in these concerts, for the stage is a simulated dugout at one side, complete with brazier and soup kettle and gas blanket, and the remaining portion is a trench in an advance machine gun post, with a real machine gun spitting away in the darkness and the flash of shell-fire intermittently appearing overhead. There are blue "foots" that cast a dark glow over the setting and there are red coals in the brazier. "Charlie the Cook" presides over a mess of mulligatawny soup that contains all the choice ingredients of the real "mulligan," in the way of potatoes, "as per," bully beef, onions and even an intruding sock.

The boys receive letters and parcels from home, distributed by the officer in charge, and get a lot of fun out of them, and they are having a little music and singing when Fritz interrupts their fun and sends over several "beauties" that spoil the harmony. "Slim Flinigan" and "Sliver Flanagan" are sent for the rum rations, but a passing shell, as they hilariously explain later, knocks the cork from the bottle and the shock brings them back in an inebriated condition to their disgusted mates.

Entertaining Program

The men have a very entertaining program of jokes and songs and music that keeps the audience in good humor throughout an hour's performance. They are all in the vein of war-time melodies and humor and bring back memories of wartime days. All the favorite tunes that echoed through the fighting and turmoil come back again and the feet of the listeners tapped in time last night to a medley chorus of song and music that was one of the jolliest bits of a jolly program. These songs included the prime favorites: "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," "Old Soldiers Never Die," "Mademoiselle from Armentieres," "Tipperary," "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Blighty," and that droll bit of humor that covered so much pathos in their farewells, "Good-by-ee, Don't Crye-ee."

Tom Griffin and Al Spenceley were the concertina and accordeon musicians of the evening, and Tom Chapman played the mouth organ. Vocal solos during the performance were given by Harold Farr, singing "Smoke Clouds"; Tom Champman in "Friend o' Mine"; Walter Farr, "When the Great Red Dawn is Shining"; Eddie Leonard, who sings "When This Awful War is Over" to a very familiar tune; Fred Stanley, in a "Mother" song, and Arnold Everett, in "Roses of Picardy."

The action of the piece includes a "Cootei Race" that has a tragc finale in the death of "Agnes," one of the main performers, pitting her strength against other pets in "Oh Henry" and "Annabelle."

Those taking part in the sketch are the Officer in Charge (James Abraham), the Sergeant (Arnold Everett), the Corporal on Guard (Walter Farr), Old Bill (Victor Sedgewick), Charlie the Cook (Eddie Leonard), "Nipper," on Guard (Fred Stanley), Harold (Harold Farr), Alf (Larry O'Connor), Herb (George H. Clarke), "Slim" Flinigan (Tom Griffin), "Sliver" Flanagan (Al Spenceley) and Mac (Tom Chapman). Elmer McLaren is a snappy musical director, playing piano accompaniments and a solo as an opening, in the "Doll Dance."

There are two shows each night, the first commencing at eight o'clock and the next at nine o'clock. It is a jolly and pleasing entertainment, with plenty of good music of a popular type and lots of fun in its war-time sketch.

You Can Lose That Indigestion

NEW STUNT FOR SEA-FLEA DRIVERS

ed down enough to talk to me. She told me she was lying on the X-Ray table when she noticed thick brown smoke coming up the ventilator, and remarked about it to one of the attendants.

"Just then there was an explosion and her husband rushed in, grabbed her off the table and rushed her out to freedom.

"We then became quieted down somewhat, and four other Canadian girls from Guelph, Waterloo and Hamilton, and I all wired our parents of our safety. Everyone was panic-stricken and inquiring for friends.

"One of my friends, Dohma Roberts from Peterborough, was on the fourth floor of the clinic. She is secretary to Dr. Locke, our brain specialist, who is one of the dead. I searched frantically for her and did not locate her until seven last evening.

"She had got out safely, but couldn't tell how. Five girls in the office next her all died, attempting to escape. They all rushed for the stairway, and one minute after the gas was inhaled they dropped dead. It was reported to me that fifteen were found heaped up on the stairway.

"The gas worked on its victims so curiously that one minute you would see a friend looking fine, and in a short time later hear of his death.

"Once the proper equipment was secured the work went on fast and smoothly.

"Several hours later all the bodies had been carried out. When I went by the building at 6.30 last evening the windows were being boarded up and the odor of the fumes was still very noticeable. What had been a peaceful, smooth-running, efficient haven for the weak in body eight hours before, was a mass of ruins and the means whereby many had perished."

Escaped in Nick of Time

How she escaped just in the nick of time by jumping twenty feet from a ladder outside the clinic, was revealed by Miss Dohma Roberts, Peterborough girl, in an exclusive interview with The Examiner late yesterday Miss Roberts, who was secretary to Dr. Locke, was sitting at her desk above the X-ray department, when the explosion occurred. "Thick Blinding clouds of smoke crept up the stairs and into my room," Miss Roberts declared. "It was like pea soup. It was suffocating. I felt the effects immediately. My head became dizzy, and everything seemed topsy-turvey.

"Men and women were rushing in all directions, and appeared to be seized by panic. My first thought was to get to the window and escape these stifling fumes. I ran to Dr. Locke, who was examining a patient at the time, and told him something terrible had happened Then I rushed to the stairway."

"Four storeys below I saw the gas fumes sweeping through the building I was determined to get out. I raced down the stairs, carried along by the others. It was all very sickening, all very terrible. Somewhere, I forget exactly where, I found a window and jumped. What happened after that I don't know."

RAILWAY WORKERS PROTEST POLICY

Men Fear Road Building Might Injure English Railroads.

LLANDUDNO, Wales, May 16.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Questioners at a meeting conducted by Right Hon. David Lloyd George at Llandudno Junction were anxious to know if the road development scheme of the Liberal party to relieve unemployment would take profits away from the railways. Llandudno being a railway centre, many railroad workers attneded the meeting and plied the Liberal leader with questions on this point.

"The more you improve the roads, the more ultimately will be the railways' profits," Mr. Lloyd George answered. "It is a fundamental mistake to think on one man gets more, another man is bound to get less. There is no limit to the good things of providence if we know how to tap them."

Asked whether he would be prepared to help the railways financially, Mr. Lloyd George replied: "Our proposal is that under the trade facilities for which I was responsible there should be a government guarantee in connection with improvements, enabling them to get money at low interest. This would mean that neither rates or fares would be increased nor wages cut."

"The gas worked on its victims so curiously that one minute you would see a friend looking fine, and in a short time later hear of his death.

"Once the proper equipment was secured the work went on fast and smoothly.

"Several hours later all the bodies had been carried out. When I went by the building at 6.30 last evening the windows were being boarded up and the odor of the fumes was still very noticeable. What had been a peaceful, smooth-running, efficient haven for the weak in body eight hours before, was a mass of ruins and the means whereby many had perished."

Escaped in Nick of Time

How she escaped just in the nick of time by jumping twenty feet from a ladder outside the clinic, was revealed by Miss Dohma Roberts, Peterborough girl, in an exclusive interview with The Examiner late yesterday Miss Roberts, who was secretary to Dr. Locke, was sitting at her desk above the X-ray department, when the explosion occurred. "Thick Blinding clouds of smoke crept up the stairs and into my room," Miss Roberts declared. "It was like pea soup. It was suffocating. I felt the effects immediately. My head became dizzy, and everything seemed topsy-turvey.

"Men and women were rushing in all directions, and appeared to be seized by panic. My first thought was to get to the window and escape these stifling fumes. I ran to Dr. Locke, who was examining a patient at the time, and told him something terrible had happened Then I rushed to the stairway."

"Four storeys below I saw the gas fumes sweeping through the building I was determined to get out. I raced down the stairs, carried along by the others. It was all very sickening, all very terrible. Somewhere, I forget exactly where, I found a window and jumped. What happened after that I don't know."

RAILWAY WORKERS PROTEST POLICY

Men Fear Road Building Might Injure English Railroads.

LLANDUDNO, Wales, May 16.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Questioners at a meeting conducted by Right Hon. David Lloyd George at Llandudno Junction were anxious to know if the road development scheme of the Liberal party to relieve unemployment would take profits away from the railways. Llandudno being a railway centre, many railroad workers attneded the meeting and plied the Liberal leader with questions on this point.

"The more you improve the roads, the more ultimately will be the railways' profits," Mr. Lloyd George answered. "It is a fundamental mistake to think on one man gets more, another man is bound to get less. There is no limit to the good things of providence if we know how to tap them."

Asked whether he would be prepared to help the railways financially, Mr. Lloyd George replied: "Our proposal is that under the trade facilities for which I was responsible there should be a government guarantee in connection with improvements, enabling them to get money at low interest. This would mean that neither rates or fares would be increased nor wages cut."

Maple Leafs Split Double Bill With Jersey City

TORONTO CLUB BLANKS CATS IN FIRST TUSSLE

But Drop Second Affair 3 To 1 in Seven Innings Battle.

BREAK WINNING STREAK.

Rochester Drops the Second Straight To Newark Bears By 7-5 Score.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16.—(Canadian Press).—Riding on the crest of Sam Gibson's magnificent pitching to a 5 to 0 victory in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader with Jersey City, the Leafs failed to stand up under prosperity and dropped the second after 3 to 1 in seven innings.

Thus another two-game winning streak for the Fleet Streeters broke under pressure. They won two in a row from Reading and then lost the third contest; they took the first pair from the Cats and flopped in the next. One game above the 500 mark appears to be their limit and has been since the season got under way. That state of affairs surely cannot go on forever. Pennants are not won that way.

Baltimore at Montreal.—Rain.

DROPS SECOND STRAIGHT

ROCHESTER, N.Y., May 16. — (Canadian Press).—Rochester dropped its second straight to Tris Speaker's Newark Bears here yesterday afternoon 7 to 5. Chick Davies outpitched four Red Wing hurlers to take the verdict.

It was the first time this year that the champions have gone down twice in succession.

George Watkins hit a pair of home runs for the wings, driving home four of the counters.

HOME RUNS FEATURE

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 16.—(Canadian Press).—The Reading Keys handed the Buffalo Bisons an unmerciful lacing for their sixth loss in eight starts in the second game of the series here yesterday. The score was 10 to 2.

The test was featured by the home run hitting of George Quellich who accounted for three runs.

Billy Mullen, veteran third sacker, released by the Bisons Tuesday, joined the Reading club yesterday and swatted a home run over the left field fence with a man on.

Al Moore, of the Bisons, hit a homer over the left field fence.

GRIMES PITCHES 9 TO 4 VICTORY

Brooklyn Suffers Eighth Defeat in Battle With Pirates.

HOMER FOR HERMAN.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., May 16. (C.P.) —Burleigh Grimes, the Pittsburgh ace hung up his fifth victory of the season and Brooklyn suffered its eight successive defeat yesterday when the Pirates romped off with the second and last battle of the series 9 to 4.

Grimes allowed 11 hits but kept them scattered except in the fifth when Babe Herman's home run within the field with two mates aboard temporarily tied the score 4 to 4.

The Brooklyn pitchers were utterly unable to halt the Pirates, each of whom made at least one hit. Glen Wright, the crippled Brooklyn short stop, departed yesterday for his home in Harrisonville, Mo., where he will recuperate for a month under indefinite suspension without pay.

SPLIT SERIES.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 16.—The St. Louis Cardinals escaped from Philadelphia with an even split in the series by beating the Phillies yesterday 4 to 1. Clarence Mitchell, though hit safely 11 times, handcuffed the Phillies in the pinches.

Barney Friberg, with a home run, a single and a double led the Philly attack Barney now has a record of seven hits in as many times at bat.

WIN FROM BRAVES.

BOSTON, Mass., May 16. (C.P.)—The Cubs defeated the Braves 7 to 4 yesterday, taking the odd game of the three game series.

Guy Bush, Chicago starting pitcher, was batted out of the box in the fourth, but Cvengros, who relieved him, alowed only one hit during the rest of the game.

Hazen Cuyler returned to the game and contributed a home run with Cliff Heathcote on base.

Walter Hagen Beaten By British Golfer

MOORTOWN, Eng., May 16.—(Canadian Press)—Walter Hagen, American Ryder Cup captain and four-times holder of the British open title, was beaten in the first round of the Yorkshire Evening News Thousand Guineas Golf Tournament by George Duncan, of Great Britain, today.

Duncan, who headed the British Ryder cup team that conquered the American squad here a fortnight ago, downed Hagen one up. Duncan sank a 40 foot putt at the home hole to beat the American star for the second time. He defeated Hagen by an overwhelming score in the Ryder Cup matches.

Deloro Drops Two Points In League Standing

BRINTON FOUR, DELORO ONE; BIG CROWD AT SOCCER GAME

E. Jones Had the "Hat Trick" —James Was Other Marksman.

PENALTIES MISSED.

Visitors Gave An Excellent Display of the Code—S. Brown Losers' Scorer.

Between four and five hundred people witnessed the Brinton A. A. soccer team trounce the Deloro eleven to the tune of four goals to one, at King Edward Park, last evening. This is the first time that the visitors have visited the city in search of two league points that failed to materialize. Although defeated by a big margin, they provided excellent soccer that was greatly appreciated.

Both teams missed a penalty kick, James for the Brintons and W. Brown for the Deloro eleven. If the players provide such good fare in the rest of the games, they will get the crowds and real sportsmanship was shown. A. Bishop had to retire in the first half with his knee cap out of position.

Goal in Seven Minutes

Within the first minutes, Brinton were awarded a penalty kick, through the Deloro defence man's illegal charge. James missed the spot kick. Then the next run up field brought success when Cherrill gave a perfect pass to E. Jones, who made no mistake with a fast drive. Deloro went back into Brinton's area to test Curtis time and again; in fact, Brooks' oblique shot hit the cross-bar when the custodian was beat.

E. Jones Made It Two

A break-away by Sharman left his forwards is possession, and after close dribbling methods in front of goal, E. Jones connected with a low grounder for number two. Deloro made determined effort to reduce the leeway, but the Peterborough defence was impregnable, although Deloro gained foul kicks just outside the dreaded territory.

James' Snappy Goal

Keeping up the pressure against Peterborough, the visiting forwards raised siege after siege, but could not get a tally. Midfield play continued until James dribbled his way towards goal. He carried the sphere right into the goal, where he outwitted the full-back nicely in close tactics and finished with a fast left-footer that gave Green no chance to save. Immediately thereafter half-time announced the Peterborough boys three goals ahead. Brinton 3, Deloro 0.

HALF TIME

The second half started with Bishop being out of the game through a knee injury he received in the first half. Brinton had only ten men against eleven, which resulted in the visitors confining the city boys to their own goal. Hawthorne relieved the pressure by passing forward to Cherrill, who made a poor attempt at Deloro goal.

Deloro Unlucky

During the next ten minues the visitors had the Brinton defense upset but failed to finish inside the goal-area; they claimed for a decision when a shot at goal would have been more profitable.

E. Brown Scored

The fast moving Deloro forwards gained success when W. Brown dribbled three men to a stand-still, then let Brooks cut in along the goal line and finish with a lightning drive that Curtis failed to hold because E. Brown tapped it through. Brinton paid two visits to Deloro goal without gaining anything fruitful; the full backs compelling the opposing forwards to kick wide.

Both Goals Attacked

The play moved at a fast pace with the forwards being the main factor in making the play interesting around the custodians' charges that always ended in scrimmages that finally brought out the full backs' qualities. Both goal-keepers being called upon to save all kinds of shots.

Goals Missed

A break-away by James terminated in the whole forward line moving right up with him, but he let Sharman have a try at goal, but "Jimmie" missed the upright from five yards out. From the goal kick, Deloro went to the other end, where E. Brown evaded the defence and was in the act of shooting for goal when Creighton brought him down illegally. W. Brown was trusted with the penalty. He made an attempt to pick the corner of the post, but it went on the wrong side for Deloro.

Goal in Last Minute

Exchanges continued even for a little while until the Brinton right wing got the better of an argument in the goal area. Jones beat his opposition in close tackling and carried the attack right against the custodian who found himself helpless when the Brinton forward headed the ball over his head into the goal, just before the whistle sounded full time. Brinton 4, Deloro 1.

Goal scorers.—Brinton: E. Jones 3, and James. Deloro: E. Brown.

The Teams

Deloro—Green, goal; Murray and Nicholson, full backs; Hipson, Hart and Sanderson, halves; Cousins, E. Brown, Gresham, W. Brown and Brooks, forwards.

Brinton—Curtis, goal; Bishop and Jones, full back; Bayliss, Hawthorne and Creighton, halves; Cherrill, E. Jones, James, Lucas and Sharman, forwards.

Referee—J. C. Russell.

Red Lucas Holds New York Giants

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 15. — (Canadian Press).—The Cincinnati Reds cleaned up their abbreviated series of two games against the Giants by winning easily yesterday by 12 to 3. The fine pitching of Red Lucas held the home forces in subjugation at all times yesterday.

Joe Stripp reached Fitzsimmons for two home runs, while Evar Swanson collected one in the 11-bit fusillade the Reds turned loose in eight rounds.

John McGraw returned to the Giant bench for the first time in two weeks.

White Sox Winners Of Series With Boston

CHICAGO, Ills., May 16 (Canadian Press). — The White Sox rapped Charley Fulling and Edward Carroll with gusto yesterday, and made it two out of three in the series with the Red Hose. The score was 8 to 4.

Ted Lyons, who had been laid up for two weeks with a case of flu, hurled the full route for the winners and was never in trouble.

ROGERS OUT IN EIGHTH.

MONTREAL, May 16. — Arthur Rogers' triumphant march to pugilistic fame came to a sudden termination last night when he stepped out of the preliminary class to battle Pete Sanstol of New York. Rogers' seconds tossed a towel into the ring in the early stages of the eighth round.

NEWS AROUND THE CIRCUIT

Clippings From C.O.B.L.

Walt Gerow had his 1929 edition of the Nationals out at the Fair Grounds Monday night for the first time this year, and more than a few Belleville fans were on hand to give them the once over in their first real workout of the season.

Take it from one who should know, but maybe doesn't, the Nats will be hard to beat for the C.O.B.L. pennant at least this year.

Only four other teams in the league have prophesied already that they will be the champs this year, so why should we hesitate?

Kingston ball fans, while they won't have much chance to see Belleville Nationals playing this season, will nevertheless regret Stan Hagerman's decision to retire from the game. Hagerman always was one of the surest outfield catches in the league, and while not a slugger of the "Peenie" Mills type, was generally able to come through with the hit in a pinch. Stan has been a credit to C.O.B.L. ball, and the game is poorer because of his retirement.—Kingston Whig-tSandard.

Talking about the Lake Shore League and Portsmouth reminds us that the first man to be committed to the psychiatri ward of a hospital was a sporting editor who tried to take a box score of a ball game between Waseda University and the Czechoslovakian All-Stars over the telephone.

Those Victorias came back into their own last night when they downed Hemlock Park. The Vics have started hitting, and if they keep up their clubbing will be the team to beat for the title.

"Hoot" Gibson had a bad night of it at second base. He slipped up on three chances that proved costly, but handled seven other chances in fine style.

But it was the same old story. The team that doesn't hit simply doesn't win, and there aren't many games won nowadays on two hits.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

With the senior baseball team there is much weeding out to be done in these two weeks after which the ones being kept on the squad have a short time in which to accustom themselves to their companions' style of play. Matt Sutton had at his last practice far too many players trying out and will to-day be a busy man separating the wheat from the chaff. Among those that do not measure up there will be many that are of senior calibre and these will find places on the Arabs, the intermediates. Then there are a number of senior players that can not give up the Wednesday afternoon to play ball and these will also be on the line-up of the intermediates, who are playing Saturday afternoons and twilight games only.—Oshawa Times.

Kingston's Signed Players Indicate Strong Line-up

KINGSTON, May 16.—Already nine players have been signed by the 21st Battalion Club, who are handling the local Central Ontario League team, and with promises from several other players to sign, the prospects are that the local C.O.B.L. team will be as strong as many of its predecessors.

To date the players who have been signed are: Del Cherry, Art Wigg, Dick Spoor, "Hoop" Gibson, "Chummy" Lawlor, J. Arneill, Hewitt Smith, Bert Winch and Charles Williams.

Members of the club who are looking after the team are confident that they will have a strong line-up when they play their first exhibition game. Efforts are being made to sign other players who figured on the line-up of the C.O.B.L. team last season, and if they are secured as expected there need be no fear but that Kingston will have a strong aggregation.

Present indications are that Deloro will be the team to beat for the C. O.B.L. championship. Not only have the Smelters most of last year's players, but they have been fortunate in securing other performers who are bound to strengthen the team.

AT THE CAPITOL

WILLIAM HAINES IN "ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE", THE GREATEST OF ALL CROOK DRAMAS, AND THAT CLEVER TEAM OF COMEDIANS, KEEFER AND ALBERTS, IN A FARCE COMEDY "THE BUTCHER BOY" AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT.

William Haines has again cracked the bell and come through with a comedy so wildly exciting, amazingly dramatic and side-splittingly funny that it sets a new high water mark of screen endeavor.

His new starring picture, "Alias Jimmy Valentine,' which opens at the Capital to-day, is Haines at his best, and Haines at his best is unbeatable.

From the time he is first revealed as a wise-cracking crook who twists the noses of half a dozen police departments until the final great moment when he resolves to go straight and sacrifices everything for the sake of the girl he loves, Haines holds the attention of the audience as few men have ever done before.

The story is the old familiar one that has twisted the heart-strings of audiences for a generation, but it is a story brought up to date—or perhaps, more accurately, a story that will never age.

To hide out from the police following a daringly clever bank robbery, Haines and his two companions, Karl Dane and Tully Marshall, go to the small town. Here Haines meets Leila Hyams, the daughter of the small town banker, and falls in love both with her and with the peace and dignity that characterize her life. He resolves to go straight and make Dane and Marshall go straight with him. The former accepts, but the latter rebels and is killed.

Haines makes a success in the bank and is about to marry the girl when Doyle the detective tracks him to the bank. Haines proves an alibi and Doyle is about to leave when the little daughter of the banker is locked in the safe and he is forced to reveal his marvelous ability at safe-cracking to secure her release.

Lionel Barrymore as the detective and Howard Hickman as the banker do marvelous work.

The vaudeville will be furnished by that very funny team of comedy artists, Keefer and Alberts, in an amusing farce "The Butcher Boy.'

Heeney To Fight Rious At the Montreal Forum

MONTREAL, May 16. (C.P.) — Tom Heeney, the New Zealand hard rock, and Elzear Rioux, French-Canadian heavyweight, will fight at the Montreal Forum in a bout arranged by Promoter Alex Moore, on May 29.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, who is here "partly for pleasure and partly to talk over promoting arrangements," stated that if the French-Canadian is successful in his bout before his home fans then he (Dempsey) may stage a bout at the Montreal stadium between Rioux and Godfrey, colored heavyweight.

EIGHT TEAMS IN CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Eight teams have already signified their intention of entering the City Baseball League this season, and it is expected that this number will be further increased. The Junior series has only two teams entered—Lockworks and Kiwanis—the All Saints' Royals having decided to remain out of Junior ball this year.

In the Juvenile series there are three teams already listed: Loyal Order of Moose, Canucks and Kiwanis. It is hoped that the Royals will be able to enter a team in this series to round out a four-team league.

Although the Bantam series will not be started until the middle of June, three teams are already organized and prepared to enter. They are the Canuck Club, Grafton's and Maple Leafs.

The managers of the teams are asked to keep in mind that the entry fees must be in the hands of the secretary not later than May 20.

PLAYING GROUNDS BIG PROBLEM.

The only difficulty facing the City League is the securing of diamonds on which to play their games, but it is fully expected that an arrangement suitable to the Central League team and the East Peterborough League will be reached, and that the games will be played on Exhibition Park and James Stevenson Park.

One of the provisions of the league worthy of note by the players is that all birth certificates must accompany playing certificates when they are returned to the secretary. Both must be in his hands before any player can play his first game.

DELORO CLUB DOWN TWO POINTS.

The Brinton Carpet team turned the tables on Deloro for their defeat in the Smelter town, winning 4 to 1 at King Edward Park last evening. It was one of the best exhibitions of football, as it should be played, that has been witnessed here for many moons. The large crowd was enthusiastic about the peppy sparkling play, and there was nothing to mar the competition. More games like that of last night would greatly increase the popularity of the game.

PLANNING OLD-TIME CRICKET GAME.

The Peterborough Cricket Club, not to be outdone by the old lacrosse players, are planning to have an old time cricket game between the returning Old Boys and the Old Boys who have remained here Some of these old-time cricketers could drive a mean ball, and Peterborough had cricket teams that played many famous games.

GIBSON DOING WELL ON THE MOUND.

Sam "Hoot" Gibson, right at the present time, looks to be just about the best pitcher in the International League Yesterday he twirled a 5 to 0 win for the Leafs over the Jersey City Cats. It was his third straight win and his second successive shut-out. He has held the opposition scoreless for twenty-one consecutive innings, which is more remarkable considering the cold weather, which prevents a pitcher from doing his best.

NOW IT'S MR. CASHEL BYRON TUNNEY.

Gene Tunney's ambition to become proficient in other walks of life in addition to boxing has caused much comment, and as a result many have held him up to ridicule. But there is no sense or reason in such an attitude. Tunney did not turn away from the ring before he had demonstrated that he was the greatest mittman in the world. His departure caused grief in promotional circles, and left the heavyweight situation in a muddled condition, but Tunney could hardly be censured because of the inferiority shown by would-be challengers for the title. Tunney's retirement was a radical and courgeous step, but apparently it was shaded by the fact that a champion boxer laid down his gloves and went in search of the classics. Here is what the Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News, published in London, England, says in regard to Tunney's pursuit of the golden fountain of knowledge:

"That must have been a great moment at Brioni when Gene Tunney the retired heavyweight champion of the world, gave his first wide smile, and his welcoming handshake to Bernard Shaw. Tunney's literary intimates include Thornton Wilder, the author of 'The Bridge of San Louis Rey,' Hugh Walpole and W J. Locke, but his friends have always known that he sets above all others the creator of St. Joan. When he was in London with his wife last December Tunney tried his hardest to get in touch with Mr. Shaw, but it was to his regret that he found that the great Irishman was out of town. Did Tunney invite Mr. Shaw to Brioni, or did Mr. Shaw by some miraculous chance just happen to strike the out-of-the-way place?It is an intriguing question; but more intriguing still is what Mr. Shaw now thinks about Mr Cashel Byron Tunney, and what Mr. Tunney thinks about Mr. Shaw. Tunney in recent weeks has received many offers to reappear in the ring,but he has not given the letters even the smilest consideration.

HE'S OUT TO WIN!

To-day will see the opening of the Davis Cup games between the Canucks and the minions of Uncle Sam. The American team has been changed considerably since last year. The U.S. team is headed by the popular Chicago boy, George Lott, and the Canadian team is led by Dr. Jack Wright of Montreal.

The Canadian team ranking for this year by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association is as follows: Dr. Jack Wright 1, Crocker 2, Ham 4 and Rainville 9.

The selection of the Canadian team was in accordance with expectation, as, although Rainville was not ranked in the first four on his 1928 record, it was known that he was a greatly improved player. In doubles with Williard Crocker he shone during the latter part of last season and he has kept up rigorous training throughout the winter—something that the Toronto players, Ham and Nunns, have not been able to do. When Rainville and Crocker won the Canadian indoor championship at Montreal early this year, and when Rainville followed up this success with a tour of the Southern States with Dr. Wright, in which both Canadians rendered an excellent account of themselves, it was recognized that he had to be considered in the selection of this year's Davis Cup team. His performance during the try-outs—in spite of the mental distraction caused by family bereavement—fully confirmed this and the committee's final choice will not be questioned.

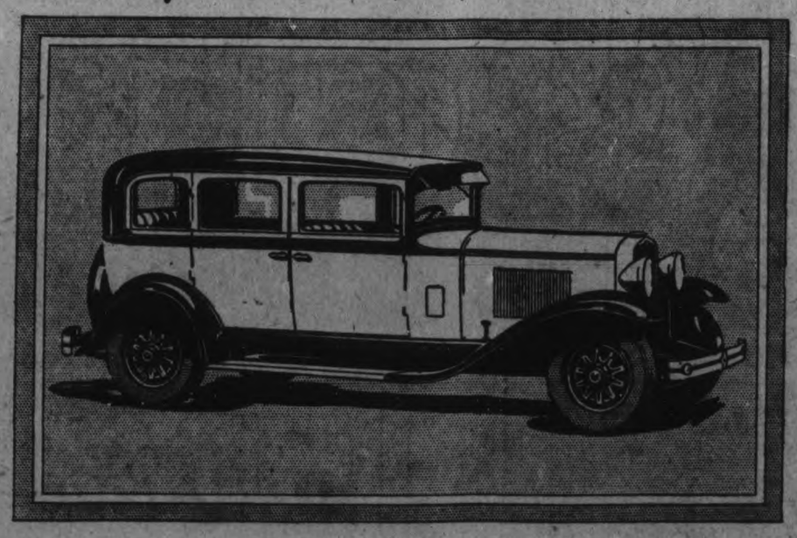
Introducing the NEW VIKING

A NINETY-DEGREE V-TYPE EIGHT AT MEDIUM PRICE



ON DISPLAY FRIDAY EVENING, May 17

HOWSON MOTORS
388-390 WATER STREET, Peterborough, Ont.
W. S. HOWSON 'Phone 44 T. H. SHIELD

THE new Viking is built to meet a definite demand by the public for an eight-cylinder car of General Motors quality, in the medium-price field.

For three years, while this demand has been growing, Oldsmobile and General Motors engineers have been proving and checking the capabilities of all types of eight-cylinder car design. They investigated every type of automobile engine, past and present—developed other engines—and subjected them all to the same rigid tests. By constant testing and re-testing, checking and re-checking, they eliminated engine after engine, until one stood out above all the others. This has been selected for the Viking.

The Viking has a 90-degree V-type eight-cylinder engine, embodying new principles of design based on well-established, time-proven fundamentals. This engine is simple and accessible. It delivers 81 horse-power, with exceptional smoothness throughout its entire speed range. Its response to the throttle is remarkable. And it introduces desirable new qualities never before found in any car, regardless of price.

In addition to excellence of performance, the Viking presents new beauty and tailored smartness — the latest creations of Fisher artist-engineers. It sets new standards of interior luxury and comfort among cars of medium price. It has a wheelbase of 125 inches. Specially designed springs, controlled by four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, assure unsurpassed roadability and restful riding ease.

The new Viking 90-degree, V-type eight is now on display at our showrooms. You are cordially invited to inspect this illustrious new member of the General Motors family—to take it for a trial drive—and to judge it by your highest standards of appearance, performance, and value.

All Viking Models—Four-door Sedan, Convertible Coupe, Four-door Town Sedan—are priced at $2,325 at factory, Oshawa, Ont. Spare tire, bumpers and taxes included. De Luxe equipment consists of six wire wheels, fender wells, two spare tires and trunk rack.

By authority of the Postmaster General arrangements have been made for special air mail flights on the 4th June next, to and from Kingston, Ont., in connection with the official opening of the airport in that city.

The following flights will be made:
Montreal-Kingston.
Kingston-Montreal.
Toronto-Kingston.
Kingston-Toronto.

In order to commemorate the occasion, special cachets will be used on each flight. However, these special cachets will be used only on such covers as bear Canadian Postage at the air mail rate, which is 5c for the first ounce and 10c for each succeeding ounce or fraction thereof; and these covers, in order to ensure transmission by the special flights, must be sent to the Postmasters at the different terminal points.

All covers so prepaid and bearing an indication as follows:

VIA AIR MAIL

or Kingston-Montreal, etc.

Whichever the case may be, will be date-stamped by the despatching Postmaster and back-stamped at the Post Office at the end of the flight, in addition to bearing the special commemorative cachet.

If you are interested in air mail covers and are anxious to secure the special cachets, it would be advisable to prepare your covers at the earliest possible moment and forward them under cover to the Postmaster at the point at which you desire your covers to enter the flight, with the request that they be held until this air mail flight takes place. All covers handled in this manner must bear the necessary Canadian postage at the air mail rate or should be accompanied by a Money Order covering the correct amount of postage.

Registered mail properly prepaid will be accepted for conveyance.

Special delivery letters will also be carried if properly prepaid both as regards air mail postage and the special delivery rate of twenty cents per letter in addition to air mail postage.

All covers conveyed on these flights addressed to points beyond the terminus and which have been specially forwarded to a postmaster for inclusion in this flight will be placed in the ordinary mails at the terminus of the flight and will go forward to the addressed in the ordinary way.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Successful Affair Conducted Under Auspices of Madoc Women's Institute.

MADOC, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—The dance and social evening put on in the Armouries under the auspices of Madoc Women's Institute on Monday evening was one of the most successful of its kind.

The music was furnished most acceptably by the famous Tommy Mason's Rhythm Kings, of Belleville.

The decorations were of the Institute colors of blue and gold, and the in excellent condition.

Dainty refreshments were served by the members of the Institute and their helpers, after which dancing was continued with a crowded floor until the small hours of the morning.

A very interesting feature of the evening was the drawing for a very beautiful oil painting presented to the Institute by Mrs. R. Wickham for that purpose. After all had had a chance to purchase tickets, William McBain, banker, was asked to superintend the drawing. Mr. McBain obtained the attention of his audience, then asked Mr. Mason of the orchestra to make the draw. Much pleasure was expressed when it was learned that D. J. Barry was the holder of the lucky ticket. Total proceeds of the evening amounted to about $175.

SCHOOL PARADE IS CANCELLED BY COMMITTEE

Cadets Will Probably Take Part in Monster Parade On July 1.

TEACHERS AWAY.

Boys Will Give Physical Culture Display at Exhibition Park.

The decision was made last night at a meeting of the committee for a children's parade and demonstration to be held during Old Home Week in Peterborough, to abandon the idea of putting on any special program by the children. There were present the principals and vice principals of the Public schools as well as representatives of the separate school board and the Board of Education. Dr. J. J. Craig acted as chairman for the evening.

Dr. Craig explained the purpose in view as arising from the suggestion at the last meeting of the general parade committee that a separate parade would give the children a chance to see the main parade which they did not have the opportunity to do at the one held on July 1st in 1927. The idea which was open for discussion was to hold a children's day on July 3rd, involving a children's parade in the morning, a demonstration by them in the afternoon and an entertainment by the older school people who have returned for old home week reminiscent of the older days, in the evening.

Reasons Are Given

Robert J. Bolton, principal of King Edward Public school acted as spokesman for the principals and vice principals of those institutions and expressed the decision that they had reached at a meeting which was held by them in the afternoon by stating they would like to see something by the children on July 3rd but a number of the teachers would be tied up as the University Summer schools would be open and the term at these are so short that it is imperative to attend each lecture and that those attending would not be able to be present here. Further in 1927 when the children were paraded they marched a mile and a half, many of them fainting along the way due to the intense heat. The result being that parents to-day are not anxious to have their children parade. A demonstration on that day would also need a great deal of training and at present a great number are studying for their entrance examinations and to give any time now would mean to neglect their other work and for these reasons it would seem impossible to hold such a day with the children as the chief entertainers. But as a substitute Mr. Bolton offered 400 cadets in uniform to parade on the 1st of July and to give a massed physical display but not a competition.

H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute stated that the boys that were under his care had reached the adolescent age and they would not be at all anxious to participate in such a function as a special parade on July 3rd. Miss Kate Morris and Ernest Reid were of the same opinion as the public school teachers while J. R. Corkery also supported this view.

Mr. Reid made a motion to the effect that the public school cadets parade with the other units of militia in the afternoon of July 1st and give a short physical display at the exhibition grounds in conjunction with the program to be given there. Mrs. Morris seconded this motion. This however is to be considered by the central committee.

After the motion was made such questions arose as to the expenses and transportation of the boys from the distant schools to the place of the parade organization. As there are three busses at the disposal of the central committee the transporting of the boys was solved and the other items of expense being small there was little doubt in the minds of those present that these would be defrayed by the Board of Education or the main Old Home Week Committee.

Some misunderstanding arose as to the time of the parade, if it would be in the morning or the afternoon. A. Purman, an executive assistant clarified the matter when he stated that the visiting military units were parading in the afternoon. It was decided that the cadets join this parade rather than the one in the morning as the afternoon march was to be from a central point in the city to the exhibition grounds where the boys could give their physical training demonstration. This was the better plan it was thought than to have them join the morning parade and parade from the exhibition grounds and later give their display at that point. This would necessitate a morning and an afternoon and further complicate the transportation problem. The idea to use Confederation Park for this was unanimously thought unsuitable as it would be impossible to handle the crowds so as all could see the exhibition and to keep them away from the newly made grounds around the war memorial.

Car Resents Working On Half-Holiday And Leads Owners A Merry Chase

Times have changed, horses used to run away but one of Henry Ford's orphans took the notion to go places and to do things without the consent of the owner. Feeling rather kittenish as it came down Charlotte street about a quarter to three on Wednesday afternoon it resented working on the half holiday and on turning the corner north onto Rubidge streets it did a song, a dance and a skid, zooming over the curb and back onto the street to a stop.

The owner climbed out, looked the vehicle over and scratched his head and then like any good mechanic climbed under the car to inspect the inner mysteries. Convincing himself that it was just a temporary condition of the touring car he climbed in and started off for another attempt to subdue the spirit of Motoring.

But not so easily was this temperamental gas buggie's spirit curbed. Following an uncertain course to the corner of Simcoe street it gave another display of what a temperamental automobile can do once that it has made up its mind to misbehave. This time it leaped a curb at the corner, narrowly missing a telephone pole and planted itself in green pastures on the front lawn of the house at the south-east corner of Simcoe and Rubidge streets and there, directly straddle the sidewalk leading into the house, it remained, suffering such minor injuries as broken radius rods and head light lenses.

The owner by this time gave up in despair and called in assistance to remove the vehicle to place more suitable for naughty autos.

DRIVE MEETS WITH SUCCESS

Fully Expected Objective Will Be Reached When "Y" Drive Closes To-morrow.

WORKERS HEAR ADDRESS.

Success is practically assured the Y.M.C.A.'s campaign to raise $8,000 by public subscription, judging from the fine reports that were made by the energetic workers at the noon-day luncheon in the "Y" building to-day. The reports in at noon gave the total already subscribed as $5,654.50, and it is fully expected that by to-morrow at 6 p.m. when the campaign closes the full amount will have been reached and passed.

Two teams D. M. Bissell's and C. G. Graham's have already passed their quota, D. M. Bissell's men having obtained 21 per cent above the objective set for them and C. G. Graham's worker being 10 per cent. above their allotment.

It was reported that 40 per cent of the money received has been given by new subscriptions by those have supported the association in the past.

After the luncheon in which the men were given an opportunity to grasp the success of their efforts, all left full of pep to go out and put the campaign over the top in a big last day drive.

C. A. Salmonsen of the C. G. E. plant gave an inspiring address to the men in which he lauded the work of the "Y". He said "that every business man and citizen should be keenly interested in the work that the association was doing in developing our future citizens." He referred to the great work that the Y.M.C.A. was doing among the factory employees in the United States, stating that no organization was carrying on the work just so successfully as the Y.M.C.A.

SIDELIGHTS ON ELECTION

(By Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 16.— Persistent heckling forced Captain A. F. G. Renton, Conservative candidate for Northampton, to adopt novel methods to vanquish his interrupters. Speaking in the market square, the barrage became too hot and he retired inside a van from which he delivered the remainder of his speech through a loud speaker.

Conservative, Social and Communist candidates attended together a League of Nations meeting at Normanton. Mr. Coates, Conservative, disabled sailor, said war was hideous. Mr. Coleman, the Communist, criticized the league's financial arrangements. Mr. Hall, Socialist, entirely supported the league's six points.

Mr. Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, broke from politics for a few hours and attended the May Day festival at Llandudno, Wales, where he crowned the Queen.

Around the City

One of the first accidents to occur as the result of the "no left hand turn" regulation being banished from the corner of Charlotte and George streets, occurred at about 6.30 last night. A. Fallis, driving a truck of Fitzpatrick and Geraghty, north on George street, attempted to make a left turn onto Charlotte street, but his truck crashed with that driven south by Charlie Allan, driver for Lesurf and Steinkrauss. As a result, the first truck sustained a bent steering rod, damaged hub cap, broken right wheel and damaged fender, while the other truck had a left fender crushed.

The F. W. Woolworth company have started their spring clean up campaign for Old Home Week by giving their sign a new coat of paint. Painters from the shop of Harris and Boddy are busy on high ladders this morning putting gold on the sign letters.

The Fire Department was called to three small fires this morning. At 9.48 a chimney fire at 165 Stewart street required their services, the fire being put out with the aid of chemicals. There was a chimney fire at 170½ Dublin street at 11.18 a.m. and a few minutes later a similar fire at 60 Hunter street east.

FAMOUS DOCTOR ON DEATH LIST

John Phillips, M.D., Was Well Known in Peterborough Medical Circles.

DELIVERED LECTURES HERE.

Death that swept with breath-taking rapidity upon the patients and staff of the Cleveland Clinic yesterday claimed the life of John Phillips, M.D., a noted physician, who is well known in Peterborough medical circles. The death of this famous doctor came as a result of the effects of deadly gas that was let loose by the explosion, the fumes of which were inhaled by Dr. Phillips.

Dr. F. C. Neal, of the staff of the Peterborough Clinic, was a very close friend of the late Cleveland man, rooming with him for a time at the University of Toronto, from which they both graduated in 1903. Dr. Neal, with the others in the staff of the Peterborough Clinic, feel the death of Dr Phillips very deeply, as he was at the opening of the local institution in January, 1921, as well as having been in the city on numerous occasions delivering papers to the local physicians and surgeons.

Dr. John Phillips was a native of Welland, and a graduate of the provincial University from which he was laureated, going to Cleveland the year of his convocation, and entering the Western Hospital there. In a period of six years, he attained such high recognition as to become an associate professor of medicine at Western University in that city. This is a very high honor, and only through phenomenal success could it be attained.

During the war years Dr. Phillips served with the American Army in France, and on returning, with three other doctors founded the Cleveland Clinic. His associates in this enterprise were Doctors G. Crailie, Lowers and Bunts. This clinic was opened in May, 1921, the same year as the Peterborough Clinic, but a few months later.

The late Doctor was a self-made man, putting himself through the University after which he attained such fame as to be admitted to the Fellowship of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons, and became regent of this august body.

So wide was his fame that he has been called on to give Clinics from St. John's to Vancouver and in every State in the United States. He was one of the most widely known medical men in the Union, being a Consultant in Internal Medicine and a writer of many articles in the medical magazines and journals. It is with the deepest sorrow that the news of his death was received among the Peterborough medical men as well as those on the entire continent.

MISS ELDA WEBBER SAFE

Mrs. A. Webber of Park street, Peterborough, told The Examiner this afternoon that she had received a telegram from her daughter Elda, who was in Cleveland at the time of the disaster, stating that she is safe and was not in the explosion. The hospital that Miss Webber is connected with in Cleveland is the Baby and Children's Hospital and not the Clinic. When questioned about Miss Margaret Rogers, Mrs. Webber stated that she must be safe, as she would have received word from her daughter to the contrary if she had been injured.

SCHEDULE HAS TO BE OBEYED

the accused had a guilty mind, or whether he was grossly careless of the rights of others or whether he was a bad man in control of an engine.

Mr Roebuck also stressed the fact that Drocourt was not the ordinary meeting place. The force of habit was strong, he said, and when the meeting place was changed from the regular point at Waubamic there should have been unusual precautions.

"A railroad that takes the lives of passengers into its hands," said the defence counsel, "should see that its employees are provided with a perfect working machine. These men were given a defective engine, a dirty engine, an engine which did not work properly for which they were not responsible."

Continuing, he said, "the railway officials might have placed the meeting at a station where there was an operator, but it was a matter of time to them," he said. "It would have taken almost thirty minutes longer to place the meet at another point."

Time means money to the railroad; it costs them nothing to throw the whole burden on the engineer and conductor. They should not be allowed to do this.

In Police Court

To-day was Indian day in police court, three of this usually peace-abiding race appearing before Magistrate Langley charged with minor offences A dance in the clapboard wigwam of an Indian near Burleigh, gave the braves of the neighborhood an opportunity to make "whoopee" Two imbibed too freely of fire-water, said to have been given them by a visitor from Toronto, and they pleaded to drinking in other than their private residence this morning. They were taxed the minimum of $10 and $5 costs Some amusement was caused in the court when "Josh" Jacobs had to act as interpreter for one of the braves. Both refused to give the name of the Toronto man who presented them with the liquor.

Another Indian said to hail from the Six Nations, made a flying visit via taxi to the Curve Lake Reserve past midnight on Wednesday night. Nothing stirring in the encampment besides a few dogs; he endeavored to awaken the inhabitants of his presence by shooting, it was claimed. The Indian, however, proved that it was only the exhaust of the taxi motor that caused the loud and frightening explosions. He was remanded until Saturday, charged with vagrancy.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

One of the most combined and glaring errors that is preached today, from pulpit and desk is, that the thief, on the cross, when he died, went straight to heaven. The thief said unto Jesus, when both were hanging upon the cross, Lord remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom, Luke 23:42. Jesus in order to give emphasis to his reply to the thief's request, spoke in the usual way of doing so, by saying, "Verily I say unto thee to-day," thou shalt be with me in Paradise." The Jews ridiculed Jesus' claim, that he would have a kingdom, Matt. 27:29:42; but the thief believed the Saviour's words, and made his dying request to be admitted into that kingdom, when it should come. It is absurd to say that Jesus said the thief would be in heaven with him "that day," for the thief and Jesus would both be dead and not in heaven, nor in paradise. The misplacing of the comma by the translators or printers has been used by Satan and his agents to make confusion.

GRAF ZEPPELIN IS UNABLE TO MAKE HOME

JURY RECOMMENDS LIGHTING WHERE POSSIBLE, ALL BRIDGES WITH SPAN OF 20 FEET OR MORE

Oshawa Coroner Holds Inquest Into Death of Miss Helen Wright.

PATROLS RECOMMENDED.

Considerable Evidence Is Adduced From Harry and Stanley Northrop.

HARMONY, Ont., May 16. — (Special to The Examiner)—The inquest into the death of Miss Helen Wright, of Peterborough who was drowned in the collapse of a bridge on April sixth just west of this village on provincial highway number 2 resulted to-night, in an open verdict. The jury were of the opinion that despite lack of definite evidence due to the long submersion of the body in the waters of the creek, that death was due to drowning. They added a rider to the verdict first, that in view of the increasing traffic on provincial highways we recommend that the approaches of all bridges twenty feet or more span should be illuminated where electric light power is available, and we further recommend that in case of abnormal conditions a complete patrol system should be available.

Principal Witnesses

The two principal witnesses of the inquiry were Harry and Stanley Northrop, the two survivors of the tragedy. The former, a young man of 21 years, was driving at the time of the crash. The car was going from Oshawa to Peterborough following a concert in Oshawa and on the east bound trip they crossed the bridge safely. At that time though the rain was terrific and visibility limited to ten feet he saw no signs of water encroaching on the highway. They stopped at Logue's garage in Harmony to have a tire repaired and were here warned by a watchman that the bridge to the east was perilous if not washed out. They proceeded down hill however, but found the eastern bridge impassable and turned back to spend the night at a relative's home in Oshawa.

They proceeded slowly back past the garage and down the hill. Then according to Harry Northrop, the bridge just dropped and landed with a crash. The car was right side up and tilted slightly forward. But no realization of the immediate seriousness of their predicament appears to have come to any of the party. Logue, the proprietor of the village garage, who saw the car apparently disappear, came to the bridge and called out that he would get a rope. It is at this stage that tragedy seems to have stalked the party and cast a grim horror over the scene, for while Logue was running back for help, Harry Northrop stated that he thought he had gone for a wrecking truck to pull them out and beyond a mere cursory examination of their surroundings little real attempt was made to leave the car and reach the shore. He told Helen to be quiet and not to become excited, then crash, "and the next thing I knew I was under water."

Thrown Forward

According to the testimony of the younger Northrop, Stanley, when the car dropped first, all were thrown violently forward and his father, who was in the back seat with him was lying on the seat when the car stopped. He was sure, however, that he was stil conscious. He, Stanley, then opened the door of the car and got out on the running board. The water was raising underneath the car and he at once realized that it was too powerful to step off. He opened the front door by Miss Wright and suggested that they climb over the hood and up on the road by the other side, and then suddenly the car was whirled away in the flood, and everything else went blank.

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney McGibbon, the boy said he "did not think that there was time for all to have reached safety even if they had got started at once, though he had no doubt he himself could have got out all right."

Had Inspected Bridge

E. H. Choate, Inspector of Bridges in this district, gave evidence to the fact that he had inspected the bridge the day before the tragedy and in his estimation it was sound and capable of withstanding greater than normal strain. Asked by Juryman Hart, Coates said that he had entertained no fears for that bridge at all, despite abnormal conditions.

Archie Crelock, the designer of the bridge, showed the plans of the structure and stated that it was constructed in accordance with department regulations. Both he and C. A. Robbins, Resident Engneer, stated strain on the abutments and the constrain on the abutmens and the consequent settling. George C. Godard, who is in charge of the construction of the new bridge, said the water rose from three feet to twenty-five or more and that twenty-two or twenty-three feet were clearly eroded from the bridge by the flood.

Local Girls Expected Home On Monday

The two Peterborough girls, Doris Cowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cowan, and Dohma Roberts, daughter of W. H. Roberts, 552 Bethune Street, who had a miraculous escape in the Cleveland Clinic Hospital disaster, are returning to their homes in Peterborough on Monday.

Miss Roberts is a nurse-in-training and secretary to Dr. Locke, who lost his life at the Cleveland Hospital, while Miss Cowan was a dietitian at the hospital. The remarkable escape of both these girls was told in a special story in The Examiner last night.

PLANS MADE TO REBUILD IN CLEVELAND

Death Toll in Hospital Tragedy Has Reached 125 Persons.

FOOTBALL STAR DEAD.

Search For Seventy-five Missing Patients Was Started Last Night.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 17. (C.P.)—The Cleveland Clinic, where 125 persons lost their lives in two explosions of poisonous gasses on Wednesday, will be rebuilt under plans being formed to-day by a committee of 35 prominent citizens.

Dr. George W. Crile, one of the founders of the institution, and its director, will be at the head of the new clinic.

"We must go on," he said.

Grief-stricken and over burdened with the tragedy which had come upon him, the surgeon who gained international renown through goitre research and other medical discoveries, laid plans with the committee for re-establishment of the institution.

The loss from the explosions and fire was set to-day at $750,000, principally in medical records.

Death Tolls Mounts.

The death toll in the explosions mounted last night, and even to-day it was feared that all those who eventually will succumb to the noxious fumes had not been counted. Three firemen and as many policemen who aided in the rescue work, went to hospitals last night. Others were ill at their homes, among them Fire Battalion Chief Michael J. Graham.

One more victim of the poison gas of the clinic disaster died early today. Ben Jones, aged 29, full back on the 1925 Canton, Ohio, Bulldog football team, and prominent in professional football circles, died at his home in Grove City, Pa.

Jones was one of the first persons removed from the clinic after the blast. He told friends yesterday he felt no ill effects from the experience, and yesterday morning drove his car to Grove City, a 150 mile trip.

Late last night Jones collapsed, and he died within a few hours with his young wife and two year old daughter at his bedside.

Physicians declared however that those who survive the next 24 hours probably will not suffer permanent effects of their exposure to the deadly gas. But grave concern was felt for those who were reported injured last night, and a search for 75 "missing" patients was started.

These persons, officials announced, had appointments for examinations at the clinic. Their names were given out in order that they may report themselves uninjured or undergo examination.

Some of these might have left the building without notifying the clinic officials or the police, it was feared. If their lungs were filled with the gasses there still was a possibility to-day that they might succumb.

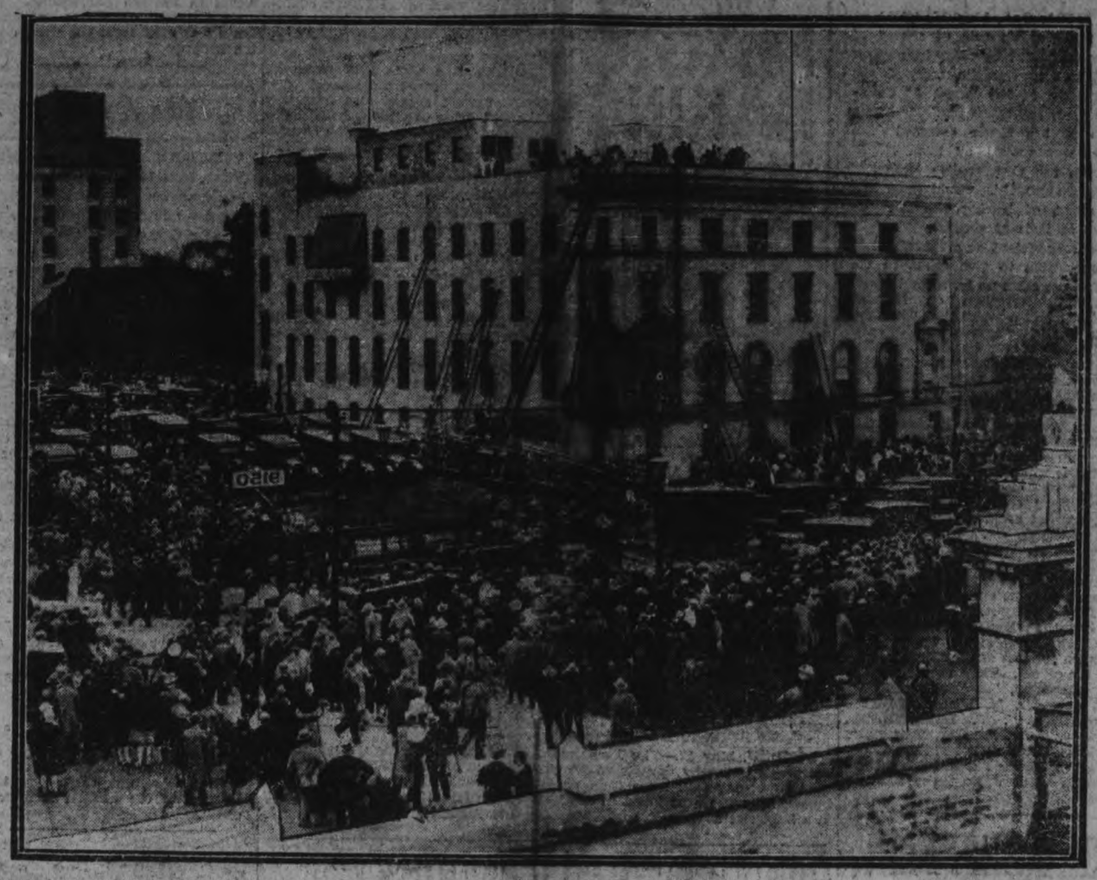
WOMAN TAKES LIFE

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 17 (C.P.).—Called in to-day by Patrolman Clarence F. Schreiber, of the Buffalo police force, police found Schrieber's wife, Pauline, shot to death, with a revolver in her hand. Schreiber, who declared his wife had committed suicide, was taken into custody and held for investigation of his wife's death.

JUSTICE RIDDELL ILL

TORONTO, Ont., May 17 (C.P.).—Mr. Justice Riddell of the Supreme Court of Ontario who is seriously ill at his home, was reported this morning to be holding the slight improvement which was noted in his condition last night. Pneumonia is reported to have attacked his Lordship's left lung.

127 LOSE THEIR LIVES IN HOSPITAL FIRE



The picture taken while the firemen were busy in their attempts to rescue the victims, shows the Cleveland Clinic, where the explosion in the X-ray room on May 15 caused the deaths of 127 persons, doctors, nurses and patients, and injured over forty. The Clinic was founded by Dr. George W. Crile and Dr. John Phillips, the latter a graduate of the University of Toronto, who was killed by the poisonous gas. He was a native Canadian.

SPLENDID PROGRESS REPORTED BY OLD HOME WEEK COMMITTEES

Railway Companies Announce Reduction in Rates For Those Returning.

ASK FOR OLD C.N.R. ENGINE.

School Parade Committee Are Asked To Further Consider Report.

Returning Old Boys and Girls to Peterborough who are planning to make the trip by rail or by water will be able to reach here at greatly reduced rates. This was the glad news that was conveyed to the members of the Central Committee of the Old Home Week last night, by E. Verne Morphet, who read his report of the work of the transportation committee. The reports that were given in the council chambers by the members of the various sub-committees were full of the spirit of co-operation and the willingness of many to help to make the week a huge success. James Dutton acted as chairman in the absence of His Worship, the Mayor.

Mr. Morphet's report to the committee in detail covered the following: "That all fares to Peterborough from points east of Fort William as far as Halifax will be handled on the certificate plan as follows: The purchaser will request a certificate from the passenger office at the point of origin and will purchase a single fare to Peterborough. Upon arrival at Peterborough he will have the same ticket validated by the representative of Old Home Week, and by presenting such certificate to the passenger department at Peterborough, of either railway, the purchaser will be entitled to a return ticket at half the single fare, which will be the cost of returning. These certificates will be valid for only three days, exclusive of Sunday, after the celebration has closed. This is in reality a fare and

Trumpet Band To Lead Legion Parade To-night

There will be a parade of the Collegiate trumpet band tonight to help the Canadian Legion Carnival. It will start from the Legion Hall at 7.45, and march by way of the principal streets, returning to the Hall to play a selection outside. Last night's parade, headed by the band of the Peterborough Rangers was very effective. Two young ladies in V.A.D. dress carried a large banner inviting patronage for the Carnival.

Because of the success of the show, it has been decided to run it also on Saturday night. Pink tickets will be good of course, for ten cents, just the same as on the previous three nights.

Armistice Between Great Power Interests Forecast When Foshay Visits Premier

TORONTO, Ont., May 17.—(Canadian Press).—An Armistice between the Ontario Hydro Power Commission and the Foshay power interests of Minnesota in the latter's fight to invade power development in Ontario is forecast by a visit to-day of W. B. Foshay to Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister.

Mr. Foshay was accompanied by his counsel H. H. Davis and had a lengthy conference with the Prime Minister. In view of the recent hydro victory in Southampton, and the coming fight in Walkerton, where the Foshay interests are invading, the conference was significant.

Mr. Foshay declined to discuss his visit.

C. A. McGrath, Chairman of the Hydro Power Commission, and Hon. J. R. Cooke, Minister of Power in the Ontario Cabinet conferred with the premier following Mr. Foshay's conference.

What the proposed settlement may be is not stated but important announcement is anticipated.

ST. LAWRENCE FLOODS BANKS

Heavy Property Damage is Reported in Brockville Area.

HIGHEST IN CENTURY.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 17 (C.P.)—Property owners along the St. Lawrence River to-day surveyed the damage done by the river's waters which swept over their banks at low-lying spots after reaching a record-breaking height yesterday. Extensive damage was done to waterfront property. The waters subsided by almost two feet during the night. No further damage is anticipated unless other storms drive the already high waters to greater heights.

The damage to waterfront property will not be as heavy as in previous storms this year, as yesterday's gale shifted after raging a few hours. Nevertheless, reports of wharves being swept away, or boathouses collapsing and of cottages being damaged, are coming from various points along the St. Lawrence.

Highest in Century

Along the waterfront in Brockville the river rose to a point higher than has been recorded in a century, the waters surrounding boathouses normally well above the water mark, sweeping over docks, and inundating low-lying land.

At Prescott a similar condition is reported, work being suspended for some time on the grain terminal development because piles were carried away.

Gananoque ferry service was suspended.

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN TO UNITE

Two Great Churches Will Meet For Last Time As Separate Units.

20 YEARS OF NEGOTIATIONS.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 17 (C. P. Cable).—The General Assemblies of the two great Scottish Presbyterian Churches will meet for the last time as separate bodies near the close of this month in Edinburgh, when the eyes of Scotsmen and Scotswomen the world over will be turned towards the city. During their sittings the assemblies will come to a decision of momentous import to the Scottish people; after 20 years of negotiation, Union is at last to be an accepted fact. The final steps which constitutional procedure requires will be taken in the autumn. Many questions concerning church life and work at home and abroad will be discussed but the subject of Union will overshadow all others.

The Church of Scotland membership is practically unanimous for Union. At the last assembly an amendment for the rejection of the scheme received only seven votes. In the United Free Church, however, although an overwhelming majority are keen to go forward into the larger Union, there is a minority led by Rev. James Barr, with a vote at the last assembly of 48 ministers and elders, which is determined to prosecute with all energy the arrangements for a continuing church.

The majority maintain that by the Acts of 1921 and 1921 the Church of Scotland freed herself of state control and interference, and that the financial bond between church and state was broken.

MOTHER OF TROUT CREEK YOUTH TELLS COURT OF FATAL SHOOTING

Anthony Tucker Faces Charge of Manslaughter at Parry Sound.

ONLY 13 YEARS OLD.

Boy Shot When Father in Intoxicated Condition Was Beating His Wife.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., May 17 (By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).— Though only thirteen years old, Anthony Tucker, of Trout Creek, is being tried for manslaughter here. The case opened yesterday of the boy who shot his father when the latter is alleged to have been in the act of beating his mother in a drunken rage.

Neatly dressed and slightly curious, the boy sat in the dock in a crowded courtroom while a tale of domestic tragedy was unfolded, and evidence was adduced as to whether the lad knew the difference between right and wrong. Mrs. Lilian Tucker, the lad's mother, told of the shooting and the events leading up to it.

Her husband had gone to Trout Creek in the morning of March 5, a distance of about two miles. He had returned in the evening intoxicated and began to quarrel with her calling her names and threatening her. She knew there was a cartridge in a rifle in the house and told the boy to take it out. He did this. Young Anthony then suggestd that his mother leave the house and she packed a sachel to go to Trout Creek.

The father, Anthony Tucker the elder, pursued her outside the house when she attempted to slip out a back door. He was beating her with a stick on the ground when she saw the boy appear and heard him tell his father "Leave mama alone." The lad then ran into the house, and the next she heard was a shot. Tucker was wounded in the back and died nine hours later.

The three winners were: H. McFarlane, $10 credit note donated by J. A. McNabb; B. Baker, 182 1-2 Hunter street, 1 year's subscription by The Peterborough Examiner; W. J. Davies, 279 Armour Road, $4, credit note, donated by Jack Primeau.

Big Liner Seeks Aid

Graf Zeppelin Intends To Make Landing at Cuers in Southern France.

FAILS AT VALENCE.

Grave Fears Are Expressed For Safety of Members of Crew and Passengers.

PARIS, May 17 (Canadian Press). — The Graf Zeppelin at 7 o'clock to-night wirelessed the French Air Ministry that it intended to land at Cuers, in Southern France, near Toulon, where there is a mooring mast.

LE BOURGET FLYING FIELD, France, May 17 (Canadian Press). — The aviation authorities here late this afternoon advised Dr. Eckener to head for the town of Cuers, near Toulon, on the French Mediterranean coast. A special landing mast was available there.

This mast had served for the French dirigible Dixmude, which was later lost over the Mediterranean during a storm.

Cuers is in the hills 12 miles north-east of Toulon naval base. It is a town of 4,000 population.

VALENCE, France, May 17. (C.P.)—After flying to the outskirts of the city, the Zeppelin was brought to a standstill by the violence of the wind which was sweeping it eastward.

At 4.15 p.m., (10.15 a.m. E.S.T.) she was over the little community of Crest about 15 miles southeast of here.

Her situation, after heading toward the valley of the Drome, appeared to be very grave indeed. There are no airfields in the direction in which she was moving, and the country is savage and mountainous.

Her motors appeared for a moment to have stopped entirely. Then she got under way again towards Saillans.

Saillans is a town of 1500 inhabitants, affording no facilities for landing other than open fields. There is no military field anywhere near about and farther east are the Agbmyising Alps and their foothills.

LE BOURGET, France, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Battling strong north-westerly winds and with three of its five motors dead, the trans-Atlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin was slowly struggling up the Rhone Valley to-day in an effort to reach her home port, Friedrichshafen, Germany.

The huge ship, which had set out on her second voyage to the United States, and had covered approximately 1,000 miles in excellent time, had been in the air more than 33 hours at eight o'clock this morning, eastern standard time.

Slowly Fights Way.

As she slowly fought her way through head winds, sometimes almost standing still, and at best making no more than 25 miles an hour, French aviation authorities here made no attempt to hide anxiety over the situation, one French dirigible expert saying that with the head wind and her loss of power, the airship might easily become unmanageable.

There was no report that Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the great air liner, had determined finally to make a landing in France, possibly at the Bron Aviation Field at Lyons, but this was immediately denied at Friedrichshafen.

Latest news from the Graf Zeppelin received at Marseilles indicated that Dr. Eckener counted on keeping to the Rhone Valley on his return to Friedrichshafen. Conditions in the valley, however, were strongly unfavorable, according to the French meteorological service, which reported that a 45-mile head wind was sweeping almost the entire length of the valley.

Although Dr. Eckener apparently was determined to win through to Friedrichshafen, French experts here said that in view of the bad weather conditions and crippled motors, it would be tempting providence to keep on through the Vosges Mountains.

It was expected that the Zeppelin would reach Lyons shortly after night fall.

FIRST REPRESENTATIVE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 17—It was stated here to-day that Osmond Grattan Esmonde, son of Sir Thomas Esmonde, is likely to be the first Irish Free State Minister at the Vatican.

(Sir Thomas Esmonde was a Chamberlain of the Vatican household in 1898, is a Grand Officer of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre and is representative of the Order for Ireland. His heir, Osmond, who has been suggested for the Vatican post, is 33 years old).

SEAMEN SWEPT OVERBOARD IN FIERCE STORM

Four Freighters Reported in Trouble On Lake Superior Early To-day.

S. S. BUDD TOTAL LOSS.

Crew of 31 Men Are Taken From Vessel and Landed at Houghton.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 17. —(By the Canadian Press.)—Four vessels in trouble, one of which, the freighter Ralph Budd, of the Great Lakes Transportation Corporation, will be a total loss, and two men washed overboard from the freighter W. B. Davock of the Interlake Steamship Company, seems to have been the toll of Wednesday night's storm, so far as can be learned from a canvass of the sources of marine information here to-day.

The steamer Ralph Budd, the 1,000 ton freighter of the Great Lakes Transportation Company, reported yesterday to be pounding to pieces in heavy seas six miles west of Eagle Harbor, is in a bad position on the rocks and probably will be a total loss. The crew of 31 men was taken from the vessel without accident and they are now at Houghton, Mich.

Gorman Loses Her Wheel.

The steamer J. E. Gorman, of the Great Lakes Transportation Company, lost her wheel and rudder in Wednesday night's blizzard off Autrain, eight miles west of Grand Island, and her No. 5 tank is leaking, according to information reaching the Soo this morning. The vessel is in no danger, the report said.

The steamer Turrett King, reburgh Steamship Company, passed up through the Michigan Soo Canal yesterday afternoon, after being released from Everens Point, below Sailors Encampment, where she grounded early Wednesday morning. It was found necessary after reaching the Soo, to put the new blades in her propeller, after which she proceeded up the lake.

The steamer Back Bay of the Sulported to have ran aground in Lake Munuscong during the storm, had engine trouble and anchored it was discovered.

Back Bay Is Released.

The setamer Back Bay of the Sullivan fleet which went aground between Twin and Pilot Islands in Lake Munuscong, released herself and proceeded down bound, undamaged.

The names of the men lost from the steamer Davock cannot be ascertained here, but one was a wheelsman and the other a watchman. They were washed overboard in the early hours of Wednesday morning by heavy seas while placing shutters on the pilot of the vessel.

The steamer Budd was downbound with a cargo of flour and grain and went off her course in the snow storm. She is 406 feet long and of 50 foot beam and was formerly the steamer Superior. She was in command of Captain Dougal McLeod.

To-day the storm signals which had been up at the ship canal since Wednesday, are down.

CAN'T AFFORD NIGHT-DRESS

LIVERPOOL, Eng., May 17.—Derwent Caine, son of the novelist and Labor candidate in a Liverpool division, explained to an audience to-day how the Liberal and Conservative party funds were collected, giving the conferment of knighthoods as one contributing factor.

"So that's what it costs to get a knighthood," he said.

"I can't afford to get a night-dress," declared a woman in the audience.

REBELS STAGE SALLY.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mexico, May 17. — A force of two hundred Mexican Federal soldiers, garrisoned here, were rushed southward last night in response to a report from El Tigre, Sonora, mining town, that "rebel forces" had sallied from the hills, attacked the town and killed several Mexican guards. Sixty other Mexican Federal guards were reported captured. El Tigre is about 55 miles south of Agua Prieta.

MARRIAGE IMPOSSIBLE.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 17.—From a high authority came the statement to-day that rules of the Bulgarian National Church and the Roman Catholic Church had prevented the marriage of King Boris of this country and Princess Giovanna of Italy.

This authority said that but for the attitude of the Vatican and impossibility of action by the Bulgarian Church, the betrothal of the Royal pair would have been announced in the course of the Bulgarian national celebrations Wednesday.

JURY ACQUITS C.N.R. ENGINEER AT PARRY SOUND

Crown Will Withdraw Charges Against Other Two Members of Crew.

RECOMMEND SIGNALS.

Justice Raney Tells Jury To Ignore the Manslaughter Charge.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., May 17 (By Frank Flaherty — Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Verne Alexander was last night a free man, acquitted by a jury of his peers of charges of manslaughter and criminal negligence. Alexander was the engine driver of the ill-fated Canadian National train number 3 which crashed head-on into another train after running past its ordered meeting place at Drocourt in the early morning hours of March 20 last. Seventeen and possibly twenty lives were lost, and criminal proceedings were launched against the three surviving members of the train crew.

After a trial lasting two days and a half, Alexander was found not guilty yesterday afternoon by a jury under Mr. Justice Raney. The charges against Fireman Edward Riley of Winnipeg and Brakeman Charles Gorrie of Toronto will not be proceeded with. Crown Attorney W. L. Haight told the Canadian Press last night he would move for a "nolle prosse" order when Court resumes this morning.

Makes Recommendation.

Coupled with their verdict, the jury presented a recommendation that block signals be installed at all stations where there are no operators, and that trains should not be ordered to meet at stations where there are neither block signals nor operators.

Even before the jury retired it was almost certain Alexander would not receive a heavy penalty. Mr. Justice Raney in his address suggested that the jury should ignore the more serious charge of manslaughter and concentrate on the lesser one of criminal negligence or causing grievous bodily harm through neglect of duty.

He also told them he felt it was not a case for a jail penalty, and announced he had no intention of sending the engineer to prison.

Governor Green Vetoes Electrocution Measure

LANSING, Mich., May 17. — (Canadian Press).—In the face of pronounced public demand twice manifested by overwhelming votes in the Legislature, Governor Fred W. Green yesterday vetoed the Lennon-Wood bill providing electrocution for first degree murderers. The veto was announced a few minutes after the enrolled act was laid upon his desk. The Governor said he believed the bill was "too harsh."

FERRY BOATS CANCEL TRIPS

St. Lawrence River in Flood Around Gananoque and District.

HEAVY DAMAGE REPORTED.

GANANOQUE, May 17. —(Canadian Press).—The river at this point continues to rise, and waves yesterday, backed by a gale from the west, did heavy damage to wharves boathouses and summer homes.

The Canadian National dock is submerged and the ferry steamers which land at this point were obliged to cancel their trips. A number of docks and boathouses were observed floating down the river. Boat captains and river men declare they never saw the water so high or so much damage done by wind and waves as this spring. Motorboat owners are unable to get their boats out of the boathouses as the the boats are somewhere up near the roofs.

Between daylight and noon the water had risen over a foot along the water-front here and it was still climbing upward yesterday afternoon.

Farmers along the shore west of the town are marooned in their homes, as the roads and bridges leading to their homes from the provincial highway are under several feet of water. A similar condition exists at Havelock Robb's wild game sanctuary a few miles west of the town. The marsh that was a part of the new estate he established for wild life preservation is now a lake.

CONSERVATIVE AMENDMENT IS LOST IN HOUSE

New Tax on Stocks Again Receives Endorsement of House of Commons.

OPPOSITION VOICED.

Malcolm Lang, Liberal Member of Temiskaming, Opposes Minister's Resolution.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 17. (C.P.) — The new tax on sale of shares of stocks scheduled to come into effect on July 1 next, again received the endorsation of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. By a vote 96 to 58 the House defeated the amendment moved by Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Conservative leader.

The amendment would have had the effect of leaving the tax on shares as it is at present.

The amendment was moved when the resolution to give effect to the tax changes came up for second reading. This resolution on Monday night last had a rough time when the house was in committee of Ways and Means, but emerged successfully after two votes. Yesterday the new taxes were attacked along much the same line. A conspicuous opponent again yesterday was Malcolm Lang, Liberal member for Temiskaming South, who condemned the proposal in no uncertain language and voted against it when the House divided. A number of Conservative members voiced their opposition to the new levy, but the other groups took little part in the debate.

Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, reiterated his previously expressed opinion that the new tax was an equitable one and he saw no reason for changing it.

When the House divided on Mr. Bennett's amendment, he received the solid support of the Conservatives and six others. They were Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive, South East Grey, D. M. Kennedy, U.F.A., Peace River, W. T. Lucas, U.F.A., Camrose, B. W. Fansher, Progressive Lambton East, and Mr. Lang.

All the Liberals and Liberal-Progressives voted against the amendment.

WHY SHE VOTES LABOR

LONDON, Eng., May 16.— Miss Ishbel MacDonald does not believe young people should vote for a political party simply because their parents do. Miss MacDonald who acted as hostess for her father, Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald when he was Labor Prime Minister, said there were several reasons why she would vote Labor. She said she believed every mother should have a chance of bringing children into the world without impairing her own health; that every family should have decent houses; and that every child should have a good education.

Freighters Are In Difficulty in Storms On Great Lakes.

VESSELS AGROUND.

PORT ARTHUR, May 17 (C.P.).—Port William boats coming into port yesterday after having been on Lake Superior last night, report a few hours of weather as severe as the worst usually encountered during the closing weeks of navigation in November and December, when severe Winter conditions prevail.

A snowstorm that swept down from the West covering the two cities and district with a blanket of white to the accompaniment of several degrees of frost spread also over the lake and made conditions both difficult and dangerous as the storm reached a peak about midnight Wednesday.

The package freighter Ralph Budd, en route Duluth to Buffalo, went aground early yesterday morning. The entire crew of 31 was taken off at noon with no casualties by the coast-guard from Eagle Harbor. The ship, valued at $500,000, is reported to be a total loss.

Vessels Aground

In addition to the Henry C. Frick, which grounded below Sailors' Encampment, the steamer Back Bay of the Sullivan fleet also was reported aground at Twin Island, in Lake Munuscong.

The steamer Turret King was reported as having engine trouble and helpless in Lake Munuscong. Repairs have been made and the steamer is now upbound, as is the Frick, under tow.

The steamer J. E. Gormon of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation is being pounded hard at Autrain, 30 miles east of Munising. Her captain is W. Holme. As far as can be ascertained here no other craft have gone to the Gorman, which is about the same size as the Dudd.

The Hamonic of the Northern Navigation Line, regarded as one of the very best boats on the Lakes, struggled with the gale at its height and was tossed about heavily for a few hours.

San Marino, Europe's smallest republic, has an area of 38 square miles and a population of nearly 13,000. It is situated in the hills near Rimini, on the Adriatic.

Large Force Is Reported To Be Falling Back Towards Swatou.

HONG KONG, May 17 (C.P.).—An official report from Canton to-day said that antonese troops had inflicted a defeat on Kwangsi forces in Eastern Kwangtung, recapturing Watchow, east of Canton. The Kwangsi forces were reported falling back toward Swatow.

With renewal recently of hostilities between Kwangtung province (Canton) and the Kwangslites, there were numerous Kwangsi military detachments in Eastern Kwangtung. The main Kwangsi army has advanced against Canton from the west, down the Sikiang.

The Weather

TORONTO, Ont. (Meteorological Office), May 17 (Canadian Press).—The depression over Northern Quebec yesterday morning has passed to the Labrador Coast, while high pressure extends over the lower lakes and off the middle Atlantic coast. Shallow areas of low pressure are approaching the great lakes from the westward.

The weather is for the most part fair in all provinces, cool in the West, and a tendency toward higher temperature in Ontario.

Forecasts.

Lower Lake Region and Georgian Bay—South-westerly to southerly winds; fair with rising temperature. Saturday—Moderately warm; fair at first, followed by showers.

Northern Ontario—Fair, becoming a little warmer. Saturday—Fresh winds; partly cloudy; probably a few scattered showers.

Manitoba—Northerly winds; partly cloudy and cool; a few scattered showers or local snowflurries. Saturday—Fair, with stationary or slightly higher temperature.

GRAF ZEPPELIN IS RETURNING

With Two of Her Five Engines Crippled, Giant Airship Returns Home.

TROUBLE IN FIRST 12 HOURS.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 17.—(C.P.)—The Graf Zeppelin, with three of its five motors dead, fought its way across the mouth of the Rhone at 8 a.m. (2 a.m. E.S.T.) to-day and began a hard battle with near gale head winds to reach its home port, before dark to-night.

A violent mistral, or cold northwest winds, and loss of all but two of the ship's five motors, cut the speed of the dirigible to 30 kilometres (about 21 miles) an hour. Messages from Alexander Von Kryna, aboard the Zeppelin, said the passengers were calm.

The dirigible appeared over Nines, west of Marseilles, at 9.20 a.m., (3.20 a.m., E.S.T.), struggling hard against the wind. Twenty minutes later it appeared almost immovable over Bellegrade. At 9.50 a.m., it appeared again to be progressing, obliqueing to the north-east at a height of about 2,500 feet.

Loss of the third motor was unexplained.

There was some fear in some quarters for the ship and its passengers, but the Zeppelin Company expressed confidence that the air liner would ride the storm safely. It was emphatically denied that an emergency landing in France was contemplated.

The giant dirigible was visible for nearly an hour and a half at Nimes before it disappeared in the direction of Montellmar. Unable to breast the full force of the wind it was forced to tack, and was making less than 20 miles an hour headway.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 17 (Canadian Press).—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin last night slowly cruised homeward from the Mediterranean with two of her five motors crippled and eighteen disappointed passengers, who had hoped that Lakehurst, N.J., would be their first stop.

The giant airship in its first 12 hours of flight had covered nearly 1,000 miles, and had reached a point between the Balearic Islands in the Spanish Mediterranean and Gibraltar. From there she was to have pursued a course over the Azores, and possibly Bermuda, to the United States.

Instead, the motor trouble, apparently due to the crankshafts or connection rods, caused her commander, Dr. Hugo Eckner, to swing the ship around and head for the home hangar here. His decision was reached at 6.35 p.m. (12.35 eastern standard time).

BREWERY FINED $1,000.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 17.—Brading Breweries, Limited, were fined $1,000 in Police Court yesterday on charges of disseminating liquor announcements. The company admitted sending out a number of letters to former customers in connection with a new brand of ale, but contended there was no violation of the statute.

This is the first case of its kind in Ontario.

HUNDREDS HAILING "HUSKY" AS THE GREATEST MEDICINE EVER OFFERED LOCAL PEOPLE

Those Who Thought It Wouldn't Help Them Now Call Husky More Than a Medicine and Report How Much Better It Makes Them Feel—Proves Its Worth To All Who Suffer From Stomach Trouble, Indigestion, Constipation, Catarrhal Troubles, Headaches, Rheumatic Pains, Kidney Ailments and Weak, Nervous Conditions.

Husky Expert Explains the Treatment at Bond's Drug Store Each Day and Everyone in This City is Invited To Call on Him.

The introduction here in Peterborough of "Husky," the wonderful new medicine, which has been so successfully conducted and caused so many people to be thankful for its coming here, has accomplished here just exactly what it did everywhere else—the relief of stomach, kidney and bowel ailments, which the discoverers of Husky contend are due in nine cases out of ten to catarrh or acid irritations.

Peterborough people who suffered for years from many common complaints went to Bond's Drug Store, where Husky is being introduced, for a bottle of this medicine and invariably came back loud in their praise of this wonderful preparation.

These people got Husky to be relieved as they heard others had freed themselves from the clutches of this universal evil, and sure enough a few days later they would come back and relate wondrous stories of almost immediate relief from troubles which had held on for years.

Many who were skinny and undernourished were the loudest in their praise of Husky for rounding out their scrawny bodies and sunken cheeks. Those who had endured pains in the side and back, headaches, sleepless nights, sour stomach, gas, biliousness, etc., were quickly benefitted after taking Husky.

Women, nervous for years, unable to stand the slightest noise without almost jumping out of their skin, depressed and melancholy, took Husky and now say they never have an ache or a pain.

Dragging pains in the back of the neck and head, neuralgia and rheumatism came in for their share of the troubles suffered by many. Some told of being unable to get their breath after the least exertion. Long time sufferers from constipation said they were entirely relieved and now sleeping well, eating more than they ever did before and digesting every bit of it.

Some thinking they were incurable, complaining of pains of one kind or another, came back reporting their recovery.

Even the most determined skeptics have been won over with such convincing proof of Husky's unusual merit.

Perhaps there are still some who refuse to be convinced and continue to suffer, but it is hard to understand how they can be so disinterested when so many have taken Husky and afterwards said it was just the medicine for them and urged everyone suffering as they did to take it, too.

Can Feel Improvement All Over Body.

Mrs. Etta McCoy, of 23 Widmer St., Toronto, writes:

"Husky is a blessing sent to me. I cannot describe the severe pains I suffered in my back and head and I want to tell you how thankful I am to Husky, because this medicine has taken the pain away.

"My liver and kidneys were out of order, and for three years I had headaches and my back hurt. So many nights I lay awake until 2 o'clock or after my back and head ached so bad. I would get up in the morning sick and nervous as could be. My daughter first started on Husky and found it so good I began taking it.

"I feel the improvement from Husky all over. I am now without those severe headaches and backaches and am not nervous, and that is a blessing to me. I go to bed and go right to sleep and get up feeling fine."

Call at Bond's Drug Store and see the Husky Expert, who will gladly explain to you how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine. Call on him tomorrow, your visit no doubt will lead you to relief from your suffering just as such visits have already brought new health and strength to hundreds in Peterborough.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, May 17.—Fairly heavy shipments of fresh eggs arrived on the wholesale produce market yesterday and prices held steady. Butter Firm

Trading was slightly more active on the wholesale butter market yesterday and the price of No. 1 finest creamery appeared firm at from 36¼ to 36½ cents per pound, and No. 2 grade was quoted one cent per pound lower.

Dealers are taking advantage of every opportunity to reduce their supplies of imported butter to provide room for the domestic brands. Production from this source is increasing rapidly.

The cheese market was quiet and prices were unchanged.

CHICAGO, May 17. — Indications that Jack Frost has done no damage anywhere to wheat tended to ease values down yesterday despite a forecast of more frost last night. Largely as a result of advances that wheat in Kansas and Nebraska especially had escape threatened harm, considerable selling of wheat future deliveries was done against simultaneous buying of corn. Reports at hand said planting of corn was delayed as much as four weeks in some important sections.

Wheat closed heavy, ½c to ⅝c net lower, corn at ½c decline and 1c advance, oats ¼c off to a shade up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 17.—Trading was dull on yesterday's wheat market, and the range of prices narrow. Wheat opened a shade easier and traded ¼c to ⅜c lower until near the close, when values firmed, to close ⅜c higher to ⅝c lower for the day. Trading was largely local in character. Very little export business was reported.

Low grades of cash wheat were active at prices ¼c lower to ¼c higher than Wednesday's close. Other grades held fairly steady. Oats, barley and rye held firm throughout. Flax was the strong feature, adavncing 2c in the May.

TARIFF ON FISH TO BE REVISED

Canada Is Attempting To Change Entire Classification, Chairman States.

BOARD ADJOURNS.

OTTAWA, May 16.—(C.P.)—Canada is attempting to revise her entire schedule of fish classifications in the customs tariff schedule, W. H. Moore, Chairman of the Tariff Advisory Board, stated at the session of that body today. Since the United States has been drawing up a completely re-classified list, the Tariff Board will welcome any suggestions which are of a practical nature. Investigations on Pacific and Atlantic coasts of Canada have been completed by experts of the Tariff Board and there will be further inquiry if necessary.

While a start was made today to comply with the reference of the Minister of Finance which suggested revisions for the tariff schedule on fish and fishermen's equipment, Mr. Moore stated that in his opinion an adjournment until the autumn was necessary. The hearing was accordingly adjourned at noon until a date to be set.

A TIMELY WARNING.

The warning issued by the Attorney-General in regard to the sale of pills by door-to-door agents is timely and necessary.

The practice is dangerous in the risk it contains that children may come into possession of these pills and eat them with fatal results, for while quite harmless when taken in moderation by adults, such medicine is decidedly dangerous fare for children.

This was tragically proven recently at Kitchener where a child died from eating a quantity of pills said to contain aconite and belladonna.

In this case, it is stated, that the peddler who sold the pills failed to require the purchaser to sign for the articles, a breach of the regulations in itself.

Mr. Price is right in insisting upon greater care in the sale of patent medicines from door to door, but even safeguards along this line will not save the children unless the parents exercise caution in keeping pills and other medicine out of the reach of childish fingers.

More than one tragedy has been caused because some one was careless in leaving dangerous medicine where it could be secured by children.

THE CLEVELAND TRAGEDY.

The Cleveland tragedy, in which well over 150 lives have been wiped out as the result of an explosion and fire which sent clouds of death-dealing gas throughout the clinic hospital, will no doubt be rigidly investigated in order that the cause of such a terrible catastrophe may be fully determined.

The thought is disquieting that what has happened in this modern hospital building might be repeated in other institutions of the same kind under similar circumstances.

The cause of the explosion and the reason for the creation of such a deadly gas mixture must be searched out and explained so that other hospitals everywhere may be freed from hitherto unsuspected hazards that might cause disaster.

The particularly appalling feature of the Cleveland tragedy is the fact that the insidious gas took the lives of many people who apparently escaped unscathed from the wrecked building and were stricken just as their friends were rejoicing that they had been spared.

The disaster is unique in that respect, inasmuch as many of those who were looked upon as safe have been taken without warning.

FOURTEEN BILLIONS IN A YEAR.

Figures issued by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce enable some idea to be formed of the extent to which the automobile business has developed in the last few years.

Often there is conjecture as to this point, and it has remained for the National Automobile Chamber to supply the actual statistics, which show that the public's automobile bill in the United States last year reached the amazing total of fourteen billions of dollars.

People of the United States spent almost four billion dollars in purchasing new cars, while gasoline and oil purchases accounted for close to two and a half billion dollars.

The wages of chauffeurs and drivers represented a total expenditure of two and a quarter billions, while tires and spare parts cost approximately two billion dollars.

Roads and streets cost $1,600,000,000 and garage and service charges $1,015,000,000, while the balance of the total was made up by insurances, taxes, etc.

The figures are somewhat staggering, even although the development of motoring is evident to all.

Some of our debating societies might find in them a subject for an interesting argument as to whether or not the public gets full value for such a gigantic outlay, a question about which there are various opinions.

THE PARKING PROBLEM.

It is almost impossible to pick up a newspaper these days without reading complaints about the parking problem.

Every community, big or small, has this vexatious matter to deal with, and judging from the laments in the papers, very few centres have been successful in satisfactorily solving the problem.

The simple truth is, that our streets were never intended to take care of automobile traffic, and in the majority of cases they are too narrow to permit of the rapid transit of motor cars or to accommodate parked automobiles.

Large cities are spending vast sums of money to overcome this difficulty, but smaller communities must accept street conditions as they are and endeavor to eliminate the evils of traffic problems so far as is possible.

Here at home, with an Old Home Week in the offering and the certainty of record tourist traffic during the summer months, to say nothing of the increased number of local cars in commission, the parking question should be given serious consideration by the City Council.

Present regulations may have to be revised if the down-town section is not to be congested to a dangerous degree.

UNIQUE SCHOOL.

It is said of the New York school which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., endows and underwrites, that it is an institution where those vast extremes, typical of Manhattan life, are found. Here mingle the children of the fabulously rich and the contrastingly poor. The opportunity for entrance is not based upon the standards of wealth, but upon the precocity displayed. Youngsters in ordinary and humble circumstances, who can run the mental blockade, are given an equal chance with boys and girls whose parents are the financial nabobs. Mental alertness is the sole qualification required and thus, while it is essentially a public school, its student body is automatically limited. In an interesting report on the Rockefeller experiment, which has just come to hand, it is pointed out that every effort is made to dispel any notion of caste differences and to draw the distinctions, instead, along mental lines. The child of a captain of industry who has sufficient intelligence to gain an entrance to the school is almost certain to be less of a snob than is a child of a newly rich household, pampered into self-consciousness. The experiment is largely the idea of John D., Jr., and some of his fellows. In the teaching of mathematics, the lads are sent out with surveyors to learn the uses and meanings of angles and curves long before they are plunged into the mysteries of algebra and geometry. They visualize and understand what they are driving at before they commence the actual study. And, in keeping with this policy, trigonometry is approached before algebra has been mastered. If a particular battle is to be studied, an actual scene is re-enacted. The floor of the class room becomes a battle field and troops are marched in the exact movements of the war. Thus, through the process of visualization, the pupil learns something he never forgets, nor is any detail lost to his mind. This is the theory that is the basis of all classwork and these instances are said to be typical of the entire method of training. The school, however, makes certain that those who enter it are mentally prepared for their course and many are the aspirants who are "plucked" at the stiff preliminary test. It is one of the most interesting educational institutions on the continent and is declared by some astute observers to constitute rather a good indication of the blowing of future winds.—Hamilton Spectator.

TANGLES OF THE GRAIN PROBE.

It was Edmund Burke who declared: "I have no great opinion of a definition." Designed to remove uncertainty and prevent confusion in the correction of abuses it had, as often as not, the effect of making both worse confounded. The truth of the saying in its relation to more modern conditions is being borne in upon the minds of the members of the Parliamentary Committee that is investigating the problems arising out of the administration of the Grain Act.

That committee has been engaged for weeks in an earnest endeavor to discover and define in statutory terms adequate measures and methods for the regulation of the movement and marketing of Canada's western grain crop. The task is not a new one. For many years the grain problem, in all its manifold phases, has been the subject of intensive study and exhaustive inquiry. Other parliamentary committees have had it under consideration from time to time. One Royal Commission after another has investigated it, and the results of all the probing, covering a period of a quarter of a century, are formulated and consolidated in the mass of definitions and provisions known as the Grain Act.

A glance through the pile of evidence accumulated by the committee now at work leaves no doubt as to the thoroughness of the inquiry. What, at the outset, was intended to be a sort of examination for discovery of alleged defects in the functioning of the Board of Grain Commissioners, has developed into an investigation of the widest range. Expert evidence has been heard on practically every angle of the problems of testing, moving and marketing the western crop, from the unloading of the grain at the country elevator and its passage to the terminals and points of inspection to its handling at the seaboard and its ultimate arrival in the European markets.

Much of the testimony has been of a highly technical character, too technical, perhaps, to be fully comprehended by the average farmer, and a good deal of it has been along lines made familiar by previous inquiries. But the committee has at least enjoyed the advantage of hearing the situation discussed at first hand by those best qualified to guide it in its deliberations instead of having to rely upon the reports and findings of other investigators, and it seems to have made good use of the opportunity afforded to examine and cross-examine the witnesses appearing before it.

What the statutory results will be, by way of amendments to the act, remains to be seen. From the evidence submitted it is clear that in regulating the movement and marketing of Canada's huge crops there are difficulties not dreamt of in the bucolic philosophy of the western grain grower whose interest is limited to the price he gets for his product. And it is equally clear that many of these difficulties cannot be solved by statutory formulae or rigid definitions.

There is, for instance, the question of standards and sample tests. It is the duty of those charged with the administration of the Grain Act to see to it that the standards of the various grades of Canadian wheat are maintained at a point which will preserve the reputation of Canadian grain in the European markets. But who shall attempt to define in so many words and phrases what precisely and unalterably these standards shall be to meet all conditions and circumstances? One of the best trained and most efficient inspectors in the service of the Government is on record before the committee as saying that he for one would not undertake the task.

There is, again, the question of how far legislative enactment and statutory regulations can be effective in limiting production, which some experts in the grain trade think is excessive and therefore responsible for many of the western farmers' troubles; to what extent they can control the quality as well as the quantity of grain exported, and how far they can be carried in the direction of interfering with the private rights of the owners of the grain in transit. All these are matters more readily susceptible to debate than to legislative readjustment and remedy.

On the vexed question of mixing, which has caused more agitation than any of the other problems, the committee seems, from the evidence, to be in a tangle from which it may have some difficulty in extricating itself. For, though the clamor for the abolition of mixing is resonant enough, it represents by no means the unanimous opinion of the Progressive members, the pools, the grain trade or the farmers themselves. But it is hard to believe that the investigating committee will fail to recommend the proscription of a practice which puts a premium on the production of inferior grain, deteriorates the quality of the higher grades with which it is mixed and, as a process of adulteration, is as morally indefensible as it is prejudicial to the interests of the grain growers as a whole and to Canada's standing in the markets of the world.—Ottawa Journal.

A Thought

TRUTH

What hinders that now, everywhere—in pulpits, in lecture-rooms, in houses, in fields, wherever the invitation of men or your own occasions lead you—you speak the very truth as your life and conscience teach it, and cheer the waiting, fainting hearts of men with new hope, and new revelation?—R. W. Emerson.

BURDENS

Charles Dickens said, "No one is useless in the world who lightens the burden of it for anyone else.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY IT IS DIFFICULT TO REFORM A DRUNKARD

A drunkard seldom reforms. It is very hard for him to give up his habits because as the habit increases in strength his will power decreases.

In time he ceases to have a will worth mentioning. Will or strength of will is determined by the nerve-motive force directed by attention. The drunkard generates only a small amount of nervous energy and therefore has a weak will.

The red nose and bloodshot eyes of the habitual drunkard indicate a small amount of nervous energy. There is not enough energy to keep the little arteries tense, hence they become distended and filled with blood.

A drunkard can be reformed only when his will has been strengthened. And this can only be done by putting him under conditions that will enable him to generate more energy. The chemical and physical condition of the drunkard is fully as important as the mental attitude and the strength of his resolution to quit being a drunkard.

First of all he needs to get rid of the chemical effects of the alcohol in his system. This is sometimes accomplished by means of hot baths and other treatments that produce copious sweating. His diet is also important. The habitual drunkard is usually more interested in drinking than in eating and hence does not get enough proper nourishing food.

In other words, a man needs to build up his system and get rid of the poisons of an infection before he can fight it successfully with his niind and will. Will can't function alone. It is nothing in itself. Will is merely the self in action to strengthen will, you must strengthen the entire man and body mind.

What makes the drunkard's plight pitiable is that his habit disintegrates and dissolves his character and personality, the very things he needs to build up if he is to fight the disease. Drunkenness is a disease.

The dope fiend is in a similar plight and perhaps a worse plight. Morphine diminishes the number of red blood corpuscles in the blood. And since it is the red blood corpuscles which carry oxygen to the brain, less oxidation of tissue and consequently less nervous energy are liberated.

The drunkard and the dope fiend find it very difficult to reform because they lack the necessary will power and they lack the will power because their habits rob them of the vital energy so essential to an efficient will and a forceful personality.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SATURDAY, MAY 18, 1929

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

Except in the early morning this is rather an unfortunate day, according to astrology, which reads in the horoscope certain adverse signs.

The early hours should be favorable for initiative and for pushing work already started.

Merchants and manufacturers may be sure of good trade and fair profits under this sway which encourages liberal spending.

Lawyers will have a summer of unusual professional activity and should profit handsomely.

Honors for members of the legal profession will be many and a judge will gain international fame before many weeks have passed, the seers prophesy.

This is read as a lucky day for starting on sea voyages. Much travel to Russia is forecast and scholars as well as average tourists will seriously study the country's economic problems.

Under this direction of the stars, the spirit of faultfinding may be strong. Public men may expect undeserved criticism.

The rule is not favorable to family unity of thought and may precipitate quarrels. Husbands may be expecially difficult where money is involved.

It is wise to look out and not in to-day when there may be an inclination to be dissatisfied with one's lot in life.

Suicides may be on the increase as the year advances, for abuses of the body through drink and narcotics will result in many tragedies, the seers predict.

Health will be preached and will be cultivated with an earnestness not previously attained, astrologers declare, and the span of life will continue to lengthen.

The evening is a good time for conferences or for meetings at which big plans are discussed. This is a time when amazing enterprises are to be projected in mind.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a busy year in which there may be profitable journeys.

Children born on this day should have bright minds and strong bodies. The subjects of this sign usually are well balanced and trustworthy.

Samuel Hoar, early statesman, was born on this date, 1788. Czar Nicholas of Russia, 1868, also claimedthis as his birthday.

THIS IS NO PRIVILEGE

LONDON, May 17.—There are some ambulances that you have to pay a pretty penny to ride in this city. The Metropolitan Asylums Board has a fleet of 250 high-powered ambulances. For about $2.50 one of these motor ambulances will take you any place in London. They are heated by hot water pipes running from the engine and are mounted on special springs which eliminate road shocks.

Life Steps In

By RUBY M. AYRES

CHAPTER XLII.

A car came up the street and stopped outside the cottage, and Ana went quickly downstairs. She heard Mollie fretfully scolding the driver.

"You kept me waiting nearly ten minutes at the station. I ordered you for seven o'clock punctually."

The man made some apology, and Mollie came in without answering, slamming the garden gate behind her.

"Ten minutes I had to wait," she said again when she saw Ana. "Why on earth I live in this forsaken hole, I don't know. Where's the General?"

"In bed and asleep."

"You might have kept him up to see me, I should have thought," Mollie scolded. "I see little enough of him, goodness knows."

"That is your own fault," Ana wanted to say, but she checked herself. She knew that if she had kept the General up Mollie would have said he ought to have been in bed.

Mollie walked into the sitting room and threw her coat down on a chair.

"This place is nothing but a rabbit hutch," she declared. "Anyone would think I was a pauper. Anthony knew what he was about all right when he went back to Rhodesia and left me here to pig it." She was evidently in a very bad temper; she looked fagged and pale.

"Would you like some tea?" Ana asked; "or will you wait till supper time?"

"What have we got for supper?" Mollie asked ungraciously. "Only bread and cheese, I suppose."

"There are eggs and some cold ham. If I had known you were coming I would have got something hot. Your wire only came a little while ago."

"I sent it off early enough; it's the fools at the post office here who kept it back, I suppose."

She took off her hat and ruffled her hair.

"I've got a beast of a headache," she said. "Is there anything to drink in the house?"

"Only the brandy we keep in case the General wants it."

It was an effort for Ana to speak quietly; she stood with her hands gripping a chairback.

"Well, give me some," Mollie ordered. She spoke as if Ana were a servant.

Ana did not move.

"Did you hear what I said?" Mollie snapped.

"Yes; but I am not here to wait on you," Ana answered steadily. She was deathly pale and there were dark shadows beneath her eyes. She knew she was at the end of her tether; she knew that she could no longer control herself, try as she might.

"I've done a great deal for you, Mollie," she went on with difficulty. "But after to-night I shall do no more. I should have written to you to-morrow anyway if you had not come home, but now you are here I shall leave the cottage in the morning."

Mollie had been lounging back in the one armchair—Anthony's chair—but she sat up with a little vixenish movement of startled attention.

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"Nothing, except that I want to go," Ana said.

Mollie rose to her feet.

"Just because I was snappy when I came in. Don't be silly. I didn't mean any harm. I'm sorry, but my head aches, and I feel perfectly rotten. Come and kiss me, Ana. You know I can't do without you. I'm sorry if I was a pig. I've brought you a present."

She came toward Ana with a confident smile. That was like Mollie. She would be thoroughly detestable until she saw she had gone too far, then she would be all smiles and sweetness in order to get her own way a ain.

But Ana moved away from her.

"I don't want any presents from you, and I am not going to stay. I should not have left the General, of course, until you came; but now you are here——"

Mollie's colour rose in an angry wave. "Something has happened," she said sharply.

"A great many things have happened," Ana answered; "but it's useless talking about them. I don't want to quarrel with you. I only want to go."

Mollie's pretty eyes searched Ana's face with sharp suspicion.

"Has anyone been here?"

"Yes. Tom Drake and his sister."

"Oh, I see." Mollie laughed nastily. "You are going to marry him; is that it? And I am no longer of any use to you."

"No, I am not going to marry him. I hope I shall never see him again, and I hope I shall never see you again either," Ana said deliberately.

There was an eloquent silence. Mollie moistened her lips, and her eyes grew frightened.

"Someone has been making mischief—that Mrs. Inglis—I always hated her," she said hoarsely.

"No. Mrs. Inglis hardly mentioned you except to say that they met you in London the other night."

"With Mahon! O, I see! And yo were shocked." Mollie looked relieved. "Don't be a fool, Ana!" she said, trying to laugh. "It was a pure accident. I haven't seen Mahon for months till then."

"That is a lie," Ana said in a whisper. "Your whole life has been a lie since Anthony went away. I've always known it only I've tried not to. I've put up with it for the General's sake, but now I've finished. I ought never to have come here. I wish I never had." Her voice broke and she hid her face in her hands. "Oh, how could you, how could you!" she whispered brokenly.

Mollie stood very still. Twice she tried to speak, but no words would come; then with a tremendous effort she forced a laugh.

"Don't be a fool, Ana! I know I've not been nice to you—I know I've left you alone more than I ought to have done, and I'm sorry—you're one of those people it's easy to impose upon, you're so good natured. I'm awfully fond of you, really"—she laid a hand on Ana's arm, but it was shaken passionately away.

"You know I'm really awfully fond of you," she said again, with greater confidence.

Ana looked up suddenly.

"Can't you ever speak the truth?" she asked.

She drew away with a shiver, and put the width of the little table between them.

She remembered it was here that Anthony had first kissed her and said that he loved her; here that she had said good-bye to him when she went back to Wimbledon determined never to see him again. Would she ever see him again?—a tide of passionate despair and rage rose in her heart. It was as if for a moment she was mad with rage and longing for all she had given up, as she turned on Mollie, her hands clenched, her cheeks scarlet.

"Oh, you ought to be ashamed of yourself, ashamed of yourself!" she cried. "To lie and deceive me as you have done. Do you think I don't know that you have broken every promise you made to Anthony? Do you think I don't know that you've just made a fool and a catspaw of me all along? You can't even be commonly loyal—you even had to tell Tom Drake cruel things about me. I don't know why it is that women like you get everything they want from life . . . it's not fair! And I hope some day life will pay you out. I hope—oh, I never want to see you again."

She tried to reach the door but Mollie stopped her.

"Wait a minute. Ana, I beg of you. Ana! You used to be my friend."

"You were never mine."

"I know. I've been horrible—I don't know why, but I don't seem to be able to help myself." Mollie's voice shook and there was a hunted look in her eyes. "You're so different to me—you can't judge. Don't leave me, Ana—I can't be left—I'm in trouble, dreadful trouble"—she was clinging to Ana now with both hands, hands which Ana tried in vain to unclasp.

"Let me go—I only want to go away and never see you again."

"Ana—listen——" Mollie broke off, turning her head toward the open door. "It's the General," she whispered.

His little voice rang through the cottage.

"Auntie—Auntie Ana—why are you crying?"

There was a dreadful shamed silence, then Mollie's hands fell to her sides and she turned away, as Ana went out into the tiny hall.

"It's all right, darling. I'm not—crying," she said in a muffled voice.

"Come and say good-night to me then."

"I have said good-night to you."

"Well, come and say it all over again."

"He doesn't want me," Mollie said in a fierce little whisper. "And he must have heard my voice."

The two girls looked at one another, then suddenly Mollie caught Ana's hand again.

"Stay with me—for the General's sake, if not for mine," she implored.

Ana shook her head.

"I can't. I can't bear any more. Let me go, Mollie."

"No. Ana, listen!—you shall listen, I've got something to tell you."

"I don't want to hear anything."

Mollie laughed hoarsely, recklessly.

"You'll want to hear this all right," she said. "It's about Anthony—he's on his way home. He's on his way home, and I'm so afraid, so afraid——"

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

LOYALTY

In those old days before the world
Had turned to wiser things,
When men to death their bodies hurled
To serve decaying kings,
And when that death, on crest or crag,
The standard-bearer found,
Some brave, brave comrade seized the flag
Before it touched the ground.

Some brave, brave comrades carried on
Through seas of shot and shell;
Although the bearer might be gone,
The standard never fell.
Well, men, pray God, will kill no more,
Pray God that war shall cease,
And yet the bravery of war
Our land shall need in peace.

Be brave enough to do the right
Although the wrong may sneer,
To keep the white stripes just as white,
The dear flag just as dear.
Be brave enough, as those have been
Who did not fear to die,
For hands are needed, now as then,
To hold the standard high.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE KIND CAT.

(Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily sat down in the basket which was being carried along the street by the little boy. The old rabbit gentleman certainly was having some strange adventures. He had come to the city to see his Cousin Lettuce, a rabbit who lived in a pet shop. There Uncle Wiggily's tall, silk hat, his red trousers and black coat made the pet shop man think the bunny had run away from a circus. But Uncle Wiggily was never in a circus.

Then along came a little boy and his mother and they bought Uncle Wiggily for a pet! Think of that! Uncle Wiggily who had always lived free in the woods and fields!

"But it is just an adventure!" said Mr. Longears to himself, as he bobbed about in the basket which was being carried by the little boy. "I'm sure Johnnie or Sammie, or whatever this boy's name is, will be kind to me and feed me. But I don't intend to stay with him very long. I must escape—get away and go back to my wife. Nurse Jane, Baby Bunty and my forty-sixteen little rabbit boys and girls."

So, feeling that it was only an adventure for a time, Uncle Wiggily wasn't worried or afraid as he was being carried along in the basket. Pretty soon the little boy reached home. His small sister was out on the front steps waiting for him.

"Oh, Sis! You ought to see!" cried the little boy. "Mother bought me a pet rabbit and he's got on clothes and a hat and everything!"

"Oh, no! It couldn't be!" exclaimed little girl.

"Look here! I'll show you!" said the boy and he raised the cover of the basket. When Sis, as he called her for short, had looked inside she shouted:

"Oh, how wonderful! Why, he looks just like his pictures!"

"Whose pictures?" asked the boy in surprise.

"Uncle Wiggily's pictures," went on the little girl. "Don't you know, Jimmie, how we read bedtime stories about Uncle Wiggily and how we heard about him over the radio and—and——"

"Sure I remember that!" dais the boy, and Uncle Wiggily, listening in the basket, was glad he knew the little boy's name was Jimmie, like the boy duck, whose last name was Wibblewobble.

"Well, this is Uncle Wiggily in the basket!" said the little girl. "Oh, isn't it wonderful! I just love him!"

"Gosh, if this rabbit is Uncle Wiggily," spoke the boy, taking another look himself to make sure, "I've got something! I can put him in a cage down cellar and let all the fellows come look. I'll make a lot of money!"

"Oh, you wouldn't do that, would you?" asked the little girl.

"Wouldn't do what!" Make money? Sure I would!"

"I mean you wouldn't shut Uncle Wiggily in a cage down cellar."

"Well, I got to keep him safe some way," said the boy. "But maybee I could make a cage out in the yard."

"That would be better," said Sis. "After a while, when you have let the other boys look at him enough, I think you ought to let Uncle Wiggily go."

"Maybe I will," agreed the Jimmie boy.

"'Cause if you keep him," went on Sis, "he can't have any more adventures and then there won't be any more stories about him."

"All right," said Jimmie. I'll let Uncle Wiggily go after I show him to the fellows and make some money. Come on, now, help me and I'll fix a cage for him in the yard."

The cover was fastened back on the basket and set in a shady place in the yard, where the grass was deep, while the boy and girl started to make a cage for their rabbit. Uncle Wiggily could smell, through the basket, the sweet perfume of clover.

"Oh, I wish I was free!" sighed the old rabbit gentleman. I've been caged up long enough. I wish this adventure was at an end."

Without knowing it, Uncle Wiggily spoke aloud in animal talk. To his surprise he heard a voice asking in animal language:

"Do you want to get out, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Indeed I do!" he whispered. "But who are you?"

"I'm the House Cat," was the answer. "Keep still now and I'll claw off the cover of the basket and you can get out." In a moment it was done and while Jimmie and Sis were making the cage Uncle Wiggily hopped away behind their backs.

"Thanks, kind House Cat, for letting me out!" whispered the bunny, and soon he was once more hopping over the fields and through the woods. "Now for home!" chuckled Mr. Longears.

DUNSFORD SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Meeting Held For the Purpose of Organizing Women's Institute.

DUNFORD, May 17.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A meeting for the purpose of organizing a Woman's Institute was held in the United church hall on Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Gould, of Fenelon Falls, presented in a pleasing manner the opportunities of service open to such an organization. Twenty ladies gave their names as members and the meetings are to be held on the first Wednesday of each month. The following officers were elected, President, Mrs. George Mitchell, Scotch Line; vice president, Mrs. Norman Robertson; Secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Albert Thurston.

Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Ontario Religious Educational Council for the County of Victoria was held in Queen Street United Church on Tuesday afternoon. Representatives were present from nearly all the Sunday schools in the county. The work of the O.R.E.C. has been marked with success in Victoria this year, a splendid interest being taken by the superintendents of the various departments, each of whom was able to report some advance in the work of the department he or she represented. The treasurer reported the finances in splendid condition and the past year one of the most successful in the history of the work in the county.

Rev. Mr. Priest, of Toronto, the General Superintendent for the Province of Ontario, in a brief address, stressed the value of the township convention as a means of reaching all the local schools so that real needs were met and practical problems faced and solved. Boys and girls work, the speaker stated, included not only those enlisted in groups but all the boys and girls in the various communities. Mr. Priest stated that 52 per cent. of the Sunday school forces were children. Leadership training and evangelism were also referred to by the speaker as most important and inseparable. Rev. Mr. Priest told of several changes that had been made in the Provincial staff and announced that Gordon Lapp, formerly of Brighton, but who for the past two years had been working in the western provinces, was to join the staff and would begin work on September first. Vacation schools, he announced were rapidly increasing. The International Sunday School Convention is to be held in Toronto the last full week of June 1930. It is expected that this convention will be the largest ever held in Canada as it is estimated that about nine thousand delegates will be present. This will be the third time that this convention has been held in this country, the opportunity coming only once every twenty-five years.

Five township conventions were planned, one in Coboconk, the latter half of September, and four to be held in the week beginning with Monday October 28, at Omemee, Fenelon Falls, on Tuesday, Eldon on Wednesday and Salem on Thursday of that week.

The following officers were elected for the work of the ensuing year: President, Luffey B. Everson, Oakwood; first vice president, Harry Lamb, Omemee; secretary and treasurer, Rev. R. M. Paterson, Janetville; superintendents of departments, girls' work, Mrs. E. Wilson, Lindsay; boys' work, Rev. Mr. Scott, Eldon; teacher training, Rev. Harry ments girls' work, Mrs. E. M. Wilson, adult work, Frank Riches, Cambray; Home department, Miss Ella Campbell, Lindsay; Missionary, Mrs. MacPherson, Canninghton; Temperance, T. J. Newman, Eldon.

Rev. Gordon Holmes, chairman of the boys and girls camps announced that the organizations were being formed in the city of Oshawa and the camp at Balsam Lake would open on July first, the girls to have the first ten days and the boys the next ten days. Rev. Mr. Holmes stated that it was expected that there would be at least fifty girls attend the camp from Oshawa alone but the camp represented all the and boys of the county.

ALLOW U.S. OFFICERS ON CANADIAN SIDE

Report On Smuggling Conference Is Tabled in House of Commons.

OTTAWA, May 17 (C.P.).—A definite offer by the government of Canada to permit United States officers on the Canadian side of the border in order that they may transmit to the United States information with respect to liquor shipments from Canada, was made on March 15 last. It was not accepted. Instead the United States government, while expressing appreciation of the offer, reiterated its view that the only effective method of dealing with the problem of liquor smuggling was denial of clearances by the Dominion government.

These facts are revealed in documents tabled in both the House of Commons and Senate today covering correspondence and reports with respect to the conference held between Canadian and United States officials on the 8, 9 and 10 of January last.

Favorable Situation Encourages Stock Mart

New York, May 17. (C.P.)—Favorable developments in the credit situation provided the backbone for a general advance in prices in to-day's stock market. Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list, a sprinkling of high priced specialties soaring 6 to nearly 15 points, while a long line of industrials and public utilities moved up 1 to 5 points. A score or more issues moved into new high ground for the year.

Mining Company Formed

The Mountain Boy Mining Company, Ltd., has been formed with a capitalization of 6,000,000 shares, of no par value, for the development of a property in the northern part of British Columbia, 18 miles to northeast of Stewart. The property owned by the company comprises 11 groups forming a compact block and including Mountain Boy, American Girl, Mountain Boy Extension, Hard Money, Northern Bell, Sigred No. 1, Chris, Silver Mask, Fox Fraction and others, making a total of 431 acres. Located about six miles from the junction of the Bear River and the American Creek, in the same district as George Copper, Premier Gold Mines and Big Missouri, Mountain Boy is readily accessible by water and road, Sir Donald Mann, one of the first explorers of the property, had a railroad constructed for this mine and others in the district, which will be reconditioned. Sponsors for the Mountain Boy have received word from Victoria that Parliament has approved of the plan and that the Hon. Mr. Stevens is supported by London capitalists in carrying out the work of rehabilitating the line.

Of the authorized stock, 450,000 shares are being offered to the public. Of the balance, 2,525,600 shares are pooled until December 1929, while 2,500,000 shares remain in the treasury and 525,000 shares have been sold.

Investment Bankers Leave on June 15

The Investment Bankers Association of Canada is holding its annual meeting this year at Minaki Lodge (This side of Winnipeg on the Canadian National Railway). Members will leave on the night of June 15 in special cars and the business meetings of the organization will be held on the 17, 18 and 19.

Minaki Lodge has been chosen because of many advantages it affords. Recreation is available by way of a golf course etc., while the assembly will have the Lodge to themselves.

On Monday, June 17, meetings of the Standing Committees will be held. These include the committees on Federal Government Legislation and on Provincial Government Legislation, etc. In the evening of that day, the president of the association will give a dinner in honor of the members of the Standing Committees.

On Tuesday, a general meeting of the members of the association will be held when the reports from the Standing Committees will be received, the election of new officers for the ensuing year will take place and business of a general nature will be transacted. The evening will be devoted to the annual dinner of the association.

On Wednesday, the annual Golf Tournament of the association will be held.

Gain in Profits

The port of Vancouver, where the two main terminal elevators of Alberta Pacific Grain Co. are located, in the calendar year 1928 shipped 97,150,528 bushels of grain. Two hundred and eighty-seven vessels carried 54,199,660 bushels to the United Kingdom and 193 ships carried 19,365,021 bushels to Japan, while considerable amounts went to China, India, Holland, Germany, France, Italy and Sweden.

Grain growing in the Canadian west is increasing steadily, and Alberta Pacific Grain Co. has increased its facilities substantially to take care of the greater demands for elevator space at interior plants, principally in the province of Alberta. Fifty new elevators were erected last year at an aggregate cost of some $700,000, and this was done without any new financing. These additions, it is expected, will serve to increase net profits by at least $200,000 per annum.

Profits last year, before depreciation and bond interest were $1,352,506 and after allowances were made for these and preferred dividends, an amount equal to $7.54 per share on the Class "A" and "B" share remained. This compared with $3.69 in 1926-27, and $13.56 per share in 1924-25. In spite of the large expenditures in 1927-28 for new country elevators, net working capital rose during the period from $1,576,683 to $1,937,051.

The company's fiscal year ends next month. In view of the enormous increase in grain from Alberta elevators shipped via Vancouver during the current year earnings should exceed those of last year by a substantial margin. This is before writing-off the new elevators built.

The 1929 crop year in western Canada has started auspiciously, with excellent soil conditions, a much larger acreage seeded and sowing completed well ahead of time. Should a normally good harvest take place in 1929, with its increased facilities, Alberta Pacific Grain Co. should continue to earn increasing amounts on the stock.

$6,827,000 Gold Is Imported During Week

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 17. — (Canadian Press).—Gold imports during the past week amounted to $6,827,000, it was announced by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Of this total $6,689,000 came from Germany, the Federal Reserve Bank having previously given the Reichsbank a loan against this gold. The balance of $138,000 came from scattered sources, chiefly Latin America. There was no further change in the stocks of ear-marked gold held here for foreign account.

Weaker Tendency Gives Way To Early Firmness

TORONTO, Ont., May 17 (Canadian Press).—The firmness which characterized dealings during the early part of the session on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day gave place to a weaker tendency as the day advanced and at noon slight declines predominated.

Activity continued in International Nickel but after reaching a high mark of 53¼, selling sent the price down to 52, a loss of ½. Sales approximated 6,000 shares. Another issue to show early strength, Brazilian, sold at noon at 54 5-8, a net gain of 1-8. During the first hour it reached 55¼. Massey-Harris was also irregular, and after selling up to 67¼, re-acted at noon to 66, where it was down ½.

Little interest was displayed in the oil group and prices showed minor changes.

NEWBECK IS UP FOUR POINTS

Noranda Fails To Maintain Early Strength On Toronto Exchange.

LOSSES PRONOUNCED

TORONTO, Ont., May 17 (C.P.).—Considerable irregularity developed in trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, the list at noon presenting an assortment of gains and losses after a desultory session. Newbec was the only issue to command much interest and on transactions of 167,000 shares the stock was pushed up 4 points to 62. The high for the morning was 63. Noranda failed to maintain early strength and after selling as high as 57.00 declined to 56.25 for a net gain of 40 cents.

Big Missouri was strong, reaching 1.44 for an advance of 11 cents, while Falconbridge gained 15 at 13.75. Gains of 5 points were made by Teck-Hughes at 9.05, Amulet at 1.65, Alberta Pacific at 4.85, and Golconda at 1.70.

a half for the round trip, and the validating of such certificate will cost the holder twenty-five cents additional, to be paid to the representative of the passenger department.

Tourist Fares Charged

On all fares coming from United States points, and on all fares to Peterborough from Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia, the summer tourist fares to Peterborough as a tourist point will prevail, and would be much lower than any return fares which could be secured, and parties originating from such territories will be allowed a time limit to October 31 on such return tickets. From Manitoba similar tickets are available, but their time limit is limted to two months.

Summer tourist fares are straight fares and will require no certificates. These are only for United States and places west of Fort William.

The above instructions were issued under the authorty of the Canadian Passenger Association, and apply to the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railway alike.

F. H. Dobbn, the secretary, read many communications to the meeting covering the following matters: The Scout Master offered the use of Boy Scouts for Old Home Week. E. Brazendale, through correspondence, stated that there would twenty or more trained men in the St. John Ambulance Corps for the week. The use of the Collegiate Auditorium was granted by the Board of Education. A letter from A. W. Brundette, manager of the Royal Bank in Kitchener, offered to round up and organize the Old Boys and Old Girls of that city.

Frank Stinson, of the Chamber of Commerce, reported on the result of a communication sent to the manager of the Barnardo Homes in Toronto requesting that the Peterborough building be used for accommodation during Old Home Week. The manager made a special trip to Peterborough to inspect the buildings and found that they were unsafe and that the equipment would not be suitable for such a purpose.

Secure Old C.N.R. Engine.

The suggestion was made to secure the oldest Canadian National locomotive for demonstration purposes in the city during the week. R. M. Glover moved that the arrangements be left in the hands of Frank Stinson who would be in Toronto and who could carry out the necessary negotiations. Suggestions to have this engine haul decorated cars with a Toronto band to the city were made, but no definite conclusion was reached on this matter.

James Dutton asked for an explanation as to where the headquarters would be situated as some misunderstanding had come up since the last meeting when he believed that everything had been settled but up to date no lease had been signed, and since that time the use of the Y.M.C.A. had been offered. Mr. Glover stated that he moved last week that the Legion Building be used and that motion was carried so the matter was settled and it was decided that the lease be signed. In regards to the belief that this would be out of the way, it was stated that anyone coming such a distance would not hesitate to seek the headquarters for the needed information. The route would be placarded from the highway and even boy scouts could be used to guide the cars to the central meeting place. The Legion Hall was thought to be more suitable because of its accommodations and there would be no traffic tie-up as would result on George street much to the dissatisfaction of the merchants. The Y.M.C.A. is purely a men's building and would not be suitable, while sanitary conditions of the Royal Theatre with the cost of re-decorating would make the use of that place impossible.

A. Purman gave the report of the Parade committee for the school children, giving the reasons why it would be impossible for them to hold any special day on Wednesday, due to the training necessary and the absence of teachers. It was the feeling of the meeting that closer co-operation of these would be desired so a letter was addressed to R. Bolton, principal of King Edward school, who acted as spokesman the night before at the special meeting held by this committee, asking him to see if further steps for a parade could not be made for Wednesday, July 3rd. The motion to this was made by Webber Turner and seconded by Art Costello. Mr. Turner explained that Monday was so crowded with events that he did not see how the cadets which had been offered as a substitute on that day, could be used. An offer of $25 to help defray the expenses of such an event, was included in the motion at Mr. Dutton's suggestion.

R. M. Glover gave the report of the publicity committee. Through the co-operation of Walter Stocker, the E. L. Ruddy company of Toronto offered gratis two large painted signs advertising Old Home week in Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa, and Peterborough and smaller signs in the towns and villages. A letter of hearty thanks was sent for this generous gift. Arrangements have also been made to broadcast publicity over the trans-Canada Radio Chain and E. G. Patterson had been asked to use the Canadian General station for the same purpose. The typographical union was very generous in offering to set 24 pages of the special edition of The Examiner free and to have a float in the parade. This giving of time free was equivalent to giving a day's pay. The expression of the gratitude of the committee will be conveyed to the union for such a contribution.

Look After Registrations

After some discussion it was moved by Mr. Glover that the accommodation committee would assume the registration duties. This motion was seconded by Dr. J. E. Middleton. It was the feeling of the gathering that these duties were parallel and should be performed by the same body. The finance committee reported that about $1,000 had been spent to date and an Old Home Week account had been opened in the Bank of Montreal, any overdraft of which would be guaranteed by the city council.

E. F. Mason, of the parade committee, suggested that as such an expense was incurred in the construction of floats for one parade lasting such a short time that it would be an excellent idea to have these floats parade three or four days during the week or each day if possible. Discussion on this matter revealed that many of the trucks could not be spared but the suggestion that floats could be so constructed that they would be removable made the plan more feasible and the matter was left in Mr. Mason's hands.

Dr. Middleton reported for the Horticultural committee stating that people were cleaning up their lawns and that florists and seed merchants had been enjoying unprecented sales of seeds and flowers. C. Lacheur said that about the first of June the post boxes would receive a fresh coat of paint to help dress up the city. He also gave the report of his committee which has been in correspondence with 36 cities and that he had received word that Cleveland, Chicago, Rochester, Buffalo, Toronto, Lindsay, and Belleville were organizing strong for the week.

Mr. Glover suggested that the Toronto delegation who were coming with floats and hundreds of cars be met on the highway. Dr. Middleton made a motion to this effect and Mr. Glover seconded it.

UMBRELLA WAS INTRODUCED IN ENGLAND IN 1779

Useful Articles Had Formerly Been in Use On Continent.

INVENTOR THOUGHT CRAZY.

Jonas Henneway, Because of His Dislike For Rain, Invented Umbrella.

MILLBROOK, May 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—The unusually wet weather this season, with the consequent frequent demand for umbrellas, lends interest to a study of the history of this very necessary article and how it came into common use.

There are conflicting claims made as to where the umbrella actually originated, but all agree that it is of great antiquity; drawings of the first style of umbrella have not, apparently, been preserved, but that it has changed its shape with the passing centuries, finally assuming its present form, is a safe presumption.

In China, Japan, Babylon, Egypt, Greece, Rome, indeed by people everywhere in the medieval world, umbrellas were used only as a protection from the sun's rays. Some assert that the Parisians pioneered its use for keeping off the rain in the seventeenth century, since there is a quotation, declared to be genuine, that in 1752 James Wolfe, of Quebec fame, wrote from the capital city of France: "The people here use umbrellas in hot weather to defend them from the sun, and something of the same kind to save them from the snow and the rain. I wonder a practice so useful is not introduced into England."

But as a matter of fact, so far as England is concerned, the real story of the invention of the umbrella accords honor to a man named Jonas Henneway, who one hundred and fifty years ago, evolved this article, in a primitive form, because of his intense dislike of rainy weather, and of going out muffled in a heavy mackintosh as his sole protection from the elements.

Determined to invent something that would relieve the situation, and at the same time keep himself dry, he set his wits to work and produced a crude, queer-looking canvas object, held up by the stick to which it was firmly attached.

His sister, who kept house for him, and his little niece, besought him not to go out carrying "that silly thing," [illegible] people would think him crazy. But bravely marching down [illegible] umbrellaed, Jonas went toward his place of business, and not a drop of rain touched him. His friends, however, all looked on him with pity, declaring that "Poor Jonas has gone crazy," and almost everyone he passed stopped to stare at him, while many muttered about "the silly business," and some even crossed the street preferring to pass "the crazy man" on the other side.

Undeterred by scorn and laughter, Jonas Henneway carried his umbrella every rainy day, and seeing how comfortably he went about, others soon began to wish they could do likewise. Before very long a sort of regulation pattern had been adopted, quantities were manufactured, and sold, and it was a comparatively common sight to see umbrellas in use in all London during wet weather. From that city the idea spread rapidly to practically the entire world.

Going out without an umbrella in the rain to-day is apt to excite our laughter, as though it was a ridiculous action, but it took courage to originate the sensible custom as Jonas Henneway did, for in the beginning of many of the fine things that are commonplace now were laughed at, and their inventors looked upon as objects of scorn.

TALKING ANIMALS

MONTREAL, May 17.—Harry Allen, Cain river district guide, claims that animals talk. He is experimenting with radio to prove that they do. He believes that radio will solve the question by showing that animals use wave-lengths inaudible to the human ear.

SAVAGE MONGREL ATTACKS SMALL BOY

City Dog Catcher Finds Duties Great, But Remains on Job.

Mark Pengelly, Peterborough's official dog catcher, is finding that the supervision of the city's dog population requires a great deal of time and extreme patience. But Mr. Pengelly stated to-day that he is not going to let up on the rigid parolling of the city's floating dog citizens.

A child on Edinburgh Street was bitten by a large mongrel dog yesterday afternoon. The dog made a savage attack on the child, biting him on the shoulder and tearing his raincoat. Mr. Pengelly has investigated this occurrence, and has warned the dog's owners that they must do away with their savage pet.

A large black and brown Airedale was picked up by Mr. Pengelly on Gilmour Street yesterday afternoon There was no tag or other mark of ownership upon the dog, and despite the efforts of Mr. Pengelly no owner has yet been brought forth. The dog may be had by calling at 139 George Street South, and proving ownership.

KENNETH STUBBS IS CHOSEN MAYOR

Ninety Per Cent. of Votes Vast in Windsor Goes to Winning C.S.E.T. Candidate.

WINDSOR, May 17. — Although only a small vote was polled at the C.S.E.T. elections Saturday, Kenneth Stubbs overwhelmed his oopponent, Clayton Kilbreth, of the "Ace" Tuxis Square, Devine Street United church, by obtaining 90 per cent. of the votes cast.

The Tuxis "mayor-elect," Kenneth Stubbs, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stubbs, Exmouth street. For several years he has been a very active worker in all the young people's organizations at Parker street United church, holding the office of inner guard for two years, and at present the office of scriptor. During last winter he was closely identified with the activities of Wawanda club, the winter club of boys who attend Wawanda Camp at Lake Huron park. In that club he is a member of the Chippewa tribe.

The newly elected boy mayor has many relatives in the township of Smith, Peterborough county.

W.M.S. HOLDS MEETING.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe Gives Helpful Talk to St. Andrew's Women.

At the May meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Association, held on Tuesday in the church parlor, reports were read and plans for the summer were discussed.

A splendid report was read by Mrs. B. F. McNeely outlinng the various activities of Mrs. Wigar's group for April and May

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. George Richmond sang a beautiful sacred solo, "Jesus, Hear Our Prayer," accompanied by Miss Donley.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe gave a very helpful talk on "The Women's Association at its Best." The first thought of the association should be the spiritual life of the members. The women must keep their eyes always on Our Leader and be so buried in the Bible that they can use it to find out their trouble. He urged the members not to begrudge the time given to their association work.

On motion by Mrs. Edwards, seconded by Mrs. Barns, the association expressed appreciation of Rev. Sutcliffe's interesting address.

GARRISON NOTES

Arrangements for the excursion are nearly completed. A block of seats has been reserved, ensuring accomodation for the garrison and their friends. The march out on Tuesday was one of the best that the Rangers have ever had. The troops are rapidly rounding into shape, as was shown by their smart appearance. All ranks are determined to have the battalion in the best possible condition for the parades during Old Home Week. The attendance on Tuesdays and Thursdays has been remarkably good.

Mayor Denne and members of the City Council were guests of the Officers' Mess on Tuesday evening. His Worship addressed the Battalion, complimented them on their smart appearance and stated that the people of Peterborough had every confidence that the local militia would do credit to the city during the ceremonies in which they would take part through Old Home Week.

The Machine Gun class, a special feature of this year's training, has been started and will be carried on as an important part of the general training.

The bugle band and the signal section have been organized, and are very enthusiastic.

NORWOOD, May 17.—Mrs. J. W. Rork, Mrs. H. J. Ford and Mrs. Cuthbertson of Norwood were among those atetnding the annual meeting of the W.M.S. of the Peterborough Presbyterial held in St. Andrew's church at Cobourg on May 15 and 16.

TO INVESTIGATE AUBURN STRIKE

Minister of Labor Sends Investigation Officer From Ottawa.

INQUIRE INTO CONTRACTS

Honorable G. N. Gordon, K.C., told The Examiner to-day that he had made representations, on behalf of the Bradford spinners who were dissatisfied with the wage-cut of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Limited, which is now operating the Auburn Woollen plant, to the Honorable Peter Heenan, the Minister of Labor, and the Minister of Labor advised Mr. Gordon to-day, by telephone, that he was sending an investigating officer to Peterborough to ascertain the representations made inducing these spinners to come from England to Peterborough.

The Minister further said that he was having an investigation made to ascertain if the contracts were made in England when labor was not needed in Canada, and further investigation will be made as to why spinners were brought from Bradford to Canada, and then suffer cuts in their wages after employment here.

A thorough investigation is being made into the strike of the Bradford spinners at the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds plant at the Auburn, by the Department of Labour, Ottawa. M. L. Campbell, chief conciliation officer, and R. A. Rigg, director of the Employment Service Branch, both of the Department of Labour, are in the city today.

NEED ONLY ONE CLOCK

BERLIN, May 17. — If the scheme of a German inventor materializes, the majority of us who depend on alarm clocks to get out of bed in the morning will be late for work often. The Germans advocates one clock for the world, located at some central point, from which constant wireless messages would broadcast the correct time.

50 Used Cars Must Be Sold!

These Remarkable Values include 21 Sedans, Many Coaches, Coupes and Tourings

After the large volume of Spring and early Summer business this year, we find our Used Car stock unusually large. The extreme popularity of the new models brought in a lot of cars of very recent date. Many of these are practically as good as new, having run only a few thousand miles.

Then there are the older cars—those that have given two and more years of faithful service, but are still good for countless miles of carefree and inexpensive travel. They offer pleasant summer motoring at ridiculously low price.

It is in order to reduce our large stock of Used Cars that we announce this special Summer Sale and it is to reduce it speedily that we have priced the cars so low. In fact, such low prices are so sure to create brisk business that quick action will be necessary to insure a wide selection.

Every one of these cars are examples of fine automobiles in the best of mechanical condition. We invite full examination of finish, tires and upholstering. A wide choice of different makes and types at

FARM WORK IS DELAYED

Farmers in Fenelia District Unable To Continue Spring Seeding.

Y.P.S. PRESENTS PLAY.

STIRLING, May 17.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Farmers are pretty well discouraged over the continued wet weather. A few have their seeding well along but some who have low lying farms and different soil have scarcely any grain sown.

Very little gardening has been done owing to the backward weather. Some of the numerous tulip beds throughout the village are beginning to show their colors and thus help to brighten up the surrounding premises.

Graders At Work.

The government road scrapers are kept going on the roads both north and south of the village and travelling by motor is quite satisfactory now.

Mothers Day Observed.

The Mother's Day service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was largely attended. The altar platform was beautifully decorated with roses, tulips and plum blossoms. A well given anthem "Remember Now Thy Creator" was given by the choir. The ordinance of baptism was administered to two children, Margaret Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay McGee, and Robert Borden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Borden.

Personals.

Miss Anderson, of Melrose, is visiting relatives in town.

Rev. Robert Simpson, of Woodville, spent Monday in Stirling the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Rollins. During his short stay he called on several of his former parishioners.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Bailey returned home on Monday after spending two weeks in Jackson, Michigan. They were accompanied by Mrs. W. Williams and Mrs. Bert Cosby. On Thursday morning the party left by motor for Jackson, where Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will remain for the summer.

Rev. A. N. Reid attended the Synod meeting of the Presbyterian church held in Toronto last week.

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICES

DUNSFORD CHURCHES.

DUNSFORD, May 17.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mother's Day was fittingly observed here on Sunday in both the Anglican and the United churches. Rev. W. G. Dryer, of Bobcaygeon, in St. John's Anglican church in the morning gave an inspiring and helpful address emphasizing the function and importance of the mother's life and work. In the evening in the United church Rev. J. F. Everson, stressed the value of a christian mother's influence in the home with her own children and over all children. Special music was furnished by the choirs at both services. Some choice daffodils, cactuses and hydrangeas were used for decorations.

Young People Meet.

The young people held a successful meeting in the hall on Tuesday evening. In the absence of the president the chair was occupied by Miss Georgie Richarson. Rev. J. F. Everson gave a short paper on "The Cost of Discipleship"; Idena James gave a reading entitled. "A Railway Crossing", and Miss Richardson gave a short paper on "Beauty" and another on "Friendship." Miss Myrtle Kennedy and Miss Idena James gave an interesting dialogue entitled, "Some of the Difficulties in Educating Youth." Miss Richardson also conducted an apple contest.

NORHAM UNITED CHURCH

NORHAM, May 17.—(Examiner Correspondence)—A large congregation attended the special Mother's Day service at the Norham United Church on Sunday evening.

The church was prettily decorated with plants and cut flowers.

The special service prepared for the day was followed. Fred Huyeke superintendent of the Sunday school having charge of the program. Miss Alma Gummer gave the story "The guest." The choir sang an anthem. "Where Mother Prayed", and "Mother". In the latter Mrs. Harry Wilson sang the verses as a solo.

The pastor spoke on the subject, "Golden Glimpes of Motherhood", basing his remarks on various pictures of the Madonna and then spoke on the various altributes of motherhood.

During the evening there was a baptismal service when twelve children received the rites of baptism.

LAKEFIELD CHURCHES

LAKEFIELD, May 17.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mother's Day was observed in four of the churches of the village on Sunday last and in practically every case the services included a special part for the children for after all a true Mother's Day has a special part for the children who depend so much on the fond love and tender care of a mother.

In the Presbyterian church a special form of service was used, prepared for the day and was in three sections, viz.: 1, the law of the mother; 2, the anxious mother heart; and 3, the child's duty. The special music included a duet by Jean and Billy Clark, and a solo by Gonald Smith; also selections by the junior choir. Rev. J. Ross gave a thoughtful sermon on the theme of mother love and its means of expressing itself.

Baptist Church

In the Baptist church, both services showed the significance of the day and both the devotional and musical part of the service partook of the Mother's Day spirit. Rev. J. B. McCormack preached at both services, giving excellent sermons.

Regent Street Church

Mother's Day in Regent street church was celebrated at both morning and evening services with the Mother's theme dominant in both sermons which were given by the pastor, Rev. S. A. Kemp. The church was decorated with flowers and practically every member of the large congregation wore flowers. The choir gave several special selections which were excellently given and highly appreciated. At the morning's service there was a special children's part which followed in the main, the custom of past years.

On Sunday, May 19, the annual bird and flower service will be held in the morning.

Knox United Church

On Sunday evening the regular Mother's Day service was held in Knox United Church with a stirring sermon by Rev. T. M. Wesley on "The Motherhood of God." Mrs. J. R. Hull sang a solo and Mesdames G. Craig Bell and W. W. Yale, Dr. Renwick and A. C. Carveth sang sweetly "My Mother's Prayer." The choir also contributed an anthem. The entire service was impressive and in keeping with the ideals of Mother's Day.

WEBSTER BLEWETT

An old resident of this district passed away suddenly at his home on the Port Hope Highway in North Monaghan on Thursday, May 9th, in the person of Webster Blewett, aged 63, the son of the late Colonel Blewett.

The deceased was long a resident of Smith Township, living there all his life with the exception of the past six or seven years, when he moved to his present home, where he maintained a market garden. Being a quiet and reserved gentleman he had a manner that won him many friends who were shocked at his sudden death.

He is survived by his sorrowng wife, two brothers, James of Smith, and Josiah of Toronto; also three sisters, Mrs. Davis of Toronto, Miss Edna and Miss Essie of Smith.

The funeral took place from his late residence on the highway on Sunday, May 12th, at 3 p.m., with the Rev J. H. Dudgeon, of St. James' United Church, as the officiating clergyman. Interment took place at Lakefield. The funeral was one of the largest in the township. The pall bearers were the neighbors and close friends of the deceased, being the Messrs Robinson, Lillico, Lush, Clark, Lang and Monerief.

CHARLES W. BROWN.

HASTINGS, May 17. — The call came very suddenly to Charles W. Brown on Sunday night although he had been in poor health for several months and had been practically confined to his room since February. Mr. Brown was unusually well on Sunday and had his evening meal as usual. Shortly afterwards he quietly slept away. Mr. Brown came home last August from New Orleans, as he was not in good health and hoped the change might benefit him. During the Autumn months he seemed to improve and contemplated curling during the winter, but in February was taken worse and did not again pick up. Mr. Brown bore his illness with the greatest cheerfulness, and was always hopeful and optimistic. He was a man, who by his genial kindly disposition and fine personality, made many staunch friends. Since his return from the South, where he resided for thirty years, not only were old friendships of his boyhood and youth cemented, by the renewed intercourse that resulted but he made many new friends among our citizens. Mr. Brown was very popular at New Orleans, where business interests engaged his attention for many years.

Charles W. Brown was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Brown and was born at Bailieboro, residing later at Baltimore and Cobourg, his boyhood having been spent at the former place. Thirty years ago he went to New Orleans, where he was with the Pelican Cracker Company. Mr. Brown was unmarried. He is survived by three brothers, George H. and R. S. of New Orleans and Dr. J. P. Brown of Oxbow, Sask., and by one sister, Miss Lettie Brown, of Cobourg, with whom the last months of his life were spent.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock from the residence, Division street. Rev. Frank C. Harper, B.A., B.D., minister of St. Andrew's church, conducted the service.

Among relatives from Roseneath who attended the funeral were, Mrs. Mary Brown, Mr. Charles Grigg, W. J. E. Mason, Charles Brown, Misses Eliza and Annie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Halstead, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Brown, Mr. and Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. Wes Pacey, Mrs. Ella Brown and Miss Irene Brown.

SCIENCE UNSEALS SECRET OF SUNLIGHT AND QUAKER OATS COMPANY APPLIES IT

Irradiation of Cereal Food, With Ultra-Violet Ray Lamps, Creates Vitamin D, the Sunlight, Anti-Rachitic Vitamin.

DISCOVERER DECLINED A FORTUNE

Prof. Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin Wrested Old Secret From Nature—"Muffets" Are Now Irradiated.

The first warm afternoon in spring brings out the baby carriages as certainly as

March winds and April showers
Bring forth the May flowers.

You see them on George Street, imperious young mothers priding in the little armful of life snugly wrapped in white wool and silk with only a pink nose, fresh red lips, and blue or perhaps brown eyes showing between the edge of the coverlet and the bonnet.

That social phenomenon is as old as the maternal instinct itself, albeit varying as to time and place in the details of perambulator and apparel. Mothers have always known that babies bloom in the sunshine like little flowers.

German mothers in the days of Julius Caesar used to carry their sickly children to the housetops, lay them in the sun and watch them grow straight and strong. Those mothers of 2,000 years ago knew nothing of the curative virtues of the sun's rays; but by tribal tradition and experience, possibly by some natural inspiration, they possessed a therapeutic truth which scientists have only recently explained and confirmed

The British people of the whole world had a most impressive, although painful object lesson in the healing and restorative power of sunlight last winter and at the opening of Spring in the removal of His Majesty the King from the darkening fogs of London to the genial, sunny Sussex coast.

Sunlight Cured Rickets.

The German mother of twenty centuries ago observed that exposure of rickety babies, with warped bodies, bowed legs and knock knees resulted in the recovery of health and strength.

The young mother of this generation knows that, and more: at least she should know more, and it is an exceedingly important part of her job that she should know what modern science has discovered for the benefit of her babies and herself, without costing her one cent.

So this is the story of sunlight and food and ultra-violet rays, vitamin D, and health.

It emerges from the laboratories of Science, and the publication of it has been withheld until the facts were absolutely established by a long and exhausting series of experiments. For modern Science is jealous of its judgments, and modern Industry of its good name.

Perhaps the best approach to vitamin D and the irradiation of foods is by ways that are familiar. For instance, solarium is the Latin word for sun room, or even sun porch, a new note in domestic architecture and a common enough adjunct of present day homes; but the idea itself is centuries old. Nero used to fiddle in his sun parlor.

Ultra-Violet Ray A Friend.

In later times a ray of light was broken up, by means of prisms of glass, into its constituents colors all the way from infra-red to ultra-violet. And gradually we found that we had made the acquaintance of a good fairy in the ultra-violet ray.

Further practical research demonstrated that the ordinary window pane excluded the ultra-violet constituent of the spectrum. Hence, we have Vitaglass, to mention only one of the new commercial window glasses to which the ultra-violet rays are pervious. In other words they pass through, and the full, unfiltered values of sunlight enter the room. This kind of glass is being recommended and used not only for hospitals, schools, sanitoria, and similar institutions, where health is the main consideration, but also in homes, where health should also be a primary objective. Mercury vapor and carbon arc lamps produce ultra-violet rays, and these lamps with their special quartz glass which transmits the rays, are coming into extensive use as a potent substitute for sunlight In fact it is concentrated sunlight, and ultra-violet ray lamps in the hands of an unexperienced layman are capable of doing harm.

Germany's Rickety Children.

While these discoveries were being made in the field of light and translucence and heliotherapy, that is healing and curing by exposure of the sun, the application of the ultra-violet ray and vitamin D to food was hastened by the undernourishment of German children during the war.

Huldschinsky, a German doctor, saw these children. He felt sorry for them, and saw a chance to do some worth while scientific research at the same time. He found that he did not have enough clear, strong midsummer sunlight all the year round to heal the ricketic bones of puny German children. So, he took an ultra-violet ray lamp, with its powerful factor of actual sunlight, and bathed the bodies of these children in the weird, greenish-violet rays, and found that he could put lime into the hollow places of the bones in that way, more quickly than by waiting for the sun to shine.

"Ergosterol" In Our Bodies.

Experiments by Windaus, a German scientist, Alfred Hess of New York, and Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin, crystallized in this conviction that the human body has the power to store up sunlight, because, like all living things, animal or vegetable, it contains a substance called "ergosterol", composed of alcohol and fat, having this peculiar property that when activated by ultra-violet rays it changes into vitamin D.

Our skins are rich in "ergosterol", therefore when we bathe in sunlight our bodies become charged with vitamin D. And this is where the ultra-violet ray enters the picture. This lamp, as has already been pointed out, produces the same effects as sunlight itself. Hence, the young mother on a Spring day on George street, and the German mother on her ancient roof could have obtained, by exposing their babies to the light of the modern ultra-violet ray lamp, the same curative results which flow from direct sunlight. And, broadly speaking, that result was the imparting of vitamin D to the bodies of the children, thereby building strong bones and good teeth; except that the baby all muffled up in its carriage receives very little of the value of sunlight because its ultra-violet rays do not penetrate clothes.

Ultra-Violet Ray and Food.

Then Harry Steenbock discovered that in the same manner cereals when exposed to measured ultra-violet rays have their "ergosterol" charged or irradiated with vitamin D. Possibly no one knows the exact nature of the mysterious vitamines which have always been contained in our foods, but we have discovered their effects and isolated at least five or six which nutritionists already speak of as old familiars.

For example, cod liver oil has been for generations a household remedy for weak children and adults, too, and a certain cure for rickets. Chemists with a new technique have determined that vitamin D is the efficacious agent, the sovereign magic of cod liver oil.

Old wine in new bottles, popularised with all the skill and art of modern advertising!

Science may wrest from nature the long hidden knowledge of vitamin D as the curative content of the cod's liver, but the inherent worth of the fishy oil is just as definite and evident as it was in the comparatively recent pre-vitamin age.

Why We Need Vitamin D.

Vitamin D is an important accessory of food and health because it helps our bodies to make the best possible use of the calcium and phosphorous our foods contain. Calcium and phosphorous are the principal minerals of which our bones and teeth are built. Their presence is as important to good health and sturdy bodies as steel is to skyscrapers. Just as the spark of the riveting machine welds iron and steel into a strong framework for the building, so vitamin D "fuses" the calcium and phosphorous from our food into well-built bones to support the body.

In running down and identifying vitamin D it was discovered that exposure of the body to sunlight as a curing factor is not necessary; the ultra-violet ray lamp will do the work. Nor need we worry about our continued winter exile from the bright sun of Florida and California; we can take violet-ray treatments, or buy one of the lamps for the whole family, providing, of course, we know how to use it.

Steenbock's Discovery.

Going beyond that, however, Prof. Steenbock in his four or five years' experiments at the University of Wisconsin discovered that it is not necessary to irradiate the body with either sunlight or its mechanical counterpart, the ultra-violet ray lamp.

He has proved that all we need in order to get the benefit of sunlight is to irradiate part of our food with ultra-violet light thereby creating in its vitamin D. In other words, he has discovered a way of adding vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, to cereals, and has demonstrated that it is the same vitamin which gives cod liver oil and sun-baths their tooth and bone-building power.

Just as our strange friend the "ergosterol" in our skin is transformed into vitamin D by sunlight or by ultra-violet ray lamps, so is the "ergosterol" of the food changed to vitamin D. No wonder it has been said that science has stolen a march on the sun.

What did Professor Harry Steenbock do at the University of Wisconsin?

Steenbock's Experiments.

Instead of having babies or other humans to experiment with, he used puppies and rats. He fed them all sorts of foods and kept them in dark cages, away from the sun, like little children who live in tenements of big cities; and in cities where smoke filters the ultra-violet rays from the sun; and in the north temperate zone where winter sunshine is skimmed sunshine, deficient in the radiant energy which affects our nutrition.

He found that these animals developed the same sort of soft bones; in other words they became rachitic as children do when improperly fed or starved of sunlight. When he gave his dumb subjects sunbaths, however, their bones grew straigth and strong.

Discovery Was Accidental

Then, quite by accident, Prof. Steenbock found that he did not need to expose the puppies to sunlight or to the light of the ultra-violet lamp. All that was necessary was to place the cereals of their food under the powerful ultra-violet lamp,—and the animals grew strong bones again, regardless of their dark cages. They actually thrived in the dark because a potent element of sunlight had been transferred to their food.

No sooner did this discovery become generally reported, than Harry Steenbock found himself beseiged in his laboratory with requests from food manufacturers to apply his principle of irradiation to their products. The wide variety of requests—from chewing gum manufacturers, candy makers and a host of others—frightened the discoverer.

He knew that his discovery meant a great advance in the field of nutrition — that every day foods, such as wheat and oats and milk and a score of other products, could be made to contain the bone-building element of sunlight and the anti-rachitic factor of cod liver oil, by the simple expedient of exposure to the rays of ultra-violet lamps.

Declined Offers Of Money

To protect his discover, against unethical exploitation by quacks, Steenbock patented the process. Offers of money did not interest him, a characteristic most of us cannot understand of these passionless scientists like Steenbock. He assigned his patent rights to the University of Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, stipulating only that the proceeds be used for furthering research work for the benefit of humanity. In this way he was able to control the use of his discovery,—by assigning it only to conservative reputable food manufacturers who do not exploit it as a panacea. Steenbock's patent was granted in August 1928, after four years of unremitting investigation.

The Quaker Oats Company secured the right to use the Steenbock irradiation process with cereals, on condition, however, that no additional charge was to be made to the consumer because of their irradiation. The Quaker Oats company selected several of their products for irradiation, one of them in Canada being their whole wheat "Muffets", which are now being sold to the public after the merchants had been given ample time to dispense of their former stock.

Sold Only As A Food.

The company does not make any therapeutic claims for the new "Muffets"; it is not put forward as a substitute for sunlight or cod liver oil, but it is offered to the public as a whole wheat food, with the special property of providing the very necessary "calcium balance."

Yesterday, milk was popularly regarded as an accessory of cereals including "Muffets" To-day, irradiated Muffets might be considered as an accessory of milk, because the vitamin D element may be said to co-operate with or make more assimilable the ash or calcium content in milk.

You may ask "why does not the ultra-violet ray of the summer sun naturally irradiate the growing grain?" Because the husk enveloping the grain shuts out the ultra-violet element that is contained in sunlight, just as the old window pane of our home screens it from our bodies. When the husk is removed and the milled grain itself is bathed in ultra-violet rays under proper conditions it readily acquires vitamin D.

Irradiation does not affect the price of Muffets nor the taste. The added vitamin D survives ordinary cooking, dryness, moisture, cold or storage. It is permanent. The new Muffets are a food not a medicine, and they are for young and old, and all of us in between the extremes of age. Thus, a breakfast of orange juice, containing vitamin C, and Muffets with cream, providing the other four vitamins including D, supplies us with the whole vitamin family which Science has so far definitely isolated and tagged.

Science Our Benefactor

Some persons may pooh-pooh scientific attention to foods, but farmers who specialize in pure bred stock have long since learned that feeding comes first. Hence, the agricultural colleges and departments of government provide farmers with expert knowledge of food values for their stock. Surely your own health and that of young Bill or Mary in the carriage is more important than the well-being of cattle and horses.

WHEN is a child old enough to make a garden? Just as soon as he expresses a real desire for one. Most children will show an early interest in planning and digging and planting if grown-ups give them just a little encouragement and help.

* * * * * * *

It is of course, much easier for father and mother to do all the gardening themselves rather than to help children who do not work as rapidly or skilfully. But if a child makes his own garden he not only learns that real work brings satisfaction, but he gains a knowledge of natural laws that is fundamental and important.

* * * * * * *

Those parents whose children are planning gardens for the first time this year wonder how to help them go about it, how to answer their questions about garden making. The children should be encouraged to draw a plan of the garden and to decide what seeds should be purchased.

* * * * * * *

If two or three children can co-operate in making the garden, it is a good idea to grow both vegetables and flowers, with an emphasis on the vegetables, for although youngsters enjoy the beauty of the flowers, they take an even greater interest in vegetables. The development of a vegetable is more tangible than that of a flower and may be watched from day to day.

* * * * * * *

Allot to the children a spot with a southern exposure for their garden. If the ground is sloping slightly it will drain better than a flat plot, but at least it should not be in a hollow. After they have selected the spot they should rake out the garden boundaries.

* * * * * * *

This may be a rustic fence or even a simple device of four smooth stakes driven firmly into the ground at the corners of the plot, with a stout cord stretched from corner to corner to make a neat enclosure. The cord should be stretched taut and wrapped once around each stake to make it secure.

* * * * * * *

Let the age of the child or the number of children in the family determine the size of the garden plot. Even a small garden entails a great deal of work. For the child who gardens alone a plot four feet square, where he may raise two or three varieties of flowers will be all he can manage.

* * * * * * *

Encourage the child to work over the soil with a hoe and a rake, helping him if necessary until the earth is fine and level. Do not make the common mistake of trying to pick out every stone, for small stones that go through the rake keep the ground warm for the seeds and young plants.

* * * * * * *

In a child's garden, flowers and vegetables may be planted together, with a surprisingly attractive effect. Plant simple annuals such as verbena zinnias, marigolds, poppies and candytuft. They may be sown out of doors by the first of May, or indoors a month earlier. A favorite way of combining vegetables and flowers in one garden is to place the flowers as a border round the edges.

* * * * * * *

Often it is difficult to induce children to keep their garden weeded. Play is so much more alluring. But parents should see that a plan once begun is carried to completion. A little praise from father and a nosegay of flowers from the children's garden in the dining room table are subtle encouragements, more effective than any command to weed the garden.

* * * * * * *

Gardens awaken a love of beauty in children and in whole communities. When there is one well-kept garden in a road it inspires neighbors to follow suit.

PREVENTING THE FORMATION OF GALL STONES

Some months ago I spoke about the lack of wisdom we show by having an ambulance down in the valley to pick up folk who fell over the cliff, instead of having a fence about the edge of the cliff to prevent folk falling over the precipice.

The thought of course is that it is more important to try to prevent accidents and sickness than to give treatment afterwards.

And so as we think about gall stones we talk about whether or not an operation should be performed instead of going into the matter as to the cause of gall stones and the possibilities of preventing them.

Dr. Stanley E. Ryerson says "in the present age we are treating the end results of a prolonged chronic disease by removing gall bladders or draining them after the removal of stones.

In other words certain things cause gall stones and yet little or nothing is said about these causes.

Gall stones are usually caused by a stasis or stoppage of the gall bladder, a steady pressure of surrounding organs which causes the bile to thicken.

Anything which takes away this pressure for even a short time stimulates the gall bladder to action.

Thus the liver squeezer exercise of bending over to the right side and then to the left presses and relaxes the liver and gall bladder, stimulates bile flow, thus preventing stasis.

Even the ordinary breathing exercises which send the lungs up and down against the floor of the chest and roof of abdomen prevent stasis and the formation of gall stones.

Also any infection in the body from teeth and tonsils, can go to the gall bladder, inflame its lining surface and deposits from this inflamed lining can start gall stones.

Very rich foods such as eggs and cream may also be a factor in the formation of stones.

Dr. Ryerson's idea then is that instead of thinking of the medical or surgical treatment of gall stones we should endeavor to prevent the actual formation of the stones by exercise, careful diet, and the removal of any sources of infection in the body.

It certainly does seem like the sensible thing to do.

BRANTFORD IS BEING ASKED FOR $900,000

Ratepayers of Western Ontario City Facing Hospital Addition Problem.

INCREASING DEMAND

Big Addition to Building is Immediately Required, So Vote is Put to People.

That Peterborough is not the only city faced with imperative needs for hospital accommodation is seen from the Brantford Expositor of the 13th instant. The report says in part:

"These necessities, and they were all most crucial, would involve a new isolation building, nurses' residence, and replacing of the over forty years old now fireproof main structure with a six-storey modern building, with one floor for administration and public ward accommodation, two for maternity cases, two floors for private and semi-private wards, and one for operating room and laboratories."

The article goes on to say: "The program was not the creation of the governors, but arose from the constantly increasing demands of the people"—the issue was that of standing still and then retrogressing or meeting public demand with the response of a necessary enlargement.

The chairman of the meeting pointed out that the peak load has to be taken care of — emergencies must be prepared for the same as in other departments of civic activity. Waterworks must be prepared for taking care of a peak load in case of fire, electrical service must at all times be capable of taking care of the maximum load. In hospitals it is obvious that an observation isolation patient could not be placed in a vacant maternity bed or a male accident case in a women's ward. The question was asked, why not add extra storeys to existing buildings? The answer was that they did not structurally admit of additional storeys. This was not the fault of the governors at the time of building—two-storey buildings were then considered the ideal plan.

In the maintenance of the Brantford Hospital, the city contributed last year for maintenance purposes $37,000, exclusive of interest on existing capital debt.

Editorially the Expositor says:—"The necessities exist, they are not manifestly overdrawn in any particular essential, and they seem to have been caused by a constantly increasing demand upon a public service. Brantford is not alone in this hospital problem; London, Hamilton, Kingston, and practically all other centres of any size are battling with it and seeking the funds which alone can give the answer. There is clearly no obsession on the part of the board to build for the sake of building, but merely to give the people the service for the sick which is asked with ever increasing insistence."

SMALL FORCE WELL TRAINED IS ESSENTIAL

Corps of Canadian Instructor is Thoroughly Efficient, Claims Maj.-Gen. MacNaughton.

136,000 ENROLLED

Wars of Future Will Be Fought by Smaller Armies, Chief of Staff Says.

TORONTO, Ont., May 17.—(C.P.)—It is necessary for Canada to maintain a certain measure of military strength, and the most suitable type of defensive military organization for the dominion is the non-permanent active militia, bolstered by a nucleus of instructors and a small permanent force, declared Major-General A. G. L. MacNaughton, G.M.G., D.S.O., Chief of the Canadian General Staff, in an address here recently. He paid great tribute to the dominion's share in promoting peace since the Armistice but contended there were forces at work in the world antipathetic to the interests of the British empire.

"From personal observation of the officers and non-commissioned officers I am convinced we now have a thoroughly efficient and devoted corps of instructors," he said. "As far as military knowledge is concerned, we know from the reports on the individuals attending courses abroad, that they are fully up to the standard of the British regular army."

136,000 Strong

According to the speaker, the present peace-time military organization has an enrolment of 136,000 all ranks, with an actual strength of 51,000 of whom there were only about 34,000 trained during the past years on account of the lack of funds. He pointed out that in addition to the training that is paid for, a very large number turn out for drills and courses of instruction without expense to the public. Without this extra voluntary effort of the individual there would be little opportunity of maintaining the present strength, he declared.

Major-General MacNaughton believed the wars of the future would be fought by smaller armies than in the Great War. These armies would be more mobile. They would be supplied with greater facilities of mechanical movement and the machine warfare that would be used in all branches would create an enormous demand for highly trained and technical experts. The speaker not only felt Canada was strong in men of these requirements, but also believed her power resources were a potent factor in Empire defense through the possibility of quickly transforming industrial plants into munition manufacturing concerns.

"The measure of a country's military strength today is neither in the size of its standing army, nor in the number of trained reserves. The strength lies in its facilities for industrial mobilization," he declared.

Turning to the Royal Canadian Air Force, Major-Gen. McNaughton pointed out that it was believed that, if the staff was confined to purely military work, there would not be sufficient scope in its activities to permit the retention of able and enthusiastic men.

"It is believed that not the least benefit from the civil flying in which the R.C.A.F. is engaged comes from the fact that the air officers are thrown in contact with the problems of the country, and are given an opportunity of making contribution to its solutions," the speaker asserted.

The radio communication service, which has become an important phase in military operations, naturaly linked up closely with the R.C.A.F on account of its use in forestry patrol in civil flying and observation in war manoeuvres. Consequently, the speaker informed his listeners, in 1923 the service was assigned to the Royal Canadian Corps of Signallers. In its operation the service has established a great network of stations reaching from the Atlantic up north into the Arctic Circle.

At sea or over a level plain the human eye, at a height of 5 feet from the ground, can see an object 2.9 miles away.

Promises Permanent Tribunal to Deal With Application For Safeguarding Industries.

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 17 (C.P.).—Attention was centered probably for the first time in the present election campaign on this great metropolis yesterday, when Premier Stanley Baldwin spoke in the heart of the city—the one square mile of territory in the heart of the capital which remains officially the city of London. In Greater London every one of its 62 seats are being contested, with triangular fights in 54 divisions. In 1924 Conservatives secured 39 of these, Labor 19, and the Liberals, 3.

Referring to the restoration of the gold standard by Great Britain, Mr. Baldwin said whatever disadvantages there had been as the result of this step were only temporary.

He expressed satisfaction that the manent gain," with regard to its Government had made a "solid, perpolicy of safeguarding of industries, and said it was the intention of the government, if returned to power to manent gain with regard to its establish a permanent tribunal to deal with applications for safeguarding duties.

No Duty on Foodstuffs

After reaffirming his pledge that safeguarding duties would not be imposed on foodstuffs, the Premier said iron and steel would be treated just like any other industries when their applications were considered.

He dealt with the charge that the Government, in issuing a Government White Paper condemning the Liberal scheme for solving the unemployment problem, had thereby issued a political pamphlet at the taxpayers' expense. The publication had been so popular, the Prime Minister said, that the expense of printing was more than covered by sales. As to the constitutional aspect, the Liberal leaders had gone contrary to all constitutional practice in making definite assertions that the Civil Service had been unable to find any fault with the scheme.

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, at Fulham last night, said the Liberal leader's advisors might be experts, "but nobody can say they were not biased." The Chancellor of the Exchequer continued:

"Sir Josiah Stamp has been mentioned as one of them. He is our very trusted and very distinguished delegate to the reparations conference. When I saw him the other day I asked him if his name was not being used rather freely in connection with the scheme, and he told me he had nothing to do with it at all, adding he did not agree with the policy."

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Bisurated Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Acid Indigestion

Gas in the stomach accompanied by a full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful or four tablets in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never in liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take, and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

RURAL DEANERY HOLDS MEETING

CADETS PARADE.

LAKEFIELD, May 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Rural Deanery of Peterborough met in Lakefield on Friday of last week. There were present Rt. Rev. C. A. Seager, M.A., D.D., LL.D.; Rev. C. A. G. Spence, of Apsley (Rural Dean); Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly, of Young's Point (secretary); Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D.; Rev. J. D. Paterson, Rev. G. J. Bousfield, and Rev. J. L. Hughes, all of Peterborough; Rev. H. F. Battersby of Hastings, Rev. T. J. O'Conor Fenton of Norwood, and Rev. A. W. Mackenzie and Rev. W. J. Creighton, of Lakefield.

The morning session opened with a celebration of Holy Communion at 10 o'clock, which was followed by the business session in the Rectory. Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton gave a paper on Greek Testament study, taken from 1st St. Peter iv., 1-11, after which luncheon was served at the Rectory.

In the afternoon a discussion on re-adjusting allotments, led by Rev. J. D. Paterson, and one on institutions' chaplains, by Rev. G. J. Bousfield, took the first hour. Rt. Rev. Bishop Seager gave a talk on some aspects in the life of a bishop, a priest and a layman. His talk was informal, but filled with points which were helpful and gave suggestions for constructive development.

At 6.45 the clergy adjourned to The Grove for vespers in the chapel, and at 8 o'clock there was evensong in St. John's Church, with Bishop Seager as the preacher.

Rev. R. C. Blagrave read the service, Rev. C. A. G. Spence read the first lesson, and Rev. R. T. C. Dwelley the second lesson. Rev. J. D. Paterson acted as the Bishop's chaplain.

The Bishop took his text from the 27th verse of the 12th chapter of St. Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians: "Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular." Dr. Seager gave a very able discourse, one of the most masterly presentations of the subject that one could hear.

The Church is the body of Christ which He left to carry on His work, and St. Paul makes very clear the obligations and responsibility of the Church called to this "high adventure."

Bishop Seager is a clear and convincing speaker, and one whom it is a real treat to hear.

Cadets Parade.

On Sunday morning the High School Cadet Corps, about fifty strong, marched to Knox United Church, led by their cadet captain, Ronald Kemp. They made a good showing, marching well, and behaving in a manner creditable to themselves and the uniform they wore. Rev. T. M. Wesley preached an excellent sermon from the twelfth chapter of Hebrews and part of the first verse: "Let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us and let us run with patience the race which is set before us." Rev. Mr. Wesley, simply but forcibly, showed the lessons of a Christian life exemplified in an athletic race and drew his examples from such familiar subjects that even the younger boys could understand and profit by the lessons.

Special music was sung, which included a solo by Mrs. G. Craig Bell and an anthem by the choir.

TARIFF BILL IS PROTESTED

Republican Representative Says Canada Is United States' Best Buyer.

SPENT 825 MILLION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 17. —(C.P.)—(Staff Correspondent). —In a speech in the House, Representative Eaton of New Jersey, Republican, protested against putting rates on products imported from Canada which would penalize that country and would interfere with Canada's power to buy from the United States. He declared that "last year Canada was the best customer and the largest customer that this nation had."

"She purchased from us $825,000,000 worth of goods and we bought from her $492,000,000 worth of goods, leaving a balance in our favor of $333,000,000. The Canadian people purchased from us last year at the rate of $82.50 per head of their population. Of course there are invisible arrangements like the thirsty Americans that cross the line to become liquidated, and other matters of that kind in the way of tourist traffic, but the fact is that with 10,000,000 people Canada is the best and largest customer outside of this country that we have in the world."

A total of 90,903 physicians in this country have hospital connections.

WRONG DIET CAUSES HIGH DEATH RATE

Fifty Per Cent. of Children Who Die in First Year of Life Have Digestive Trouble.

DEATHS PREVENTABLE.

Dr. McPherson Advocates Use of Vaccine Which Immunized Against Whooping Cough.

"Over fifty per cent. of the children who died in the first year of life die from some disturbance of the digestive system; from improper feeding and ignorance on the part of the parents as to what they should feed their infants."

This was one of the many enlightening sentences in an address made to the members of the Local Council of Women at their meeting yesterday afternoon, by Dr. A. W McPherson, whose discourse was replete with interest for parents of small children, and dealt with many of the problems that confront the anxious mother and father.

"I do not think that maternal mortality is of as much importance as the mortality among children, from various causes," said Dr. McPherson, at the outset of his talk. "And I do not believe the statement that we are so far behind other countres in the care of the mother. I have been practising in Peterborough for the past twenty years, and I don't think that the maternal mortality rate is any higher than in any other part of the Province, nor higher than in other countries. There are a great many points to be taken into consideration when determining the maternal mortality rate, and unless the statistics are examined very carefull, it may be easy to show that the rate is very high."

Quoting statistics from the Sloan Maternity Hospital of New York City, Dr. McPherson said that, out of 10,000 consecutive births in that hospital at one period of time, nearly 1,000, or 10 per cent. died within a short time. Of these, 253 were deaths from premature births; 429, or nearly 50 per cent. were stillborn, and 291 died within fourteen days after birth.

Take Better Care

Going on to a consideration of the prevention of such conditions, the speaker said: "A number of the premature births might be prevented by taking greater care of the general health of the mother and here prenatal care comes into its place. And a number of the deaths which resulted from such things as cerebral hemorrhage might have been prevented by greater skill in the physician in charge."

Speaking of the causes of death within the first year of life, Dr. McPherson quoted the total of 44,226 children who died within their first year, inside of a twelve month, in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago.

Of this number, the largest group of deaths resulted from acute gastro-intestinal disturbance or disturbances caused by improper feeding. Over 10,000, or 28 per cent. of the total number, died from that cause.

Mirasmus, or mal-nutrition, and prematurity, caused the deaths of 25 per cent, and these also were victims of improper feeding, making a grand total of over 50 per cent. to die from this one cause.

Diseases of the respiratory tract; the nose, throat and lungs, were responsible for the deaths of 18 per cent, while congenital malformation accounted for 16 per cent., and infectious disease, mainly whooping cough and diphtheria, for 5½ per cent. All other causes totalled the remaining 17 per cent.

Peterborough Similar.

"I think that these proportions would apply to our own city also, and therefore we can say that 50 per cent. of the deaths of babies under one year of age result from improper feeding and the ignorance of the parents along this line.

"Of the 5½ per cent. who die from infectious diseases, many of these are preventable, because for years the Provincial Government has supplied us with toxoid for the purpose of immunizing our children against diphtheria."

"Those who die from indigestion would be cared for in our homes and hospitals, and it is in the hospitals that we should have greater facilities than we have now for caring for these, especially for the premature infants.

"In the Children's Hospital in Toronto, every facility is provided for their welfare. There is a fixed temperature of 85 degrees, with a double heating system, and the circulation constantly of fresh air from the outside.

"They also provide, by a special organization, breast milk from nursing mothers who can, for one reason or another, spare it. From sixty to one hundred quarts of breast milk is gathered daily and sterilized, for the use of those infants that require it. There is nothing like breast milk for premature infants, and usually the mother of the premature babe is not able to provide breast milk, or at least, not for a number of days. It would be a fine thing for your organization to consider conditions at the Hospital, to get better care for these infants and also to organize to provide breast milk."

A consideration of the manner in which children may be kept healthy was entered into by the speaker, who emphasized the importance of inculcating the proper habits in the growing child, so that it might be healthy, mentally, morally and spiritually, as well as physically.

"The main problem in the first year is proper feeding and proper guidance so that the child will develop habits that are beneficial to the infant and that make it easy for the mother to do her work. The mother can keep herself from becoming irritable and nervous much more easily if the youngest child in the family has developed proper habits of rest. It should be fed and bathed and put to bed at certain regular times."

Protection against infectious diseases was also emphasized as necessary in the first year of life. Dr. McPherson advocated the use of vaccine which immunized against whooping cough. Its effects lasted about two months only, he said, but it could be used frequently. Babies are naturally immune up to nine months of age, but later on, the immunity grows less. The same was true with diphtheria and its toxoid.

"Just a week ago here, we had a school child die with diphtheria. The parents had every opportunity to take advantage of the means provided for immunization against the disease, but they would not do so. Some parents have the habit of asking the child if it wishes to be inoculated. You might just as well ask a child if it likes to take castor oil. It will always respond in the negative."

2,000 Children Immunized.

Dr. McPherson stated that, up to date, 2,100 school children of this city have been immunized against diphtheria and about 1,000 have been vaccinated against smallpox, most of these during the epidemic of four years ago. He said there was little reaction and no danger experienced in these cases.

The problems of the second year of life were those which had to do with a continuation of the feeding program, because in this year disorders of the stomach and intestines were prevalent among infants, and guarding against measles, which took the largest toll of life in this year, among infants, against diphtheria and against whooping cough.

The speaker advocated the development in this period of a taste for suitable food, by giving the babies nothing sweet and fostering in them a liking for vegetables by giving them vegetable soups, also unsweetened porridge and eggs.

"If children don't like certain things to eat, the fault is with the mother, in 99 per cent. of the cases," he said. "And children should go to bed at proper hours. You often find little babies being kept out of bed until nine or ten o'clock for reasons which are too silly to mention."

The habit of obedience should also be inoculated in the child's mind at this early age.

Care of the teeth also comes into existence at this period. "The causation of a great many infections arise during that age. The prevalence among children of coughs and colds, sore throats and serious infectious diseases have an intimate relation with the teeth. In school later on, abscessed teeth and dirty roots result in coughs and colds, running noses, and discharging ears, and badly nourished children also show a definite relation to this cause in the teeth.

A great deal of co-operation between the parents and health authorities is necessary to secure the desired results, asserted the doctor. And this is especially true in the case of tubercular trouble. In Toronto, in homes afflicted in this way, the children are taken to the Children's Hospital, and put through a rigid course of examination which extends over a period of time.

Pasteurized Milk.

Referring to the subject of pasteurization of milk, Dr. McPherson said: "It is absolutely absurd to say that pasteurization causes deterioration in the milk, makes it difficult to digest, or makes it less important as a food. All raw milk should be pasteurized or boiled. The food value is not reduced any more by this process than the food value of an egg is reduced by boiling it.

"It is foolish to say that the pasteurization makes it necessary to supplement the food value by cod liver oil or orange juice, because often children who use unpasteurized milk,

DETROIT, Mich, May 17.— Fighting to get within striking distance of the league-leading Athletics and Yankees, the Detroit Tigers barely edged out a 4 to 3 victory yesterday over the Chicago White Sox.

The Browns also won, preserving their practical tie with Detroit, and, together with the Tigers, advanced into a virtual tie with the second-place Yankees, half a game behind the Athletics.

Three errors made by Lena Blackburne's men spent a large part of the difference in score.

Local Game Between Quakers and Electrics at King Edward Park.

C.P.C. AT SMELTER TOWN.

Saturday's local soccer bill is a league game between the Quaker Oats and the Canadian General, at King Edward Park. Kick off is scheduled for three o'clock prompt. Jack Clark will act as referee.

The Porridge boys have not got settled down to their game so far and deserve great credit for taking up the game at the last minute when all the rest of the teams had practically chosen their men. At any rate, they are out to foster the code and they intend giving the champions of last year a good battle for the points.

WILL SPARE NO EFFORT TO PUT PUNCH IN CLUB

Rumored Eddie Moore, Toledo Fielder, Cost Brooklyn Club $20,000.

M'WEENEY'S CONTROL BAD.

Injuries To Players and Sickness Adds To Rookie Failures.

NEW YORK, May 17.—"Plenty of good money" was paid by the Robins for Eddie Moore, the Toledo fielder, according to Professor Wilbert Robinson. This may mean anything. Some say that $100 would be plenty for Moore, but wiser heads are of the opinion that Moore cost approximately $20,000 cash, in addition to Maxey Rosenfeld.

There is more palpitant lucre in Brooklyn coffers awaiting the signal for action, but Robin scouts can't find an excuse for a signal. The Brooklyn ball club intends to spare no reasonable expense and Professor Robinson intends to try any reasonable experiment in an effort to buck up the waning spirit and fortune of the Robins.

The report that Young McWeeny had been ordered by Professor Robinson to show an improvement in his next pitching start or take a suspension was denied by the professor. A news hound's snap judgment and imagination were responsible for the tale.

McWeeny was warned, however, by John A. Heydler, National League president, to forward a check for a $25 fine imposed last week or accept the usual punishment of suspension. The check was mailed yesterday morning, several days late, owing to an oversight.

McWeeny's Control Bad

"There shouldn't have been this reflection on McWeeny's conduct," Robbie said. "Off the field his behavior is exemplary. His pitching hasn't been good, but that's another story. The whole trouble with McWeeny is that his control is bad—when he's pitching."

Adding further to the troubles of the flock, Dazzy Vance and Hank Deberry, the most famous battery in baseball, have been taken down with a pair of colds.

New Mental Strain

A new mental strain has been thrown on Robbie by Jim Elliott, the heavyweight southpaw.

"The doctor tells me," Robbie explained, "that Elliott's a real sick man. He oughtn't to be pitching. He's been sick ever since his intestines became infected last winter, and he complains regularly to the doctor that his intestines hurt him. Jim's lost twenty-five or thirty pounds since the winter, and he's in no shape at all.

"Gosh, we're running in tough luck."

TRACK MEET AT MILLBROOK

Members of C. G. E. Field Club Taking Part in Event.

PRIZES FOR WINNERS.

Considerable interest has been stirred up among local runners due to the fact that Millbrook is holding a track meet on Saturday, May 18, to consist of two events, a two mile run for juniors and a three mile jaunt for seniors. There are ten prizes to be divided between the winners in the two races. These prizes are voluntary donations from the Millbrook merchants who are giving the meet their thorough support, in the hope of promoting middle distance running in the village.

The races will be handicap events and are open to any amateur runner. The C. G. E. Track and Field Club are sending down a large contingent of Athletes, some of whom will also run in Toronto on the 24th of May, and it is expected that the keenest competition will prevail between Willby, a C.G.E. runner, and Jim Larmer of Millbrook in the senior event, in which there will also be Dick Bates, Herb. Tranter, Sam Freeman, Grant Palmer, Newt. Hamilton and several other local boys.

Stewart, the promising junior harrier from the C.G.E. is entering the 2 mile run, but although in fine condition, he is nursing an injured knee which may handicap him.

President, Osborne Bannon; secretary-treasurer, W. J. Riddell; directors, the managers of the various teams; umpires, Roy Cornish, Fred Wood, A. West, G. Watson, Roy Winter, Reg. Sutton.

NEW LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

Three Team Lacrosse Loop Formed By C.G.E. Athletic Club.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

A determined effort is being made among the young fellows in the C. G. E. to revive lacrosse and if present plans materialize this company will enjoy a three team league.

An organization meeting was held in the employment building last night and was very largely attended, mostly by young fellows who have never played but are keen to learn and feel confident that they would enjoy playing this game, which is so akin to hockey in many respects.

W. C. Waghorne, the O.A.L.A. emissary from Toronto, was present and addressed the fellows, outlining the proper plan of organizing and emphazing the importance of clean playing in the game.

The following officers were elected: President, E. W. Fisher; vice-president, Ed. Foley; secretary-treasurer, Harold Bannon, and a committee consisting of Jack Thornton, Dick Bates, Gene Hurtubise and Leo McGillen. Jack McCabe has offered to give some time to coaching the fellows and should be of great assistance, once the teams start practising.

Any member of the Social and Athletic Club who would like to play this game should send his name to any of the above officers before next Wednesday.

WANT ACT AMENDED.

KITCHENER, Ont., May 17. — A recommendation that the Dominion Government amend the Patent Medicine Act to conform with the Ontario Pharmacy Act, was brought in by a jury last night, investigating the death of two-year-old Audrey Gilmer, who died from eating tablets on May 5. A letter from the Ontario Pharmacy College stated the company selling the pills was protected by the Patent Medicine Act. The Ontario Pharmacy Act provides that all such medicines shall be labelled "poison" on the container.

AT THE CAPITOL

"ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE"

The day of the comedy team on the screen will probably give way to the comedy trio as a result of the work of William Haines, Karl Dane and Tully Marshall in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Alias Jimmy Valentine" which is now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

These three veteran actors have, with the co-operation of Director Jack Conway, prepared a laugh fest of their own particular kind of humor that has a flavor all its own.

Haines plays the rolle of the slick, good-looking young safe cracker, who upsets the police departments of half a dozen cities and laughs at their efforts to convict him of any crime. As companions in wrong-doing he has Dane and Marshall. The latter plays the role of an "old timer" in crime, a crabbed, weary-eyed man who can never see anything funny in anything. Dane plays the role of the dumb "look-out" man who is always getting the trio into mix-ups where only the skill of Haines and the experienced sagacity of Marshall can extricate them.

With such excellent foils as Dane and Marshall, Haines is offered an opportunity to put more real and convincing laughs into the picture than he has ever succeeded in doing before. However, "Alias Jimmy Valentine" is not entirely comedy. The dramatic story of the amazingly popular stage play of a generation ago is familiar to all audiences. It offers a unique opportunity to combine laughter with pathos and drama—an art at which Haines is past master.

Leila Hyams plays the leading feminine role for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, while Howard Hickman, Lionel Barrymore, Billy Butts and others have important roles. A. P. Younger adapted the story while the continuity is by Sara Y. Mason.

Along with the snappy feature picture is one of Charlie Chase's hilarious comedies, entitled "Thin Twins." The way in which the fearless Charlie gets his laughs is infectious and the whole house joins in the merriment aroused by his antics.

The vaudeville team, Keeffer and Alberts, have stayed over for a second turn this week, in "The Butcher Boy" and their jokes and quips and very fine harmonizing voices get them plenty of real, enthusiastic appreciation.

ARRANGING FOR ATHLETIC MEET

Arrangements are going on apace for the big School Boy athletic meet to be held at Exhibition Park, Saturday, May 25. J. L. Murray, secretary of the Ontario Athletic Commission, the body which is promoting the meets throughout the province, was in the city yesterday and held a conference with Doug. Loomis and the teachers who are interested in the local meet.

Athletics will boom in this district if Mr. Murray can get his plans to be put into operation here. He is experienced in training school boy athletes and all branches of the work. A summer camp to which the most promising athlete in each district will get a scholarship and to which three or four of the other promising youngters can go for a nominal charge is one of his ideas. The camp will be held in the lake district and the boys will get expert coaching in track and field events.

Doug. Loomis and Mr. Murray spent an hour at Exhibition Park looking over the track and planning the running of the meet.

LOCAL ATHLETES TRAINING FOR MEET

The Peterborough athletes had better crowd in a great deal of rigid training between now and a week from Saturday if the desire to carry off even a fair percentage of the honors. Lindsay and many other places in the district are reported to have taken their training most seriously and they have succeeded in getting some crack teams ready.

BOXING TOURNEY AT "Y" TO-NIGHT

George Graham will referee the speedy boxing bouts in which Lindsay boxers will clash with the best members of the local class in the "Y" gymnasium to-night. These bouts will be decision affairs and they should be hammer-and-tong frays judging by the keen competition that has existed between Lindsay and Peterborough athletes in running and other sports.

Wilfred Jones and his boxers have spent many stiff hours grooming up all the fine points in preparation for these bouts. The bill includes three smart flyweight bouts and on up to 175 pound bout in which Lewington and Smith clashes. With the cream of the local boxers meeting a picked contingent of Scugog leather pushers, this will be the smartest bill that has been offered to local fans for many and many a moon.

George Graham knows his boxing and it can be depended upon the boys will be scored properly and accurately.

BASEBALL PRACTISE TO-MORROW?

To-morrow afternoon every park and corner lot in the city will have its full quota of busy ball tossers, busily engaged in preparing for the baseball season that will open one week hence. With the weather having curbed baseball activities longer than for many years, the team managers are fidgety with watching and waiting for Old Sol. To-morrow the teams will unlimber and go smartly into action.

RUTH FOLLOWER OF SNUFF BOX

Babe Ruth uses snuff and has been sneezing his head off for years, at least that is the statement of Al Demaree, former pitcher of the New York Giant. Demaree declares that the Babe is constantly sneeking the odd pinch of Copenhagen, snuffing and then a tremendous sneeze. Ruth uses the snuff because he has sinus trouble, the ball players great trouble maker, and then he sniffs the snuff to clear out his nasal passages.

CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE NOTES

The Peterborough Central Ontario League team will practice at the Exhibition grounds tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Every player is expected out in uniform as this will be the best chance for a good workout before the league opens in Oshawa next Friday. The Petes will also practise to-night at 6 o'clock at King Edward School grounds.

Despite the cold weather last night manager Swanston had practically a full roster of players in action at King Edward School and a useful hour's batting practice was obtained. Hap Harrison made his first appearance of the season and signalized his debut by driving a ball into Romain street, probably the longest ride out of the school grounds that any astonished Spalding has ever experienced.

The visitor piled up a big lead on the first nine and was two up at the end of the first 18, but could not combat the steady play of her opponent in the afternoon.

PLAYS MAGNIFICENT GAME.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 17.—A.P.)—Playing magnificent golf for a great part of the way, Glenna Collett, United States' titleholder, was two up on Joyce Wethered, British star, at the half-way mark of their 36-hole final for the British championship to-day.

Miss Collett played marvelous golf on the first nine, running up a lead of five up at the turn. As usual, however, Miss Wethered, who thrice has won the British title, played at her best in the crisis and recovered three holes to go to lunch only two down.

The visiting champion played the first nine holes in 34 strokes, two under even fours. He racrd for the outward trip showed nothing but fours except for the short eight where she had a two. Miss Wethered on the other hand was missing putts at nearly every hole and needed 39 strokes for the first nine holes.

Coming home there was a different story to tell. The 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th holes were halved but Miss Wethered won the 14th with a five to Miss Collett's six. The 15th was halved and then the English girl came back to win the 16th with a four to Glenna's five. Another halved hole and Miss Wethered reduced the visitor's lead still another stroke with a four at the 18th.

King And Queen Will Not Attend Ascot Race

ASCOT, England, May 17.—(Canadian Press). — The race meeting here in June will be robbed of much of its usual glamor this year with the absence of the king and queen. Official announcement said they would not attend.

Heretofore the picturesque procession of horsedrawn carriages carrying the royal party along the race course has been a feature of each day's meeting.

Special Spring Showing of DE SOTO SIX

—a brilliant assemblage of the new models in all the splendor of smart new color combinations.

Friday and Saturday May 17th and 18th

It is a pleasure to announce the special Spring Showing of De Soto Six models at our showrooms Friday and Saturday next, May 17th and 18th.

We cordially invite you to attend, believing you will be very much interested to inspect these smart new models of this car which has broken all existing records of success for a Six in its first year.

In De Soto Six you will recognize that Chrysler leadership in manufacturing and Chrysler genius in engineering have expressed themselves in refinements of design, style and performance that are distinctly unusual and unexpected in a Six of this moderate price.

You will realize that in De Soto there is a very perceptible difference that immediately picks it out from its price field—that, detail for detail and feature for feature makes De Soto comparable only with costlier cars.

Come in and view, at your leisure, these stylish new models. And if you want to get the thrill of De Soto Six performance —which you will when you see the cars—we shall be pleased to place any model at your disposal.

KNOX CHURCH BANQUETS CHOIR

Over Eighty Are Present At Social Evening—Varied Program.

OLD TIME SONGS SUNG

A very enjoyable event took place last evening at Knox United Church when the choir leader and members, with their friends, were guests of the session and board of management at a banquet. The gathering, which numbered over eighty, included in addition to the choir, the wives of the managers and elders and several artists who have assted the choir on special occasions. Arrangements were in charge of a committee composed of Howard Clegg, Herbert Anderson, John Allen and Malcolm Clark. Mrs. J. Londerville was in charge of refreshments.

The long banquet table and small auxiliary tables were attractive with while linen, bouquets of Spring flowers and candles in silver holders.

Rev Willam McDonald, as master of ceremonies, presided at the head of the table, and graciously welcomed the guests of the evening on behalf of the hosts. He took advantage of the occasion to commend the choir for good work and faithful attendance, after which he proposed a toast to His Majesty the King. The audience responded with the singing of the National Anthem.

A spirit of jollity was evident throughout the entire program and found expression early in the evening with the singing of old favorite songs in chorus.

The choir contributed "The Laughing Chorus."

George Coleman contributed a song in Irish dialect, "I'm Off for Philadelphia in the Morning." Mr. Lucas sang "The Pirate Bold." Mrs. T. E. Curvin contributed a beautiful solo, "Supplication," from Beethoven, and Mrs. H. Wood sang pleasingly "Mother of Pearl."

An orchestra composed of R. J Devey at the piano; Herbert McCannan on the harmonica; T. E. Curvin, the guitar, and Frank Clarke, the banjo, contributed two selections which won hearty applause

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presence at the banquet table of Fred Waldon with his wife and Master Fred. Mr. Waldon, a former and very kindly remembered organist and choir leader of the church, spoke briefly of his pleasure at being present on this occasion, and later pleased his audience with an old negro song, "Mandy Lee."

A pianoforte duet was contributed by Robert Allen and R. J. Devey. The Misses Margaret and Jessie Hill sang sweetly in duet, "All Through the Night"

A toast to the choir was proposed by Andrew McKenzie, to which James Gerrard and R. J. Devey suitably and humorously responded. A toast to the board of management and the session was proposed by R. J Devey and was ably responded to by Frank Morrison for the session and John Allen for the board. A toast to the ladies was proposed by Malcolm Clarke and suitably responded to by Mrs. J. Londerville, president of the Women's Association.

The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," followed by a Benedicton pronounced by Mr. McDonald, brought to a close a very delightful evening.

A.Y.P.A. ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

St. John's Young People's Organization Holds Its Annual Banquet.

MANY ATTEND.

St. John's Parish Hall was the scene of a very happy gathering Wednesday evening on the occasion of the annual banquet of the Anglican Young People's Association. After a very enjoyable banquet which was well catered for by two groups of the C.W.A. of the church, the chairman and president remarked briefly on the very large attendance, practically the total membership being present, and then proposed the toast to the King. The toast to the Church was proposed by E. Rigby and replied lowed by the toast to the A.Y.P.A., to by Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, folproposed by Miss Aloha Horn and replied to by Roy Young; and the toast to the ladies, which was humorously proposed by D. J. Bachelor and replied to by Miss R. Puddick.

The next item on the program was the annual report of the secretary, Miss M. Guthrie, who gave a detailed summary of the activities of the branch during the year now closing, and the annual treasurer's report, given by the treasurer, Miss F. Hutchinson. The president, Bert Graham recalled the various items of interest during the past season, thanking the executive and all members for their hearty co-operation and support.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then held, with Dr. Blagrave taking the chair. An interesting feature of the election was the fact that the voting for the president resulted in a tie between the only two contestants, Miss Aloha Horn being finally elected to that office. The other officers elected were: Vice-President, Joe Gore; secretary, Miss M. Guthrie; treasurer, Ted Rigby.

The formal installation of the officers followed the election, which ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Blagrave, who counselled each officer in the various duties and responsibilities concurred in the fulfillment of the duties of his offce.

The meetng was then brought to a close, all members adjourning to the main hall, where a social hour was spent.

BIG CARNIVAL WILL CONTINUE FOURTH DAY

Dance in Lower Hall Every Evening Has Been a Great Drawing Card.

CROWDS ATTEND.

Booths Have Been Doing a Rushing Business—Fine War Exhibits.

"When will the War end?" That was the question that occupied the minds of many civilians during the last years of the great struggle. But it had its more important attention for the fighters also. A group of ex-soldiers were talking this morning at the Canadian Legion Hall.

During one of the final years of the Great War, it seems that a number of the soldiers conducted a contest and wrote short letters giving their reasons why the struggle should end at a certain time. An officer who collected the letters had them in a breast pocket, with the answers tabulated according to the year guessed. A bullet which was aimed at him went through his tunic and struck the bundle of letters. It stopped at the bundle marked 1918!

The Carnival at the Canadian Legion Hall has been such a success that it will be continued up to ten or eleven o'clock on Saturday night, instead of ending this evening, as was first decided. Each night has seen crowds of people patronizing the different merry-making booths, and the concerts in the upper hall, with two shows nightly, have been such a success that the committee has been asked to present it at two other places. The songs and fun of war days have a continued popularity. They never grow old. The first concert on Saturday evening will commence at half-past seven o'clock.

The dance in the lower hall is a decided drawing-card also, with excellent music furnished by Marshall's and the Mowry-Steer orchestras.

Do Rushing Business.

The booths are doing a rushing business, with plenty of patronage for the Bingo and chance games and the mystery dugout at "Hell's Fire Corner." The ladies are finding much enjoyment at the fortune-telling booth, and in the dainty little tea-room at the rear.

Casualties of the fray at the hall this week are several of the saucy dolls which serve as targets for the dart game, but they were receiving expert medical attention this morning from a physician who is a member of the Legion Executive. Thus no stone is left unturned to give the public the worth of its money.

An exhibit in a long glass case that is well worthy of a trip to the Carnival, just to see these mementoes of war days, is a collection of various souvenirs from various conflicts of the past days.

Here are German iron crosses, one a first-class silver-edged specimen; a "Medal Militaire" of Napoleon's campaigns and a Cross of the Legion of Honor; a Saxon Iron Cross; a German soldier's ornate watch; a medal of the Fenian Raid of 1866, and a Russian medal of 1813; a German bayonet and dagger and a German egg bomb; a real meerschaum with upturned nose; a piece of the first German Zeppelin brought down in England, at Potter's Green; a message brought by a carrier pigeon, telling of the signing of the Armistice, and a German belt flashlight that tells a silent story to observant soldier eyes. This flashlight was illumined in time with the snapping of a machine gun, and half an inch above the tiny light is the hole drilled by the gun of a sniper whose sharp eyes watched it from a distance and whose skill almost bored the small fiery target.

Stores Will Remain Open Next Wednesday

Many of the stores in Peterborough will remain open on Wednesday of next week, May 22, instead of taking the usual half-holiday. The reason given for this is twofold, a clause to this effect is in the by-law, and the coming of May 24 on Friday, which is a Dominion holiday, would make the closing on Wednesday of little advantage.

The managers of the following stores, in conversation with The Examiner this morning, confirmed the statement as to their remaining open on that date: Teco Stores, the Hall Store, Grafton Company, the Neill Shoe Store, Robert Fair Company, Dickson's, the Metropolitan Stores and the F. W. Woolworth Company.

WRONG DIET

or even breast milk, are required to supplement their diet by taking these things."

In answer to a question later, Dr. McPherson said that the teeth of children who are started early on such products as beef broth come better and more easily than the teeth of infants given an early diet of cereals and starches.

A very hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was voiced by the president, Mrs. C. H. Edwards.

The attention of the meeting was taken up by consideration of the agenda of the annual Provincial Council meeting, to be held in St. Andrew's church at Niagara Falls, Ont., on June 12 and 13, and also with resolutions which will be presented at the meeting of the National Council of Women, at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, from May 27 to June 1, inclusive.

The minutes of the last meeting of the Local Council were read by Mrs. K. S. Wightman, the financial statement was given by Mrs. E. Wand, and Mrs. A. Mowat read the correspondence. The sum of $52 was realized from the recent picture at the Regent Theatre, under the auspices of the Local Council of Women, with some returns still to be made.

Mrs. Edwards asked the patronage of the members for a concert to be given on May 29, in aid of the Well Babies Clinic, the program for which will be arranged by Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie.

DEATH TOLL IN CLINIC FIRE STANDS AT 122

Investigators Find that Cigarettes Were Smoked Near Film Storage Room.

AUTHORITIES WERE WARNED

Recommendations Had Been Made To Store Films in Separate Building.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 19 (C.P.)—Investigation into the Cleveland Clinic fire which caused the deaths of 122 persons from gas generated by blazing X-ray film went forward today with information that cigarettes were smoked near the film storage room and that the Clinic had been warned of the danger.

These facts had been uncovered in testimony before an inquest conducted by Coroner A. J. Pearse and County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller, newspapermen were told. The enquiry was held behind closed doors.

Mrs. Roose Reber, charwoman at the Clinic, told later of her testimony. She testified that men frequently smoked cigarettes in the basement near the room where the film was stored, and that she had never seen the steel fire door closed.

Report of Bureau Read

A report of the Ohio Inspection Bureau warning the Clinic to safeguard the building by removing the film was read into the record, Pearse admitted, after the hearing was closed.

Pearse, with Miller, declared their enquiry was "not a blame fixing affair," but an attempt "to determine exactly what happened."

The inspection report was filed with Clinic officials some time ago, Pearse said, together with recommendations that the film be stored in a separate building. Pearse said he "believed" the report mentioned the desirability of sprinklers and ventilation, but said he was not certain.

Officials of the Clinic to-day announced that the death list to date included 122 names. Fifty persons were in hospitals, they said. The number of dead was reduced after they reported they were unable to find three of the reported victims, all of Cleveland.

Gangster Sought Haven

"Scar Face Al" Capone Feared Rival Leaders in Chicago.

SOUGHT PEACE PACT.

Belief is Expressed That Leader Wanted To Be Sent Down.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 18. (C. P.) — "Scar Face Al" Capone, sentenced yesterday to one year in jail for carrying a concealed deadly weapon, was believed in some quarters to-day to have sought jail as an asylum from the bullets of rival gangsters.

At the brief hearing, at which he pleaded guilty, it was intimated that he had courted arrest and that the loaded revolver he turned over to the police was carried for that express purpose.

The Philadelphia Record said to-day that his action followed receipt of word at Atlantic City, where he had asked hostile Chicago gang leaders to meet him for a peace pact, that not only would they refuse to meet him, but that he would be "put on the spot," and killed at the first opportunity.

The Record said this version was given by Drey Ball, who described himself as one of four bodyguards with Capone at the time of his arrest. Another bodyguard, Frank Cline, was arrested wiht Capone, and also sentenced for one year.

GOES TO PHIIPPINES

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 18. — Dwight F. Davis, of St. Louis, Secretary of War in the Coolidge cabinet, is to be the next Governor General of the Philippines.

In that post, he will succeed Henry L. Stimson, now Secretary of State, and will carry forward the traditional association between his new office and the war department, under which it is administered.

CAREFUL STUDY OF CRIMINALS IS SUGGESTED

Toronto's Woman Police Magistrate Delivers Fine Address to Kiwanis Club.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Visiting Clubs Are Guests of Local Organization at Luncheon.

The application of methods followed in medical diagnosis and the search in the make-up of the criminal for the mal-adjustment which was declared to be at the base of all criminal activity, was suggested in the address which Dr. Margaret Patterson, Police Court Judge of Toronto, gave to the members of the Kiwanis Club and their friends, on the occasion of Ladies' Night, held last evening in the Collegiate Institute auditorium and gymnasium.

There was a bumper attendance last evening. One hundred and eighty-two people sat down to dinner in the gymansium, where the long tables were arranged with blue and white streamers and vases of tulips and daffodils. The hall was decorated brightly with red, white and blue bunting and flags.

Guests included visiting Kiwanians and their ladies from Belleville, Toronto, Oshawa, Lindsay, Bowmanville and Picton, and guests of honor for the evening were nurses from the three city hospitals. The affair was carried out with the vigor and zest which characterizes Kiwanis projects and the entertainment program, which was in charge of E. V. Morphet and C. S. Browne, included a number of songs and several amusing stunts. One of these was a painful affair, done in silhouette, showing Dr. J. J. Craig after his departure from this life, when an attendant imp operated profusely on his teeth.

The guests were received at the head of the stairway by President Turner and Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, Vice-President C. S. Browne and Mrs. Browne, and the past presidents with their wives; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKone, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Cook, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Craig and Mr. and Mrs. J. John.

The dinner, catered for by Coleman Brothers, was presided over by President Turner and was enlivened by community singing, with G. F. Liddle at the piano.

WELCOMED BY J. JOHN.

The guests of the evening were welcomed by J. John, District Trustee, in his usual pleasing fashion, and responses in the name of the various clubs were made in turn by Russell Wallace, president of the West Toronto Club, William Carlisle, president of the Lindsay Club, H. Greenleaf, past president of the Belleville Club, Frank Johnston, president of the Riverdale (Toronto) Club, and S. Hamley, president of the Picton Club.

The welcome to the nurses was voiced by Dr. Craig.

Adjourning to the auditorium, the company enjoyed some more community singing of Kiwanis favorites. A fine vocal solo by Ford Moynes, of Lindsay, "Shipmates o' Mine," was accorded an encore, and G. A. Walden of Picton, formerly of Peterborough, sang a negro melody which was much appreciated, with banjo and mandolin accompaniment played by Frank Clarke and T. E. Curvin. Mr. Liddle played the piano accompaniments. President Turner acted as chairman, on the stage.

The introduction of the visiting lady speaker, Judge Patterson of Toronto, was voiced very smoothly by Kiwanian Isaac MacNab, and Dr. Patterson proceeded to give her audience a half hour talk that was interesting in its subject and also just as interesting in the glimpse it afforded of the many-sided character of the speaker. The little address showed a broad sympathy and comprehension of the erring brother and sister's mentality, a sense of humor which peeped out in sly, fetching sentences, and an abiding desire to lend a helping hand to the stumbling feet which brought their owners into her court. This court, by the way, as described by the speaker, is equipped with a long table rather than the usual paraphernalia and the furnishing has not the same aspect as the ordinary awesome court of justice.

Barometer of Life

Dr. Patterson spoke of her graduation in medicine, thirty years ago, and alluded to the relation between that profession and nursing. "I don't know of any profession that gives the same opportunity for service as nursing," she said.

Going on to her subject of "Socializing Police Court Work," she impressed upon her hearers the necessity of "knowing your courts."

"The police court is a barometer of life," she asserted, "but to the average citizen what happens there is just about as definite as what happens in a foreign country."

GIANT AIR LINER FORCED DOWN IN FRANCE

Almost within sight of the Atlantic, the giant Graf Zeppelin was forced to abandon its transatlantic flight because of engine trouble. With four of its five engines out of commission the dirigible made a forced landing in south of France, near Toulon. INSET is Dr. Hugo Eckener, her commander.

Sabotage To Plane Denied

Graf Zeppelin Will Have Its Motors Thoroughly Examined.

MECHANICS AT WORK.

French Bluejackets Stand Guard About Giant German Dirigible.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 18 (C.P.).—Thorough tests and examinations of the motors of the Graf Zeppelin which failed so soon after her departure for the United States on her second trans-Atlantic voyage will be made by German motor experts to determine just what went wrong.

The suspicion openly voiced in many quarters that sabotage was responsible was strongly doubted to-day by engineers and other high officials.

While the man in the street still could not conceive of any other theory for the failure of the Maybach motors to function, enquiry among engineers of the company indicated that they staunchly held to the belief that sabotage was out of the question.

"The idea of sabotage cannot be entertained," said First Engineer Hans Stiefel of the Maybach works.

Assistant General Director Karl Lutz was visibly annoyed when the idea of sabotage was suggested.

"It is nonsense even to raise this question," he snapped, adding that for the present nobody could tell what caused the motor breakdown.

Bluejackets Stand Guard

CUERS, France, May 18 (C.P.).—French bluejackets stood guard today about the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, house in the hangar from which their own ill-fated Dixmude went forth five years ago to disaster. Inside the hangar French mechnics assisted the Graf's crew, former enemies but now friends in distress, to repair the damage which had incapacitated four of the dirigible's five motors.

The entire atmosphere was one of friendliness and good fellowship, with a dash of bitter disappointment among the Germans that they had failed to take their ship another time across the Atlantic. There was little or no trace of animosity which kept the two people so far apart during the

BISHOP O'BRIEN IS HONORED BY THE HOLY SEE

Is Appointed Archbishop of Kingston and Titular Archbishop Armoria.

IN ROME AT PRESENT.

Will Succeed To See at Kingston On Demise of Archbishop Spratt.

VATICAN CITY, May 18. (C.P.)—Right Rev. Michael J. O'Brien of Peterborough, Ontario, has been appointed by the Pope as titular Archbishop of Armoria and coadjutor with the right of succession to Rt. Rev. Michael J. Spratt, Archbishop of Kingston.

The above despatch means, in effect, that Bishop O'Brien has been appointed Archbishop of Kingston and will succeed Archbishop Spratt on his death.

Armoria is one of the old suppressed Sees of the Church, and the title of Titular Archbishop of Armoria will be used by Bishop O'Brien until he takes the archiepiscopal chair at Kingston. It is not the practice to have two Archbishops for one See, hence the resurrection of a suppressed See for the time being.

When Bishop O'Brien returns from Rome about July 1st, he will have the title of Archbishop, and will succeed to the See at Kingston, on the demise of Archbishop Spratt, who has been ill for some time and is over eighthy years of age.

CANADIAN VICKERS PILOT SAVED IN PLANE CRASH BY PARACHUTE

Foreboding An Accident Jack Caldwell Had Taken Parachute Along.

OVER ST.. LAWRENCE.

As He Touched Water Gust of Wind Carried Him to Small Island.

MONTREAL, Que., May 18 (Canadian Press).—Foreboding that an accident would happen caused Jack Caldwell, test pilot for Canadian Vickers, Ltd., to take his parachute with him when he went up to test a flying boat last night—and it saved his life. Four thousand feet above the St. Lawrence, near Montreal East, the plane went into a spin. Caldwell jumped, and pulled open his parachute. In his mind at this terrifying moment was the fact that not once in his recent flights had he carried a parachute. The boat crashed into the water, and Caldwell was above it, floating down.

Just as he touched the water a gust caught the parachute and pulled him to a small island in the river, saved. He was going to unbuckle his parachute when another gust came and dragged him a hundred yards along the island, cutting and bruising him and scraping skin from his elbows and knees.

A motor boat was rushed out from Canadian Vickers, and Caldwell was rescued. He came ashore wet, hurt, and trembling, but still smiling.

The boat was smashed. It will be salvaged to-day.

NEXT TUESDAY IS FINAL DAY

Designated As Time When Experts On Reparations Will Reach Crisis in Deliberations.

DISAGREEMENT ON TERMS.

PARIS, May 18.—(C.P.)—Tuesday of next week was designated as the time when the experts on reparations will reach the crisis in their deliberations— when they will find agreement on the one hand and definite failure in their task on the other.

One of the experts, who preferred to remain anonymous, said to-day: "We shall know about Tuesday evening if there is to be a rupture or agreement. If an agreement is possible our work will continue another ten days."

Meanwhile the German reservations to acceptance of annuity figures proposed by Owen D. Young, loomed as increasingly liable to prove the rock upon which the conference may break up.

The situation represented a distinct change from that of two days ago when it was not believed Dr. Schacht's stipulations to acceptance would prove overly difficult of handling. To-day, however, as the experts delved deeper into them, they were seen to involve all manner of complications, unforseen consequences and implications which had to be followed up and studied in detail.

There still remained some few to-day who professed belief that the delegates would end by reaching an agreement but their number was diminishing. The general impression was that the experts had done as much as could be reasonably expected of them.

MOTOR CARS ARE SLIGHTLY DAMAGED

Two Automobiles Collide On Charlotte Street This Morning.

When a thoughtless automobile driver attempts to make a complete turn in the middle of a busy block, things are sure to happen, and they did this morning about 10.30, on Charlotte street, in front of the Empress Hotel. A driver of a large sedan held up another smaller sedan, while it negotiated the complete turn. A lady driving a car was proceeding immediately behind the waiting car, with the result that a collision occurred between the two, while the driver of the car that caused the accident drove nonchalantly away.

The rear bumpers of one car were broken and interlocked with the front bumper of the other car, which was also broken. Several pedestrians offered their assistance, and the cars were separated, but not before traffic was tied up on both sides of the street.

London Baker Lays Claim To Title Held By "The Rancher Earl" Of Alberta

LONDON, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—The Daily Mail says it learns that the right of the present Earl of Egmont, known widely as "the rancher earl" to his title is being disputed.

A claim to the earldom has been made by a sexagenarian baker, James William Percival, living in north London and legal proceedings are being instituted. The claimant says that he is a son of Augustus George Percival, son of the sixth Earl of Egmont, and as such, ought to have succeeded to the title.

It is understood that the present title-holder, until a few months ago plain Mr. Percival, an Alberta farmer, has not yet received any money from the estate and it is unlikely anything will be done until the question of the claim is settled. A search is being made in Australia on behalf of the claimant for a birth certificate which his legal advisor informed him would settle the question beyond a doubt.

Of $8,000 Asked For $7,623.50 Has Already Been Reported.

FINAL RETURNS AWAITED.

The Y.M.C.A. campaign to raise $8,000 to carry on the work of the Association has been a success. This fact was strongly brought out at a meeting of the campaign workers held in the dining hall of the "Y" last evening. It was reported that $7,623.50 has already been raised. With several of the teams yet to make partial reports, and with the canvassers going out to complete a small portion of their work, it is confidently expected that the needed sum of $8,000 will be exceeded by Wednesday night when the final meeting is to be held.

The canvassers, the team captains and organizers of the campaign were praised and congratulated for their great efforts in putting over the campaign by A. W. Richardson, president of Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors; E. D. Otter, secretary of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A., and J. F. H. Wallace, field marshal of the campaign. It was said that this campaign has been the greatest, best managed and most successful ever staged by the local "Y."

MEN OF DISTINCTION.

Want to Know Who Experts Were Who Helped Frame White Paper.

(By George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 18. — Taking up Premier Baldwin's challenge, Right Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, last night named three of the experts who had advised him in preparing his unemployment program. They were W. T. Layton, M.A., C.B.E., Maynard Keynes, M.A., C.C., and Sir Herbert Samuel He challenged the premier to do likewise with regard to the experts to frame the government white paper issued in reply to his unemployment proposals.

Speaking at Bristol, Lloyd George spoke of the three men he had named as men of the highest distinction, who had been called upon to advise Conservative governments on important matters.

"I agree with the Prime Minister," Lloyd George continued, "On his statement that Sir Henry Maybury is the greatest authority in the United Kingdom on roads. Sir Henry was advisory to the road department, and yet the government never asked his opinion of the Liberal schemes.

"I challenge Mr. Baldwin to ask Sir Henry's opinion, but I can say now that he will not accept the challenge. I ask Mr. Baldwin whether he invited the opinion of the Electricity Commissioners. They are able men and could say whether the project was feasible. I challenge the Premier to do it before the election."

WITH ONLY ONE MOTOR RUNNING GIANT DIRIGIBLE MAKES LANDING NEAR TOULON IN SOUTH FRANCE

German Zeppelin Works Experts Scout "Dirty Work Somewhere."

SPENT NIGHT IN HANGAR.

Passengers Seem Little the Worse of Arduous Experience.

OUERS, France, May 18 (Canadian Press).—The Graf Zeppelin, saved by its master, Dr. Hugo Eckener, from catastrophe in a peril-laden 38-hour flight, reposed to-day in a French hangar that from which only five years ago the ill-fated Dixmude went forth on its disastrous Mediterranean trip.

After hours of manoeuvring yesterday, in which it seemed the air liner would be blown to sea or into the foothills of the Alps, the dirigible arrived over the naval air field here and was pulled to earth and safety at 8.35 p.m. (2.35 p.m., eastern standard time).

Four of its motors were not working, the crankshafts being broken, and the lone fifth motor had proved utterly incapable of combatting the violent mistral, or cold north-westerly winds, which finally forced abandonment of the attempt to return to Friedrichshafen.

The passengers and members of the crew seemed little the worse for the arduous experience which began late Thursday when failure of two motors off the coast of Spain thwarted an attempted crossing of the Atlantic to Lakehurst, N.J. "Susi," the female gorilla, which was part of the cargo, was affected most of all.

A single sentence of Dr. Eckener's was eloquent testimonial to the rigor of the ordeal: "Never have I had such a difficult trip," the commander said with a sigh of relief.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 18 (Canadian Press). — The theory of sabotage behind the crippling of the motors of the Graf Zeppelin was raised yesterday by Director Oesterle of the Dornier Airplane Works.

"Why should the same thing happen to two crankshafts?" he asked. "I have been with the motors for years and can't conceive of such duplicate tragedies. No, there has been dirty work somewhere."

This opinion was shared, in part at least, by others at the home port of the Zeppelin, and there was great curiosity over what examination of the motors might reveal.

INDEMNITY BILL READ IN HOUSE

$2,500,000 Is Provided To Meet Claims of Canadian War Sufferers.

MOTION AMENDED.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 18 (C.P.)—A bill to provide payments on the award for reparations to Canadian civilians was given first reading in the House of Commons last night. Coming up in the form of a resolution for permission to introduce the bill, it brought on a debate which extended over several hours on the afternoon and night sitting. The resolution was slightly amended by the government from the form it took when previously before the Commons.

The original proposal was that the bill for reparation claims should provide to pay losses to the civilian population suffered during the Great War to a sum not exceeding $2,500,000. However, this was changed yesterday by eliminating the word "not exceeding" because, as Premier King pointed out, it had been interpreted in some quarters to mean there would be no more payments after this amount had been expended.

Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, who was conducting the resolution through the House, explained what the bill proposed to do. During several years, commissions, first under Hon. William Pugsley, and later under James Friell, K.C., had made awards as to the amount various Canadians were entitled to receive for the losses they had suffered during the war.

(C.P.) — After receiving a kindly word of advice from Mr. Justice Raney, 13-year-old Anthony Tucker walked out of the court room here yesterday absolved of a charge of manslaughter. The lad returns to live with his mother and brothers, but to be specially guided at the suggestion of Mr. Justice Raney, by advice of Rev. Father McFadden, parish priest, at Trout Creek.

BOARD PLANS TO RETURN TO DES MOINES UNIVERSITY

Committee Includes Dr. T. T. Shields and Miss Edith Rebman.

STUDENTS WILL LEAVE.

Statement Is Issued at Close of Baptist Bible Union Conference.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 18 (Canadian Press)—A committee of the Board of Trustees is preparing to return to Des Moines University with the announced intention of taking over the reins of government of the institution after the pending legal issues have been straightened out. The committee is headed by Dr. T. T. Shields, against whom the student body revolted, Trustees O. W. Van Osdel, E. A. Roberts and H. J. Hamilton, with Miss Edith M. Rebman as secretary. They expect to be in Des Moines at an early date, it was said to-day.

The sessions of the Baptist Bible Union convention of which Dr. Shields is president, closed with a quiet session last night. Dr. Shields made no reference to University affairs during his closing address, but after the meeting issued a typewritten statement, stating that a students' resolution, declaring they would not return to the college next fall, was due to a misunderstanding on their part. The statement follows:

Expected Re-action.

"I am confident that when the students know the facts there will be a very general re-action in favor of the position taken by the Trustee Board. We should, of course, be sorry should the students decide not to return to the University, but discipline must be maintained and the trustees must be supreme, no matter what the cost may be.

"We have been delighted to receive intimation of a considerable number of young people who have been attracted to Des Moines who have never heard of it before; and already applications for positions on the faculty are pouring in on us, and no less than two proposals have reached us respecting the presidency. We have every confidence the opening of the fall term will see a better and greater Des Moines University, and we hope a large number of our students will be there to see them."

I feel so safe with the Tablets that I always keep a box in the house."

BATTERY PLANS BIG RE-UNION

FORMED IN 1866

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Members of the Cobourg Battery during war time who attended the reunion smoker held in the Cobourg Armouries Friday night, report a most enjoyable evening. The evening was spent in an informal way, with speeches, smokes and eats. The speakers were for the most part, former officers in the unit. Colonel Odell, who commanded the battery in France during the last campaign, addressed the gathering, reminding the men of former days, even the days before the Great War. M. E. Maybee, M.P., was present and addressed the men. Colonel Floyd, former commanding officer of the 40th regiment of infantry, was one of the guests, and speakers. In introducing him, Major Peterson, present commanding officer of the battery, remarked that this was one occasion when it would be possible to remain seated and hear the colonel's address. The touch of humor brought applause, as the men recalled the fact that the colonel is now a magistrate.

It is understood that while the Friday night smoker was a success, it was only as a prelude to something on a larger scale in the near future. Its chief aim was to get in touch with as many members and ex-members as possible so that a complete mailing list could be compiled and kept for future reference. Names of many well-known men are to be found on the roll of the Cobourg Heavy Battery since its formation in 1866. It is the desire of many that a reunion be held soon, at which every member who has served with the battery since that time will be present.

PARTY LEADERS WILL PROMOTE WORLD PEACE

Net British Parliament Will Be Determined On Reduction of Armaments.

CONSERVATIVE WITHDRAWS.

English Chieftains Agree on the Need For Practical E-- pressions of Peace.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 18.—The next British Parliament will be a parliament determined on peace and reduction of armaments if election speeches and campaign declarations are any criteria. That much is clear whatever party wins victory at the polls. For, however much the three party leaders may dispute and bicker over methods, they agree on the need for practical expressions of peace.

"No nation," exclaims Premier Baldwin, "has so good a record as Great Britain or has given more practical proof of its desire to promote world peace by reducing armaments." And he cites as instances Sir Austen Chamberlain's work on the Locarno Treaties and Lord Cushendun's declarations at Geneva for the reduction of armaments.

"Just like painting rainbows on the sky," taunts Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, as behind the peace pacts and peace movements he sees the gleam of shining bayonets and preparations for war. "You women must stop that," he pleads dramatically with the newly-enfranchised women voters.

Nothing Before Peace

"I place nothing before peace," declared Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay Macdonald, Labor leader, in Scotland, citing peace and unemployment as the two main questions before the electors. He adds that a complete agreement between the United States and Great Britain is now possible and should be reached at once. So on a thousand platforms from Mayfair to the Clyde, party hencemen re-echo the peace refrain.

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has been relieved of encountering an Independent Conservative opponent in his riding of Epping, Essex; Arthur Kitson having withdrawn from the field yesterday. There is some doubt also as to whether the Labor candidate, J. T. Newbold, will go to the polls. If he does not, Mr. Churchill will have a straight fight with the Liberal candidate, Granville Sharp.

GOOD PROGRAM IS PROVIDED

Concert Presented in Aid of St. John's Sunday School.

ONE ACT PLAY.

A very fine concert was presented in St. John's Paris Hall last evening to a large and appreciative audience. The concert, which was in aid of St. John's Sunday school, opened with a selection by the orchestra, "The Wedding of the Painted Doll." E. V. Morphet sang "The Bandolero (Stewart). Miss Helen Ross, a talented young elocutionist gave several numbers on the program. Her first selection was entitled "A Movie Fan," a humorous number was heartily applauded and responding, she gave a bright little encore, "I Wonder What She Meant by That." Her second selection was "The Fairies of Caldon-Low," with musical accompaniment, showed fine dramatic power. Her encore was "An American's Tribute to King George."

Mrs. McKee - Bingham appeared twice and her numbers were the hit of the evening. Her first selection was "Love, Here is My Heart" ("Law Silesu") and as an encore she sang "Ramona." Her second number was "A Lovely Night" (Landon Roland). Miss Constance Lewis played her accompaniments.

Another rising young artist in violin music was heard in a violin solo, "4th Air Barrie (C. Doneler) played by Alec. Robertson, accompanied by Miss Cathlene Robertson. Miss Mildred Morphet rendered a pianoforte solo, "Rondo Capriccioso" by Mendelssohn). During the interval before the second part of the program, the orchestra played "Lover, Come Back to Me."

Present Play

A catchy one-act play, "Rooms to Let," by the members of the A.Y.P.A. was well adapted to display the dramatic capabilities of the cast of actors. The scene takes place in the sitting room of Tom and Dick's suite at Mrs. Smythe's boarding home. It is several days after the closing of the college and just before the opening of the summer school. The following is a cast of the characters.

Mrs. Smythe, Mrs. D. J. Bachelor; Dick Rush, Ormie Heap; Tom Warren, Leslie Dyer; Betty Breeze, Winnifred Melton; Madge Wales, Florence Hutchinson; Matilda Judd, Aloha Horne; Jerry, D. J. Batchelor.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhoea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is to-day. Every druggist has it.

Automobile Careens at High Rate of Speed Into Group of Students.

CHICAGO, Ills., May 18. ((C.P.) — A stolen automobile with a drunken man at the wheel careened at high speed into a group of children playing in front of a school last night. Ten minutes later it crashed into two automobiles three miles away and was wrecked. Its occupants, William Sweeney, 26 and Frank O'Dee, 26, were arrested. Sweeney was driving.

NO FILM RISK HERE.

It is reassuring to learn from Fire Chief Gimblett that Peterborough's hospitals and the Standard Medical Clinic building are safe from the hazard which wrecked the Cleveland Clinic Hospital on Wednesday with such an appalling loss of life.

In these institutions the X-ray films are stored in special fireproof vaults situated so as to render them harmless in so far as the main building is concerned.

Fire Chief Gimblett is satisfied that every precaution in regard to these films is being taken, and that there is not the slightest danger of a repetition of the Cleveland tragedy in the local hospital buildings—a statement that will do much to set at rest any anxiety that may have been created as a result of the publication of the harrowing details of the terrible accident in the Ohio city.

The Cleveland catastrophe shows that nothing can be taken for granted in the consideration of the safety of public buildings, and Chief Gimblett has done well to make sure that no risks exist in the Peterborough hospital buildings.

THE Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN.

The success of the Y.M.C.A. financial campaign is decidedly gratifying, indicating as it unmistakably does the confidence of the citizens of Peterborough in this splendid institution.

The financial help thus secured will be appreciated by the Y.M.C.A. Board, but scarcely more so than the evidence the campaign has supplied of the fact that the value of the Y.M.C.A. as a community asset is generally recognized.

That over a hundred business and professional men should give so freely of the time to furthering the interests of the campaign is another sign of public interest in the Y.M.C.A.

So, too, is the hearty reception accorded the canvassers, as well as the increased donations made by former subscribers and the substantial sum offered by other citizen who gave to the fund for the first time this year.

As a result of the effort, the Y.M.C.A. is in healthy financial condition and ready to continue its splendid service on behalf of the boys and men of the community.

The results achieved should be a source of satisfaction to the citizens generally, as well as to the Y.M.C.A. Board and officials.

BOYCOTT THE CADETS?

The Toronto branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom is urging Toronto trades unionists to refuse to allow their sons to take cadet training in the public schools.

It is to be hoped that members of the trades unions will refuse to accede to such a short-sighted request.

If the Women's League has nothing more militaristic than the cadet movement to contend with, the organization might as well disband.

Cadet training doesn't cause wars or develop soldiers—it merely provides a measure of discipline as an accompaniment to a course of physical training and setting-up drill, and adds to the esprit-de-corps of school life.

It has many beneficial results and no real defects so far as school authorities are able to see, and an attempt to induce parents to refuse to allow their sons to participate in cadet drill is a tacit confession that the objectors have given only superficial attention to the movement.

In addition, boys who are not allowed to take part in the cadet work are not likely to lead their schools in a popularity contest aming their companions.

CARELESS PEDESTRIANS.

A study of traffic conditions at the intersection of Charlotte and George streets will convince any observer that carelessness is not a fault peculiar to motorists.

As a matter of fact, many pedestrians who cross the streets at this point are careless to the point of recklessness in their disregard of lights and of traffic.

For many citizens the lights simply do not exist.

They step blithely out against the light and into the stream of cross traffic, relying upon the skill of the motorists and their own agility to save them from being run down.

Some of them, in fact, wander out into the street as if there was no such thing as an automobile to worry about.

In many places there are regulations that make such carelessness an offence, and jay-walking and absent-minded pedestrians are given a chance to tell the magistrate why they ignored the traffic lights.

It may have to come to that here if citizens do not realize that they are expected to regulate their crossing by the electric signals.

Surely there has been time enough for the education of everybody as to the significance of the light system.

TEN YEARS AGO.

There is a great deal of merit in the suggestion of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire that suitable commemoration should be made on June 15 of the tenth anniversary of the successful flight across the Atlantic by airplane of Captain John Alcock and Lieutenant A. Whitten Brown. This flight was the first of its kind. As long ago as 1913 Lord Northcliffe had offered, through the London Daily Mail, a prize of £10,000 for the first direct flight across the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air machine within 72 hours. Suspended by the outbreak of the Great War, the project was revived at its conclusion, and in April, 1919, entries were received by the Royal Aero Club. A number of aviators proceeded to Newfoundland to await an opportunity of making the attempt. In the meantime three seaplanes of the United States Navy set out to fly across the Atlantic. One of these, the NC-4, piloted by Lieutenant-Commander Read, succeeded in reaching the Azores in a non-stop flight. After a delay of some weeks, he resumed the flight to Lisbon and finally reached Plymouth on May 31.

This seaplane was not, however, competing for the prize. H. C. Hawker and Commander K. Mackenzie Grieve, in a Sopwith machine, were the first entrants for that prize to start. They left St. John's, Newfoundland, in bad weather, and when about half way across the ocean were forced to come down through a defect in a pipe. Fortunately they were picked up by the Danish steamer Mary, lacking wireless, and thus landed in Scotland after a great deal of anxiety had been expressed concerning their safety.

Greater success attended the attempt of Alcock and Brown, who, on a Vickers Vimy airplane, left Newfoundland in the afternoon of June 14, also in bad weather, and arrived at Clifden, Ireland, the following morning after a flight of 15 hours, 57 minutes. Both Alcock and Brown received knighthood a short time afterwards, as well as the Air Force Cross. Sir John Alcock was killed on December 18, 1919, when his airplane crashed at Cote d'Evrard, north of Rouen, while flying from London to Paris; but Sir A. W. Brown is still alive.

Because the flight of Alcock and Brown was a singularly momentous feat, calling for the exercise of the greatest daring, ingenuity and resourcefulness, and because it took place years before Lindbergh made his equally celebrated solo non-stop flight from New York to Paris, it is fitting that the British people should celebrate its tenth anniversary in an appropriate manner. These flyers were the pioneers of the Atlantic passage by a heavier-than-air machine, just as their compatriots aboard the British airship R-34, under Major G. H. Scott, were the first to make the round voyage between Great Britain and the United States in the same year. The R-34, it is worth recalling, left East Fortune, Scotland, at 2.42 a.m. on July 2, 1919, landed at Mineola, Long Island, at 3 p.m. on July 6, left on the homeward voyage at 5.37 a.m. on July 10 and landed at Pulham, Norfolk, at 7.56 a.m. July 13.

The year 1929 thus forms a notable anniversary in British aerial history. In the outpouring of justifiable praise given the more recent exploits of Colonel Lindbergh, the crew of the German airplane "Bremen" and the Graf Zeppelin, we are sometimes apt to forget the fact that British flyers, both by airplane and by airship, were the pioneers of the passage, and we can therefore join in whole-hearted celebration of their exploits.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

U. S. RESPONSIBILITY.

Sir Henry Thornton's address to the Detroit Bankers' Club has attracted no little attention. There are several reasons. One of them is the position of Sir Henry as head of Canada's great nationally-owned railway system. Another is the fact that he has had long experience in the business world of three countries. A third lies in his American birth and close knowledge of American conditions. And, lastly, he spoke frankly, intimately, on the position of the Republic and its responsibilities.

Great wealth and power, Sir Henry told the Detroit bankers, entail also great responsibility. The rich man in a community has a responsibility toward his fellow citizens. It is the same with a nation. The United States is responsible to the world, in just the same way a rich man is responsible to his fellow citizens. The day is approaching, he added, if it is not already here, when large American investments abroad will force on the United States the necessity for taking a deeper interest in the affairs of foreign nations than it has chosen to take in the past.

This is putting the question up to the United States in a fair and frank way. It is somewhat reminiscent of a speech delivered before the Detroit Bankers' Club several years ago by the Rt. Hon. Sir George Foster, Canada's best-known League of Nations advocate. There is no question but that many Canadians feel that the United States has not lived up to its world responsibilities. As Sir Henry Thornton says, great wealth brings great obligations. The United States has great wealth, great power, great standing among the nations, but there is still an unfortunate tendency in the Republic to fight away from world responsibility. This was very evident, of course, in connection with the formation of the League of Nations a few years ago. Though the League was the product of a conference in which the President of the United States was a principal figure, though in fact the President was generally credited with being the chief sponsor of the movement, the United States turned its back on the idea and the ideal, the dominant political party using the situation as a means to recover power. The same attitude was manifested in important quarters with respect to the World Court of Justice, and even in the mild step represented by the Briand-Kellogg multilateral treaty for the renunciation of war some persons were still nervous and questioned the desirability of the United States entering into the always-feared "entangling alliances" against which President Washington, in the remote past, is said to have uttered a warning.

The great trouble with a large school of thought in the United States, of course, is that it fails to appreciate the changes that have taken place since Washington's time. The advice given by the first President was no doubt excellent. It does not follow, however, that it is applicable to the problems and the questions of 1929. The world has changed materially and not by any form of reasoning can it be successfully argued that the United States has been exempt from this change. In Washington's day there were no American commitments abroad. The United States then had no interest in other nations, except that it asked to be let alone. It was concerned entirely with domestic matters. A great country was just started. All the effort and all the money that could be raised were required for home needs. In more recent years, however, we see a new picture. American business interests of various kinds have stepped across the boundary lines. American citizens and American dollars are to be found in the far corners of the world. American investments abroad run into figures that no one could have visioned in Washington's time, or even half a century or so ago. The struggling Republic of '76 and later has become the world power of to-day. The American flag floats on the seven seas; American investment is found in practically every country. This means, of course, that the old policy of "splendid isolation" no longer applies.—Border Cities Star.

SERVICE.

Life is not for mere passing pleasure; it is an opportunity for service. He who serves not his day and generation is a parasite. One who is not efficient fails in his service to his fellows, thus being a 'passenger' through life instead of one of the brave band who help to speed up the progress of the world.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

NOT MUCH TO LIFE

Not much to life but hills and vales,
Not much but woods and plain,
But in the woods the night-in-gales,
And in the fields the grain,
And always after mountain trails
The valley's peace again.

Not much to life but gain and loss,
Not much but smiles and tears,
And yet a crown for every cross,
Sad days, but happy years—
To him who sees both rock and moss
How lovely life appears!

Not much to life but work and play,
Not much to toil and rest,
But one makes happier the day,
And one the home a nest—
Not much to life, we often say,
Yet every hour is best.

Life Steps In

By RUBY M. AYRES

CHAPTER XLIII.

Ana felt as if someone had struck her over the heart.

On his way home!

If heaven and earth had crashed together in chaos the shock could not have been greater.

Coming home. On his way now.

She knew that Mollie was watching her with suspicion.

"You don't seem surprised," she said sharply. "Did you know? Has he written to you?"

Ana smiled faintly.

"No, he hasn't written to me," she said. She spoke very gently; in the last few minutes her feeling toward Mollie seemed to have changed utterly.

She was only sorry for her now—sorry because she was too blind to see or to realize all she was missing—how wilfully she was throwing away the substance for the shadow.

'No, he hasn't written to me," she said again. "But, Mollie, I am sure you need not be afraid of him. He's the kindest—most understanding——"

Mollie laughed.

"Is that how you see him? I suppose you would. But he terrifies me. Last time—when I told him all about—things! he was so quiet about it all, so—unmoved, that it was more frightening than if he had raved at me or struck me."

She pushed her hair back from her pretty face with a distraught gesture. "I wish I'd done what he wanted me to do then," she went on feverishly. "I wish I had——" She turned on Ana angrily. "Why don't you say something? You don't seem interested. Don't you care what it was that he wanted me to do?"

"It's not my affair," Ana said stiffly.

"Isn't it?" Mollie got up and twitched the tablecloth into place. "It is, and you know it is. He wanted me to give him his freedom—almost begged me to—if a man like Anthony can ever beg anything of anybody. He said that if I was tired of him and there was another man I preferred to him, he would let me go." She laughed harshly. "It wasn't consideration for me that made him say it—it was consideration for himself—because he wanted his freedom."

"Don't talk like that, Mollie."

"It was, you know it was. Oh, I know you always take up the saintly role and won't admit anything, but what's the use? What reward have you got for letting Anthony go away without you, I should like to know? What reward does any saint ever get in this world?"

"I'm not a saint—I don't pretend to be."

Mollie went on heedlessly:

"It's you Anthony loves, why don't you admit it? It was you he was thinking about all the time he was trying to be kind to me. I may be a fool, I know you think I am—but I could see it in his eyes all the time he was listening to me, and trying to be just. If I hadn't been a dog in the manger I should have let him go. But Ralph wasn't free, and he couldn't have married me. I should have been left—and after all Anthony's better than nobody."

"Mollie—Mollie——"

"Oh, don't 'Mollie' me!" Anthony's wife broke out fiercely. "I'm sick of you all, I'm sick of life. There's nothing in it. I didn't want Anthony to forgive me even when I pretended I did, and begged him to. I wanted to be free—it's what I want now." She broke off with a strangled sob, wringing her hands. "Anthony's on his way, I tell you—he'll be here in a day or two, and he'll kill me when he knows that I—that I——" She stopped again, controlling herself with a supreme effort.

Ana stood leaning against the closed door with an intolerable sense of weakness. Her heart was racing so that she felt it must burst, and even though she looked at Mollie and listened to her wild words, there was only one coherent thought in her brain.

"Anthony is on his way home—on his way home."

"It's no use talking," Mollie said presently, more quietly. "We might talk from now till doomsday and it wouldn't alter anything. I'm tired. I'm going to bed."

"Mollie—wait a moment."

"What for?—there's noth'ng to be said."

"There's everything to be said. How can you be so mad and spoil your life as you are doing? Even if you don't care for—for anyone else, there's the General."

Mollie's face twisted a little as if in pain.

"The General! He cares more about you than he does about me."

"It's only because I'm with him more. If you were with him, and talked to him more, and played with him——"

"And acted the loving mother. Oh, I know! Anthony's told me about it dozens of times. Well, I can't. I'm not built that way. I never ought to have had any children. I didn't want any if it comes to that. My people always said I was a fool to throw myself away on Anthony, but I wouldn't listen. They were right. He was never the sort of man I should have married. I ought to have had heaps of money."

Ana turned away with a little sick feeling.

Was money really all that Mollie cared for? Didn't she realize how very little money can buy?

"Well, what are you going to do?" Ana asked helplessly. 'I shall leave here in the morning. I can't stay."

"Not even now Anthony is coming home?" Mollie mocked her.

Ana made no answer, and Mollie pushed past her almost rudely and opened the door.

"My head is splitting. I'll talk to you again in the morning."

She walked out of the room and Ana stood listening to the sound of her high-heeled shoes on the narrow stairs, and then in the little room overhead. Presently she moved, mechanically tidied the room, and put out the lamp, groping her way upstairs in a darkness which was broken by a pale splash of moonlight through an uncurtained window.

Anthony is on his way home.

Ana heard those words in the sound of the sea outside, and in the soft voice of the wind as she paused to take off her shoes on the tiny landing so as not to wake the little General, for since Mollie had been away in London he had slept in Ana's room.

She undressed in the dark noiselessly and crept into bed, but she could not sleep. She felt that she would never be able to close her eyes again, and presently she sat up, her hands clasped round her knees, her eyes turned to the silent moonlit world outside the little window. Anthony was on his way home. The sea, which had divided her from him for more than a year, was at last bringing him to her. She was almost faint with happiness. Nothing seemed to matter any more except the wonderful knowledge that soon she would see him and hear his voice.

The General stirred a little and murmured something in his sleep, and Ana crept out of bed to draw the coverlet over him, which he had thrown aside.

She was glad he was safe and well at any rate. It would be someone for Anthony to come home to, even if Mollie no longer wanted him. Then she felt herself blushing guiltily in the darkness, knowing full well that there was something else besides his little son whom Anthony would be longing to see.

"I'm just humbugging myself," Ana thought severely, and tried to keep her riotous thoughts in check.

But he might not love her any more—when they met it might be just with awkward embarrassment, realizing they had never really loved one another.

"Now I'm humbugging myself again," Ana thought. "As if anything could ever make any difference."

Across the narrow landing she heard Mollie moving restlessly about, and once she thought she heard her crying, but when moved by pity she went across and tapped softly on the door, Mollie would not answer, and when she tried to open it, she found it locked.

"Let me in, Mollie," Ana whispered. "Let me bring the General to sleep with you—please let me ——"

But there was no answer, and Ana crept shivering back to bed. She had never felt more wide awake in her life and yet very soon she fell asleep, only to waken suddenly to find herself crying piteously and moaning over and over again in her still dreaming mind—"No happy ending for me—no happy ending ——" She sat up in bed and wiped away her tears.

"Silly idiot!" she admonished herself angrily. "Crying when you ought to be so happy. Have you forgotten that Anthony is on his way home?"

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE BUY BEST SELLERS

We buy best sellers because we are sheep and want to be with the crowd. If there is any satisfaction in wearing stylish clothes, there is certainly more satisfaction in stylish reading because intellectual appeal is stronger than the primitive urge of food, shelter and clothing. There are styles in almost every human activity from religion to the cut of one's beard.

Fashions in reading like fashions in dress are set by a special group who have the prestige and the power to set the pace.

The power of advertising must not be overlooked. Given enough publicity any book could be made popular and a best seller. Many a book has been rescued from obscurity through publicity, just as a commonplace person might be made a celebrity through publicity.

A woman not known to more than a hundred people kills her husband. She is arrested. The trial attracts nation-wide attention and is written up for weeks until her name is on every tongue, and the moment a sentimental jury releases her, she signs a contract to appear in vaudeville or in the moving pictures at a salary above what is given to the president of the United States.

Nothing succeeds like success. Every producer knows that if he can only bring his volume of sales up to a certain point, it will roll along by its own momentum. Many automobile and cigaret adds merely quote figures of their success. "Millions of people can't go wrong," is the subtle argument, and we buy on their recommendation.

Merit in books and literature counts for something but about as much as it counts in styles in clothing. The fact that many of the best sellers die very quickly and are never heard of again is good proof of their lack of intrinsic worth.

A great many buy best sellers simply because they feel that they must be abreast of the times. Moreover, one hates to be embarrassed by having to say "No, I haven't read so and so," when a friend gloats over you by mentioning a number of the latest books he has devoured.

You have to buy best sellers to keep up with the Joneses, just as you have to buy a new hat and a new automobile every season.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FAST RUN

(Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Never before did the sun seem to shine so bright. Never before was the grass so green or the breeze so soft and so filled with perfume. Uncle Wiggily was sure of this as he hopped over the fields and through the woods.

"I guess it's because I am free, and no longer shut up in a cage in a pet shop with my cousin Lettuce, or shut in a basket by a boy even if he is kind, and good," thought Mr. Longears as he breethed deep of sunshiny air and twinkled his pink nose in the breeze. "There is nothing like being free!"

Uncle Wiggily, as I have told you in the other stories this week, had just had some wonderful adventures. He went to the city to visit his cousin and was caught by a pet shop man and put in a cage. That was the one thing which happened to the old rabbit gentleman.

Then a boy named Jimmie bought Uncle Wiggily, thinking he was a circus rabbit, with his tail silk hat, hiis red trousers and black coat. But the boy's sister knew Uncle Wiggily as soon as she saw him, and told her brother.

Then the boy thought he would make a cage and let other boys look at Uncle Wiggily for a penny a peep. But a Kind House Cat clawed the cover off the basket where Uncle Wiggily was shut up, while the boy and his sister were making a cage, and now Uncle Wiggily was free.

"Oh, how good it is to be able to do as I please!" chuckled Mr. Longears as he hopped along. "I am sorry to run away from Jimmie Boy and his sister, but it can't be helped. He can play marbles and fly his kite and he'll soon forget about me."

Uncle Wiggily hid for a moment behind a a clump of grass after the kind

Cat had let him out of the basket. And the rabbit could hear Jimmie Boy shout:

"Oh, Sis! That rabbit got out! He's gone!"

"I'm glad of it!" said the little girl. Uncle Wiggily shouldn't be shut up in a cage."

"Did you let him out of the basket?" asked the boy sharply.

"No, I didn't!" answered Sis. "I was with you all the while."

And the House Cat, washing her face in the sun, smiled to herself and never purred a word. She had let the rabbit out. But why should she tell secrets on herself I ask you? No reason at all!

So Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods, past the City Park where once the Park Dog had stopped him from sitting on the grass and from picking dandelions, and soon the old rabbit uncle was out in the country that he well knew.

"I'll soon be home to my wife, Nurse Jane, Baby Bunty and all my forty sixteen bunny girls and boys!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "I have been away a long time, it seems."

He was hopping along, now and then stopping to nibble a bit of sweet clover when, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily heard a noise back of him. At first he thought it might be Jimmie Boy and Sis chasing after him, but one look showed that it was the Bob Cat.

"Oh, ho!" laughed Mr. Longears, putting his tall silk hat tighter on his ead, "no sooner do I finish with one adventure than I have another. Here comes one of the Bad Chaps after me. I guess they they have missed me this week!"

Indeed the Bob Cat was loping along, slickity skippity, eager to catch the rabbit. And then Uncle Wiggily began to run on his own account.

"I hope I don't get the epizootic or a rheumatism pain," thought Mr. Longears. "I've got to do some fast running to get away from this Bob Cat. Well, I've had a good rest so I think I can hop along."

Just as if he were an automobile with somebody stepping on the gas, Uncle Wiggily ran faster and fadter and faster until it seemed that he was going like the wind.

"But you can't get away from me!" howled the Bob Cat. Then he, too, began to go faster. But Uncle Wiggily still had some speed left and now he began running twice as fast as het wind so that soon he left the Bob Cat far behind in the field.

Uncle Wiggily came within sight of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Home again!" he cried in delight. "Safe home again!"

"Welcome! Welcome! Welcome"cried Nurse Jane, Mrs. Longears, Baby Bunty and all the other little rabbits. "Welcome home!"

"I never knew he could run so fast!" mewed the Bob Cat, all out of breath far back in the woods.

"When anybody is going home they always travel fast!" snickered the Fuzzy Fox who had watched the race from a distant hill.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— by John Hix

WHILE looking around the workshop of my carpenter friend, John Plane, I discovered a book which every Scotsman ought to read, especially every Scotsman who is an exile from his native land. The title of the book is simplicity itself, "Scotland," by A. R. Hope Moncrieff; and it is beautifully illustrated in color by Sutton Palmer and G. F. Nicholls. Before the reader enters the book proper to enjoy one of the most enchanting trips imaginable, the following Note is delivered into his hands. In my case it proved to be one of the most tantalizing literary appetizers which I have tasted in a long time. Having read it I proved that the Scotman's supposed love of money is no myth. Of course, it is entertaining to say that one of the best definitions of "rigid economy" is "a dead Scotsman," and so, being glad to entertain the world at his own expense, it was a Scotsman that first thought of such a definition. Nevertheless a Scotsman loves money chiefly, not for its own sake, but for what it can do to enlighten the mind and enrich the life. And he is always ready to spend his money upon the things most worth while. Therefore, I went to my bookseller and purchased it for myself, and I would not part with it now for a hundred times its price if I could not get another. I hope that many of my Scottish friends will go to one of our local booksellers and show their sound sense and good taste by purchasing a copy of this beautiful book:

An Appetizer.

"The author does not attempt elaborate word-pictures, that would seem pale beside the artist's colouring. His design has been, as accompaniment of these beautiful landscapes, an outline of Scotland's salient features, with glimpses at its history, national character, and customs, and at the literature that illustrates this country for the English-speaking world. While taking the reader on a fireside tour through the varying 'airts' of his native land, he has tried to show how its life, silken or homespun, is a tartan of more intricate pattern that appears in certain crude impressions struck off by strangers. And into his own web have been woven reminiscences, anecdotes, and borrowed brocade, such as may make entertaining stripes and checks upon a groundwork of information. The mainland only is dealt with in this volume, which is followed up with another on the Highlands and Islands."

Mary's Little Lamb.

Walter East, a friend of mine, who laid down his splendid young life in the Great War, was, when I first knew him, boys' work secretary in the Y.M.C.A., Brisbane, Australia. Part of his work was to provide some quotation for the headline of the menu cards used in the dining-room. On the day of which I am thinking he found himself hard pressed for time and unable to get a suitable quotation. The far-away look on his face gave place to a sunny smile as he penned the following headline for the day: "Mary had a little lamb—what will you have?" That proved to be one of the most popular things he had ever done. In the great dining-room where men only were gathered around the tables, one man would say to another, "Mary had a little lamb—what will you have?"

Ye men, and women, too, who have come from Green Caledonia and often feel a wee bit homesick for Auld Scotia's hills and glens, look at the titles of the twelve chapters which make up this book and see if the menu provided is not such as would almost tempt you to sell your birthright to get it. Chapter 1, "The Borders"; 2, "Auld Reekie"; 3, "The Trossachs Round"; 4, "The Kingdom of Fife"; 5, "The Fair City"; 6, "The Highland Line"; 7, "Aberdeen Awa'!"; 8, "To John o' Groat's House"; 9, "The Great Glen"; 10, "Glasgow and the Clyde"; 11, "The Whig Country"; 12, "Galloway."

Glorious Pictures.

As I gazed upon the picture, "Beneath the Crags of Ben Venue, Perthshire," I began to understand more fully what Byron must have felt when he wrote:

"O for the crags that are wild and majestic,
The steep, frowning glories of dark Lochnagar."

There are more than thirty of these beautiful colored glimpses of Scotland as seen through the eyes of two great artists, and these alone are worth far more than the price asked for the book. As I think of them I am strongly tempted to let sentiment have sway, but refrain for two very good reasons. In the first place, those of my readers who claim Scotland as their native land would be made so homesick that for the time being they might forget the knack of making and saving money—a calamity of the worst kind! And in the second place, my more prosaic readers might think that I was suffering from an attack of "softening-of-the-brain."

Travelling North.

"The dawn broadens, the mists roll away to show a northward-bound traveller how his train is speeding between slopes of moorland, green and grey, here patched by bracken or bog, there dotted by wind-blown trees, everywhere cut by watercourses gathering into gentle rivers that can be furious enough in spate, when they hurl a drowned sheep or a broken hurdle through those valleys opening a glimpse of mansions and villages among sheltered woods. Are we still in England, or in what at least as far back as Cromwell's time called itself 'Bonnie Scotland'? It is as hard to be sure as to make out whether that cloudy knoll on the horizon is crowned by a peat-stack or by the stump of a Border peel."

Thus you are led out of England into Scotland at its southern end to journey through the length of it to its uplands in the north. On your way you will pass through "The Borders," not as wild in natural beauty as the country farther north, but just as rich in history, tradition and romance as any other part of Scotland. It is a district where "every field has its battle and every rivulet its song." Commencing with the day of Thomas the Rhymer, comes down a long succession of ballad-makers who "saved others' names but left their own unsung."

Names to Conjure With.

At Ednam, where I have spent many a happy hour, was born James Thomson, who wrote "The Seasons," a work that deserves to be better known than it is to-day. He also wrote that stirring national anthem, "Rule, Britannia." To him, standing at the top of a field, has been erected a monument which is as fitting a tribute to Scottish "thrift" as it is an eloquent testimony to his sterling worth. Here, too, at Ednam was born Henry Lyte, known to millions by his hymn, "Abide With Me." I have had sentiment enough in my make-up to constrain me to press my brow against the ivy that covers the manse in which he was born and make his famous hymn my very sincere prayer. Near here is Kelso, on the banks of the silver Tweed, a view of which from a certain vantage-point, Sir Walter Scott said was one of the finest in Scotland. Some of Dr. Bonar's best known hymns were written while he was a minister here. At Denholm were the "Scenes of Infancy" of John Leyden, poet and scholar, cut off untimely. Near his humble home, now turned into a public library, is the stately mansion house of Minto, one of whose daughters wrote the "Flowers of the Forest." At Blakelaw, near Yetholm, the Border seat of gypsy kings, Thomas Pringle, the South African poet, was born. From Ancrum, Home, the author of "Douglas" is said to have come. Without the shadow of a doubt, Dr. William Buchan of "Domestic Medicine" renown came from this charming little hamlet.

Jeddart's Here.

Jedburgh, guard of the "Middle March," is the county town of Roxburghshire, and stands upon a tributary of the Teviot, among "Eden scenes of crystal Jed," flowing down from the Cheviots. It was here that two great scientific celebrities, Sir David Brewster and Mrs. Somerville, were born. In Jedburgh, Scott began his career at the Bar. Here he met Wordsworth in the house recently marked by a memorial tablet; and other dwellings may be seen as having housed Mary, Queen of Scots, and Prince Charlie. Burns has left a glowing record of his visit to this lovely town with its rich historical background, the ruins of its Abbey and the remains of its old castle.

But I must stop without having gone any further than the first chapter or done anything more than merely touch the fringe of a land that is loved by all whose speech is English and worshipped by those who by birth have the right to call it "My Land."

It is a book which every Scotsman ought to possess, and I shall be greatly surprised if many of them don't feel like thanking John Plane and myself for having brought it to their attention. A rare treat awaits those who have yet to make its acquaintance, and wander by the help of memory or imagination through a finely mixed assortment of Scottish scenery, lochs, woods and mountains

"... that like giants stand
To sentinel enchanted land."

—Allan Fairbairn.

Some Acknowledgments

I am indebted to Miss Frances E. Dench for a very interesting communication in connection with the "Musings at a Manse Window," which appeared on April 27. That article had to do with a book from the pen of Francis Quarles who died September 8, 1644. Miss Dench writes that her nephew, Francis Quarles Dench, student at O. A. C., son of Bernard Quarles Dench, "North Douro Lodge," Lakefield, is named after Sir Francis Quarles, "Quarles" being her grandmother's surname. Since this article appeared I have discovered that Mrs. K. Morris, of this city, is also a descendant, along with Miss Dench, of the celebrated writer of the book then dealt with. And I am grateful for the prospect of seeing an original manuscript which is in the family.

I am in receipt also of an interesting letter from G. S., Peterborough. For the benefit of others who may want to write, I can always be reached c/o The Examiner. —A. F.

Life as a Stewardship

TO those who know the Word of God, as set forth in the Scriptures, it is recognized as a fact that the will of God has made each life a stewardship. They know that God is the creator and owner of all things, and that He has committed the administration to human hands and given adequate instruction as to how the trust should be administered. But many of us don't seem to realize that we shall be held to strict accountability for the way in which we carry out these instructions.

It might help considerably if we remembered the relationship existing between God and ourselves. We are His children and He is our Father. Therefore, our stewardship should be impelled by love and not compelled by law.

In addition to this, every member of a church, by virtue of that membership, whether intelligently conscious of it or not, professes love for God and claims to have found salvation through Jesus Christ. Where such is the case that love will express itself in some very tangible way; and it is surely reasonable to suppose that gratitude for salvation will manifest itself in a generous disposition. Were such the case in all our churches there would never be any need to make an appeal for funds to help the church millitant in its fight against the world, the flesh, and the devil!

There is something seriously wrong when only about five per cent. of the members of the Christian church are tithers, and only about fifty per cent. contribute regularly for the support of the local church, and far less proportion give to the support of missions. The church is being hampered at home and abroad for lack of funds. And funds are lacking, not because of the poverty of the people but because the average individual fails to recognize that all life is a stewardship. God, being the owner, should get the first fruits of all increase, while the remainder is devoted to the highest ends and no portion of the estate is left unused. —A. F.

The Cry of the Age

THE age is crying for men; civilization wants men who can save it from dissolution; and those who can benefit it most are those who are freest from prejudice, hate, revenge, whim and fear.

Consumer or Producer

AS soon as a stranger is introduced into any company, one of the first questions which all wish to have answered is, How does that man get his living? And with reason; every man is a consumer, and ought to be a producer. He fails to make his place good in the world unless he not only pays his debts, but also adds something to the common wealth. —Emerson.

The Primrose Path

THERE is no moment that comes to mortals so charged with peace and precious joy as the moment of reconciliation. The ineffable joy of forgiving and being forgiven forms an ecstacy that might well arouse the envy of the gods.

A consecrated Christian life sheds a tender warmth where it moves.

The Church's Great Need

WHAT the church of our day needs is a new race of prophets! With these she should organize for evangelism and make a place for the evangelist. Her spiritual life is at too low an ebb, and she has lost the passion of the Pentecostal Church. With all the sympathy in the world you will look in vain for a manifestation of the Pentecostal power or some tangible evidence of the Pentecostal joy. Without these it is not to be wondered at that she fails to realize the Pentecostal results and that the world does not take her seriously. —A. F.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

THE still form of a little boy lay in the coffin, surrounded by mourning friends. A mason came into the room, and asked to look at the lovely face. "You wonder that I care so much," he said, as the tears stood in his eyes, "but your boy was a messenger of God to me. One time I was coming down by a long ladder from a very high roof, and found your little boy standing close beside me when I reached the ground. He looked up in my face with childish wonder, and asked, frankly, 'Weren't you afraid of falling when you were up so high?' and before I had time to answer, he said, 'Oh, I know why you were not afraid—you had said your prayers this morning before you began your work.' I had not prayed, but I never forgot to pray from that time to this, and by God's blessing I never will."

Nagging

NAGGING has sent many a man to destruction and driven some women to despair.

You can nag in any language that human lips have spoken. You can nag when your lips are tight shut by lifting the eyebrows tossing the head or sneering a sneer.

It is not confined to sex. It is due to disposition.

The one who nags injures himself and is cruel in the extreme to the one attacked. A good old-fashioned quarrel is preferable. And this is inexcusable.

If the continual dropping of water wears away a stone it is no less true that constant nagging will ruin the best disposition ever known.

If you have a complaint make it, but don't nag. If you have been injured say so and don't nag. If you have a request to make state it, but stop nagging.

Most people nag when they are tired; some when they are ill or neglected, others when they themselves are no right, and some because of old-fashioned meanness.

Nagging is a sin against yourself, your household, your husband, your wife, your friends. Why not list it with other sins? That is where it belongs. No Christian can be guilty of it and be a true follower of Jesus.

A Glad Surprise

Newbec Advances One Point in Turnover of 135,000 Shares.

TORONTO, Ont., May 18.—(Canadian Press)—Trading was brisk on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day but there were few major price changes. Peterborough Boy In List Of Winners

MONTREAL, May 18 (Special to The Examiner). — Walter Rose, of Peterborough, is included in the list of winners in the boys' literary competition promoted by the Northern Messenger, Sunday School paper, of Montreal. His essay was on "My Favorite Character in Fiction," and he chose for his subject Jean Valjean, from Victor Hugo's novel, "Les Miserables," giving an admirable summary of the troubled life and self-sacrificing devotion of one of the most generally loved heroes created by the brain of the great French novelist.

MARKET REFLECTS UNEASINESS OVER THE CREDIT SITUATION

Few of the High Priced Specialties Whirled Upward To New Records.

TIME MONEY HIGHER.

Auburn Auto and Case Threshing Machine Among Issues To Sag.

NEW YORK, May 18 (By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor). — Stock prices drifted downward to-day in reflection of growing uneasiness over the credit situation. A handful of high-priced specialties were whirled upward, a couple to new high records, but the general list was under rather heavy pressure, with selling for both long and short accounts.

With the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank raising its rediscount rate to 5 per cent. this week, placing all 12 central banks at the same level, and directors of the New York and Chicago banks reported in favor of a high rate, speculators for the advance found little encouragement for a resumption of buying operations. The money rates were reported to have stiffened, with 9½ per cent. now asked for some maturities.

Another sharp break in the advance Rumley issues, the common breaking 9 points and the preferred 7, also tended to unsettle the market. Efforts were made to start a revival of buying operations in the oil shares, based on the prospect of an early increase in mid-continent crude oil prices, but they made little headway.

Burroughs Adding Machine continued to respond to reports of a stock split-up by soaring 9¼ points to a new high record at 327¼. Sparks Withington, after an early interval of heaviness, ran up 8 points to a new high at 260. Curtiss Aeroplane and Allied Chemical extended their early gains to 7 points and then ran into a wave of selling which cut the gains in half. One block of 10,000 shares of Postum changed hands at 78, up 1½.

Auburn Auto and Case Threshing Machine each sagged 6 points below yesterday's final quotations, and Green Cananea Copper, Otis Elevator, American Tobacco B, Spiegel, May Stern, Anaconda Copper, and Borg Warner sank 3 to 5 points. Several of the recent leaders such as American Smelting, American Can., United Aircraft, Simons and General Railway Signal dipped 2 points or more.

The closing was heavy. Total sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

The shaft at the Quemont property, north of the Noranda is now said to be completed and station cutting on the 920-foot level is now being completed. Croscuts will be run from this level both east and west. Diamond drilling will also be carried out from these deep horizons in the hope of encountering extensions of Noranda's high grade deposits which are thought to be dipping to the north. The shaft is said to be only 20 feet from the Horne line.

Advice from Boston Creek is to the effect that the Amity now has some thirty feet of ore on the 600-foot level. This is said to be over the full width of the drift which would be four to five feet with the grade running approximately 7 per cent. copper.

The shaft at the Powell Rouyn north and west of the Noranda, is now said to be down to 65 feet and will be continued to the 150-foot horizon while the copper showing on surface is said to have come inconsistently stronger with depth. At present the grade is said to be around 2 1-2 per cent but it is expected that this will increase with depth.

Officials of the Alexandria Gold Mines inform the Financial News Bureau that in resident engineer Davey's monthly report, just received, it is shown that all their new heavy machinery has now been installed. This will allow of greater and faster progress in development. A crew of men are now working in deepening the shaft from the No. 1 tunnel. Continuous work has been carried out from this tunnel during the month and in one place an 8-foot width of ore was encountered. This alone is said to have already added thirty five hundred to the mine's ore reserves.

Work has already commenced on the new government road into the Manitoba tin district, east of Lac du Bonnet. One crew of men are now at work and a second crew is expected to commence within a week. There is about 15 miles of road to be built and efforts will be made to have this completed for heavy haulage early in the season, as practically all of the companies operating in the district have supplies only sufficient to last until the middle of June. Once the road is built however supplies may be transported by truck or train to Lac du Bonnet and by water to the commencement of the road, thence by truck again to their various destinations. On the Jack Nutt property work is progressing in the installation of a test mill and the actual mining operations are also being carried out.

If there is anything in the talk of a consolidation of McIntyre-Porcupine Mines, Hollinger Consolidated and Coniaurum Mines, not one inkling by way of an official remark evidently has been forthcoming. That Coniaurum should be taken over by McIntyre appears logical enough. Whereas, Coniaurum has failed to get favorable results down to 2,000 feet depth, a different story might be written about the next two thousand feet, which would be opened up easily from McIntyre's easterly workings at several deep levels, McIntyre by now should know something regarding the trend of geological structure eastward in its lower workings. Probably, the large property of Coniaurum could be acquired, provided Coniagas and other interests in the mine were recouped in measure for their actual outlay.

With regard to Hollinger, the favorable aspect of such a merger is the fact that Hollinger has a huge mill, in face of declining physical resources at present at the parent Porcupine property. Hollinger has already formed an investment trust to take care of its substantial liquid resources. It is just conceivable that Hollinger might dispose of the Porcupine property and equipment to McIntyre for a share interest in a new consolidated company and add the shares it would get for this interest to the holdings of its investment trust and become purely a holding company. It could then form a separate company to develop its Kamiskotia properties, which have big potentialities.

Logically, McIntyre would be the key company to such a merger, as its physical resources are growing steadily and its is just coming into bigger operations on its own account. As a result of consolidation, McIntyre-Hollinger-Coniaurum Mines would have 9,000 tons milling capacity, $70,000,000 in ore reserves, two shafts down to 4,000 feet depth and workings that could be readily correlated at great depth.

Gain Shown by 226 Industrials

NEW YORK—Earnings of the 226 industrial corporations which have issued reports of their profits for the first quarter of 1929 show an increase of 32.1 per cent compared with the same period of 1928, according to a survey made the Standard Statistics Company of New York. The increase would have been much larger had it not been for the decline of 12.2 per cent in the net income of the General Motors Corporation in the quarter, which brought the automobile and trucks group to the bottom of the list, with a net increase in profits of 3.6 per cent.

Among the industrial groups, the oils, coppers and aircraft companies showed the largest gains. Oil producing and refining companies head the list, with an increase of 131.6 per cent in profits; copper and brass companies' profits increased 130.3 per cent, and aircraft companies' profits were 105.4 per cent larger. The oil and copper groups were leaders in the first quarter of 1928 also, when the oil company profits increased 101.1 per cent compared with 1927, and the copper companies showed an increase of 98.8 per cent.

Manufacturing operations in the United States during April, corrected for seasonal variation and based on the consumption of electrial energy, were the highest on record, surpassing the previous high monthly rate of September, 1928, by 1.1 per cent. The April rate was 3.3 per cent higher than in February of the current year, the previous high for 1929.

The April rate, not corrected for seasonal variation, was 0.5 per cent higher than that of March and 14.3 per cent greater than in April last year. The increase reflects sustained activity in the automotive industry, the metals group, rubber manufacturing plants and further improvement in the textile industry.

OIL GOSSIP

Through Solloway, Mills and Company.

An important announcement has just been made by the Freehold Oil Corporation to the effect that the company has secured 10 acres of lands in the south centre of the Turner Valley. The company will within the next ten days sound in their No. 2 well on the 10 acres recently acquired in section 20, township 19, range 2. This 10 acres is located in the centre of the Home Oil Company's holdings, approximately 1,200 feet southwest of the Home No. 3. It is the intention of the Freehold company to rush this well to completion.

Information has been received from Medicine Hat that the drilling of the No. 1 well on the property of the Cypress Oil Company in Alberta is progressing favorably and the management expects the well to come in within 30 days. At 3340 feet a gas flow of over 20,000,000 cubic feet per day was encountered. Later on this gas may be piped to Moose Jaw, Regina and other western towns. In the meantime it is estimated that another 450 feet of drilling is necessary to reach the Madison limestone, which is the formation in which it is expected to find oil. In the Kevin-Sunhurst field to the south there are a number of wells producing oil from this formation. The geological conditions in this and the Cypress Hills field are said to be almost identical, as indicated by the log of the present well. The Devenish well is producing about 300 barrels a day and is located on what is supposed to be the flanks of the Cypress Hills.

The Alberta Pacific Consolidated will drill its Coutts Alberta acreage as well as ten wells in the Turner Valley. The Coutts property, which is to the south near the Montana boundary, was studied by means of ten test holes and results were sufficiently encouraging to warrant the sinking of a well. It is expected to reach the lime at 2,750 feet and it will take 90 days to complete the well to this horizon.

Maryland, East Crest and Associated Oil and Gas have evidently been staging a race to the limestone. Apparently Mayland won, as yesterday's news indicated that the drilling bits were about to pierce the limestone and that the heavy crude oil production which was encountered came from the top of the lime. Other wells in the Turner Valley have encountered fair amounts of crude at this horizon but records do not show any other well having such a quantity that it was carried over the derrick.

Hargal No. 1 well which Imperial Oil has agreed to drill will be located about 500 feet east of the Home No. 1. The location of the second well will be chosen immediately. This company holds 40 acres in the Turner Valley and 3,000 acres in the Wainright field, including two producing wells. Imperial Oil was loathe to proceed with the drilling of Home Oil's ground as they would be merely proving up Hargal territory. However, now that arrangements have been made with Hargal the drilling should proceed smoothly. Hargal holdings are surrounded by Home Oil ground while the freehold company recently secured ten acres adjoining to the south.

New Business of Canadian Car Keeping Pace With Shipments

The manner in which new business is keeping pace with shipments is perhaps one of the outstanding features of the activities at the various plants of Canadian Car and Foundry Company.

Since the begining of the year several large orders have been completed and shipped out, but new business that has come in has not only enabled the company to maintain the high figure of business on hand, but even to steadily increase it above the mark of $20,000,000 that was reported at the time of the annual meeting.

Information that is being gathered by the company's representatives would seem to indicate that both the big Canadian railways will be in the market again a little later on for some large orders, and that delivery is so urgent that the equipment companies will be required to set a specified time in which they will complete the contracts.

Oil Companies Get Charters

EDMONTON—Still more oil companies are blossoming from the recent oil boom, it is evident from the current issue of the Canada Gazette, showing that four new companies have been granted Dominion charters, while supplementary letters patent allowing another oil company to increase its capital was also approved.

Details of the new companies are; Allianance Oils, Ltd., head office at Vancouver, capital stock of 1,000,000 shares of no par value, which may be sold for not more than $1 each.

Bullshead Oils, Ltd., head office at Vancouver, capital stock 400,000 shares of no par value which may be sold for not more than $1 per share.

Turner Valley Exploration Company, Limited, head office at Calgary, capital stock of no par value, which may be sold for not more than $1,000,000 in aggregate.

The authorized capital stock of the Warner Oils, Limited, was increased from 300,000 to 1,000,000 shares, the new shares to be of no par value and may be sold for not more than $1 each.

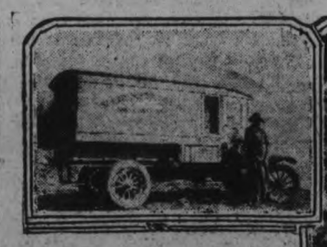
CARAVANS TOUR COUNTRY



Every year the Sunday School Mission of the Church of England sends caravans into the isolated districts of the western provinces, visiting the homes and giving the children Bible lessons. From June to the end of September two girls make one of these caravans their temporary home—eating and sleeping there and driving across country. Miss Dorothy Scott of Toronto appears above in a Norwegian costume, donned at a Norwegian settler's home in Saskatchewan last summer during her caravan journey. With her above may be seen a typical Sunday school mission caravan ready for action. The girls start away again in a few weeks.

CHRYSLER "75" ROYAL SEDAN, $1985
f. o. b. Windsor, Ont. (Wire wheels extra)

Drive it—and you'll know Chrysler performance IS different

Chrysler enjoys its universal prestige and popularity because Chrysler is unique among motor cars.

There is no other motor car performance quite like Chrysler performance—so silky in power, so flashing in pick-up, so steady in speed, so untiring to drive, so disciplined in control.

This is understandable when you check the list of Chrysler engineering developments included in both the "65" and the "75"—chassis and body features and combinations of features, to be enjoyed only in Chrysler cars.

Chrysler offers, in the final analysis, something more than just a motor car—a delightful new phase, a thrilling new experience, in motoring performance.

You can pay more and still not equal the performance or the intrinsic value that Chrysler "65" and "75" both give you at their remarkably moderate prices.

Ask any Chrysler dealer for a demonstration and learn the difference.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, May 18. — Cattle supply at the Union Stock Yards this week proved some 400 head heavier than in the week previous, and a heavy run of over 4,000 on Monday was responsible in part for an easier feeling and bids on steers and heifers 25 cents per cwt. lower than the peak of last week, with the greater decline applying on heavy steers.

Cows, bulls, and baby beeves were fairly active at prices steady with last week, in fact some choice fat cows sold strong up to 10¼ cents. Choice light and weighty steers closed at 11¼ to 11½ cents per pound, with a few heavies up to 11¾ cents. Light steers sold downward to 9½ cents, and the range on butcher heifers was 9½ to 11½ cents per pound.

There was good demand for stockers and feeders all week, and though intending buyers bid a shade lower at the start final settlement for all grades was steady to stronger than last week.

Buyers for export took more calves than last week, but at lower prices, especially for medium quality, which was prominent in the offerings. The market as a whole was 50 cents per cwt. easier.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled about 100 more than last week, due to increase in supply of spring lambs and maintained volume of sheep. The market for spring lambs was just fairly active, with prices unchanged at $13.00 to $15.00 for choice, with light lambs downward to $7.00 each.

Hog supply was some 500 lighter. Prices showed a gain of 50 cents per cwt, selects, weighed off cars selling at 14½ cents per pound on Tuesday and after, though packers' bids were a quarter lower on Thursday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 18.—Wheat, corn and rye all plunged downward yesterday to new low prices this season, with wheat outdoing any depth reached in years. The day's maximum break in wheat value was 2 7-8c a bushel. One specially bearish factor was word that on top of present immense supplies of wheat, Canada's 1929 wheat acreage was in excess of last year's big total.

Wheat closed heavy at the day's lowest level, 2½c to 25-8c to 27-8c under Thursday's finish. Corn closed 15-8c to 2¼c down, oats ¾c to 1c off, and provisions unchanged to a set-back of 12c.

Primarily, yesterday's breakdown of wheat prices came about through a nearly complete absence of new buying demand. Moderate selling pressure, chiefly from houses with Eastern connections, revealed early that the market was devoid of adequate support. This circumstance led quickly to a general rush to execute stop-loss sales.

Excellent Crop Prospects.

Taking the day as a whole, competition to sell in the wheat market was mainly between holders, and at no time was there much evidence of power to rally displayed. Reports at hand were practically unanimous in telling of excellent crop prospects and of superabundant supplies already in sight. Moreover, transatlantic call yesterday for North American wheat was slack, and not expected to revive until after Tuesday, most European markets being closed meanwhile on account of Whitsunday holidays. In particular, Germany's wheat needs were reported being filled from Argentina, where ample wheat was reported available to furnish good-sized shipments until as far ahead as the end of December.

Corn traders were stampeded by the action of wheat. They ignored prospects of less favorable weather, notably a forecast of showers and cooler temperatures, with frost looked for last night in parts of the West. Oats and rye were also pulled down by wheat weakness.

Provisions tended to decline on account of liquidating sales in the lard market.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 18. — Weakness at Chicago where prices touched a new low for the season caused a break in wheat values here yesterday. Final quotations showed a net decline of 2⅜c to 3⅛c for the day. Offerings were not particularly heavy but the market displayed a great lack of real support throughout. A little export business failed to bolster prices.

Cash wheat trading was slow and prices were unchanged to ¼c easier than yesterday's close.

A fair amount of trading was done in oats at fairly steady prices, but barley and rye were neglected, the latter easing to lower prices in sympathy with wheat. The May rye dropped about 2c. Flax was featureless.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, May 18. — Fairly heavy shipments of fresh eggs reached the local wholesale market this week. The receipts included several carlot shipments from Ontario, and also some large consignments from Western Canada.

Prices Unsettled.

At the close of trading last week dealers appeared to be generally agreed that egg prices would be reduced one cent per dozen on all grades, but at the opening of trading this week the easier feeling met stubborn resistance and several dealers held their prices steady with those ruling the previous week. Large packing houses, however, reduced their prices to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, to the following range —Fresh extras, 27 to 28 cents per dozen; firsts, 25 to 26 cents; and seconds, 22 to 23 cents per dozen.

An easier feeling developed in the Western Canada market, and prices were lowered one cent per dozen, and, as there is a close relation between Ontario houses and those in the West, dealers stated that this may have a weakening effect on local prices. It is possible for Ontario buyers to purchase eggs in Winnipeg and stare them at that point which automatically creates an additional market.

Production High.

Production throughout Ontario is rapidly increasing, and is now about at its peak for the year. Eggs moved into storage freely throughout the country this week, and there is every indication that storing will continue to be active.

Butetr Firm.

A steadier tone was in evidence on the wholesale butter market this week, and prices were slightly stronger, No. 1 finest New Zealand creamery was quoted at a range of from 36½ to 36 cents per pound, with No. 2 grade 1 cent per pound lower.

Dealers are still operating in hand-to-mouth fashion, and their efforts are being concentrated on depleting their supplies of imported butter. The colder weather caused a temporary lull in the production of domestic brands, and the supply from this source was not as heavy as on the previous week.

Dealers stated that the butter market is following the usual seasonal action, and it is difficult to forecast the immediate future of the market. Buyers of churning cream did not reduce their prices to country shippers this week, and the market was quoted as being barely steady at the present price levels.

Cheese Unchanged.

The cheese market appears to be fairly well stabilized, and no further reduction was made in the price. No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded supplies were quoted at from 17½ to 18¾ cents per pound.

CAREFUL DIAGNOSIS OF CRIMINALS TO FIN D CAUSE OF ACTIVITIES RECOMMENDED BY DR. PATTERSON

in Canada to-day, unless otherwise stated, is just the same as the law that obtained in England on the 17th day of September, 1779, she went on:

"It seems a very strang thing that while crime is as old as social disease, scientific research into crime has never been carried out. I believe that only as far as law, psychology, psychiatry and medicine are combined together and conditions studied from this angle, can we protect society and do the best thing for those who appear in court."

"Some mal-adjustment, whether physical, mental, moral or spiritual, is at the base of every crime, and it is necessary, in order to help the criminal and to prevent a recurrence of the offense, to enquire into the antecedents, the mode of living, and the home life of the accused. By making use of the powers of investigation given me by the Probation Act, I have often found myself in the position of seeing such staring headlines in the press as these: 'Again Dr. Patterson Pries Into People's Private Affairs.'

"Ninety-five people get into trouble in their leisure hours, where one gets into trouble in working periods. What people do with their lesiure time is a demonstraton of their general attitude towards society. I try to prescribe a sentence which will get the first offenders away from their usual manner of life."

Referring to the prevalence of the offense of shop-lifting, the speaker asserted that, in answer to enquiries as to the reason for the theft, she had often been confronted with the response: "It was for a bridge prize," or " Ithought she might like it."

"I believe there is a real cause, that some particular nerve center is not functioning properly, in every one of these cases."

Dr. Patterson quoted the case of a woman who was brought in for stealing a number of articles which appeared to have little intrinsic value, but which had, in every instance, the quality of glittering brightly.

"That was a case of the permanence of a primitive instinct. The first thing a child will do is to reach for the thing that glitters, and try to possess it."

In this instance, after an employer had appeared to give character evidence that the woman had the handling of thousands of dollars of his money and had never filched a cent of it, and after restitution had been ordered, the case was treated in a special way and the result was that the woman grew to hate things that glittered. She was ordered to keep away from the jewelry stores that fascinated her so intensely that she often went without a meal to spend her time gazing in their windows.

But a psychiatrist in charge of the case came finally to Dr. Patterson and said: "We had better not keep up the treatment too long, or she won't look at a diamond when the time comes to take one."

"The indeterminate sentence is another fine social weapon" declared the speaker. "It seems to me just about as useless to prescribe a certain number of days or months' incarceration for a criminal as it would be for a doctor to say: This man has typhoid. It is the first time he has had the disease. I'll just give him ten days in the hospital for it. I think the only sensible sentence is the indeterminate sentence, and I am sorry that it is limited to two years less one day. Two years is a very short time to teach them to live a normal life and to learn something that they may have a talent for.

"It was by the free use of the indeterminate sentence that I gained so much notoriety during my first years on the bench. 'Lack of time' is the thing we complain most about but still none seems to like it when you give them time. Jack Canuck used to come out with lines like this: "Menace of Woman Magistrate. How long will the province allow such a monstrosity as railroading girls into jail?"

Thanks for Sentence

Here the speaker referred to the girl who had come back after serving a jail sentence and thanked her for the sentence. "It was the only way to get her out of evil company and to save her from a future horrible fate. She know that. The gang gets hold of them and they can't break away by themselves.

"I think that one of the greatest dangers of the present time is the wrong use of leisure. I have made a spcial study of the different ways in which people regard a good time. For one thing, reading is becoming a lost art. The young people will tell you that they can go to the movies and get the tale in a few hours. But they get at the movies a perverted idea of home life and of the social structure.

"The limited vocabulary of the youth of to-day is an evidence of the limits of their reading' I was talking to a young man recently who said nearly twenty times in the conversation: 'I'll tell the world.' And I think we made a mistake when we started pronouncing recreation 'wreckreation', because that is just what it does, half the time. Leisure is a great thing but it is dangerous if wrongly spent. The good old-fahioned singing-school or debating society should be resurrected and it might, by its novelty, give some of these young people one of the thrills they will go to such lengths to experience.

Dr. Patterson quoted the assertion of the negro woman who appeared in her court and addressed her:

"Your royal worship, it's the God's truth. I was only in that house getting my hair manicured."

She concluded by instancing the help given in Toronto to erring boys and girls, by the Kiwanis organizations.

A very sincere expression of gratitude to the speaker and to the musicians of the evening was voiced by Kiwanian Joseph Wearing, who described Dr. Patterson's address as "informative, humorous, and inspiring."

The evening wound up by a dance in the gymnasium, where excellent music was provided by Mowry-Steer and their Silver Collegians. In the gallery surrounding the gymnasium, several tables of bridge were played, the prizes, donated by the card booster of the evening, J. John, being won by Miss E. G. Young of Nicholls Hospital, E. Taylor, W. Oke, and J. Murphy, of Lindsay.

R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne acted as booster for the novelty dances of the evening, the "spot dance" prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. R. Maybee of Oshawa (first) and to Miss Jean Thompson and J. Coleman, of Oshawa.

The program in the gymnasium, during intermissions in the dancing, included a humorous song by Hi Meehan of Lindsay, "If You Want to Do Something Big, Go Wash an Elephant,' 'a skit which illustrated the difficulties in the other world encountered by the golf-loving Joseph Wearing, a "talking picture" entitled "A Sensible Conversation," acted by Verne Morphet and George Richmond, and a very funny demonstration in Shadowgraph style, the silhouettes being thrown on a curtain, of the trials of Dr. J. J. Craig in the nether world, when he has a lot of dental work done in an extremely painful style. The quartette of assisting devils in the program included E. V. Morphet, W. H. Freel, G. A. Richmond, and C. S. Browne and P.C. Jack Deannard assisted with the sudden demise of Mr. Wearing.

Guests from the city last evening included the nurses from the three city hospitals: Mrs. E. M. Leeson, superintendent, Miss Elleda Walsh, assistant superintendent, Miss Edith Young, instructor, Miss Anne Cracknell, Miss Ethel Tanner, Miss Helen Durant, Miss Edna Johnson, Miss Jennie Gilbert, Miss Mary McCormick, Miss Ruby Everson, Miss Pearl Finnie, and Miss Mary Lackie, all of Nicholls Hospital; Miss Patricia Connelly, Miss Selena Aboud ,Miss Marguerite Convey, Miss Olive Cowie, and Miss Mary Hennessey, from St. Joseph's Hospital; Miss Alice Price, superintendent, Miss Dorothy Mulett and Miss leanor Olin, of the Queen Mary Hospital.

Other guests from the city were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cummingss, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, Miss Mildren Greene, Miss Marie Madden, Miss Ellen Eagleson, Miss "Billie" Vincent, Alderman S. A. Lowe and D. A. McKinnon.

The World's Simplest Engine In Canada's Best Styled Car

The brilliant beauty of the new-style Willys-Knight "70-B" is conspicuous even among the most beautifully designed cars—and no wonder. It was created by an artist—a master stylist—whose work in the "custom-built" field has brought him world renown in the motor car industry.

It was inevitable that such a beautiful car should step quickly into preferred place in public favor. Each month we are building more Knight-engined cars than ever were built in any preceding month. But sales have exceeded factory production schedules right from the outset—and are still mounting.

Here is a car whose high-powered, quick-accelerating motor is simplicity itself. 118 to 158 less parts than any other automobile engine. Just two metal sleeves in each cylinder sliding up and down, one within the other, in a film of oil—that is all. With no carbon troubles, no valves to be ground, no springs to weaken, the new Willys-Knight engine cuts upkeep costs in two.

Your nearest Willys-Knight dealer will gladly give you a demonstration.

SPIRIT OF VIKING RETURNS TO WORLD

New Motor Car Was Introduced Last Night at Howson's Show Room.

The usually peace loving citizens of Peterborough were startled this morning to see a youth in complete Viking Armour, helmet, spear and buckler nonchantly strolling down George Street. Staid citizens rubbed their eyes, believing that one of the shades of the brave Nordic men who served under Leif Ericson had returned to life. The most skeptical spiritualist will now believe that the spirit of the Vikings has returned to this world in a very material form, and with all its rugged qualities The Viking, a new motor car by General Motors was introduced last night at the Howson Motors.

Mystery surrounds the introduction of this new spirit of motordom into this city and no one saw car before the appointed time. Presented as it was in a theatre-like atmosphere which completely changed the show rooms of the Howson Motors the introduction of this new car was one long to be remembered in the lives of the local motorist.

Moving pictures and a lecture on Automotive engineering were given by an expert from the General Motors and the inquisitive asked all the questions as to details and construction which arise in the doubtful mind.

Such a super race as were the Vikings was not an accident of nature. Instead it was the result of selectivity based upon the age-old law of the survival of the fittest. The Viking child faced this rigid law from birth. If signs of weakness developed the child was exposed to die—there could be no Viking weaklings. This drastic custom preserved the best and contributed to the strength and superiority of the race. So with the latest eight cylinder motor car, of the Oldsmobile division of the General Motors the same elimination process has been followed in the proving grounds and in the factory.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—and drug store.

SOCIETY HOLDS SPECIAL SERVICE

Mothers' Day Service Feature of Program Given By X. L. Mission Circle.

A special Mother's Day service was a feature of the program given by the X. L. Mission Circle of St. James Church on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Kitney, River road. The attendance was one of the largest in the history of the Circle, nine girls being received into membership.

The singing of the hymn "Stand up for Jesus" opened the meeting. The scripture reading, taken by Marjorie Dudgeon, was found in Matthew 7-7:20. Short prayers in appreciation of Our Mothers; for Our Mother society, the W.M.S., and for God's blessing on our Circle and its members, were offered by Marjorie Hogan, Mabel Dulmage and Mrs. Rose.

Carrying out the idea of "Mother's Day" some expressive little poems, stressing motherly influence and love were given by Zetta Wood, Dorothy Dudgeon and Miss Nixon.

A very sweetly rendered solo by Aileen Rose was followed by a chapter from the study book, "Drums in the Darkness", taken by the President, Connie Wagar. This section deals with the building of a training school for native pastors and teachers, in Angola. The need for this school was first noted, then the story of the missionaries search for a suitable site was told. Following the building of this school at the deserted village of Dondi, its history was traced through the years, with special mention of its splendid teachers and fine Christian graduates. References to Mrs. Banfield's recent address in this city, made the chapter more interesting as Mrs. Banfield and her husband are working in this same district of Africa.

"Gingerbread and Missions" was an interesting reading given by Edith Wright, bringing out the idea of self sacrifice.

The treasurer's report shows that the allocation has been nearly half raised, and with the increased membership the Circle workers are confident of a successful year, not only financially, but spiritually.

Closing the meeting proper, with the benediction, a very delightful social hour followed during which the members took part in community singing. A dainty lunch was served by the hostesses in charge, Mrs. E. Kitney and Florence Cripps.

The hostesses for the June meeting will be Marjorie Hogan, Jessie Martin and Connie Wagar.

GOITRE NOT A DISEASE.

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. 801, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. White him today.—Adv.

LONGER SENTENCES WANTED BY "JIX"

Home Secretary Urges Magistrates to Make Terms Long Enough to Permit Remedial Work.

LONDON, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—If magistrates feel they must impose a sentence of imprisonment, let the sentence be long enough to give the prison authorities a chance of making it remedial and not merely deterrent.

This was the plea submitted by Sir William Joynson-Hicks when he addressed the Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society. As Home Secretary Sir William is responsible for the conduct of prisons and for any revision in the length of sentences.

"I know it will make it worse for the Home Secretary," he continued. "There will be complaints and pressure put on him to let people out of prison because three months is too long for the crime. But I will stand the racket of that."

It was impossible to do anything in building up the character of a man under three months. Hard labor, in some prisons today was the real thing, not the old type but real work, physical drill, mental education, and attempts at moral improvement.

"I want to protest against short sentences," he continued. "They make it almost impossible for the work of the Prison Commissioners to be as remedial as it ought to be."

Out of every 100 women sentenced, on an average only two got more than six months, while 81 per cent got less than a month. It was impossible for the prison authorities to do any good at all with that 81 per cent. Of men 59 per cent got less than a month, he said.

WOMAN HONORED ON 84TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. John Lane Formerly Resided in Peterborough, But Is Now in Toronto.

Motherhood as it is expressed in the life of Mrs. John Lane of Toronto, and formerly of Peterborough, who celebrated her eighty-fourth birthday on Mother's Day, Sunday last, means not age but eternal youth.

And in the role of Mother, Grandmother and great grandmother she has kept pace with youth. And with her young ideas goes a body still strong and faculties keen. Although past four score years she still does much sewing in the home of her daughter Mrs. F. J. Cooney, 92 Westminster Ave., Toronto, where she dwells and radiates motherhood which is strong upon her.

She thinks the young folk of today are lovely and are fine at heart. Short skirts she doesn't mind, but does not like them short enough to show the knees. She also believes that bobbed hair is an excellent thing and has hers bobbed.

There were seventy-five guests attending the reception at her home in Toronto on the occasion of her birthday. Mr. and Mrs. John Lane were former residents of Peterborough, living in the north end of the city for a number of year. Mr. Lane died four years ago and since then Mrs. Lane has made her home in Toronto with her daughter Mrs. F. J. Cooney. Mr. Tom Lane a son is still a resident of this city.

INSTITUTE WOMEN CHOOSE LAKEFIELD

Annual District Meeting Will Be Held On June 5.

WARSAW, May 18. — (Examiner Correspondence.)— The executive of East Peterborough District Institutes met at Norwood on Wednesday afternoon to arrange for the annual district meeting to be held on June 5. Representatives were present from Belmont, Havelock, Havelock junior, Norwood, Warsaw and Lakefield. Lakefield junior and Apsley were not represented.

It was decided to accept Lakefield Institute's invitation to hold the district meeting there, also to accept its invitation to luncheon.

All Institute workers, or for that matter any interested women, may attend the gathering, but only those who are appointed by their institutes as delegates have votes. The larger the number present, the more interesting and worth while for the special speaker.

Those institute branches which have not paid their federation fee before or on the day of the annual district meeting, may not vote on the federal representative, though they may vote on everything else. Each branch is requested to supply one number for the program, preferably music, as there is so much speaking, readings or recitations will not be so acceptable, and is requested to send what that number will be to Mrs. Rothwell at the Public Library, Norwood, and at the same time to send her the number of ladies from each branch likely to attend, that she may have her program prepared and let the Lakefield ladies know how many to expect.

The business meeting will be at 10.30 o'clock a.m. and the program at 1.30 o'clock p.m. Mrs. Stone, of Bond Head, president of Ontario Institutes is the department speaker. Mrs. Cameron is being invited to speak.

The auditors appointed are Messrs. Cutcliffe and Waddell, of Royal Bank, Norwood.

Mrs. George Weller is the fifth delegate from Warsaw.

"It all depends on my Health"

Never before in all the world's history has there been such a tremendous strain on the nervous system.

This is the real reason why so many business and professional men are dropping suddenly by the way.

Whether the immediate trouble may be described as weakness of the heart, the stomach or other vital organs, the foundation cause in most cases is lack of nervous energy—the vital force of the human body.

When such symptoms as sleeplessness, headaches, indigestion, tired, depressed feelings warn you of waning nerve force, you can turn to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with every confidence that it will help you to recover strength and vigor.

For the sake of those who depend on you do not delay until you are a physical bankrupt with little hope of recovering your grasp on the responsibilities of life.

A Superiority Too Marked to be Escaped

If it should ever be suggested to you that Cadillac and La Salle have an equal in safety, ease, elegance and handling ability—it is a very simple matter to make the test and find the inevitable answer.

The Cadillac-La Salle environment can not be duplicated. There is a certain "feel" in the performance of these cars and in their riding and driving qualities that is never experienced elsewhere. You have only to drive a Cadillac or La Salle and then step into any other car to note the immeasurable difference.

As is the case with all other leaders, Cadillac's superiority is the result of deliberate planning and intensive effort. There has been nothing lacking in precision methods, nothing overlooked in mechanical equipment or scientific experiment, nothing to equal the resources in time, money and expert knowledge that have been and are lavished on Cadillac and the Cadillac-built La Salle.

This is so widely known that more than 7,000 men and women from every quarter of the globe visit the Cadillac-La Salle plants every year to observe the processes employed to secure the most minute exactness of finish and alignment of parts.

Features in the Cadillac and La Salle found in no other cars will give you special satisfaction because they bear so heavily on the safety of yourself and your family.

We refer particularly to the Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission which is not only clashless, but almost instantaneous in action and removes all awkwardness from gear shifting. Also the Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes, the most powerful ever developed, yet the easiest and quickest to operate. There is still another safety feature that adds so much to your peace of mind—Cadillac-La Salle Security-Plate Glass in all doors, windows and windshields. There is no longer any danger from flying glass fragments.

No offer of long trading allowances from other cars can possibly compensate for these advantages or for the brilliance, smoothness and unvarying reliability of the Cadillac-La Salle 90-degree, V-type, 8-cylinder engine, or for the beauty and prestige that belong only to these cars.

If you want what Cadillac or La Salle give there is literally nowhere else to turn, and to reach this inevitable conclusion all you need do is to compare them with other cars on any and every phase of performance and ownership.

In addition to twenty-three refreshingly beautiful Fisher Bodies for the new Cadillac and the new La Salle there are fifteen exclusive and exquisite custom-built models, Fleetwood designed and Fleetwood built.

Cadillac-La Salle dealers welcome business on the General Motors Deferred Payment Plan.

FIREMEN TRY TEST EXAMS

Following Series of Lectures During Winter Men Wrote Examination Yesterday.

SCIENTIFIC FIRE FIGHTING.

The Peterborough Fire department under the guidance of its progressive Chief, George Gimblett, never rests on its oars, but steadily moves forward. Scientific fire fighting to-day is the standard of an up-to-date organization, and the Peterborough Fire Department, by means of lectures given by the officers under the supervision of the chief, is studying this means of combating fire.

A series of lectures has been carried on during the winter. The day platoon receiving their instruction in the afternoon and the night shift in the evening. The study period is one hour each day, with the exception of those days when ladder drill is held, then the lecture period is suspended for that day. This method of teaching and instructing the men is similar to that used by organizations in the larger cities. However, in Peterborough this is the first time that it has been tried and is the idea of Chief Gimblett to make a more efficient department. The questions and the answers are taken from examinations held in other centers.

"Fire fighting to-day," said the Chief, "is a science; it is not the same as it was years ago. Each member of the force should know some hydraulics and chemistry and the use of the tools, which is a reason for the examinations. There are no penalties if a man does not measure up to the standard, but it serves as a means of rating them.

The watchroom of the Fire Hall on Friday afternoon, resembled an examination room in a university. The men of the day platoon were grouped around a long table with their question papers and their answer sheets and no body of students concentrated more on their tests than did these men in answering the questions. Intensive silence, broken only by the scratching of pens, filled the room as the men pored over their papers.

This is the first year that the lecture method has been used, but now it is to be a yearly affair and in this way the Chief hopes to have one of the most efficient departments in Ontario.

PRESIDENT IS RE-ELECTED FOR 4TH TERM

Women's Art Association Holds Annual Meeting—Mrs. Blackwell Presides.

ACTIVITIES OUTLINED.

During Year Organization Joined the Carillon Book Club.

Mrs. W. Blackwell was once again re-elected president of the Women's Art Association, at the annual meeting held this week. This is Mrs. Blackwell's fourth consecutive term in the presidential chair.

The meeting was a very business-like one, when reports of the various affiliated organizations were presented and the report of the Nominating Committee accepted for the ensuing year. Tea was served informally at the conclusion of the session.

Mrs. Blackwell's address was inspirational and summed up the work of the Women's Art Association in a concise manner. It was as follows

"The value of our society; its growing and far-reaching influence, its service to the cause of Art in all its branches, including the great Art of Living, cannot be readily measured.

"This afternoon, you will have reports of a delightful season of recreative and most stimulating study and lectures, but your supreme success lies in the co-operation and harmony existing among the members and their emancipation from all uncharitableness, which enables each one to see with clear vision the beauty of character and the talents in fellow-members, and rejoice in good work.

Constructive Criticism.

"This does not mean that we cannot criticize, but the criticism is constructive, being careful not to destroy the delicate point of individualism or self-expression, and leaving a wide margin for personal idiosyncrasies and the specialization that makes for perfection.

"In the way of developing talent, our convenors are most adept. Our Art Study Club, Arts and Crafts Guild, and last but not least, our Dramatic Club, have done noble things in encouraging and unfolding the wonders that so many members are capable of expressing. We owe them much."

Reports of Societies.

The report by the secretary, Mrs. F. C. Weber, outlined in graphic, brief style, the activities of the Association during the past year, when seven executive meetings were held and twelve studio functions took place.

Mrs. Weber alluded to the fine series of lectures given during the past twelvemonth and spoke with regret of the postponement, through illness in the family, of the exhibit by Miss Mamie L. McCarthy.

"The Art Study Club, under the leadership of Mrs. R. J. Kidd, and the Guild of Arts and Crafts, with Mrs. J. E. R. Munro as convenor, have had a year of profit and pleasure. The French Conversation Class has been of great value to its members, and I am sure you will agree that Mrs. Pettit has done wonders with the Dramatic Club. The leaders of the various clubs should be sincerely congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

"Last year, the Association joined the Carillon Book Club with Miss Grace Reinhardt as Librarian. Miss Reinhardt has worked out a splendid system of distributing the books to those who joined this club, and the books have been thoroughly enjoyed by those receiving them. This year, we are to get nearly twice the number of books and soon we will have a splendid library of outstanding Canadian literature."

Mrs. Weber alluded with regret to the passing of a valued member in the late Mrs. J. J. Turner, and spoke also of the long-continued illness of Mrs. J. H. Seels.

Mrs. R. J. Kidd presented the report for the Art Study Club, of which she was convenor, and which held twelve meetings through the year, when the subjects of the papers given included consideration of the art of Canadian and American and Spanish painters, the Court Painters of France, of Indian architecture, the Indian art of Canada, the making of Wood Cuts, and the making of Stained Glass Windows.

Mrs. J. E. R. Munro reported for the Guild of Arts of Crafts, which was in her charge and which was formed for the purpose of teaching and encouraging the making of handicrafts among the members.

Monthly meetings were held, the programs consisting of papers on subjects of interest, discussion on various handicrafts, and demonstrations of simple handicraft by the members for the instruction of companion members of the club.

During the season, instructive papers were given on Weaving, Wrought Iron, Canadian Furniture, and Old and Modern Glass.

The Guild also organized a class in Design at the Vocational School, under the instruction of Miss A. Going, and these were most helpful.

One of the members, Mrs. B. L. Barns had a scarf on display at the Women's Art Association Exhibit of the Canadian National Exhibition. This was tied and dyed by Mrs. B. L. Barns.

The members are already making plans for a fall exhibit and it is the desire of the convenor that every member shall exhibit at least one piece of her work.

Mrs. Munro expressed her sincere gratitude to all who were connected with the Guild in any way.

Dramatic Club.

Mrs. L. J. Pettit, convenor of the Dramatic Club, spoke of its object, which was not preparation for public speaking and acting, but for the study of the art of right or ideal living. "It is the art of the harmonious development of the personality."

An outline of the meetings was given, commencing on January 29, and the practical work included voice culture, physical exercises, and enunciation. Helpful discussions were carried on regarding rhythm, in dramatic art, the power of concentration, the part played by the imagination and the art of memorization.

The final meeting was a very successful presentation, on the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth and death day, April 23, of the women of his plays.

Mrs. Pettit spoke of the fine spirit of co-operation and harmony existing among the members of the club.

The treasurer's report for the year, presented by Mrs. H. W. Morphet, showed a balance of $98.63 in the treasury.

In the absence of Madam Goulet, Mrs. Blackwell gave a brief report of the progress of the Causerie Francaise.

Mrs. R. Gliddon outlined the programs for the year of the committee of which she is convenor, speaking in detail of the various studio functions and recalling in interesting fashion the different speakers and lecturers and musicians who have visited the Art Association meetings during the past twelvemonth. She concluded by thanking Mrs. G. N. Gordon for her kindness in arranging the hostesses for the afternoon functions.

Votes of Thanks.

At the conclusion of the presentation of reports, several votes of thanks were accorded: To Mrs. F. C. Webber, secretary, "for faithful and efficient work during the past three years"; to Mrs. R. Gliddon, for her kindness and interest in the Dramatic Club and the Art Association in general and for her splendid work as convenor of the Program Committee; to Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, Mrs. L. J. Pettit, Mrs. H. E. Connolly, Miss Grace Reinhardt and to The Examiner and Miss C. McCarthy.

A vote of thanks was also accorded to Mrs. N. D. Seaton, convenor of the Nominating Committee, who, with her companions, Mrs. J. Wearing and Mrs. H. Wightman, who was responsible for the framing of the list for next year.

The officers for the year will be as follows: Mrs. Dunnington Grubbe of Toronto, honorary president; Mrs. W. Blackwell, president; Mrs. F. C. Neal, first vice-president; Mrs. V. Eastwood, Senior, second vice-president; Mrs. B. L. Barns, third vice-president; Miss F. Hatton, fourth vice-president; Mrs. N. C. Staples, secretary; Mrs. F. Sutton, Guild of Arts and Crafts; Mrs. L. J. Pettit, Dramatic Study Club; Madam S. Goulet, Causerie Francaise; Mrs. H. E. Connolly, Social Committee; Mrs. R. Gliddon, Program Committee, with Mrs. G. N. Gordon and Miss A. Wood.

Mrs. N. D. Seaton is Press Secretary for the association and Miss Grace Reinhardt is Archivist.

W.M.S. HOLDS UNION MEETING

Organizations On Roseneath Circuit Meet in Fenella Church.

REPORTS ARE READ.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FENELLA, May 18. — The union meeting of the Roseneath Circuit W. M. S. was held in Fenella United Church, on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. M. R. Brown, presided.

A letter from the Supply Secretary was read informing the branch of the articles that they were required to furnish for the bale to be packed in September. On motion it was decided that the president at each appointment arrange for the collection of second hand clothing for bale to be brought in at the union meeting to be held in Centenary church in August.

The financial report from each appointment was as follows:

Roseneath, $46; Roseneath Mission Band, $35; Centenary, 35.90; Fenella, $53.34; making a total of $170.24 raised by the Circuit Auxiliary.

The devotional leaflet "The Needle's Eye," was read by Mrs. Turner, who said in part: "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God. For it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye than for a rich man to enter into the the kingdom of God." Luke 18:24, 25. Stewardship has been called the needle's eye, by which those who have riches enter into the kingdom of Heaven. A man can hide his whole soul behind a silver dollar. There is only one way of escaping the selfishness which money engenders and that is to regard our means as a trust for advancing the kingdom of God. Yes, we learn to do, by doing, to give by giving. From the joy of tithing we grow into the greater bliss of stewardship and partnership. "The only abiding joy men ever know is the joy of service. "The Master said 'Well done, enter into the joy of thy Lord." Mrs. M. R. Brown and Mrs. A. Nill sang a duet, "The Beautiful Land."

Heralds for the Watch Tower reported as follows: Korea, Mrs. H. Macklin; China, Mrs. A. Nill.

Leaflets, dealing with "New Paths," Chapter VIII in Study Book, were read by Miss Hilda Arthur and Mrs. J. C. Montgomery.

PRIN. EAKIN WILL PREACH IN ST. PAUL'S

Ninety-sixth Anniversary Will Be Conducted To-morrow.

HEADS KNOX COLLEGE.

Special Music Under Leadership of M. B. Chenhall Has Been Prepared.

On Sunday the congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will celebrate the anniversary of the birth of the church—ninety-six years ago. This is but four years from the century mark — a truly long and interesting and historic lifetime. Many of the kind faces have "passed on" and a body of people, staunch and loyal to faith and traditions, now carry on the work which the old pioneers laid down.

As on previous anniversary occasions the "special preacher" is part of the day's services. This year the congregation is to be honored by the presence of no less a personage than Rev. Professor Thomas Eakins, Ph.D., D.D., principal of Knox Presbyterian College, Toronto.

PRINCIPAL EAKINS

Dr. Eakin is an outstanding scholar and preacher of the Presbyterian church. He has a high and noble appreciation of the faith and fundamental teaching of Presbyterianism, and is a great exponent of the Scriptures.

A Leading Divine

Coming from Montreal College, Professor Eakins was appointed Principal of Knox College at the time of the union controversy in 1925, and has merited the high position given to him by the church dignitaries. He was one of the three commissioners of the Presbyterian Church which sat on the allocation of church property.

Professor Eakins will have charge of both services in St. Paul's on Sunday and the congregations are promised learned and timely expositions from his lips.

Special Music

The choir, under Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., will render a special music program at each service. In the morning a duet, "O Divine Redeemer" (Mrs. G. Byers and George Coleman, Jr.,) and an anthem, "How Lovely are the Messengers" (Mendelssohn) will fill the bill. At 6:45 p.m. a short recital, organ and 'cello, will be given, Martin B. Chenhall, Sr., and Martin Chenhall, Jr., numbers being Sonata for 'cello and organ ((Bethaven) and Massenet's "Elegie." The 60-voice choir selections are "Judge Me, O God" (Mendelssohn) and "Christ whose Glory Fills the Skies" (Miller). Special preacher and music will no doubt be received by large congregations in this ninety-sixth anniversary occasion.

Rev. William Allan is conducting anniversary services in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Lindsay, on Sunday.

VISITS CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London, is seen chatting with a patient at the Boys' and Girls' Heritage in Chailey, Sussex, during the course of a sick-bed confirmation, which he recently held in that hospital. The Bishop of London has been a frequent visitor to Canada. When in Toronto last summer he started a controversy by declaring that too many foreign immigrants were being brought into the West, and that he felt there was a certain coolness displayed in the Dominion toward British newcomers.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"MOTHER KISSED ME IN MY DREAM"

(A young soldier, who was severely wounded at the battle of Antietam, lay in one of the hospitals at Frederick. A surgeon, passing by his bedside, and seeing his boyish face lighted up with a peaceful smile, asked him how he felt. "O I am happy and contented now", the soldier replied; "Last night, mother kissed me in my dream".).

Lying on my dying bed,
Through the dark and silent night,
Praying for the coming day,
Came a vision to my sight;
Near me stood the forms I lov'd,
In the sunlight's mellow gleam,
Folding me unto her breast—
Mother kissed me in my dream.

Comrades, tell her when you write,
That I did my duty well—
Say that when the battle raged,
Fighting in the van I fell;
Tell her, too, when on by bed,
Slowy ebbed my being's stream
But I knew no peace until
Mother kissed me in my dream.

Once again I long to see
Home and kindred far away;
But I feel I shall be gone
Ere there dawns another day.
Hopefully I bide the hour
When will fade life's feeble beam,
Every pang has left me now—
Mother kissed me in my dream.

This song ran into at least its tenth edition, and was published in 1864.

The Mirror of the Mode

By Mary Marshall

CHANGING YOUR TEMPERAMENT

Did you ever realize that your disposition or temperament is very much like that of one or both of your parents, or their parents? Perhaps you have considered this as only a natural sort of thing, because you resemble one or other of your parents in the color of your hair, eyes, and in the build of your body.

Now as these characteristics are to some extent dependent on the juice of the ductless glands, so also may your temperament be due to the balance of these glands.

I have written before about these ductless glands and how they affect the growth, development, and actions of the body; the thyroid glands in the neck secrets a fluid which hastens the action of the different processes; the adrenal glands, one above each kidney, which slow down or steady the processes; the pituitary gland at under side of the brain which affects or regulates the growth of bones, and the deposit of fat on certain parts of the body.

And now Dr. Huxley of Oxford has recently stated that temperament is largely a matter of the balance of the glands of internal secretion. If these glands are working at a rate that just fits or suits one another, then you will get what might be called the ideal temperament. Many men who had office positions in civil life, came back from the war with altered temperaments. The violent activities into which they were forced, made demands on these and other glands which their previous life had never done.

The glands responded by increased activity and a new balance of all the glands was set up. These men began to live at a new rate or an angle and have continued to do so."

Now what does this mean?

That these glands with which we were born can actually be influenced to increase their activity according to the circumstances used to overcome a deficiency of that particular gland of the body.

Already we have thyroid extract for goiterous conditions, adrenal extract to stimulate heart action in persons apparently dead, and pituitary extract to increase necessary contraction of certain muscles in the body.

An individual may some day be "sized up" from the standpoint of his ductless glands, and an unstable temperament thereby made stable.

CREW FEARED LOST.

VALPARAISO, Chile, May 18 (Canadian Press). — The entire crew of the steamer Perico, containing six men, were believed to-day to have been killed when the steamer's boilers exploded and it sank, near Point Curaumilla. The steamer Taracapa found bits of wreckage from the other steamer near the site of the supposed explosion.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By BETSY CALLISTER

Our ideas about the wholesomeness of certain foods are often based on the prejudices of other people. And doctors and dieticians writing in all seriousness sometimes condemn a certain dish not because of any scientific experiments or analysis, but simply because of their own prejudices.

In one family I know there is a deeply implanted prejudice against bananas in any form—all because the family doctor a generation ago had a personal grudge against this fruit. His own feeling was due to the fact that he had eaten bananas when only partly ripe, wrongly assuming that when they had become flecked with brown they were partly decayed.

Some families have a really amusing prejudice against ice cream—amusing because good ice cream is so very wholesome. This prejudice has been handed down for a generation at least.

In another family the story is still told about how great grandfather Smith once almost died from toadstool poisoning. None of Grandfather Smith's descendants could be persuaded to eat mushrooms.

The other day, a young mother assured me that she would never, never permit her four-year-old child to eat rice pudding. A doctor had once told her great aunt that there were few dishes so indigestibe as rice pudding!

To a great extent we still have to judge of the wholesomeness or unwholesomeness of foods for ourselves.

EVEN if our method of washing your clothes were not more thorough, more sanitary and easier on the clothes than doing it at home, there is still an economy consideration in our favor.

Take the time to figure out the cost per year of your washwoman's wages, her food, the soap you use, the wear and tear and frequency of renewal of wash boilers, ringers, scrub boards, irons, etc. The cost of soap, starch, blueing, clothes pins, etc.—to say nothing of the wear and tear on your clothes. Your answer will be "the laundry is cheaper." And, oh, how much pleasanter for the whole family. You, your husband and your children after one trial will vote for us.

WARSAW

The coaching classes in judging, good dressing, lunches and home planning are announced for Monday afternoon of next week and of the week following in the Institute room.

This is the fourth year this class has been held. Miss Hopkins the coach is very much in earnest about the work.

Mr. Nelson has so much work to fit in that these dates are set for us, and it is rather difficult to change for one branch, for that means change for many. Throughout the country these classes are doing much good and it is hoped the young people will take advantage of them. Next year Mr. Nelson hopes to have a short course for farm girls.

In many cases, junior institutes are being held. It is found the young girls really take a greater interest when they are by themselves. There are now a large number of young girls in and near Warsaw. Some have felt there should be a junior institute here, others felt otherwise. However, a good many feel that the time has come that if the juniors wish to organize themselves, it would be a great benefit. and the matter is likely to be brought up at the coaching classes.

It is a very good time to organize juniors in any branch where they could be, as the institute year is just beginning. The branches have their annual meeting this month and the districts next. Any junior organization forming now, can have the full year for work.

MILLBROOK

May

"Dear common flower, that grow's beside the way,
Fringing the dusty road with harmless gold,
First pledge of blithsome May."

The 'housewife's calendar' for May has the above verse as a beginning for such practical suggestions as: "Keep the fires going, even though you must have some screens in the windows to prevent the house being uncomfortably warm. Letting the fires out too early is a prolific cause of colds that often develop into serious, and chronic throat and lung affections. Institute women are becoming too versed in health propaganda to make blunders along this line."

Packing away furs and blankets in moth-proof bags in another duty enjoined for May, with time for attention to the flower and vegetable gardens, pruning and digging about rose bushes, and other shrubs, planning the work so there may be more leisure to enjoy June when that month arrives. The annual Institute picnic outing is usually scheduled for June, and there should be a fairly free period before the season for preserving of small fruits comes in.

How to get the girls interested in Institute work is a live and important question for any branch to consider, for as one leader has put it. "Their presence is an inspiration, and they help us all to feel young and cheerful." As the girls are all supposed to be the homemakers and housekeepers of the days just ahead, the Institute owes them a debt of instruction in the best way of performing these duties, and a practical sympathy as they prepare for future responsibilities.

"Encourage the girls by having certain days on which they bring examples of their needlework, and offer prizes for the best stitching—such as hemming, darning, button-holing, and hem-stitching; this will help them to preserve in attaining that worthy ideal, to be a good needlewoman."

A leader who has had a wide experience in work among 'teen age girls, both in rural and urban centres, declares she has found it a good plan to make certain of the young women responsible for music, vocal and instrumental, and readings, at each Institute meeting, occasionally inducing one of them to prepare the paper on the topic for the month as well. Then, too, girls have a natural love for the ceremony connected with the service of refreshments, and this left in their hands for a number of the meetings awakens interest, and can be made a source of instruction, at the same time.

In one part of the province the plan was tried, among the branches of a certain district, of having 'candy day'; 'cake day'; and 'salad day'; when the girls brought dishes of these commodities which they had made themselves, and exchanged recipes. An occasional demonstration, in the kitchen of the home where the Institute gathering was being, added to the interest and practical knowledge.

"If we can teach the girls to be good housewives, and honored mothers, as they step out into their life work in our various communities, we will have more than justified our existence as a strong and helpful organization."

CAVAN

The Women's Institute intend having a supper and program in Cavan Community Hall on Friday evening, May 31.

The supper will be on a par with previous suppers served by this Institue so everybody should come. The program will consist of a play, "Green Stockings", put on by the Young People of Centreville, with music between acts.

This play has been given several times in different places and comes well recommended. Those taking part are assigned characters which they can represent well. It is full of fun and interest from beginning to end.

A committee of the Institute met at Mrs. D. J. Hunter's on Friday evening to make arrangements for the program. There will be two tables under the supervision of Mrs. Margaret Matchett and Mrs. F. M. Staples. Mrs. Richard Matchett and Mrs. David White.

May is the month in which the Institute usually raises the major part of their finances for the year. In previous years, a bazaar has usually been held in connection with afternoon tea and a program.

This year home made candy, contributed by the members, will be sold between acts.

Cavan is not having the summer speaker as they usually do, but have accepted this invitation of the Millbrook Institute to join with them at an evening meeting Tuesday, May 21, at which Miss Emily Guest, Toronto will be the speaker.

An invitation was also given by the Bethany Institute to join with them on Friday afternoon All members who can, will attend both meetings.

Questions which are of interest to women locally, inasmuch as they are mooted by the Provincial and National Councils of Women, are included on the agenda of the meetings of these two bodies.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women will be held in St. Andrew's Church at Niagara Falls, Ontario, on June 12th and 13th, and the annual meeting of the National Council of the Women of Canada takes place in the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, from May 27th to June 1st, inclusive.

Resolutions which will come up for consideration at the annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women will include the following:

"Be it resolved that, owing to the recent advancement of thought regarding the teaching of religion in schools, the educational committee of ths Council petition the National Council to request the Provincial Governments to include systematic instruction in undenominational religious teaching in the school curriculum.

Also, "That Latin be included in the curriculum of technical schools."

Also "That the study of French be included in the curriculum of public schools."

The Niagara Falls council sends in the following:

"Whereas the Niagara Falls Local Council of Women recognize the importance of an official national song-sheet composed of patriotic songs to perpetuate our love for, and our loyalty to our Native Land; and

"Whereas the Canadan Authors' Association, at the request of the Canadian Clubs, has accepted the "R. Stanley Weir" version of "O Canada," and

"Whereas the National I.O.D.E. have requested that this song-sheet be adopted; and

"Whereas approval of, and requests for, the song-sheet have been expressed both by the press and local councils:

"Be it therefore resolved that the Ontario Provincial Council of Women at the approaching annual meeting, do endorse this version of "O, "Canada," together with the other songs embodied in the song-sheet, namely: "My Old Canadian Home," "The Maple Leaf" and the National Anthem.

The agenda of the National Council of Women contains the following resolutions:

"Whereas, it has come to the attention of the National Council of Women, that the wholesale importation of fruit, just prior to the ripening of Canadian fruit, is preventing the profitable marketing of Canadian fruit and thus discouraging a national industry;

"Therefore be it resolved, that we urge the government to take such steps as shall remedy this unfortunate situation.

"That the National Council of Women urge the women of Canada through the National Convenor of Economics, and through a Calendar of Canadian fruits and vegetables, to be published in the columns of "World Wide" (information to be obtained from the government and supplied by the head office), that Canadian fruts and vegetables be used, in season, and that preference be given, invariably, to Canadian products.

The St. Thomas Local Council sends in the following resolution to the National Council's meeting:

"That the National Council of Women petition the Federal Government to amend the Fruits and Vegetables Act with a view to raising the standards of fruits and vegetables now placed on the market by our Canadian growers, to compete more favorably with the quality of such goods now imported, before considering the placing of a ban on such from the U. S. A."

"That we agree to ascertain existing legislation and that the resolution from St. Thomas re the amending of the Fruit and Vegetables Act be sent down to the federated societies."

It has been moved by Mrs. Dingman, convenor of Arts and Letters:

"Resolved, that the government at once take steps to have a National Committee for Popular Arts formed by the Official Delegate for Canada on the International Committee for Popular Arts (in this case Mr. George Bouchard, M.P.)., which committee should have official representatives of those societies which have already done many years of expert work in the region of traditional art; and that this national committee should be urged to take active steps so as to effect a proper and representative showing at the International Exhibition for Popular Arts at Berne in 1934."

Another resolution is as follows: "That when the Government is considering making some changes in the British North America Act to meet present day experiences, the Government be requested by the National Council of Women to consider a Dominion censorship of moving pictures and the naming of a Board of National Censorship to replace the present provincial boards."

THERE has never been a tire like the ROYAL MASTER. It cannot be compared with other tires.

In its construction, old methods have been discarded. Its tread is new. It has new sidewall construction. It is an entirely new tire from start to finish.

There is no metal, no heat-generating material in its impenetrable, massive tread. A tread that is double-thick, cured by a new slow process that toughens it not only against punctures but against the grinding abrasions of the road.

Not one Royal Master in a thousand will ever puncture.

Not one in five thousand will blow out under two years of service.

The carcass is built with WEB CORD, an exclusive Dominion Rubber fabric made without heat-generating cross-threads; extra plies, held together by pure rubber (latex); sturdier construction through and through.

Get behind the wheel — on a set of ROYAL MASTERS. Feel how easy the steering. Feel the wheels track true at forty — fifty — eighty miles an hour. Enjoy motoring to the full, knowing that you are free from punctures — from blowouts — not only for this season, but the next—and the next.

QUEEN PAID INCOME TAX

Royalty Set Example To Complaining Country When Tax First Instituted.

NEW ARRANGEMENTS MADE.

London, May 18 (By the Canadian Press)—The King, of course, is not liable for Income Tax, on any sums which come to him in right of the Crown. But when Income Tax was instituted nearly 90 years ago, Queen Victoria paid it voluntarily as an example to the complaining country, which thought it a monstrous imposition." Payment was continued by King Edward but after his death a re-arrangement of the royal revenues was made, and the payment of such tax ceased.

A host of such interesting sidelights on matters connected with the English royal house are to be found in "The English Kings," a work just published here. The author is Michael MacDonagh, one of the veterans of the army of journalistic workers in Parliament, who has already many agreeable works concerning Parliamentary life to his credit.

Mr. MacDonagh, in this latest work asserts that it is only during the present reign that the principle of aloofness from politics as a standing principle of the Sovereign has been completely adopted, and with the happiest results.

"Queen Victoria was frequently criticised in the Press", says the author. "She was once hissed in the streets of London. Even King Edward said or did things which brought him into conflict with sections of public opinion. I have failed to find any reference to King George in any newspaper that was not in his praise. If the Kingship were elective by a direct popular vote his Majesty would easily be far ahead of all other candidates. By making the Monarchy safe for Democracy, King George has done a still greater thing—he has made Democarcy safe for the Monarchy."

Mr. MacDonagh points out the eldest son of the Sovereign, being born Duke of Cornwall, is a peer even before he is created Prince of Wales. But his brothers are, in law, commoners until they are raised to the peerage. Prince William, afterwards IV., was long refused a peerage because he had displeased his father, George III.

"Well," said the Prince, "If the House of Lords is to be closed against me I'll get into Parliament through the House of Commons." Only when he had chosen Totnes as his constituency did the King make him Duke of Clarence.

Prince Leopold, one of the sons of Queen Victoria, was nearing 30 before he became Duke of Albany. He suggested that if his peerage was put off much longer he would "stand for the House of Commons as a Liberal. And the Prince laughed at the thought of the look of displeasure such a suggestion would bring to his mother's face, and her sharp reproval of his levity."

BLAZING BRANDS CARRIED ON THE WIND

A FIRE nearby—a strong wind driving the flames to renewed fury—suddenly, a blazing brand hurled on your roof! How many families have been made homeless through this vicious combination! How many lost their clothes, their furnishings—even their lives!

To remove this hazard once and for all, progressive home owners are now insisting on fire-safe roofs. That is why so many use Brantford Asphalt Slates—because sparks and embers cannot ignite them. Flaming brands die out harmlessly on their slate-coated surface.

This security is vital to your peace of mind—yet you get it at little extra cost when you select Brantford Asphalt Slates. You also get permanence, rich and varied colour harmonies and freedom from roofing trouble.

In most communities the reduced insurance on buildings roofed with Brantford Asphalt Slates is itself a convincing reason for using these handsome, heavy shingles. Inspect them at your dealer's, and write for our booklet, "Beauty With Fire Protection"—an authoritative treatise on the proper type, design, finish and colour for your roof.

GOOD MARKET FOR CANADIAN PRODUCTS

Commissioner Optimistic About Opportunites For Expansion of Dominion Trade.

Paris, May 18 (By the Canadian Press)—After an extended tour through Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia, Colonel Hercule Barre, Canadian Trade Commissioner in France is very optimistic about the opportunities for the expansion of Dominion trade in those protectorates.

Morocco, he finds, requires plant and equipment on a large scale. She will prove an important customer for countries that will study her needs and supply them. As there is equal treatment for all nations in the matter of custom duties and internal taxes, Canadian manufacturers should be able to secure a substantial share of the orders sent abroad by Morroccans.

The Dominion is already selling to Morocco more than 25,500,000 francs worth of wheat annually and almost 2,000,000 francs worth of machinery and spare parts. There is also a market for fish, prepared meats, fruits and seeds.

The United States has almost captured the automobile, tractor and agricultural implement trade but there is no reason why Canada could not obtain a share of it. French being the language spoken, it is an advantage to send price-lists and other publicity matter in that language. At the moment it is also an advantage to ship goods via New York for Casablanca. Sixty days credit is the rule.

Regarding Algeria, the extensive programme of economic development now under way, makes that market well worth the attention of Canadian exporters. It is true that the free trade relations between Algeria and France favor the French manufacturers. But if the Dominion can find a market in France, there is no reason why she should not find a similar one in the latter's premier colony.

There is a vast market for machinery, cheap motors, tractors, automobiles, timber cereals, leaf tobacco, asbestos goods, tinned meats and raw and refined sugar. The natives demand cheap goods but the large number of Europeans in Algeria are quite willing to pay fair prices for quality goods.

Canada exports annually to Algeria about 28,000,000 francs worth of goods and the United States seven times that amount. The Dominion exports are mainly cereals and fish and the United States timber, machinery, motor cars, meats, sugar and metal goods. Algiers is the leading port.

Colonel Barre referred to the proposed construction of the Trans-Saharian Railway which will link together all the French African possessions. He pointed out that the absolutely sterile distance in the desert is only 500 miles as compared with the thousand miles between Freemantle and Port Augusta on theAustralian Railway. To meet part of the Capital cost, it is proposed to use German deliveries under the Dawes Plan. To provide more water for irrigation and other purposes, France has voted 250 million francs to be spent during the next 10 years. Both these schemes will enlarge the Algerian market materially. Incidentally it is semi-officially stated that the French Government is at present considering the issue of a loan of five billion francs to accelerate the rate of expansion of France's African colonies and protectorates.

Evangelist and Mother Smooth Over Differences

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 17 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, last night declared they had smoothed over the differences which have kept them apart since August, 1927. They met yesterday when Mrs. Kennedy, who has been living in Seattle, made an unannounced visit to Los Angeles.

A row over finances of Angelus Temple, the church conducted by Mrs. McPherson, which resulted in the evangelist ousting Mrs. Kennedy from the organization, began the separation.

To Editor of Examiner:
Dear Sir:

A MACADAMIZED KEENE TO PETERBOROUGH HIGHWAY

Not a dream, but a realty, and I hardly thing it would be necessary to do very much scaping to have it come true.

The writer is very much more pleased to praise than to condemn the work of a public servant, and the work of the road master and those that labor with him on this road (not desk men) for the last two weeks is very commendable, as the road is getting back to the same condition as it was before this stone was put on.

The scraper has not been used on this road lately, and gravel has been placed in the wheel tracks.

The writer of last evening has quoted other county roads in this vicinity, and also a Circus Performer, as proof that crushed stone is good for auto tires.

Perhaps the defender of unrolled, uncrushed stone on county roads is still burning candles, and has not woke up to the fact that Thomas A. Edison, 50 years ago, October 21st, 1879, invented the first incandescent lamp.

It is with such things as this in mind, that the writer wishes to see an improvement for those living on the county roads as well as those on the main highways.

FORT CHURCHILL IS PROSPEROUS

Northern Port Promises To Become One of Canada's Most Talked of New Settlements.

Winnipeg, Man., May 18 (By the Canadian Press)—Unassuming in its modest beginning, a tiny community on the east side of Hudson Bay, and at the northern termination of the Canadian National Railway in Manitoba, promises to become one of Canada's most talked of new settlements. It is Churchill, less than three thousand sea miles from Liverpool in a direct course—the closest outlet from Canada's wheat lands to the sea.

Though Churchill-to-Winnipeg heavy traffic has not yet commenced, it will be under way, it is expected, during next autumn. The route from The Pas, 500 miles north and west of Winnipeg, to Churchill on the bay was completed but a few weeks ago. The ceremonious driving of the last spike within a few months will mark the start of regular service on the line.

Just 175 miles farther than Montreal from Liverpool, the new western seaport lies at the mouth of the Churchill river. The harbor, about four miles in width and eight miles in length at high water, is a bottle-shaped body of water determined by two points stretching out on either side into the Bay.

The height of land on the two rocky arms which almost enclose the harbor varies from about forty feet above mean sea level at the points of the promontorics to 144 feet on the western and 77 feet on the eastern arm. The entire region of the harbor is redeemed from desolation by growth of coniferous trees and willows, especially on the west arm, where scrub and tamarac up to eight inches in diameter of trunk may be found.

Vessels entering Churchill Harbor will float through its narrow mouth in ten fathoms of water; the width of the mouth is 3,000 feet at high water. At the tip of the western land arm is Fort Prince of Wales; and, on a small island just beyond, a beacon; another beacon is located on the battery at the extremity of the eastern arm. At this side of the harbor-neck, just inside the mouth, are the new docks.

Fully two miles from the first harbor opening, the neck opens at Cockles Point, from a high water width of a mile and a half to the inner harbor four miles across.

Like a gigantic horseshoe the so-called pre-Cambrian Shield surrounds Hudson Bay, on the western side of which Churchill is located. The Bay is about 1,000 miles from north to south, including James Bay at the far south, and is about 600 miles across at its widest stretch. Passage from Hudson Bay to the Atlantic Ocean is through Hudson Straits, itself an imposing salt water thoroughfare 300 miles long and 100 miles wide.

Roughly, the depth of water in the Bay is 50 to 80 fathoms, until nearing the Straits when the depth increases to 125 fathoms and reaches 225 fathoms as approach is made to the Atlantic.

Today Churchill is in much the same state as when it served as a haven for mariners of Hudson Bay many years ago. But when modern methods for dispersing tidal ice are provided, the shelter of those appealing arms will be afforded to nautical waifs of mid-winter, it is expected.

TORONTO, Ont., May 18.—That an endeavor should be made to obtain legislation to prohibit the sale of strychnine without the signature of the purchaser was urged by Dr. Thomas Johnston, inspector for the Peterborough Humane Society, speaking at the ninth annual meeting of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, yesterday.

Executive officers were all re-elected.

Every phase of performance has been developed to a remarkable degree.

In appearance, this finer Oldsmobile is a tribute to the designing genius of Fisher artist engineers.

The roomy interiors are luxuriously appointed and richly upholstered. Restful riding ease is assured by four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers.

C.G.E. Tulip Beds Attractive Sight

Kitchener and Toronto are having quite a discussion as to where the best tulip beds are to be found in the province, but it is hard to convince anyone connected with the Canadian General Electric Company that the best tulips are to be found in either Kitchener or Toronto, but are to be found in front of the C.G.E. office building on Park street.

Just now they are at their best and are a very pretty sight.

MUCH PRODUCE ON THE MARKET

Early Spring Flowers and Small Plants Offered To Buyers.

EGGS PLENTIFUL.

Green and growing things were the main produce on the farmers' market this morning. The odor of wild plum blossoms, spicy, pungent, came from a basket of them on one table upstairs, while red potted geraniums at 20 cents a pot added a touch of bright color to the lower section.

Bouquets of yellow daffodils and white double tulips in the basket section were priced at 40 cents a dozen. Shy white and pink English daisies, in bloom, were 10 cents a small plant, the same as their companions; monkshood and sweet william.

A downstair vendor had a new plant in Virginica, or false dragon's head. Plants of zinnias and snapdragon and asters in boxes were 20 cents a box and dahlia bulbs, in red, yellow and mauve, sold by a little boy and girl, were quoted at 2 for a nickel.

Tomatoes in a long "flat" were $1 for 105 growing plants, for 20 cents in boxes of smaller size. They were the "Early Anne" variety.

Potatoes were 85 cents and $1 a bag, spinach 2 pounds for a quarter and asparagus sold at 2 bunches for 35 cents.

A six weeks' old collie pup was offered at $2. Little Yorkshire pigs were $12 a pair.

In the basket section, broilers were 50 cents a pound and older birds 30 and 35 cents. Eggs sold from 26 to 30 cents a dozen and butter from 42 to 45 cents a pound.

Rear Admiral Pays Visit

The first man to call on Dr. Hugo Eckener, the dirigible's master, after he arose late this morning, was Rear Admiral Bintry, commanding the French Naval Base at Toulon.

"I have a duty of gratitude to fulfil," the German Commonder told the French Read Admiral. "I wish to express my sincerest thanks to the French navy for the efficacious assistance rendered us in our landing."

In that short conversation which followed, Dr. Eckener insisted especially on the word "efficacious," repeating it three or four times.

He was not the hale and hearty man he has been pictured in France. On the contrary he appeared pale and drawn, with his eyes bloodshot. He who generally has been so calm had a nervous twisting to his mouth and the left side of his face, plain evidence of the terrific strain to which he had been subjected during the battle of the elements over Southern France yesterday.

Feared Forced Landing.

It was no secret here that the German commander did everything possible to avert a forced landing in France. When turning back while off the coast of Spain it was Dr. Eckener's deep-rooted intention to make Friedrichshafen under the dirigible's own power, even though two of its motors were already out of commission.

The third motor passed out near Nimes, and the fourth motor was silenced when passing over Montelimar, in the hours that followed the violence of the cold north-west wind forced a change in his plans, necessitating even his eventual call for help to the French authorities.

"We have failed to cross the Atlantic as we had done before, and as we shall do again before long," Dr. Eckener said.

SEVENTY WOMEN SEEKING SEATS

Twenty-nine Women Laborites As Candidates in British General Election.

LONDON, May 18 (By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Mary Pickford is the Conservative candidate in Farnworth, Lancashire, and one of the 70 women candidates in the British general election campaign. She is not the Toronto-born girl famous the world over, of course. Miss Pickford is the daughter of the late Lord Sterndale, who filled that august judicial office of Master of the rolls, and she was formerly a factory inspector with the Home Office.

The seventy women candidates comprise 29 Laborites, 25 Liberals, 11 Conservatives, 4 Communists and one Independent. Eight of the 10 women members of the last Parliament are seeking re-election: Lady Astor, the Duchess of Atholl and Lady Iveagh, Conservative; Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Miss Suzan Lawrence, Miss Margaret Bondfield and Miss Jenny Lee, Labor; and Mrs. Walter Runiciman, Liberal. Mrs. Hugh Dalton, Labor, the 9th last member, will undoubtedly again seek election. The 10th is Mrs. Hilton Philipson, formerly Mabel Russell, a Conservative, who is retiring from politics.

Miss May Williams, Conservative candidate in Pontypridd, was the youngest woman barrister when she was called to the bar two years ago.

The labor women include Lady Cynthia Moseley, daughter of the late Lord Curzon of Kedleston and wife of Sir Oswald, who created a stir last year by his hesitance to accept the title falling to him from his father. Lady Clare Annesley is again fighting in West Bristol on Labor's behalf. Mrs. Harrison Bell is contesting Luton while her son is seeking election in Wood Green.

The youngest woman candidate in the field is a Liberal, Miss Betty Morgan in Sunderland. Miss Megan Iloyd George is contesting Anglesey; Mrs. C. F. Masterman, widow of the former Cabinet minister, is contesting Salisbury and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham is contesting her old riding of Louth.

SIDELIGHTS ON ELECTION

(By Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 18.—Brig.-General Alfred Cecil Critchley, D.S.O., a native of Calgary, Alta., is Conservative candidate in Gorton, Manchester, and is encountering a good deal of opposition. The soldier, who served with the 1st Canadian Division in the world war, organized greyhound racing in England in 1926 and is manager of the Bellevue Gardens track here, and Mrs. Beatrice Bayfield, Liberal, is attacking him on this score especially. J. Compton, Labor member, is also a candidate.

Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, and reputed the wealthiest young bachelor in the United Kingdom, is again a candidate in Hythe, Kent, and is opposed by Miss G. M. Coleman, Labor, and Miss Hester Holland, Liberal. Hythe has long returned Conservatives to Parliament. In 1924 Sir Philip had a majority of nearly 9,000 over a Labor opponent, but 8,000 new women voters are on the register.

On the biggest hoarding in Grantham is the Conservative Party's largest election poster carrying a picture of Premier Stanley Baldwin. Directly underneath in big letters are the words "You can't get in," which is the title of a revue being staged at a local theatre.

Lord Stanley, Deputy Chairman of the Conservative Party, tells this story of a new woman voter. She was asked which party she intended to support. "Oh, I shall vote Labor because my husband gets his money at the Labor Exchange every week," she replied.

Local Boxers Awarded Decisions at "Y" Tourney

ACTION MIXED UP APLENTY AS LINDSAY MITT SLINGERS CLASH WITH LOCAL BOXERS

Houzer and Goodson Supply Feature Bout in Flyweight Whirl.

TWO KNOCK-DOWNS.

Lesurf and Martin in Turn Floored in Final Decision Match.

Action was mixed up and administered in copious doses to the fans who saw the third tourney of the "Y" boxing club in which mitt slingers of the Lindsay Monarch A. C. engaged local boxers in decision bouts in the gymnasium last night. Every engagement in which the Lindsay boxers and the locals clashed was crowded with peg and flying fists.

The large audience which ranged around the gallery and on the floor of the gym thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it, judging by their enthusiastic applause. What the boys lacked in technique they more than made up for in eager and willing exchange blows. Carded on the bill were also several bouts in which only the local students met, these too showed that the boxers have made steady progress since their last appearance.

George Graham refereed the bouts and twice he was called upon to cast the deciding vote when umpires Jess Walton of iLndsay and Walter Perks of Peterborough could not reach a unanimous conclusion. James Dempsey handled the local mitt artists while Jack Young of Lindsay coached the Scugog boys. Wilf. Jones, the local coach of the class, was master of ceremonies and Doug. Loomis rang the gong and kept time.

Two men were sprawled on the carpet in the bouts, the first time that a boxer has been knocked to the canvass in any of the "Y" tourneys. Reg Lesurf being floored by Euster Martin of Lindsay and he in turn upsetting Martin.

Frank Wood vs. George Broadley

These two members of the local boxing club, weighing 140 pounds, opened up the smart show. Both boys fought at long range, shooting lefts that were often wide of the mark. Wood took the offensive at the outset, Broadley replying on every opening. Broadley appeared to be the best boxer but Wood kept pressing the attack. The blows were all aimed at the head. Wood using a straight left to advantage. Wood was forcing the work as Broadley tired toward the end and he had Broadley on the ropes with some telling blows.

"Buddy" Goodson vs. Percy Houzer

"Buddy" Goodson of Peterborough hooked up with Percy Houzer of Lindsay in a flyweight bout that presented some of the fastest and cleverest boxing of the whole evening. Goodson won Judge Graham's decision when the impires disagreed on their verdict.

These two little fighters unleased a burst of speed. The bout opened with both warily circling each other, looking for an opening. When they did engage they let loose like a small thunderbolt, exchanging stinging blows with lightning like rapidity. Both boys were smart on their feet and darted in like ferrets with short jabs that were always well placed.

The first round was even, each circling the other and testing out their chances. Goodson went in like a bullet at the bell in the second round, but Houzer was eager and willing to trade with him and they clashed like fighting cocks in the centre. Both crowded in close and swapped short jabs, head-to-head. Houzer left an opening once when he shot out his left and Goodson sprang in and had him slightly groggy on the ropes. The second round was Goodson's by a slight margin. The crowd applauded enthusiastically.

The third started with a rush that showed that both these-arm swinging bantams were in good condition. Goodson continued to have a shade the advantage. He sprung in like a dancing master, exchanging from close quarters. Although the bout was peppy with both seeking to land hard, absolute friendliness was paramount and they embraced in Houzer's corner at the concluding gong.

George Cassie vs. Neil Gemmel

This was another local bout, the boys being tall and slender weighing in at 126 pounds. Both were loathe to get in too close and were content to dodge and exchange at long range. Cassie exhibited some shifty footwork, but Gemmell was a little the smarter of the two. Both neglected the body in their anxious aims at connecting with the chin.

Otto Laderach vs. Art. Wildman

This was a hammer-and-tong affray between Otto Laderach of Peterborough and Art Wildman of Lindsay. Both are husky, solid lads weighing in at 160 pounds, and they laid into it with a will. Again referee Graham was called upon to give a decision when the umpires failed to agree and he chose the Lindsay man as the victor.

The crowd sensed action right at the start by the manner in which the boys squared off in the centre of the ring. Laderach ripped out a straight left and Wildman replied with a right to the jaw. Both blows was sent on their journey with purpose. Both used their lefts and never backed up.

The second round supplied the tidbit of the evening in the way of real honest to goodness hand-to-hand 'you hit me I hit you' fighting. They put their heads together in the centre of the ring and flailed each other lustily without a breather for a minute and a half. They swapped solid blows right and left and both threw all caution and guard to the winds, while the fans, forgetting themselves, roared approval.

The third round was a little slower repetition of the second stanza, like an encore. Again good sportsmanship was the prominent feature between these lusty leather smackers and they grinned approval at each other across the ropes at the conclusion. Wildman was awarded the decision.

"Bim" Sturgeon vs. Keith Copping

This was a smart bout between these two local students of the fistic art weighing 140 pounds. Both proved that they have assimilated greedily all the dope that Wilfred Jones has been teaching them. Both were speedy on their feet and swung rapier-like lefts, but always at the face. Sturgeon led off continually but Copping covered nicely and never failed to reply with a stinger. It was a long range bout, and as Copping tired in the last round Sturgeon exhibited considerable superiority.

Reg. Lesurf vs. Buster Martin

Reg. Lesurf of Peterborough and Buster Martin at 130 pounds in this bout endeavoured diligently to knock the stuffing out of each other and they came within a hair's breath of success. Lesurf was awarded the bout when he knocked Martin to the mat after a minute in the second round. Martin was groggy and referee Graham was wise in calling it quits before any real damage ensued.

The bout opened in a whirl wind of flying gloves, and ten seconds after the start Lesurf kissed the canvas when Martin connected with the button. He was up in a moment and both swung gloves at the mid-riff. Martin looked every inch a boxer, handling himself cleverly and sending blows with either hand, while Lesurf exhibited smart foot-work and hit blows that carried the skull and cross bones. After Lesurf's knock down it was even Stephen, each showing ring generalship and a consuming desire to get at close quarters.

The second round rung up with a burst of rapid fire exchanges when Lesurf caught Martin an upper cut to the button that sent him heavily to the canvass. Martin rose up gamely but wisely called it "enough" awarding the scrap to Lesurf.

Maurice Peppin vs. Bill Taylor

This bout rung the curtain down on the evening's entertainment and these two local boxers swung plenty of leather at each other. It was a smart peppy exhibition with continual action, minus any damage.

Pepping showed something of the famous Dempsey crouch, going down on his right knee every time he hit with his left, Taylor on the other hand stood upright and searchingly circled his opponent. Both hit out freely and there were few blows misplaced. It was even until Peppin tired at the last and Taylor, still fresh, began to have the advantage.

LEAFS DROP FIRST GAME OF SERIES TO ROYALS

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor;

Well, Mac, if the weather ever gets its chills extracted the Central Ontario loop is all ready for the season, and the 4 teams will go over the top next Fri., the Petes performing in Oshawa and Mister Elliott's Deloro-Queen's team in Belleville.

The Central magnets met here last Sat., and the feature was the certificates which was passed and which showed that Deloro's summer course for university students is hitting on all 8 cyclinders. Whether the lads themselves hit that well or not, Prexy Elliott's bailiewick will be represented by 1 smart team, and all and sundry round the circuit will have to watch the rah-rah boys all the way. The new arrivals won't exactly weaken the Smelters, what I mean, and I for 1 expect the boys from the great open spaces to be tough meat for anybody's team. As for the rest, Belleville will be dangerous in spite of shaky pitching, and Oshawa, with a lot of unknown material, may round out a machine that will be a threat.

The Petes is in as good shape for the opening as they could be expected to be in view of the weather brakes. They been doing what they could outside and Mister Loomis has been giving them the odd dose of physical jerks in the Y gym., so all in all they won't be too bad when the barrier is lifted up at Oshawa next week. Mister Swanston has more material than usual, with a greater percentage of young stuff, and he ain't going to have the easiest job in the world making his selections.

James Stevenson Park is still all wet, and it is a lucky brake for the Petes that they ain't called upon to perform at home for 2 weeks yet, by which time the grounds across the crick may be above water and all will be lovely. Meanwhile Mister Swanston's lads will wander in foreign territory, playing in Oshawa May 24 and in Belleville May 29 before returning to the home lot for the season's opener at home, with none other than the Deloro Smelters.

Since last week, Mac, we got another and mebbe 2 more teams in foreign competition. The Raybestos team is now full fledged members of the Lakeshore group, and rumor has it the Cogs may follow the Brakeliners into the loop with Port Hope, Cobourg and Oshawa. The Rays plan to operate at James Stevenson Park when the Petes is absent, and what with daylight saving making twilight games possible, Mister Bill Kay's team oughta do well. Incidental they will be plenty of outside ball for the fans to glimpse, even if the Cogs don't also get into this Lakeshore outfit.

All in all, Mac, it oughta be quite a ball season—quite a ball season, boy!—with a whole flock of outside teams showing their wares here. They oughta be enough material to go round, too, and everything points to a red-letter year.

The Petes is planning a flossy opening two weeks from to-day when Mister Bill Regan will led Mister Elliott's Deloros into action here. Keep the date open, Mac, if you don't want to miss something.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

Woodbine Opens To-day With Running of King's Plate Event.

CIRCULET NAMED.

J. Mailen Will Ride Seagram's Choice This Afternoon.

TORONTO, Ont., May 18 (C.P.).—To-day is King's Plate Day at Woodbine—to the racing world of Ontario the greatest occasion of the year. If the weather is fair, and indicatons this morning were that it would be, probably 30,000 people will witness the 70th renewal of the oldest racing fixture continuously run on this continent.

Since it was first inaugurated the Plate has grown in importance, until to-day it is the most widely-known of Canadian horse races. On 18 different occasions the Seagram colors have been carried to victory and at one period the Waterloo sportments scored eight successive triumphs—a remarkable record which probably never will be equalled.

To-day the Seagrams hold a strong hand again in Circulet, a chestnut gelding by Golden Sphere from Leety Ling. Thousands have made him favorite and no other horse entered in the Canadian bred classic has been deemed quite his equal. While he has shown nothing sensational, his trials have been of an even nature, the final quarter always as rapid as the first with the colt running well within himself. He will have the advantage of a first class jockey in the saddle. J. Maiben having been engaged to ride.

Nineteen Will Start

The Seagrams have named three to start in the Plate, as have also the J. C. Fletcher and the Hastings stables. In all 19 are programmed and barring Circulet, they are a well-balanced lot. If this son of Golden Sphere were not named, it would seem a very open race. The Hastings stable have engaged L. Schaffer and R. Leonard to ride two of their horses, Son of Harmony and Cuddle Doon. The other two Seagram starters, Dance Circle and Irish Sphere will be ridden by P. Goodwin and P. McGinnis. C. Phillips will ride Daisy Fair and A. Mann will have the mount on Lindsay, said to be the pick of the Fletcher lot.

The plate is programmed as the fourth race. Besides the 50 guineaus, the gift of King George, it will carry at value of $10,765 to the winner. The Ontario Jockey Club adds $15,000 to the plate, and the owner of the second horse gets $2,500, the third $1,000 and the fourth $500. The breeder of the winner receives $1,000.

Woodbine is at its best for the opening by the Ontario Jockey Club of the Canadian racing season. Its officers have done everything possible to perfect the beauty of the course and improve the quality of the racing. More and better horses than ever have been stabled at Woodbine Park before, are there now.

Besides being an outstanding sporting feature, the King's Plate running has become a social event of importance. Representatives of Ontario official, political and social life will be present this afternoon, and if the weather is fine Dame Fashion will rule on the lawns as usual. His Honor Lieut.-Gov. W. D. Ross will be there; Premier Howard Ferguson probably will come too, and there will be a host of others of importance. Viscount and Lady Willingdon were here at last year's running, but this year will not arrive until Monday.

Apart from the feature race, the program is an excellent one. Additional attractions are the $5,000 Aintree Steeplechase, over a two-mile course in which a field of 14 has been named; the Trial Plant Handicap, in which 17 will start, and the Cavendish Plate, a dash of four and a half furlongs, which has attracted one of the best fields of two-year-olds that will sport silk on the Canadian circuits this season.

Prince Of Wales And Walter Hagen Defeat Opponents In Golf Match

SWINLEY FOREST, Eng., May 18. (C.P.) — The Prince of Wales and Walter Hagen, visiting golf star, defeated Sir Victor Sassoon and Aubrey Boomer, the English star, by two holes in a four-some golf match to-day.

LONDON, May 18. (C.P.) — The matter of when and where the Prince of Wales and Walter Hagen would have their week-end golf match was a mystery this morning.

The United States golf professional and his manager, Bob Harlow, stepped from a Moortown sleeper in London, in the grim grey hours not long after dawn. To queries both Hagen and Harlow replied that they were sorry but they could not talk about the golf match.

The Prince did not want any gallery, and his wishes must be respected, they said. Hagen would not even suggest the time or place of the big show. As Hagen breakfasted his hotel was watched by the reporters, the idea being to trail him when he left for his match.

MEXICO CITY, May 18. — C. P.)— Each day recently has brought its gains in President Emilio Portes Gil's war on liquor.

An announcement published to-day said that the Mexico City Council had decided to prohibit sale of liquor in dance halls, while Abundio Gomez, Under-secretary of War, said drunkards should be dismissed from the Mexican army. Strict watches are to be inaugurated at all barracks to prevent drinking of pulque or other liquors.

The City Council's order also prohibited further operation of dance halls as adjuncts to movie halls and prohibited waitresses working in cabarets.

LOOP SCHEDULE OPENS MAY 24; FOUR ENTRIES

Cognawagas, Crescents, Bethany and Hastings Teams Will Compose League.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Complete Schedule Will Be Made Up at Executive Meeting On May 25.

Four teams are entered in the East Peterborough League and matters are all settled for another big season of baseball. Cognawagas, Crescents, Bethany and Hastings made their entry at a meeting of league held in the Chamber of Commerce offices last evening.

Hastings won the county section of the East Peterborough League last year, being defeated only after a close series by Raybestos, champions of the league and finalists for the Ontario Intermediate championship. Hastings has been in communication with the executive for the past few days and although no representative from this club was present at the meeting, their entry is assured.

Bill Kay was re-elected to the president's chair and Charlie Curtiss also to his old office of secretary. The vice-presidents will be A. Brioux of Crescents; W. Hanna, of Bethany; Bill Wellman of Hastings and Bob Ross of Cognawagas.

Schedule Opens May 24

It was arranged that the schedule will open on May 24, the Cogs playing at Bethany. No further schedule of games will be drawn up until Saturday, May 25. The next meeting of the executive will be held on that date and the complete schedule made.

Invitations will be sent Alex Kay, Edgar Lebarr, Jack McCarney and an umpire in Hastings to act as the staff of umpires. Other matters which have puzzled the league were settled away, and the tone of the meeting augured another successful year of baseball for the East Peterborough League.

Final arrangements were made for the building of a new screen at Exhibition Park and the erection of a new score board.

Salo finished second yesterday, to cut 23 minutes and 50 seconds from the lead of Gavuzzi, who was fourth. Sam Richman, New York, captured the lap and advanced ahead of Paul Simpson, Burlington, N.C., to fourth place in elapsed time.

Swimmers Train At Fenelon Falls

Newspapers, public gossip and the signs of the times all have it Fenelon Falls is favored by Teddy Oke as the location for his big training camp for George Young, Olive Gotterdam, Jewell Cheatwood, Ruth Tower and Helen Gallon for 1929 at least.

George Young, in company with his trainer, Tommy Bell, paid a visit to Fenelon Falls on Wednesday last and carefully sized up the situation. Fenelon Falls, situated as it is, between two lakes and with the sheltered river through the centre of the town, presents an ideal training camp to put Canada's Hope in shape for the big swim in September.

The little summering town deserves great credit in securing this very outstanding form of advertising for their community, as they have had considerable opposition from practically all towns and villages that are able to sport a "swimmin' Hole" of any dimensions, and their opposition have offered much for such an attraction. However, as this paper has often pointed out a real live Board of Trade can work wonders for its community, and Fenelon Falls has just that, and it is understood that it is from their constant efforts stretching away back into the winter months that has caused the smile of the genial sportsman Teddy Oke and his swimming wonders to rest upon Fenelon Falls.

E.P.L. READY FOR THE SEASON.

The East Peterborough League is all straightened away for another successful season of baseball, with four strong teams prepared to play for the bunting. Hastings, champions of the County section of this league last year, is the new entry in the local section. Bethany, Crescents and Cognawagas complete the list.

A strong executive headed by Bill Kay, who was re-elected to the presidency was selected to manage the league's affairs. This league has always been particularly fortunate in getting good men at the helm of their affairs.

The opening game is slated for Bethany in which the Cogs clash with the villagers. Bethany will likely field a smart nine with the aid that is promised by local players.

SMART BOXING IN "Y" TOURNEY.

Again success, with a Capital S, must be written over a Y.M.C.A. boxing tourney. Although only three Lindsay mitt artists engaged in bouts with Wilf. Jones' students, action and go was crowded into the forays in sufficient quantity to satisfy everyone.

The feature bout of the evening was a flyweight whirl between Houzer of Lindsay and Goodson of Peterborough. This pair of gamecocks did a heel and toe while testing each other out in the first round, then they cut loose with a swirl of battering gloves.

The first knock-downs in "Y" boxing history was scored by Martin, a Scugog boxer, and Reg. Lesurf of the locals. Martin floored in the first round, but Lesurf returned to give his opponent a stormy passage in the second.

SOFTBALL MOGULS MEET THIS AFTERNOON.

The softball moguls are holding a meeting this afternoon to receive the final entries and draw up the schedule. The games will be played on the Central school grounds, permission to use this diamond having been secured from the Board of Education. This park is somewhat stoney and it is likely that some repairs will be given it by the softballers to prepare it for their games.

LAWN BOWLERS PREPARE FOR SEASON.

The wet weather has retarded the work on the new greens of the Lawn Bowling Club, but the workmen have succeeded in plowing and levelling the property. Already some indication of the beauty and extent of the greens when the plans of the bowlers are completed, can be gained.

The tennis division of the club has its full membership of fifty now, and it is expected that the game will boom under the leadership of the bowlers.

OVER BASEBALL'S WELL-WORN TRAIL.

How they travel around! A few years ago Pitcher Hugh McQuillan, former Leaf, was rated with the best moundsmen in the major leagues. To-day he is with Toledo, and is having a hard time making a regular place. Jim Riley, ex-Toronto outfielder, is with San Antonio, and Hans Lobert, one of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is managing the Bridgeport team in the Eastern League. Latest despatches from baseball headquarters also show that Kid Elberfield is with Little Rock, Eddie Eayrs with New Haven, Danny McPhee with Haverhill, Del Capes with Williamsport, Mark Purtell with Independence, and Pitcher Charles Robertson of no-hit, perfect-game fame, is with Milwaukee. Jim Holt a first baseman of class, with Jersey City and Montreal, voluntarily retired, but reconsidered and has been reinstated. He will play for Nashville. Bill Kelley, the former Buffalo slugger, who holds the International League home-run record, has been sent to Beaumont. Then there is Maurice Craft, a hard hitter, who once patrolled the outfield for Toronto. He is clouting hard for Spartanburg, but that's a long way down the trail. —The Globe.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE BELLAMY TRIAL" BAFFLING MYSTERY, AT THE CAPITOL ON MONDAY. THE GREATEST COURT ROOM DRAMA OF ALL TIMES. ALSO VAUDEVILLE.

Who killed Mimi Bellamy?

The answer will be provided when "The Bellamy Trial" opens at the Capitol Monday.

With Leatrice Joy in the leading role as the beautiful murder defendant, the murder drama is played by a cast that represents one of the greatest assemblages of screen talent ever to appear in one production.

There are seventeen principal players and during the filming of the huge courtroom scenes some eighty persons were under weekly contracts and several hundred extra players were used.

Introduced to the screen in a most novel manner by Monta Bell who wrote and directed the screen play from the sensational magazine serial by Frances Noyes Hart, the mystery drama maintains a thrilling tempo of suspense that is dispelled only in the final footage that reveals the real murderer.

As the woman on trial Miss Joy brings to the screen an impressively sincere character delineation that reaps for her new honors as a free-lance star. George Barraud plays opposite her as the loyal husband who stands by his wife in the face of terrible accusations. Kenneth Thompson is the man defendant, the husband of the woman whose slaying provides the motivation for the plot.

With the preponderance of evidence against them, the defendants listen to the prosecutor demand their lives to expiate the crime of which they are accused. An eleventh-hour development saves them from a conviction but the murder remains unsolved until the last reel dramatic thrill shows all the amateur detectives in the audiences how very wrongly they suspected perfectly innocent persons in the cast.

In the stellar cast with Miss Joy, Barraud and Thompson are Margaret Livingston, Betty Bronson, Margaret Seddon, Edward Nugent, Cosmo Kyrle Bellew, Charles B. Middleton, Charles H. Malles, Jacquelin Gadsion, Polly Ann Young, Kalla Pasha, Dan Mason, Polly Moran, William Tooker, Jack Raymond and Robert Dudley.

Ross and Flynn a good comedy team and Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in another of their side-splitting comedies will be on the same program.

UNITED STATES WINS CUP RACE FROM CANADA

American Players Show Marked Superiority in Tennis Play-offs.

TAKE THREE OUT OF FOUR.

Canadians Stage Remarkable Rally in Third Set of Doubles.

MONTREAL, May 18. (C.P.) — The United States took a decisive step forward in their quest for the Davis Cup International Tennis Trophy, by defeating Canada in the first round of the American zone play. John Hennessey of Indianapolis, Ind., and John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N.J., yesterday won the doubles match from Dr. Jack Wright, Montreal, and Dr. Art Ham, Toronto, and as the visitors captured both the opening singles on Thursday they have eliminated Canada from further play in the cup tournament this year.

Two singles remain to be run off to-day but will not affect the result.

Yesterday's score was 6-1; 6-0; 1-6; 6-2. The Americans showed a marked superiority throughout except in the third set when the Canadians desperate because of the lead piled up against them crashed through with a remarkable rally and led by Dr. Wright, took the set rather easily. Their bolt was shot however and the greater steadiness and placing ability of the Americans won them the fourth set and the match.

The score of the round so far is:

Opening singles: John Van Ryn, United States, defeated Willard Crocker, Canada; 9-7; 6-2; 6-3.

Second singles: John Hennessey, United States, defeated Jack Wright, Canada, 6-3, 4-6; 6-1; 7-5.

Doubles: Hennessey and Van Ryn, United States, defeated Wright and Ham, 6-1; 6-1; 1-6; 6-2.

The next opponent for the United States' team will be Japan.

To-day's games will find John Van Ryn playing Dr. Wright and John Hennessey meeting Willard Crocker. The Canadians are anxious to restore their prestige somewhat by taking at least one match of the series, and will be all out for that purpose. The task is a difficult one however.

HAVE YOU SEEN GRANT'S ADVT. ON PAGE 13

It had to have big six quality to attract such people as these

JUST look at the people who are buying the Pontiac Big Six. They're progressive, representative motorists . . many of them former owners of high-priced cars.

They are being attracted by the thousand to the Pontiac Big Six because it offers, at low price, the Big Car quality and performance they look for and demand.

Because it has a Big, six-cylinder engine, with the famous GMR high-compression cylinder head. Because its line-of-drive is accurately balanced. Because it has big, beautiful Bodies by Fisher. Because it has the comfort of Lovejoy Shock Absorbers . . spring covers . . the security of big, noiseless internal-expanding four-wheel brakes. And because it has an array of big-car features never before bought together at anywhere near its price.

You should see Pontiac Big Six before you spend more money for a Big Car, or the same money for a smaller car.

CHURCH SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Good Program Provided By Members of St. James' Ladies' Aid.

HEAR REPORT.

The ladies of St. James' United Church take a special delight in holding fast to the good old name "The Ladies' Aid Society" by which they have accomplished so much for their church.

In a quiet but persistent way, they go about their business, in which not a little amusement enters, drawing the women of the church into one great family.

A novel feature of this year's social affairs are the birthday parties held each month under the capable president, Mrs. A. Wilson and her splendid corps of helpers.

On Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Wilson presiding, a program of more than ordinary excellence was given, opening with the good old hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name", in which everyone heartily joined.

Miss Aileen Rose contributed a delightful piano solo, Godard's "Valse Chromatic" and Mrs. Ernest Kitney a group of vocal solos "When Love Brings a Smile in Your Heart" and "Sonny Boy" sung in beautiful contralto voice. Mrs. J. Fairbrother, one of St. James' representatives to the local council of women, gave a splendid report of their last meeting, held in the Green room at the Y.W.C.A where a most enjoyable hour was spent. Of special interest was the address by Mrs. Smythe, president of the provincial council of women, in which she outlined some of the important things done by the National Council. A few of these might be mentioned again. Legislation for women inspectors for women and girl inspection of boarding houses, need of police matron, supervised play grounds. Domestic science for girls, manual training for boys, vagrant amendment act, Victorian Order of Nurses, Red Cross of Canada, care of the feeble-minded, mother to be joint guardian of children, Mother's Allowance act. Minimum wage act for girls, and many other equally as important acts.

Following this were vocal solos, "Mother Machree" and "That Wonderful Mother of Mine", sung by Mrs. Wm. McLaren. A humorous reading by Mrs. George Rowe was much enjoyed, calling forth an encore, "Grandmother's Heaven."

A chorus by the five ladies who are this month celebrating a birthday, added much to the entertainment.

Little Thelma McLaren sang while tea was being served, by the ladies in charge. Mrs. J. Sanderson poured tea, the table being prettily decorated with daffodils and other May flowers. Prayer offered by Mrs. Mann brought to a conclusion this happy birthday party.

The Dack shoe is—that is as near perfect as human skill and care can make it.

When you realize that Dack's have for over 100 years been measuring and fitting men's feet both in their shops and by mail and that men from Halifax to Vancouver, year after year order their shoes from Dack's by mail; the above claim does not seem so far from the truth.

Swifter-safer smoother miles on the ROYAL MASTER

THERE has never been a tire like the ROYAL MASTER. It cannot be compared with other tires.

In its construction, old methods have been discarded. Its tread is new. It has new sidewall construction. It is an entirely new tire from start to finish.

There is no metal, no heat-generating material in its impenetrable, massive tread. A tread that is double-thick, cured by a new slow process that toughens it not only against punctures but against the grinding abrasions of the road.

Not one Royal Master in a thousand will ever puncture.

Not one in five thousand will blow out under two years of service.

The carcass is built with WEB CORD, an exclusive Dominion Rubber fabric made without heat-generating cross-threads; extra plies, held together by pure rubber (latex); sturdier construction through and through.

Get behind the wheel — on a set of ROYAL MASTERS. Feel how easy the steering. Feel the wheels track true at forty — fifty — eighty miles an hour. Enjoy motoring to the full, knowing that you are free from punctures — from blowouts — not only for this season, but the next—and the next.

Campbell's milk is a real food."—Says the Farmer Boy.

As the careful mother watches her baby's weight—from week to week—so will she carefully guard his growth between the ages of 6 to 15 years. Babies cannot live without milk and growing children grow the faster for it. Mothers should increase the quantity of milk in the growing child's diet—a quart a day is none too much for him. WARM PRAISE FOR HUDSON AND ESSEX

50 Owners' Testimonials Proves Important Booster For Brewer Motor Sales.

GREAT VAR VALUE.

In "The Hudson Triangle" of May 6th there appears a flattering reference to one of the sales methods adopted by Brewer Motor Sales, this city. "The Hudson Triangle" is a trade journal published at Detroit, Mich., by the manufacturers of Hudson and Essex cars in the interests of their Canadian and American dealers. And Brewer Motor Sales are to be congratulated upon being the first Canadian dealers whose sales promotion plans have been endorsed and recommended in "The Triangle" as worthy of emulation by others. The article in question follows:—

Brewer Motor Sales of Peterborough, distributed a 32-page book containing fifty-six letters from Hudson and Essex owners, in which the latter set forth their experiences. All the letters were received during February and March of the present year, and all are profuse in their approval.

The scheme, cleverly employed by the Canadian dealers, enlists the compelling power of one of the oldest, and at the same time most convincing, means of swaying wavering prospects.

Many of the writers are persons prominent in the social, commercial and civic life of the territory, and their opinions are bound to carry weight with the reader, particularly when they are expressed in statements like: "Any new customer can have my recommendation."— "The new engines are perfect."— "The Hudson is absolutely superior." — "I strongly recommend the Essex to anyone considering operating economy."—"I certainly am recommending the Essex to my friends." — "Were I to purchase again, I certainly would choose another Essex. —"I find there is no comparison." —"If I had the money to buy a $5,000 car, I couldn't wish for anything better than the Essex."

5 ARE DROWNED IN WEEK-END TRAGEDIES

Two Canoes Upset Throwing Four Boys Into Trent River

Two young Campbellford Boys Lose Theire Lives While At Play On River—In Attempt to Save the One Who Could Not Swim Second Is Drowned.

GALLANT EFFORT IS MADE BY THIRD YOUTH TO TOW THE TWO SMALL VICTIMS TO SHORES

Bodies Are Recovered After Half An Hour of Search, and Four Hours' Continuous Effort Was Made to Revive the Lifeless Pair.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 20. (Examiner Staff Correspondence.) — Tragedy swooped down on Campbellford Saturday afternoon when the Trent River with its flood of cold water from the Spring freshets, collected a toll of two young lives, Geyle Scott, aged 12, son of Mr and Mrs. Robert Scott, and Dennis Wragg, age 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wragg. The double fatality, which has shocked the whole community, occurred at the mouth of Trout Creek, sometime between two and three o'clock Saturday afternoon. The bodies were recovered about half an hour after they had been in the water. For four hours continuous efforts were made to revive the boys, but without success. The two little bodies were turned over to the funeral directors, while the whole town mourned the loss of two of its popular boys.

Various stories of the fatality have been circulating throughout the town. Many of them have been mere imaginary tales. The authentic account of the tragedy reads like an heroic narrative, as indeed it is. Dennis Wragg and Geyle Scott with their brothers, Raymond Wragg and Eric Scott, had been playing on Trout Creek, and, at times, on the river itself. Their fleet of water craft consisted of two old canoes and a raft, constructed of some planks supporting a packing box as a cabin. They could all swim, except the youngest Wragg boy who was drowned. It appears that the stretch of Trout Creek known as the aqueduct, was a favorite scene for their activities, and every available moment was spent there.

Eric Scott's Story.

In order to get the true details of exactly what happened, The Examiner called on Eric Scott, one of the two survivors. He was very much affected by the tragedy which had come to his home and that of his playmates, and his voice trembled as he recounted the details of the event. Dennis Wragg, he said, had been left alone in one canoe, which was tied up under the bridge, where Grand Road crosses the creek. The canoe began to rock and the three boys in the other canoe came up to stop it. Then both canoes upset, it appears, and the four of them were in the water. Geyle Scott got hold of Dennis Wragg and tried to swim with him to the only place where they could get out, the mouth of the creek. Raymond Wragg had on heavy laced boots and had all he could do to look after himself. He managed to get to safety. Geyle had on rubber boots but made a heroic attempt to save his little playmate. Eric, a year older than his brother took a hand with the rescue.

Struggling valiantly to suppress his emotions Eric related the incidents. "Dennis got hold of Geyle," he said, "and my brother tried to get him in. He had on rubber boots. They went down twice and then they didn't come up. I found them and towed them as far as I could under water and then got out and looked for a fish pole or something. I thought I could hook it in their sweaters and pull them on that way. But I couldn't find either a pole or a paddle, so I ran home to tell my mother. That was all."

Mrs. Charles Benor's Version

Mrs. Charles Benor, whose home is on the south side of Trout Creek, said that she heard the two boys shouting, but paid no attention since they were always making a noise while at their play. She was working in her garden at the time, and saw two of the boys, dripping wet, running toward home. She supposed they had fallen and were going home to get dry clothes. The next she knew Mrs. Scott was running up the street and calling for help. At once Mrs. Benor dropped her garden tools, and rushed to the scene. There were

11 Drowning Accidents Reported Over Week-end

TORONTO, Ont., May 20.—C.P.)— The usual toll of lives taken by motor accidents over the holiday was far exceeded last weekend by drowning accidents, when no fewer than 11 persons lost their lives by drowning and two were killed in a motor accident. Taking advantage of the summerlike weather prevalent in many parts of the province, practically all the drownings were the result of picnics, and fishing and boating excursions.

ROTARY SUPPORT FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS URGED BY SPEAKER

Miss Edith A. Murphy Gives Interesting Address at Club Luncheon.

GOING TO DALLAS.

President W. R. Morris Will Represent Rotary at Convention.

"Canada secures from the League of Nations the cheapest insurance against war that she could possibly obtain," Miss Edith A. Murphy, member of the Collegiate Institute staff, told the members of the Peterborough Rotary club to-day, at their weekly luncheon in a most eloquent address upon Canada's relations with the League of Nations. Miss Murphy's explanation of the aims and objects of the League, the manner in which its meetings are conducted and the things Canada is able to put into and get out of membership in the organization was of great interest to Rotary.

Among the guests to-day was A. Costello, chairman of the Community Dance Committee of Old Home Week, who outlined his committee's plans for the dance in the Armouries which is to be the outstanding social event of the celebration. Mr. Costello reported that the Palladians, a crack Montreal dance orchestra, had been engaged, the Armouries would be appropriately decorated and the dance program would contain many interesting special features. He urged Rotary support for this function, which it was hoped would be a dignified and enjoyable success.

President W. R. Morris announced that at the request of the directors and the past presidents of the club,

No More Voyages For Graf Zeppelin Until Recent Failure Is Clarified

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 20.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. Hugo Eckener, master of the Graf Zeppelin, to-day said the massive dirigible would take no more long journeys until the failure of four of its motors last Friday had been sifted thoroughly and "absolute clarification" of the mishap reached.

"I returned here to confer about the question of motors," the air liner's master said. "It is natural that so long as there isn't absolute clarification concerning the reasons for the motor defect the Graf Zeppelin will not undertake any long and extended journeys.

"I have a conference scheduled to-day with various department heads after which I shall make preparations to return to Toulon. He hopes to bring the Graf back by Thursday or Friday. Two motors already have arrived in France and others here are ready for shipment.

DEBT REDUCTION PLAN DISCUSSED BY U. S. LEADERS

President Hoover Summons Members of Cabinet and Representatives to White House.

REVISE TIME SCHEDULE.

German Payments To United States Will Spread Over Large Term of Years.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 20. — (Canadian Press)—President Hoover and Congressional leaders today were studying a proposal for revision of payments due the United States in connections with American army of occupation costs and the private war claims of American Nationals against Germany.

A new plan for these payments was outlined at a White House conference held last night after President Hoover's return from a week-end outing in the Virginia mountains.

The new programme was outlined by Undersecretary Mills of the treasury and suggested a revision of the time-schedule for German payments on the American arms of occupations costs. It was explained that this contemplated a spreading out over a longer period of these payments and also what was described by some of those present as an "inconsequential" pairing down of the amount.

Included in the plan also is a suggestion for a realignment of the plan for payments by Germany to American nations growing out of war claims.

Conference at White House

The White House conference was attended by a number of members on the cabinet, administration, congressional leaders and representative Garner of Texas, and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democratic members on the house and senate committees which will be called to pass upon any recommendation from the administration for a revision of the present payment agreement.

A number of senators this morning expressed approval of the suggested revision and several said it was their opinion that in the near future a formal recommendation for such a change would be transmitted to Congress by President Hoover.

It is understood that terms of the proposed agreement to-day were in the hands of officials at the American embassy in Paris for presentation to Owen D. Young and J. P. Morgan, the Americans who have been servinng unofficially with the committee of reparations experts.

Decision Reached.

The White House conference was

1730 Candidates Seek Election in Gt. Britain

Four Conservatives and Three Nationalists Are Returned By Acclamation in Great Britain—Three Party Leaders Face Contest in Their Constituencies.

"TAY PAY" O'CONNOR WILL ONCE MORE REPRESENT THE SCOTL AND DIVISION OF LIVERPOOL

LONDON, May 20—(Canadian Press Cable).—Four Conservatives, and three Nationalists, had been returned unopposed to the next parliament up to 4 p.m. to-day, but not more than one or two more acclamations are expected when complete nominations for the general election on May 30 are received.

Some 1,730 men and women brought their papers before election officials to-day to secure proper certification to go to the polls at the general election May 30, when 615 will be elected.

Tradition is long-founded in Great Britain that the speaker, being above party, should be unopposed, so that acclamation accorded Right Hon. Mr. Fitzroy to-day was anticipated, Right Hon. J. H. Whitley, who retired as speaker last year, had a walk-over in the last three elections. Lord Ullswater, formerly speaker Lowther, was likewise unopposed during his term of 16 years in the speaker's chair.

Tay Pay Given Acclamation

Acclamations are not new to "Tay Pay" O'Connor, his entry to the House of Commons for more than a decade being without a political fight. The venerable parliamentarian and publicist, who is in his 81st year, is at present suffering from chronic rheumatism, and at the dissolution of parliament on May 10, he was wheeled up to the speaker's table in a chair to shake hands with the speaker.

The Natiotnalist Party in Ireland will be represented in the House of Commons for the first time since the Irish Free State was established, as the result of the election by acclamation of Joseph Devlin, Irish Nationalist leader, and Thomas J. S. Harbison, also a Nationalist, in the Fermanagh and Tyrone division of Northern Ireland, which elects two members.

Gain From Conservatives.

Fermanagh and Tyrone was represented in the last Parliament by two Conservatives, Sir C. Falls and J. A. Pringle, who defeated Republican opponents by more than 37,000 majority. As a protest against what it felt to be the intervention of Eamon De Valera, Republican leader, in Ulster politics, the official Nationalist Party did not nominate candidates in the last election.

There was the usual crop of incidents connected with the nominations to-day. W. S. Sanders, the Labor candidate for North Battersea, London, refused to shake hands with the Communist candidate and member of the last House, S. Saklatvala.

One of Sir Kingsley Wood's nomination papers as Conservative candidate for Woolwich West, London, was entirely signed by Liberals, while one of the papers of the Liberal leader, Right Hon. David Lloyd George, was exclusively signed by Llandudno Conservatives.

Among the papers put in for the City of London Conservative candidates was one exclusively signed by women, headed by the wife of Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral.

227 Papers Handed In.

The record number of 227 papers were handed in on behalf of Right Hon. J. C. C. Davidson, ex-member and Conservative candidate for Hemel Hempstead, Herts.

The woman agent for T. H. Aggett, the Liberal candidate for the Sutton division of Plymouth, Lady Astor's seat, took the nomination papers to her home in the country for the week-end and found there was no bus this morning. So she hailed a passing milk wagon, and thus reached town in time to fyle the papers.

One nomination paper on behalf off J. F. Shilalker, Labor candidate for Action, Middlesex, was signed entirely by flappers.

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, was the only one of the three party chieftains to attend his

100,000 HEAR BALDWIN SPEAK AT BLACKPOOL

Premier of Great Britain Addresses Largest Audience of His Political Career.

OUTLINES POLICY.

Declares Country Is Fast Regaining Her Pre-War Prosperity.

BLACKPOOL, England, May 20. (C. P.) — Dwelling on the greatly improved relations between employers and workers since the war and the improvement in the unemployment situation, Premier Baldwin to-day addressed the largest crowd in his political career. He spoke before an audience of 5000 in the Palace Theatre, and his address was heard by 100,000 more as it was relayed by wireless to loud speakers on the sands of Blackpool Beach.

Mr. Baldwin predicted that the present methods of industrial co-operation would become closer and more efficient in the future. Unemployment was beginning to decrease, he declared, and even the most depressed industries were showing improvement. Prospects of regaining Great Britain's pre-war prosperity were becoming brighter.

Presented with Bulldog.

When the Prime Minister concluded his address a number of women presented him with a fine bulldog, which at once made friends with his new master.

Blackpool was thronged with excursionists and holiday folk from all parts of the great Lancashire industrial area on the Whitsuntide holiday. The speech was one of two Mr. Baldwin is delivering in Lancashire today. He will also speak at Fleetwood.

The crowd was such as Blackpool alone can gather by the sea. So many children were there one might have thought all the kiddies in England were building castles in the sand. Queues lined up to get the municipal deck chairs at a penny an an hour. There was open-air dancing for threepence. The Punch and Judy show, the ventriloquist, the quack doctor, the oyster bar, and the "oldest firm in town' with its ice-cream that is "often imitated but never equalled," all were doing a thriving business. Girls whose accents seemed oddly out of tune with the red berets from the Pyrenees they wore were everywhere.

All the sights and sounds of the great industrial Midlands of England seemed to be gathered at Blackpool by the sea. Andw the holiday spirit of Whitsuntide was everywhere. It touched even the arrangements made for Premier Baldwin.

Mr. Baldwin's speech centred largely around the Conservative sto-

SEARCERS FAIL TO FIND BODIES THREE DROWNED AT LOCKS DAM

Dragging Operations Continue in Otonabee River Below Locks.

GIRL TELLS HER STORY.

Janet Lindsay, One of Survivors, Was Able To Return To Her Work To-day.

Continuous search has not yet revealed the bodies of the three young people that were swept to death in the current of the flooded Otonabee yesterday afternoon at the lower Locks' dam. Firemen of the night platoon of the Peterborough Fire Brigade continued the fruitless search all morning and were relieved by a fresh search party this afternoon.

The tragic story was told to The Examiner this afternoon by Janet Lindsay, one of the survivors of the fateful trip. Miss Lindsay has resumed her duties at the Empress Hotel as waitress, and is still nervous after the trying experience that was hers.

"I have told the story so often," said Miss Lindsay, "and I can hardly remember it, as it is so sad. We decided to go for a sail and after hiring a boat we started out in the direction of the locks. One of the fellows knew how to run the boat and I think that he works on the motors." (This was Sidney Bennett, who is employed as a mechanic at the Peterborough Canoe Company and who is among the survivors). Continuing her story she said, "Everything went along fine until something in the engine broke, and the boat drifted towards the dam. We tried to turn it, but the current was too strong. When the

Otonabee River Claims Her First Victims Of Season

Annie Lucas, Dick Bell and Alex Scobell Were Drowned At Lower Locks Dam Yesterday—Three Companions Are Saved.

FEARING MOTOR BOAT WOULD OVERTURN IN CURRENT PARTY BECOMES PANIC STRICKEn

Five Jump From Disabled Boat As It Passes Over Dam — All Attempts to Recover Bodies Last Night Failed—River Is Dragged.

The flood waters of the Otonabee River claimed three young lives yesterday afternoon when a party of six in an outboard motor became panic-stricken and leaped into the icy waters of the swirling river as their disabled craft was swept over the dam at the lower Locks bridge. Three were carried under by the swift-flowing current and were drowned. One, Janet Lindsay, was dragged from the grip of the current to safety, and two others, by supreme efforts, managed to rescue themselves.

The party, on a pleasure cruise, had set out in an outboard motor boat at three o'clock from the Peterborough Canoe Company's dock. They had sailed down through Little Lake into the river and were about to turn back when, being swept close to the shore by the current, the sheer pin in the propeller was snapped by impact with a submerged rock. The propeller was rendered useless by this mishap, and their motive power was cut off.

Swept Down by Current.

The boat was swept down by the rapid current until it struck the pier of the road bridge on the left shore. Sidney Bennett and George Coyle reached up and gripped desperately a small ring, which is embedded in the cement of the pier. They held the boat there momentarily and were preparing to snub the rope to it, when their grip gave way. Sidney Bennett managed to clamber out and on to the bridge. The others were swept swiftly toward the dam.

As the boat reached the dam the whole party became stricken with fear, and losing their judgment leaped into the racing waters.

Persons who were fishing and others who were standing by saw their perilous plight and rushed to to give aid. Tom Snowden, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Snowden, waded into the current and caught Janet Lindsay as she was swept toward the shore by an eddy just below the dam. He dragged her to the bank, assisted by Archie Davis, 500 Parnell Street, and George Coyle, who had rescued himself by seizing hold of the dam and pulling himself up.

The three others, Annie Lucas Dick Bell, and Alexander Scobell were dragged down by the sweeping mill race and were drowned.

Miss Lindsay was unconscious when taken from the water. First-aid was immediataely given her, and Dr. W. D. Scott was on the scene a few minutes later in answer to a call. She was conveyed to the Empress Hotel, where for over an hour the doctor and assistants worked on her bod y to get the circulation back and remove the water from her lungs It was reported last night that she was resting easily and would recover.

The two boys were suffering no ill-effects and were interviewed by The Examiner.

In describing the tragedy George Coyle, who rescued himself at the dam, said: "Just as I turned the boat around I felt a shock and the propeller stopped turning, although the motor still ran. I believe we hit a rock and the sheer pin was snapped.

"We were swept down by the current. No one was frightened. Jokingly we said what we would do if we upset. Dick Bell said that he would save Annie Lucas. Annie and Dick were engaged. Alex said that he would look after Janet Lindsay.

"We took out the paddles and tried to aim for the central pier in the road bridge. We found we could not make it, but suceeded in maneuvring the boat to the pier of the bridge near the shore. As we swept past the pier Sid Bennett reached out and grabbed the small ring in the pier. He held on and I moved over and took hold of it, too.

"I told Alex to hurry up and pass

Niagara District Is Being Visited By Thousands During Blossom Week

TORONTO, Ont., May 20 (Canadian Press). — Despite unfavorable weather conditions thousands of persons visited the district between Hamilton and Niagara Paalls yesterday to enjoy the beauty of miles and miles of blossoms which cover the Niagara Peninsula.

The blossom time picture was hardly as beautiful yesterday as in other years on account of heavy rains on Saturday which washed many of the cherry, pear, plum and late peach blossoms away. It was a cold, bleak day, and not until the sun crept through the overcast sky late in the afternoon did the blossoms unfold and reveal their colorful brilliance.

At Grimsby fully 50,000 persons braved the cold, damp weather to witness the blossom time picture, while St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, and other points in the "Garden of Canada" had their full quotas of visitors.

DR. SHIELDS TERMS MINISTER AMERICA'S CHAMPION SLANDERER

Jarvis Street Pastor Celebrates 19th Anniversary in Toronto Church.

ASKS FOR NAME.

Minister in Waterloo, Iowa, Writes, Asking To Have Name Vindicated.

TORONTO, Ont., May 20 (Canadian Press).—Returning from Buffalo N.Y., yesterday following the sessions there of the Baptist Bible Union of North America, Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the Board of Trustees of Des Moines University read from his pulpit in Jarvis Street Baptist Church last night a denunciation of Warren L. Steeves, Waterloo, Iowa, whom he termed "the champion slanderer of America."

Dr. Shields was celebrating the 19th anniversary of his pastorate at the Jarvis Street Church. He said at the opening of his sermon, that he would make but one reference to the dispute which has been making fundamentalist history the last week. He then read a letter from Rev. C. L. Kenagy, minister of First Baptist Church, Waterloo, Iowa, regarding Dr. Shields' statements that a Waterloo clergyman was responsible for charges made against the Bible Union president and the secretary, Miss Edith Rebman. Mr. Kenagy asked that in fairness to himself and a brother minister of Waterloo, Dr. Shields should announce the name of the clergyman.

"I have already given from public platform and to press reporters," Dr. Shields' reply read, "the name of Warren L. Steeves, of Waterloo, as 'the champion slanderer of America.' At the proper time and place he will be made to answer for his crime. You have my full permission and authority to read this telegram from your pulpit."

Dr. Shields declared that the battle at Des Moines had begun when he began to investigate complaints that the president, Dr. H. C. Wayman, held bogus degrees.

"Dr. Wayman,' said Dr. Shields, declared. "If I am run from this place I will ruin one man—I will ruin two people—and I will wreck this institution.' He has not done either," said Dr. Shields.

FOREIGN POLICY IS CRITICIZED

Ramsay Macdonald Attacks Attitude of Baldwin Government at Geneva.

ONE OF WAITING.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 20.—(C.P. Cable).—In an election speech near the famous Glencoe Pass Saturday night, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald promised that energetic steps towards securing further disarmament and world peace would be made if the Labor party was returned to power in the British general elections on May 30.

Lord Cushendun, British delegate to the Preparatory Disarmament Commission of the League of Nations, had said he was instructed by the government not to oppose any disarmament proposal made by any nation and accepted by other nations, the Labor leader commented.

"If that is your foreign policy we might just as well put up the shutters of the foreign office," he said. "One thing I shall do if I head the government again: I shall never issue instructions to the foreign secretary. My instructions will be: 'Make up your mind what your new proposal is going to be; make it wise, practicable and just, and applicable to world conditions. Put it on the table at Geneva and see that the other nations' representatives understand it. Negotiate with them and get them by negotiations to accept it, and then come home with peace as the result of your efforts."

MYSTERY AIRPLANE IS SEIZED AND TWO AIRMEN ARE ARRESTED

Fliers Claim Peterborough As Their Home, Then New York.

MACHINE VANISHES.

Plane Is Later Found Wrecked Nead Granby, Quebec.

GRANBY, May 20 (Canadian Press)—An airplane, considerably damaged, and its two occupants are being held by Granby police until a mystery which apparently surrounds them is cleared up. The plane landed at the flying field here on Saturday, was seized by Customs officers, disappeared during the night, and was found at Eastman, Que., yesterday, damaged from a forced landing. The plane and men were brought here, where the airmen are held on a charge of removing a plane under seizure.

The airmen, upon their landing here on Saturday, said they were from Peterborough, Ont., and gave their names as E. G. Westland and E. J. Brown. A subsequent telephone communication with Peterborough showed the men were not known there. They claimed to be operating a private plane from a private field.

Examination of the plane by local airmen seemed to show that it was not a Canadian one. Lettering, reading "Haviland, U.S. Mail 429," was partly obliterated. The words "Capacity 27.5 cubic feet," was visible, as were the figures 812 on the tail. When Customs officers questioned the airmen they found they had no registration papers or papers of any kind, and it was decided to seize the plane until further investigation.

The men later said they came from New York, where they are employed by the Board of Commerce.

NINETY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED

Principal Thomas Eakin, of Toronto Conducts Special Services.

AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Special Music Provided By Choir Under Leadership of M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

Ninety-six years ago yesterday witnessed the founding of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, and from small beginnings at that far-off date (1833) the church has progressed steadily, until now with a roll of close on 1,100 members and adherents, a splendid edifice and outbuildings, with a handsome pipe organ recently installed, the congregation is one of the outstanding units of the Presbyterian church in Canada.

The services yesterday were graced by the pulpit presence of Rev. Dr. Eakin, Principal of Knox College, Toronto, the congregations at both diets being large and pleased with the delivery of two masterly discourses. Of tall stature, Professor Eakin looked the part of a stalwart of the church. James Dutton, in introducing him in the morning, paid high tribute to the splendid qualities as a preacher, and upholder of the traditions and ideals of the Presbyterian Church.

The Mission of the Church

The text was taken from Haggai I. verses 2-7, having reference in those days, as at the present time, to the place of the church in the community—its place, function, and value to society in general. "Haggai was a somewhat unfamiliar book and Haggai was not a genius, but a one-talent man. He tackled in his simple manner, a difficult situation, and a thankless task. What was this task? Trying to encourge the people of that period to think less of material, and more of spiritual living. He urged them to pull down, as it were, the frame-like structures of their existence and build more solid and lasting edifices—to include in their ideals the love of church and worship of the one true God. They were in a sordid plight—religious faith and traditions were all sunk in piling up wealth. There was poverty, too, due to not giving God what was His rightful possession, their lives and interests. Life without the church and motive is therefore without result" said Prof. Eakin.

Proceeding, he outlined the meaning if the materialistic viewpoint, which gives place to the real things of life. "To blow flame into the dying embers was the task of Haggai—to turn the eyes of men to God, that they might be assets to the community and further the Kingdom of our Lord and bring prosperity to the land. They were antagonistic to his principles and his faith, and this feature is rampant to-day among ourselves. The only way, it was said, to have a perfect church was to stop admitting human beings. My soul thirsts for the living God was and still is the cry of humanity. Let us come to the touchstone," said the speaker, "and go back to our work imbued with new desires to do better.

Likened to a Business

Continuing, Principal Eakin likened the church to a business. "Business men" he said, "deal with their daily affairs in a cold and contemplative outlook; let us view the church among us with a serious

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 20 (C.P.).—Last week witnessed a halt to the decline in butter prices experienced during recent weeks. The light receipts were the principal factor, while the withdrawal from the market of New Zealand butter, which is being stored in anticipation of higher prices, helped to hold prices firm. The week's receipts were 7,884 boxes.

Cheese held steady throughout the week, being 17¼c for western No. 1 colored. There was a fair local trade with export trade poor. Receipts were 7,261 for the week.

Egg prices were unchanged, with fair business reported. Receipts were 22,566 cases.

The local potato market was again a little weaker last week, with cheaper prices prevailing at the week's close.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 20.—Cold weather continues to hold back the growth throughout practically the whole of the plains, it is shown in the third weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways. In fact, many points in Manitoba and Saskatchewan report heavy frosts and during the past week, snow was general. The seeding of wheat is practically finished, and a large per cent. of coarse grains is in the ground, but the unfavorable weather is retarding germination. One or two sections complain of lack of moisture, but on the whole there is plenty, and the only thing needed is warm weather.

While wheat seeding is completed in Manitoba, farmers in some districts are delaying the seeding of the coarse grains until the weeds have made some headway. The whole province is suffering from cold, and snow and frost is general. Some wheat is showing in southern and central Manitoba.

Saskatchewan seems to be further advanced than any of the prairie provinces. Wheat is showing throughout the province, and one district reports the wheat is up two inches. A small portion in the south was badly frozen. A few districts in central Saskatchewan fear the backward weather will rot the seeds, but on the whole the outlook is good. A 5 per cent increase in acreage is reported at Bengough.

Alberta, like her sister provinces, is badly in need of warm weather. Wheat seeding is practically complete, and wheat is showing in several districts. Seeding of coarse grains is well under way. Although, it is early, farmers are looking forward to a good crop, but warm weather is much in need.

TWO CANOES UPSET THROWING FOUR BOYS INTO TRENT RIVER

three men in it, and the driver pulled up short at Mrs. Scott's frantic appeal. The three men who sprang out were Reeve Nelson of Percy township, George Greer, Country roads Superintendent, and R. W. Raynor of Toronto, representing the Amiesite Paving Company.

R. W. Raynor, one of the first at the scene, quickly took off his outer clothing and made a gallant effort at finding the bodies. But after repeated attempts he was unable to locate the two boys..

Bodies Recovered.

The task of removing the bodies from the water did not fall to Raynor. J. H. McArthur, standing on top of the north wall at the mouth of the creek, saw them in the water just below where he stood. Jack Free and his father in their canoe were close at hand. They soon recovered the bodies with the aid of a garden rake. Pat Morgan, with his canal punt, drew alongside and took them when the men in the canoe raised them to the surface.

Attempts Fail To Revive Them.

Campbellford has not official life savers or first aid men. But there are a number of Hydro employees listed among its citizens. Until yesterday they were just citizens. Today they are heroes and gentlemen. When the first body, that of Geyle Scott, was laid out on the bank, Llewelyn Reynolds, a Hydro employee, was right there and began to work on it. Jack Free, a former Hydro man, began to work on the second body when it was slid on to the bank a minute later. By the time these two men were becoming weary, there were others there to relieve them. Thus for four hours the work continued. Doctors E. J. Free, Fred Free, B. F. Brintnell and H. B. Longmore, applied all the medical skill that was theirs to impart. Nurse Cowell, on vacation from New York City, was also there to be of assistance. Nurse Armstrong of town, played her part as well. Blankets to warm the chilled bodies were forthcoming as soon as they were mentioned. When the change of shift of the Hydro came at four o'clock, other operators hastened to the scene. There in the centre of a crowd of people, these men and women waged a losing battle against death. Slowly the hours rolled by until six o'clock came. Hope for reviving Geyle Scott vanished and his body was removed to the undertaking parlours. For twenty-five minutes more the men worked with Dennis Wragg, but it was useless. The feeble spark which they had hoped might still be alive within him, had died. His body too, was removed to the funeral directors.

Considered Treacherous.

Always the Trent River where it passes through town, has been considered, if not dangerous, at least treacherous. With the coming of the canal, the current in the river has been somewhat lessened, but there has been the added hazard of vertical concrete walls and the huge concrete dams along the course. Trout Creek, when it followed its natural course, emptied into the river about a mile below town. At the present time, its waters find their way into the Trent at a point well toward the centre of the corporation. For the final two hundred yards of its way, it passes between high vertical concrete walls over which a swimmer could not possibly climb. Along the tops of these walls runs a pipe railing more than four feet high. With the water in the river at its present height it is approximately eight feet deep in aquaduct part of creek.

The raft on which the boys sometimes played apparently followed this course or else was anchored there in the river about fifty yards from shore and close to the edge of what seems to be the strongest of the current. Thanks to R. W. Raynor, it will not figure in any more fatal accidents. When he swam out to search for the bodies of the boys in that area, he decided it was not fit for any further use afloat and turned it loose. The last of it was seen when it took its fatal plunge over the dam several hundred yards down stream.

Yesterday the bodies of the boys were returned to their homes. The funeral service for Geyle Scott was held at his late home at nine o'clock last night with the Rev. R. C. Tait officiating. It was started on its long trip to Knowlton, Que., this morning on the east-bound C.N.R. train, where interment will take place in the family plot of his mother. The funeral of Dennis Wragg will be held at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. Ernest Harston of Oshawa, officiating. Interment will be in Mount Pleasant cemetery here.

William Saunders acted as chairman for the program, which included a violin solo by Amy Thompson, with Helen Thompson at the organ; musical selection, Harold Thompson and Walter Mullis; recitation, Olive Hancock; play, "A Narrow Escape," by Dorothy Rowland, Cecil Hancock, Jack Seigel, Roy Hancock and Ferdinand Rowland; chorus, "Carolina Moon," members of Christian Endeavor Society; duet, Messrs. Mullis and McGowan; reading, "The Eavesdropper," Kay Rowland; orchestra selection, Harold Thompson, W. Mullis and R. Robinson.

After the program, pie was sold at five cents a piece, and the proceeds of the evening amounted to about ten dollars.

DROWNED NEAR CORNWALL

CORNWALL, Ont., May 20.—Robert J. Raney, 22, was drowned in the Black River, 20 miles east of here, last night. Raney and a companion were crossing the river to join other members of a fishing party when their boat overturned. Roney's companion grasped a log pushed out to him from the shore. Raney attempted to right the boat but lost his grip and went under. Fishermen recovered the body 25 minutes later. Coroner C. J. Hamilton decided an inquest was unnecessary.

RADIO ADVERTISING.

Complaints laid before the Radio Commission in regard to the advertising done over some of the broadcasting stations seem to be based on a mistaken idea of the situation.

If it were not for the revenue obtained from this method of advertising much of the present broadcasting would be impossible, and many of the splendid programs now heard would have to be abandoned.

Money makes more go in broadcasting as well as in other activities, and while sometimes advertising is overdone, it should be regarded as a necessary evil that listeners-in will have to endure if they want to make sure of a sufficient quantity of worth-while programs.

If the expensive artists heard over the air were not paid for by the advertisers it is not likely that there would be an opportunity of hearing many of them.

Set-owners had better reconcile themselves to advertising as the only feasible means by which broadcasting can be financed without making the cost prohibitive to the average listener-in.

YESTERDAY'S TRAGEDY.

There is a tragic warning in yesterday's triple drowning that should be heeded by the public generally.

The Otonabee River, especially at this season of the year, is no place for inexperienced boatmen, and the vicinity of the locks is a particularly dangerous locality that even the expert is glad to shun when the spring flood is at its height.

The party of young people who left the safe waters of Little Lake yesterday to venture in the swiftly running river above the locks were tilting with disaster.

Had they not had a misfortune with their propellor they doubtless might have come back safely, but the point is, they were tempting fate by daring the power of that swift current.

They had no need to be in a position where the failure of their motive power would leave them helpless victims of the river.

With the water at its present height wise people will keep away from dangerous stretches of the Otonabee.

It has claimed too many lives to be regarded as harmless at any season, and just now it is a death-trap at a number of points where the current is too strong for small craft.

That three young lives have been cut off because of lack of thought on the part of some members of the party is the saddest feature of this whole terrible accident.

ARCHBISHOP O'BRIEN.

Citizens of Peterborough, regardless of creed, have heard with gratification of the honor conferred upon Right Reverend Bishop M. J. O'Brien by the Holy See in his elevation to be titular archbishop of Armoria and archbishop coadjutor of Kingston, with the right of succession.

The confidence imposed in this native son of Peterborough by his church is appreciated by his fellow-citizens, who have watched his distinguished career with pride and whose only regret in this latest honor is that it will eventually entail his removal from Peterborough.

Archbishop O'Brien's whole life, with the exception of a few years at college, seminary and at the university in Rome, has been spent in this city.

He was born here, baptized in what is now his cathedral church, received his early education at the old Murray street Separate School and at the Collegiate Institute, and when his education was completed in Toronto, Montreal and Rome, he returned to his native city where for thirty years he has labored for the good of his people and for the general welfare of the community.

Thirty years have rolled by since Archbishop O'Brien was elevated to the priesthood, and they have all been passed here, ten as curate of St. Peter's Cathedral, four as the first pastor of the church of the Sacred Heart, and the last sixteen as bishop of Peterborough.

In that long period of service he has ever displayed a broad sympathy for the welfare of his fellowmen, a deep interest in promoting the interest of this community and of this country, and a democratic spirit that have won him the respect and regard of the people of Peterborough.

It may be recalled that upon entering upon his episcopal duties in 1913 Archbishop O'Brien expressed himself as follows:

"If we cannot be one on religious grounds, can we not be united in sympathy and affection and in the spirit of fraternity? To promote peace and harmony will, I hope, be the keynote of my administration, and I hope all will co-operate with me."

That conception of his episcopal administration, the citizens of Peterborough know, has been lived up to during the sixteen years that have passed, and because of that fact and because of the general appreciation of the broadness with which Archbishop O'Brien has approached the consideration of public questions and issues, there is widespread appreciation to-day in the signal honor that has been conferred upon him by the Holy See.

THE MINISTER'S WARNING.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, has been giving some sound advice to motorists in the hope that some of the most prolific causes of motor accidents on the highways may be reduced.

The Minister especially stresses the danger of "cutting in," declaring this practice to be perhaps the greatest source of danger.

The driver who attempts to pass another car when he is not sure that he will have time to get in front before a car coming from the other direction arrives is setting the stage for a tragedy.

And yet that chance is taken repeatedly by some drivers, accidents being averted sometimes by the proverbial inch.

Other points touched on by Mr. Henry should also be remembered, particularly this sensible advice:

"Never pass a car on a hill or going round a curve, and also never speed up a hill in the centre of the road. There may be a car coming up the other side, and if that car is also in the centre of the road, there is almost certainty of a collision. Hills should be taken to the right side always."

A SHINING EXAMPLE.

A rather unique occurrence took place at Grace Church Men's Club banquet in Trenton recently when a thirty-second silent prayer of all present—all Protestants—among them many prominent Orangemen and Masons, was offered as a token of sympathy, respect and honor for the good life led by the late O. E. Fortune of that town—a leading worker in the Roman Catholic Church and the father of the Trenton Knights of Columbus. That was truly an example of co-operative Christian love and spirit that is surely worthy of emulation by all.—Havelock Standard.

A RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT.

There is a class of people who, while not active opponents of the League of Nations, consider it merely the expression of an ideal which is impossible of accomplishment and who mistakingly contend that it has done little up to date to justify its existence.

This propaganda sprang originally from sources very actively opposed to both international peace and the League itself and it has done a great deal of harm and alienated the support of many who would otherwise be earnest advocates of the policies of Geneva.

No unfairer and more undeserved stigma was ever attached to any great public institution.

To make this clear let us very briefly enumerate some of the real accomplishments of the League since its inception, along the line of its chief objective, which is to prevent war.

In 1920 Sweden and Finland were on the verge of war over the Aaland Islands. Seeing the danger the British Government called for a special meeting of the League Council. It met and the dispute was soon settled. Finland got the islands, but was bound to prevent their fortification and to grant the islanders a large measure of self-government.

In November, 1921, a Jugo-Slav army invaded Albania, threatening another Balkan war, and again the Council assembled in haste. The Council threatened Jugo-Slavia with an economic blockade unless the troops were withdrawn. As a result of this act a loan then being negotiated for that country by foreign bankers was dropped and Jugo-Slav exchange collapsed. Within two weeks the invading troops were withdrawn and the crisis was passed.

Again in the same year almost another Great War was threatened and France and Britain were estranged. This arose over the disposal of Upper Silesia. In this country Poles and Germans were hopelessly intermingled. France was determined that the territory should be annexed to Poland and Britain just as determined that it should become part of Germany. In the deadlock the League was appealed to and within two months it presented a compromise settlement satisfactory to both nations and to the people of Silesia.

Then there was the Corfu crisis in 1923, when it seemed as if it were impossible to prevent war between Italy and Greece. Some Italian members of a boundary commission were murdered on Greek territory. Italy sent an ultimatum to Greece, and not receiving a satisfactory reply bombarded the Greek port of Corfu, killing and wounding many civilians. The Conference of Ambassadors working on a plan submitted by the League imposed a settlement on the contending parties and Italy was forced to withdraw her extreme demands on Greece.

War again loomed menacingly in the dispute between Britain and Turkey over the ownership of Mosul. Turkey claimed it as her own and Britain contended that it was part of the mandate of Irak. A clash between British and Turkish troops was expected at any moment. The League Council intervened. For a time Turkey challenged the decision of the League, but when it was finally referred to the World Court the pressure of public opinion forced her to yield.

The last big crisis occurred in that ancient breeding ground of international wars—the Balkans. A shot fired on the borders of those ancient enemies, Greece and Bulgaria, resulted in the immediate invasion of Bulgaria by a Grecian army. Once more the Balkans were in flames. On the appeal of Bulgaria the League gave both countries just one day to issue orders for complete demobilization. Those orders were carried out and not only that, but Greece was condemned to pay heavy damages for invading its neighbor's territory.

In the most recent threat of war the League brought about peace. This was in connection with the South American countries, Bolivia and Paraguay. Surely this brief summary of actual accomplishment is a fitting answer to all who question the use and practicability of the League of Nations.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The King's plate has been run, so summer must be just round the corner.

Ontario is to have a new building in London, and Canadians who visit the Empire's capital will doubtless sing, "Let's All Go Down the Strand."

Canada will sign the protocol banning the use of poison gas in warfare. The Cleveland tragedy gives an idea of just what havoc such gas can make.

Tilden is no longer with the United States Davis Cup team, but his absence didn't save the Canadian representatives from a decisive defeat.

The Canadian Radio Commission is making no claims that its investigation has revealed a remedy for static.

The conquest of the air by Zeppelins is evidently not yet complete.

There is at times nothing slow about the way the House of Commons votes money.

Brantford's by-law to provide $900,000 for more hospital accommodation makes the request of the Nicholls Hospital Board appear decidedly modest.

Sunday used to be a dry of rest and rejoicing in the United States, but the automobile is making it a day of tears and tragedy.—Chicago Evening Post.

Manchuria, with a population of 7,500,000, smoked 84,500,000,000 cigarettes last year. This sort of thing makes British schoolboys very restless, as they realize that there is probably a vast untapped field in Manchuria for cigarette-card collectors.—The Passing Show.

A Thought

ACHIEVEMENT.

More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of, Wherefore, let thy voice
Rise like a fountain to me night and day.
For what are men better than sheep or goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain,
If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?
For so the whole round earth is every way
Bound by gold chain about the feet of God.

Tennyson.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HOLD A GRUDGE

A grudge is stronger than resentment. It has the element of hate in it.

Just as you drink coffee to stay awake or to quicken your wits, you hold the first opportunity to get even with the one who has wronged you.

A grudge is a master motive and may dominate a person's life for years. Constantly dwelling on your real or fancied injury tends to magnify its importance and the more you think about it the angrier you get. Bye and bye it becomes a habit and even an obsession. The mind constantly reverts to the injury and you are convinced that there is nothing left for you to do but to get even.

Ordinarily we like those people and objects and situations that make us feel mean and cheap and insignificant.

The self is thrown off balance whenever we suffer a personal injury at the hands of one who deliberately aims to take us down a peg. A grudge is the answer. It is the attempt to regain our equilibrium, our poise, our self respect and the self-regarding sentiments.

The grudge is also an outlet for all sorts of unpleasant emotional reactions. The person toward whom the grudge is directed comes to be the scapegoat of all our hard luck. We are likely to blame him for all of our failures, and to vent our wrath upon his head. In any failure or defeat our ego maximation suffers. An unpleasant emotion is created which must find outlet. The grudge serves the purpose.

If our sense of humor is sufficiently strong we laugh off our grudge instead of wearing ourselves out with a grudge which eats at the vitals like a cancer.

The long and short of the matter is that for every serious blow at our pride and self esteem we must find a way of defense and if possible of restoring the balance and equilibrium. Our sense of humor sometimes comes to the rescue, or we compensate in some other way. But when all these fail and the injury still rankles we take to grudge and vengeance.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

TUESDAY, MAY 21, 1929

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

Astrologers read this as rather an unfavorable day in planetary direction, a time to be cautious in all matters, especially whatever relates to finance.

Under this planetary government those who have speculated may meet heavy losses and reach embarrassing crises.

It is not a fortunate sway under which to deal with bankers who are to be more disinclined to extend aid than they have been in the past.

The seers who repeatedly explain that the new order of things necessarily alters many business customs predict great changes in credit systems everywhere.

This should be a fairly lucky day for shopping and merchants should benefit. Again drastic changes in fashions are foretold.

Artistic influences will be strong in their effect upon household articles of simplest practical use as well as in furniture and decorations, astrologers foretell.

Reaction from extreme modernist ideals will eliminate many angles and again exploit the curved line of beauty, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

While this configuration prevails it is not well to speculate in any channel for the judgment may not be reliable.

Deceit and misrepresentation are sway which encourages persons to hold out false hopes of easy gain.

This is a lucky sway for the younger eneration which is to demonstrate its sagacity and cleverness in many lines of invention and creative work.

College students and all who instruct them should benefit at this time when the results of the year's training should manifest satisfactorily.

Although this is not an especially favorable day for aviation the stars seem to promise new records for airplane travel.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of varied business anxieties, but they have the augury of financial success.

Children born on this day may be impulsive and decided in judgment. The subjects of this sign may have artistic talents that assure original and unusual achievements.

Albert Durer, famous artist, was born on this date, 1471. Reverdy Johnson, 1796, American statesman, also claimed this as a birthday.

TRENT RIVER, May 20.—Fishing for pickerel has been good this week. T. F. Ward has been successful in landing some fair sized ones nightly at the dock.

Wharfs Submerged

The heavy rains which occur almost daily are keeping the land very wet and farmers are unable to finish their spring work. The river continues to be very high and many wharfs and boat houses are completely submerged.

Life Steps In

By RUBY M. AYRES

The General spoke from across the dark little room.

"I'm 'wake!"

"Are you, darling?"

"Yes—are you 'wake too?"

"Yes."

She could feel that the General was sitting up in bed.

"I dreamed that my father had come home," he said solemnly.

"Did you? Perhaps he will come soon."

"But I dreamed that he was crying," the General said apologetically.

"Oh!" His words gave Ana a queer feeling of presentiment which she tried in vain to dispel.

No doubt the child had been awakened by the sound of hes own sobbing and the sound of it had got mixed up with his dreams.

"Grown-up men don't cry," she said.

The General considered the point for a moment.

"Why not?" he demanded.

"Because—oh, well I don't quite know why," Ana said helplessly. She heard him sigh before he lay down again.

"You don't know very much do you?" he said pityingly.

Ana chuckled. She knew how happy she was at any rate! So happy that she hoped she would die rather than that anything should happen to bring back the old desolating sense of emptiness and loss.

"What time is it?" the General asked after a moment.

"It's the middle of the night," Ana said severely. "And you must go to sleep again," and presently she heard his deep, even breathing once more.

So happy! So utterly happy, she told herself, as she pressed her flushed cheek against the pillow and tried to sleep.

And yet, why? Anthony was certainly on his way home, but he was not free. It would mean just the same heartbreaking pain all over again—the same unfulfilled longing.

"But I shall see him. At any rate I shall see him," Ana told herself passionately, and tried to believe that she would be satisfied. And yet there was still Mollie—and Mollie was his wife and the mother of the General. Even though she seemed to have no affection for either of them. How strange life was, and how different people were constituted, that one threw away the thing which another treasured more than life itself!

"But, at any rate, I shall see him again," was Ana's last conscious thought before once more she fell asleep.

Tea, Miss——"

Ana rubbed her eyes and sat up slowly.

The little maid who came during the day and who had the key of the cottage was standing beside her bed, smiling.

"Oh, you was sleeping 'eavy," she said.

"Was I?"

Ana was wide awake now, her pulses jerking as she remembered last night.

Anthony was on his way home, and life was wonderful.

The General was still dozing—one arm flung up above his head, and in a whisper Ana told the little maid not to wake him.

"He didn't sleep very well last night," she explained. "And, Mary, Mrs. Hambledon is back from London but I daresay she will be tired and like her breakfast in bed."

The maid stared.

"Home, miss!" She shook her head positively. "Oh, no, miss, she isn't. The door of her room was open when I came this morning, and she's not there."

"Not there!" Ana stared blankly. Had she dreamed about last night? Only dreamed that Anthony was coming back? She put her teacup down and sprang out of bed.

"What nonsense! Of course she is there. Fraser brought her up from the station in his car." She spoke confidently, but her heart was beating fast in nameless apprehension as she crossed the tiny landing and pushed open the half-closed door of Mollie's room.

"Mollie——"

But the room was empty.

The bed had not been slept in—its sheets were neatly turned back as Ana had left them during the evening. The dressing table was cleared of some of its trinkets and there was a curiously empty look about the whole room. Ana took a step forward.

"Mollie," she said again appealingly, but there was no reply. The little maid who had followed Ana into the room looked at her with an "I told you so" gleam in her eyes, but neither of them spoke.

Then Ana moved forward mechanically and jerked back the drawn curtains, letting in a flood of sunshine.

"It's all right—go down and see about breakfast," she said with an effort.

The little maid reluctantly obeyed, and Ana sat down on the side of Mollie's bed, shivering. Had last night been only a dream? Hadn't Mollie come back after all?—wasn't Anthony on his way home from Rhodesia?

Ana closed her eyes with a feeling of panic. Not true after all?—not true? She rose stiffly to her feet, and as she turned to leave the room her eyes fell on a letter propped up among the photographs on the narrow mantelshelf.

It was only addressed "Diana"—just the one word, and for some seconds Ana stood staring at it, afraid to move or touch it—afraid to guess at its contents. Then with an effort she mastered her fear and broke the envelope open. Mollie's letter was long and rambling.

"I am going away with Ralph Mahon. They say his wife cannot live very long and as soon as he is free he will marry me. You need not worry wbout me—perhaps you won't think I am worth worrying about—I am not taking this step without seeing that whatever happens my future is assured. Tell Anthony it will be easy to get enough proof for a divorce. I will see that he does. If you marry him, and I suppose you will—I hope you will be happier than I was. But, of course you will, you don't ask a great deal of life like I do—you believe in love in a cottage like he does. Tell Anthony he need not trouble to repay Ralph any more of the money I borrowed, besides it's far more now than he ever could repay. I've just been in to look at the General; you and he were both sleeping so soundly you never heard me——

"You'll be kind to him, I know—and if you have any children of your own you won't let them crowd him out. Ana, I sometimes wish I had been made like you. Life would have been so much easier. I wish I could always have adored Tony as I did when we were first married. I think the real trouble began when I realized that he didn't care for me and that hurt my vanity. Anyway it's too late now. I shall be all right with Ralph, he'll give me everything I want——"

"Oh—God!" said Ana in a tragic whisper. Everything she wanted! That meant only money. Poor, poor Mollie! There was not much more.

"I've written to Anthony, and he'll get the letter at Southampton. I don't think he'll care at all—except to be glad. It's no use trying to follow me or stop me, even if you want to, and of course you won't. Good-bye."

That was all.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

ASK A MAN

Just ask a man—he's marvelous
Explaining matters so and thus.
Just ask a man—and thus and so
A husband always seems to know.
Why politics
Are like they are,
And why he picks
That kind of car,
And what he thought
Of Omaha,
And why there ought
To be a law,
And why the catcher threw the ball,
Or almost anything at all.

Just ask a man—but there are things
Whose net result is splutterings.
I want to warn you here and now
It's wasting time to ask him how
To bend a wire
Or stop a squeak,
To start a fire
Or stop a leak,
To fix a door
Or some machine,
To paint a floor
Or hang a screen—
Some little thing in house or flat.
Don't waste your time by asking that.

Just ask a man—but if the gate
Is hanging by one hinge of late,
Or if a chair has come apart,
Or if the sweeper fails to start,
The table needs
A little glue,
Or if the weeds
Are coming through,
A light is out,
A handle loose,
Or bells about
Are out of use,
Just fix the thing the best you can.
Take my advice—don't ask a man.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WUGGILY'S DAISY WREATH

(Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily was hopping through a beautiful field of white and yellow daisy flowers one day when he happened to think of something.

"Ha! Ha!" chuckled the old rabbit gentleman laughing so hard that he almost made a permanent twinkle on the end of his pink nose. "I'll do it! I'll give her a surprise; that's what I'll do! Ha! Ha!"

Now, you might think Uncle Wiggily was going to play some trick, or perhaps tie a knot in the long tail of Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper. But, instead, Uncle Wiggily was going to be jolly and kind to his wife.

"Seeing all these daisies," said Mr. Longears to himself, "makes me think of the days when my wife and I were young. Before we were married I used to hop with her through the fields of daisies just like these and we used to nibble the clover leaves together. Once I made a wreath of daisy blossoms and put it on her head. She wasn't Mrs. Longears then. She was my sweetheart.

"Now, I think I'll make a wreath of daisies, take it home and put it on my wife's head, as I used to do when she was a young girl rabbit. It will please her and make her think of the happy days of long ago.

"Not that the days now aren't happy, for they are," chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "I've never had such jolly times in all my life, with adventures and everything, but I hardly think I'll have an adventure to-day if I make my wife a daisy wreath."

So Uncle Wiggily sat down on a grassy hump, like part of a camel's back, in the green field and began picking daisy blossoms to weave into a wreath for the rabbit lady's head.

Humming a little song, blinking his eyes, twinkling his pink nose and, now and then, holding the wreath up to look at it, Uncle Wiggily was so busy in the daisy field that he never heard the Bob Cat who came sneaking up toward him. Not until the Bad Chap was very close, twiddling his whiskers, did Uncle Wiggily look up and see him. And then the rabbit gentleman was so surprised that, before he thought, he politely said:

"Hello!"

"Hello!" mewed the Bob Cat. "What are you doing here?"

"Making a daisy wreath," truthfully answered Mr. Longears.

"Well, you can stop that now and get ready for me to bite you!" growled the Bob Cat, most impolitely.

Then Uncle Wiggily knew he must do something to save himself from being bitten. So he thought quickly and said:

"Oh, Mr. Bob Cat, you wouldn't bite me, would you, when I am making you a daisy wreath? Would you, now?"

"Is that wreath for me?" asked the Bob Cat.

"You may have it and welcome," spoke the rabbit. For, though he had intended giving the wreath to his wife he knew she would much rather the Bob Cat would wear it if it would save Mr. Longears from being bitten. "Yes, I'll give you this wreath," went on Uncle Wiggily.

"What can I do with it—eat it?" sneered the Bob Cat.

"Oh, no!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily, though he didn't feel much like laughing. "You will put it on your head and you will look like a king."

"Well," growled the Bob Cat. "All right. I have heard that a cat may look at a king, so why can't a king look like a cat. Go ahead, make me the wreath. I won't bite you until I see how I look in it," and the Bob Cat sat down.

Uncle Wiggily finished the daisy wreath, thinking, the while, that when he put it on the Bad Chap's head the Bob Cat might go off to find a puddle of water to use as a looking glass and then Mr. Longears could run home. So when the flower wreath was all made, Uncle Wiggily tossed it on the Bob Cat's head.

"It looks fine," said the rabbit.

"Does it?" mewed the Cat, who was very proud. And just then along came the Fuzzy Fox who began to laugh.

"What are you laughing at?" quickly growled the Bob Cat.

"At you!" chuckled the Fox. "If you could see how silly you look with those flowers draped over your left eye—Ha! Ha! Excuse me while I giggle again."

"Ha! Laughing at me, are you?" howled the Bob Cat. With that he flew at the Fox with tooth and claw and soon the two Bad Chaps were fighting so hard that Uncle Wiggily found it easy to slip safely away and run to his bungalow.

"That was a lucky escape for me!" said the rabbit, who, as he hopped along, picked more daisies for his wife's wreath. She liked it very much and kissed Mr. Longears for it.

BIG MISSOURI REGISTERS GAIN

General List Shows Softer Tendency On Standard Mining Exchange.

CANADIAN OILS STEADY.

TORONTO, May 20. (C.P.) — Though the general list showed a softer tendency, individual declines were of an unimportant nature on the Standard mining exchange to-day when Big Missouri assumed leadership of a dull market and shot up to an extreme high of 1.72, the noon price at this figure indicating a net advance of 17 points.

Such stocks as Noranda, Lake Shore and the Lindsley stocks were almost neglected. With Noranda dipping 45c to 55.25 and Lake Shore 35 to 25.60, Sherritt-Gordon and Sudbury Basin held steady, while Falconbridge advanced 30c to 14.05, and Ventures gained 25 to 9.50. Wright Hargreaves dropped back 9 points to 1.51.

Western Canadian Oils generally showed a minor improvement.

SEARCHERS FAIL TO FIND BODIES

paddles in the boat were used, one of them broke while the other was swept away in the current. The boys frantically tried to stop the boat by tying it to an iron hoop on the bridge. Sid Bennett jumped out on the bridge while George held on to the ring and told Alex Scobel to hold on to his feet and pass up a rope. But just as he got the rope he let go and I do not know what became of him after that. George jumped into the water again and swam to the boat and climbed out on a pier.

Not Sailing Straight

The boat was not going straight; if it had been we might not have jumped. Dick Bell jumped out first and then Annie Lucas and when the boat was about ten feet from the falls I jumped. I was the last to jump from the boat and I jumped because the rest of them did. Annie could not swim and was swept away. I could swim a little but my heavy clothes hampered me, and the current carried me right over the falls. I do not remember it, although I did not lost my head in the water but kept wondering if I was going to get out of it. George and some other young fellow pulled me out of the water at the foot of the dam," she concluded.

W. C. Teagle Presents Survey

Science Has Devised Reserves of Crude Oil For Many Years to Come.

NEW SYSTEM.

Series of Lean Years in Point of Earnings Follows Period of Overproduction.

New York.— W. C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, presented a brief survey of the petroleum industry in 1928 in the annual report. He said:

"A series of lean years in point of earnings was the penalty incurred by the petroleum industry through a long period of over-production. This resulted in 1927 in the realization that new methods which science and improved technique had devised has made reasonably certain ample potential reserves of crude oil for many years to come.

"The belief that a shortage could not be long postponed and that the old rule of alternating periods of over-production and deficiency justified continuous efforts to locate new pools was generally abandoned in the face of this new understanding. The balancing of the production of crude to conform to the economic requirements of the markets was recognized in many quarters as the only sound policy of insuring to the industry an adequate return upon its invested capital.

"The extent to which this change in attitude affected the conduct of the business in 1928 is demonstrated by the record of a decrease in actual production of crude and finished products of less than 25,000,000 barrels, where as in the previous year 69,000,000 barrels were added to stor age. Earnings of petroleum companies benefitted in proportion to the extent to which the corrective measures undertaken in 1927 were put into effect during the past year.

"There is ground for optimism in the cleare understanding which the industry now has of the shortcomings of a system of haphazard production and in the realization that the large reserves of oil above ground, the increasing percentage of light products obtained from crude and the greater surety of finding new production where geophysical devices can be employed have placed the industry in the position where it can deliver petroleum products for essential uses indefinitely.

"There are many obstacles in the path toward the orderly exploitation of the country's petroleum resources. The present form of leases, which compels an operator to drill regardless of the market for the product, it is hoped will be superseded by a new form, the operation of which will be permanently beneficial to all concerned.

"The welfare of the industry during the current year will be dependent on the progress which may be made toward constructive conservation and the condition of general business prosperity. The industry has it in its own hands materially to improve its position by a more widespread application of the unit operation and development of pools. Statistics of the first three months of the year reflect an increase in stocks of 29,438,000 barrels, a situation which is menacing to the extent that these statistics forecast the course of events over the year.

Gross crude production of the subsidiary and affiliated interests of the company in 1929 was 84,775,238 barrels, of which 42,773,671 barrels were produced in the United States and 42,001,567 barrels in foreign fields. The aggregate was an increase of 3,326,589 barrels, or 3.8 per cent., over 1927, the latter year having shown a gain of nearly 32 per cent. over 1926.

FLOOD IS FEARED N SOUTHERN STATE

Break in Levee at Kennett Is Likely to Flood 50,000 Acres.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 20 (Canadian Press).—The St. Francis River levee near Kennett, Mo., gave way early to-day, endangering levees and property on approximately 50,000 acres of land, according to a telephone message from the levee board office at Kennett.

The break occurred at a spot considered the weakest in the levee stretch where several hundred men had been working desperately for several days to avert a crevasse. No large town is in the path of the flood, and it was believed that all residents of the area subject to inundation had moved to safety.

Stray Cow On Road Cause Of Mishap

Five miles from Port Hope on the Port Hope Highway, a cow belonging to Melville Gordon strayed onto the road, causing some slight inconvenience to a man named Neal of Toronto, and might have been the cause of a serious accident. During the storm, Mr. Neal suddenly saw the cow loom up ahead of him as he was driving along, and rather than hit the animal, he swerved his car and pulled up along the grass at the side of the road.

Heavy Demand Sends Wheat Prices Higher

CHICAGO, Ills., May 20. (C.P.) — Wheat prices averaged higher early to-day, with considerable demand coming from houses that asserted rallies were to be expected after recent drastic downturns.

Notice also was taken that various crop reports from the southwest were less optimistic than of late. Opening at 1-8c off to 1-8c and 1-4c up wheat later sagged somewhat, but afterwards scored gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer, with corn starting 1-8c to 1-2c higher, and subsequently continuing to climb.

LIST SOFTER LAX SESSION

Declines of Minor Character, However, On Toronto Stock Exchange.

FORD MOTOR STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., May 20 (C.P.).— Extremely dull trading let prices down to softer levels on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Declines, however, were of a minor character, with the exception of Ford Motor, which was in light trading, remained at the morning's low at 54⅜, off 2⅜ points. Page Hersey was another weak feature, and in a turnover of only 40 shares, sold down to 128, off 1½ points. Massey-Harris at 66½ and Service Stations at 69 were off ¾ and a single point respectively, while Hiram Walkers was ¼ lower at 21. The oils were neglected.

City Dairy was an exception, and in easy trading climbed up 2 points to 72.

CURB HOLDS DOWN TREND

Many Issues Drop 1 to 10 Points Below Last Week's Closing Quotations.

NEW YORK MARKET.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil. Associated Press Financial Editor).

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 20.—The stock market alternately blew hot and cold to-day, but the line of least resistance appeared to be downward. Pools succeeded in marking up a few specialties in which favorable develepoments are pending, but rallies in the general list invariably attracted a fresh flood of offerings which carried a long list of issues down 1 to nearly 10 points below last week's closing quotations.

With directors of the New York and Chicago Federal Reserve Banks reported in favor of a higher rediscount rate, the prospect of further "money pinches" around June 1, June 15, and July 1, and nearly a billion dollars required to take up stock purchase "rights" before the first of August. There was little incentive for any general revival of bullish activity.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent. and held steady at that figure throughout the early part of the session, although loans in the "outside market" were available as low as 6 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm. The former being quoted at the highest mid-May levels in nearly 40 years.

GIVEN 10 YEARS.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., May 20. — Sentence of 10 years' imprisonment in Portsmouth Penitentiary was imposed on Alfred Morton, negro, on Saturday for assault and robbery of Clifford Porter, taxi driver. He was also given seven years for theft of a motor car, the sentences to run concurrently.

Edward Russel Earle, negro, charged with complicity in the same offences, pleaded not guilty, and was committed for trial.

TWO MISSING IN CANOE.

FATALLY INJURED.

RENO, Nev., May 19.— After escaping death during three years of action in the Great War, during which he rose from a private to a colonel in the Canadian army, Robert Murdie, insurance adjuster, formerly of San Francisco, was probably fatally injured early to-day when he was struck by an automobile about ten miles south of Reno.

ARMY MAN SAYS HUSKY GAVE HIM PERMANENT HELP

"This Medicine Has Astonished Me By Completely Relieving My Indigestion and Stomach Trouble," He Declares.

JACK HORTON

Jack Horton is another widely known man who reports complete relief from indigestion and stomach trouble after using "Husky," the wonderful medicine now being introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Mr. Horton, who served 28 years in the British Army and six years in the Canadian Army, holds medals for his bravery in the Egyptian Campaign, Boxer Rebellion, Boer War and World War. He lost a son and a daughter, the latter a nurse, in the World War.

Speaking of his experience with "Husky," he says: "I had gotten so that I could not eat a meal without tasting it for hours as particles of food would rise in my throat as a sour mass. My stomach seemed to be stopped up. Food did not digest, but formed gas instead, which kept my heart going so fast I thought it would jump out any minute.

"Husky was helping so many people I know that I was convinced it must be good. My stomach is as sweet as a child's now I am using Husky and I can eat a meal without my stomach giving me the least trouble. Husky digests my food and the waste passes out.

"I want others to know that Husky is the first medicine to really do me any good. And, as I know there are many others suffering as I did, I want to tell them that Husky gives permanent relief."

When your stomach gives you trouble, it generally means the delicate stomach lining is irritated and inflamed and is throwing off mucus, which surrounds the food you eat, fills your stomach with acid and gas and constipates you. Weak feelings, headaches and rheumatic troubles follow because your food sends impurities instead of rich, red corpuscles into your blood. Husky's ingredients cleanse the system of this mucus and soothe the irritated membranes. That's why Husky makes you feel better so quick and why a treatment of several bottles gives permanent relief.

Call on the Husky Expert at Bond's Drug Store and let him explain to you how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this marvelous medicine. His information is free.

Meanwhile, a reliable message has been received here from "Rum Row" that the rum-runners have not been responsible, as charged by the fishermen last week, for the robbery of the nets. Such tactics are "too petty" for them, they insisted.

An investigation of the wholesale robbery of the nets started last week by provincial police is proceeding today under direction of Inspector Arthur Moss.

CARS DAMAGED IN SMASH-UP

Adrian MacDonald of Normal School Staff Meets With Accident on Highway.

YOUNG BOY INJURED.

A car driven by Adrian MacDonald of the staff of Peterborough Normal School was damaged in an accident at Dale on Sunday afternoon. Mr. MacDonald was proceeding to Peterborough along the cut off from Dale and stopped at the through highway from Peterborough to Port Hope, starting up again when the traffic was clear. A light car driven by Adam Douglas of Bailieboro at this point, coming behind Mr. MacDonald's car did not stop at the stop sign and collided with the larger car, turning the lighter one over three times, wrecking it completely. Charles Douglas suffered a cut hand in the crash, while Adam Douglas was charged with reckless driving by Traffic Officer Hinchcliffe, who investigated the accident.

Mrs. Adrian MacDonald and Miss Hetherington, who were with Mr. MacDonald, did not suffer any injury, although they were somewhat shaken up. The back of the larger car was damaged to some extent.

Male Voice Choir Gives Short Recital in St. Paul's Church.

MEMBERS CONGRATULATED.

Peterborough Male Voice Choir held an important rehearsal in the Murray street Baptist church yesterday for over two hours, in preparation for the visit to the New York contest and Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church next week-end. There was a full turn-out, forty-nine voices, and a fine period of practice was enjoyed. It was agreed at its conclusion to hold a short recital, out of compliment to Mr. Chenhall, at the close of the evening service in St. Paul's church at 8.30.

Accordingly at this hour, before an augmented audience from several churches, the members of the choir rendered some of the selections to be given on the occasion of the contest visit. The first number was The Lost Chord, with George Coleman, Jr., as baritone soloist. In rotation this was followed by Psalm 21 (St. George's, Edinburgh), O Love the Lord (these three to be sung in the church in New York, on Sunday morning,), and the test piece, A Lullaby of Love, on Saturday afternoon, at 1.30, the concluding selection being Lead, Kindly Light.

Mr. James Dutton congratulated the choir on the performance, and voiced the best wishes for the success of the organization next week.

wall and in doing so he fell into the water.

Fortunately, however, he was able to get a hold on the punt and at this moment Kenneth Graham, who saw the predicament of the two men, rushed to the rescue. Lying on his stomach on the wall he leaned far over the water and was just able to catch the shoulder of the man in the water and gradually pull him and the boat in close enough to make the craft secure—a most difficult task, because of the fierce current at this point.

Graham's quick move was all that prevented the boat being swept over the canoe slide into the rapids.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that boating in the vicinity of the locks just now is a most dangerous practice, in fact that neighbor-

So Thankful for Relief She Received

Dodd's Kidney Pills were Recommended by Friend

"I suffered for some time with what the Doctor called Inflammation of the Bladder," writes Mrs. M. Browne, Shergrove, Man. "I have tried many remedies, but they did me very little good. A friend of mine told me about Dodd's Kidney Pills. I tried them and got great relief, for which I am very thankful." The road to good health lies through the Kidneys. If they are kept strong and well all the impurities are strained out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the Kidneys in good condition to do their work of cleansing and purifying the blood. Weak, Nervous, Run-down women should give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial at once. They should give speedy relief.

TEST ITS STRENGTH

... The quickest and surest way to try out a new advertising and selling campaign is through the Daily Newspapers.

... Daily Newspaper advertising can be made to yield cold facts and figures, and to do it quickly. Your whole campaign can be watched in detail and any local sales resistance met face to face without delay.

... This is one secret of the success of experienced advertisers and agencies. They know at how low a cost advertising tests may be made through the Daily Newspaper.

... If your brain is quick to conceive a selling idea, the Daily Newspapers are just as quick to "put it across" successfully. You can trace exact results of a newspaper campaign very quickly; it lets you know the quality of your new dealers and the quantity of customers that come to buy from them.

... And there is nothing like Daily Newspaper advertising for making a weak territory into a stronger one.

and interested feeling, putting its fundamental ideals in the forefront of our lives."

"It is for poor and rich alike—all are the same in God's eyes. People who have bad notions of God have bad notions of the state, said a writer. Take from the various service clubs, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. the dynamics of the Christian Church, and their usefulness loses effect. Pull down the churches and burn every Bible—society would be in a pitiable state, even though many respectable people lived the upright life.

"Let us see to it that our sons not only are helped to 'get on,' but 'get up' when considering their life work. Imbue them with a church-loving spirit, and their success in any walk of life will be assured."

Principal Eakin, in concluding a sermon bristling with sound logic and spiritual advice said "God did as He did that men might be saved by their instrumentality of saving men." The two-fold plea—Come with us and we will do thee good, and to society, come with us and do us good, climaxed a discourse on what the church has accomplished by its existence..

Paul's Gospel

The evening hour brought a larger congregation to hear Principal Eakin, whose text was Romans 1, verses 16 and 17. The overwhelming thought of his sermon was the fact the gospel of Christ was the power of God to all who believed. Paul had cause for this firm belief, if any man had. He was branded as a traitor to the faith of his fathers, but he was willing to suffer anything for the gospel's sake. He travelled far, seeking the souls of men; he never weakened his appeal—nothing hindered him sending his radiant message. Paul had a gospel of transcendant beauty of appeal and approach to all. He was sure of success through his strong faith and belief. He was not ashamed, because it was a gospel first, and second, a gospel of philosophy and truth. Gospel means good news. God's forgiveness of sin meant a substitution for our sins. He gives a new heart and we are made pure. Think of Paul's gospel of the despised Nazarene—what a power unto men's souls, unto our souls and lives. Jesus was the unique Son of God, who provided power to save, keep, and guide men. To have the gospel work in human life and society, we must include it in our daily walk and conversation—live and act every day its teachings. To have this nature and existence, we must be willing to sacrifice, and that condition is asked of us all. Surrender of our lives is the anchor of our soul, continued Prof. Eakin.

Concluding his massage, the speaker gave some illustrations where pain-racked patients were nearer God through faith which made them whole, helping them to undergo operations, thrusting God to bring them safely through the ordeal. Baptism with water blessed by priest, bishop, archbishop or pope could not save us; nothing but faith in God and His redeeming grace could save men's souls. Salvation is through Christ alone. To as many as surrender themselves giveth He grace to believe.

Music by the Choir

In keeping with the splendid messages of the day, the choir, under Martin B. Chenhall, acquitted themselves with no small amount of credit. In the morning the duet, "O, Divine Redeemer," was sung by Mrs. Byers and George Coleman, Jr.

In the evening, Martin Chenhall, Jr., 'cello, with Martin B. Chenhall, Sr., at the organ, gave a joint recital, the numbers being: Sonata for 'Cello in A major (Beethoven), "Elegie" (Massenet). The choir sang the anthems, "Judge Me, O God," and "Christ, Whose Glory Fills the Sky." The decorations were not elaborate, but effective, flowers and ferns.

OTONABEE RIVER CLAIMS FIRST VICTIMS OF SEASON

me the rope, as I could feel my arm nearly breaking with the strain. Men were watching us from the bridge, but they didn't come to help us; I guess they thought we were alright. Sid jumped onto the bridge, planning to take the rope and hold us. Just then my hold gave way. I was dragged half beneather the surface and the boat swept on down the river.

"I swam down and caught the boat and clambered in again. The five of us were swept down to the dam, where we all became frightened. Dick Bell stood up and jumped; he was the first. We all followed him over the side; Janet Lindsay being the last to jump.

"I couldn't swim very well against the current with my clothes on. I saw Annie Lucas' hands reach up above the surface, and Alex's head come up and then disappear. That was the last I saw of either of them. I think Alex hit his head against the pier when he jumped over.

"I swam to the pier and pulled myself up. Then ran around and helped some young chap, who had caught Janet, bring her to the shore."

Men Were Room-mates

George Coyle and Alex Scobel were room-mates; both lived at the Empress Apartments at 330 Water street. Alex, is it believed, could only swim a little. Neither of the girls could swim.

Sidney Bennet's story of the happenings preceding the tragedy were very incoherent. He was very excited and in despair over the tragic ending to the little motor trip which he had planned.

The story he told about the snapping of the shear pin in the propeller coincided with that of his chum, George Coyle. He also told of grabbing desperately to the ring in the side of the bridge pier when the boat bumped there for a moment in its mad sweep toward the dam.

He said, "George and I both held on desperately to that ring. I believe that if the men had thrown us the end of a coat, or taken hold of the rope, Annie, Dick and Alex would be alive to-night.

"I jumped up on George's shoulders and clambered up on the pier, intending to have them give me the rope and hold the boat from sweeping down. Just as I got up, George's hold gave way and he fell into the water. He swam down and caught the boat as it was being swiftly carried to the dam. I ran down the shore and then jumped in after the boat.

"At the dam there was a screech and I saw them all jump overboard. It was hard swimming and the water was cold. I had a hard time saving myself and could not catch up with the others to take hold of any of them.

"I got out just above the dam and ran down the bank. I saw that George had got out and that someone had saved Janet, but I could not see any of the others. I ran down the bank and caught the boat just about opposite Rye's boathouse."

Annie Lucas, drowned, had worked as a waitress in the Empress Hotel for nearly a year. She was a popular member of the staff and she and Dick Bell, also drowned, had become engaged to be married last week. She has a brother living in Brockville and a married sister in Windsor.

Alex Scobel had worked in the Empress Hotel for over eight years.

Janet Lindsay, saved, had only worked at the hotel for three days, coming here from Toronto.

Sidney Bennett and George Coyle are British immigrant boys. They worked on farms and lumber camps together and had come to Peterborough this Spring. Sidney had obtained a position as mechanic with the Peterborough Canoe Company and George was working as kitchen boy at the Empress Hotel. They are close chums.

The launch negotiated the slide without shipping a drop of water, and had the passengers remained on board no lives would have been lost. The drop is only a few feet at this time of the year with the river high.

None of the bodies had been recovered this morning.

CHARLES EDWIN WINDATT

The late Mr. Windatt, who died in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, at the age of 26 years, 7 months and 24 days, was the son of the late Charles A. and Sarah Bella Johnson Windatt. The young man was employed at the Lakefield Creamery for some time and during his residence here made many friends among the young people who regret his early passing. Cripple's Marvellous Recovery!

"Back in 1915 I was cursed with a fierce attack of sciatica (which I hope never to experience again), and was out of action for over four months. From my hip to my toes on the left side I was not a single hour without pain, night or day, for two whole months. I used up about seven remedies without any relief and tried hospital treatment, until I began to wonder whether I had any chance of recovery at all.

"One day my wife saw a Kruschen advertisement, and she said, 'Try this, Bob. It can't hurt you even if it doesn't do any good.' I did so; took it religiously and regularly, two-thirds of a teaspoonful in a glass of hot water first thing in the morning. After a week or so the intense ache in my left leg began to grow less, then at long intervals I was surprised and pleased to notice that the pain left me for hours at a stretch, a sure indication that the Salts were doing what was claimed for them. In nine weeks the pain had completely gone.

"When I was getting round again, moving along the street at my normal gait, I met another gentleman who seemed astounded. He said, 'Man, you've made a marvellous recovery! Last time I saw you you were doubled up like an old man of eighty. What helped you?' I told him, 'Kruschen Salts and optimism.' That's the story—absolutely true in every particular, and I am never without a bottle of Kruschen in the house.'—R. A. G.

The Merchant of Venus By FANNIE HURST

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

WHEN Farragut was twenty-two, he had already won two local scholarships at a New York art school and a third which enabled him to go to Paris.

Here was undoubtedly a fresh, spontaneous talent for sculpture. From the very first, he had been the beneficiary of the special attention and interest of his teachers. Even in Paris, where talent foregathers from the world over, Farragut came in for quite a share of unusual interest displayed by his masters for the work he was accomplishing.

His first year abroad, he more than justified his scholarship. His work was singled out by the great Bleriot himself, who had the young student at his home to dine, where some of the foremost art figures in Paris had assembled.

That same season, Farragut, still only a student, did a figure called "Venus of the Boulevards", which attracted no little local attention. News of the beginnings of this somewhat precocious success flashed back to America.

Farragut, aflame with enthusiasm, encouragement and the promise of success, plunged deeply into the life of his new world.

It was the beginning, but alas, of the end.

After those first few months, when it really seemed as if here was the embryonic making of a sculptor of the first water, it became apparent that Farragut might become the victim, rather than the success of his talent.

It was not drink alone, although night after night, as the circle of the Ateliers closed him in, Farragut had literally to be carried to bed, but it was rather the general breaking down of the will-to-work. Farragut had no capacity for sustained effort. If the result came easily, well and good. If not, the outside world was at liberty to break in and interrupt his work-a-day at will.

Students and roisterers crowded up his lodgings, even while he moulded. The third year that Farragut was in Paris, he was already a member of that vast, derelict army of Men Who Have Failed.

ONCE on the downward side of the peak, there was never a moment when it looked as if Farragut might redeem himself. The rest tells in the old, old way. Twenty years later, he was peddling plaster-of-Paris Venuses on the streets of New York. He carried them in a basket from door to door in districts where housewives are willing to barter for plaster-of-Paris statues.

For years he earned a precarious living at this, moulding his Venuses in a dreary back room of a lodging-house and drinking away his evenings in solitude in the secrecy of cheap "speakeasies".

Farragut was just another devastating failure.

It was probably the Venuses that kept him alive. To his gin-soaked brain, a Venus not only peopled his fancy, but she was a real and vibrating occupant of that room of his in the read of the lodging-house.

He went home to her nights because she was waiting for him. She stood in rows along the shelf. She came to him in his troubled sleep. She hovered over his days, making them endurable. She was his pride and his blessing and his life-obsession. He fondled her in the basket as he peddled her and kept her covered with excelsior and hated the smudgy hands of housewives as they dared to touch her slim, white flanks.

She brought him peace when beasts were raging in his drink-crazed brain. She brought him a sense of God when life seemed a nauseous Hell. She gave him the one white hope that there is any beauty or any meaning to living.

And as he grew older and dirtier and more like some unshaved, unkempt, unloved creature of the jungle, she grew into the ivory tower that held the secret meaning and the secret beauty of life.

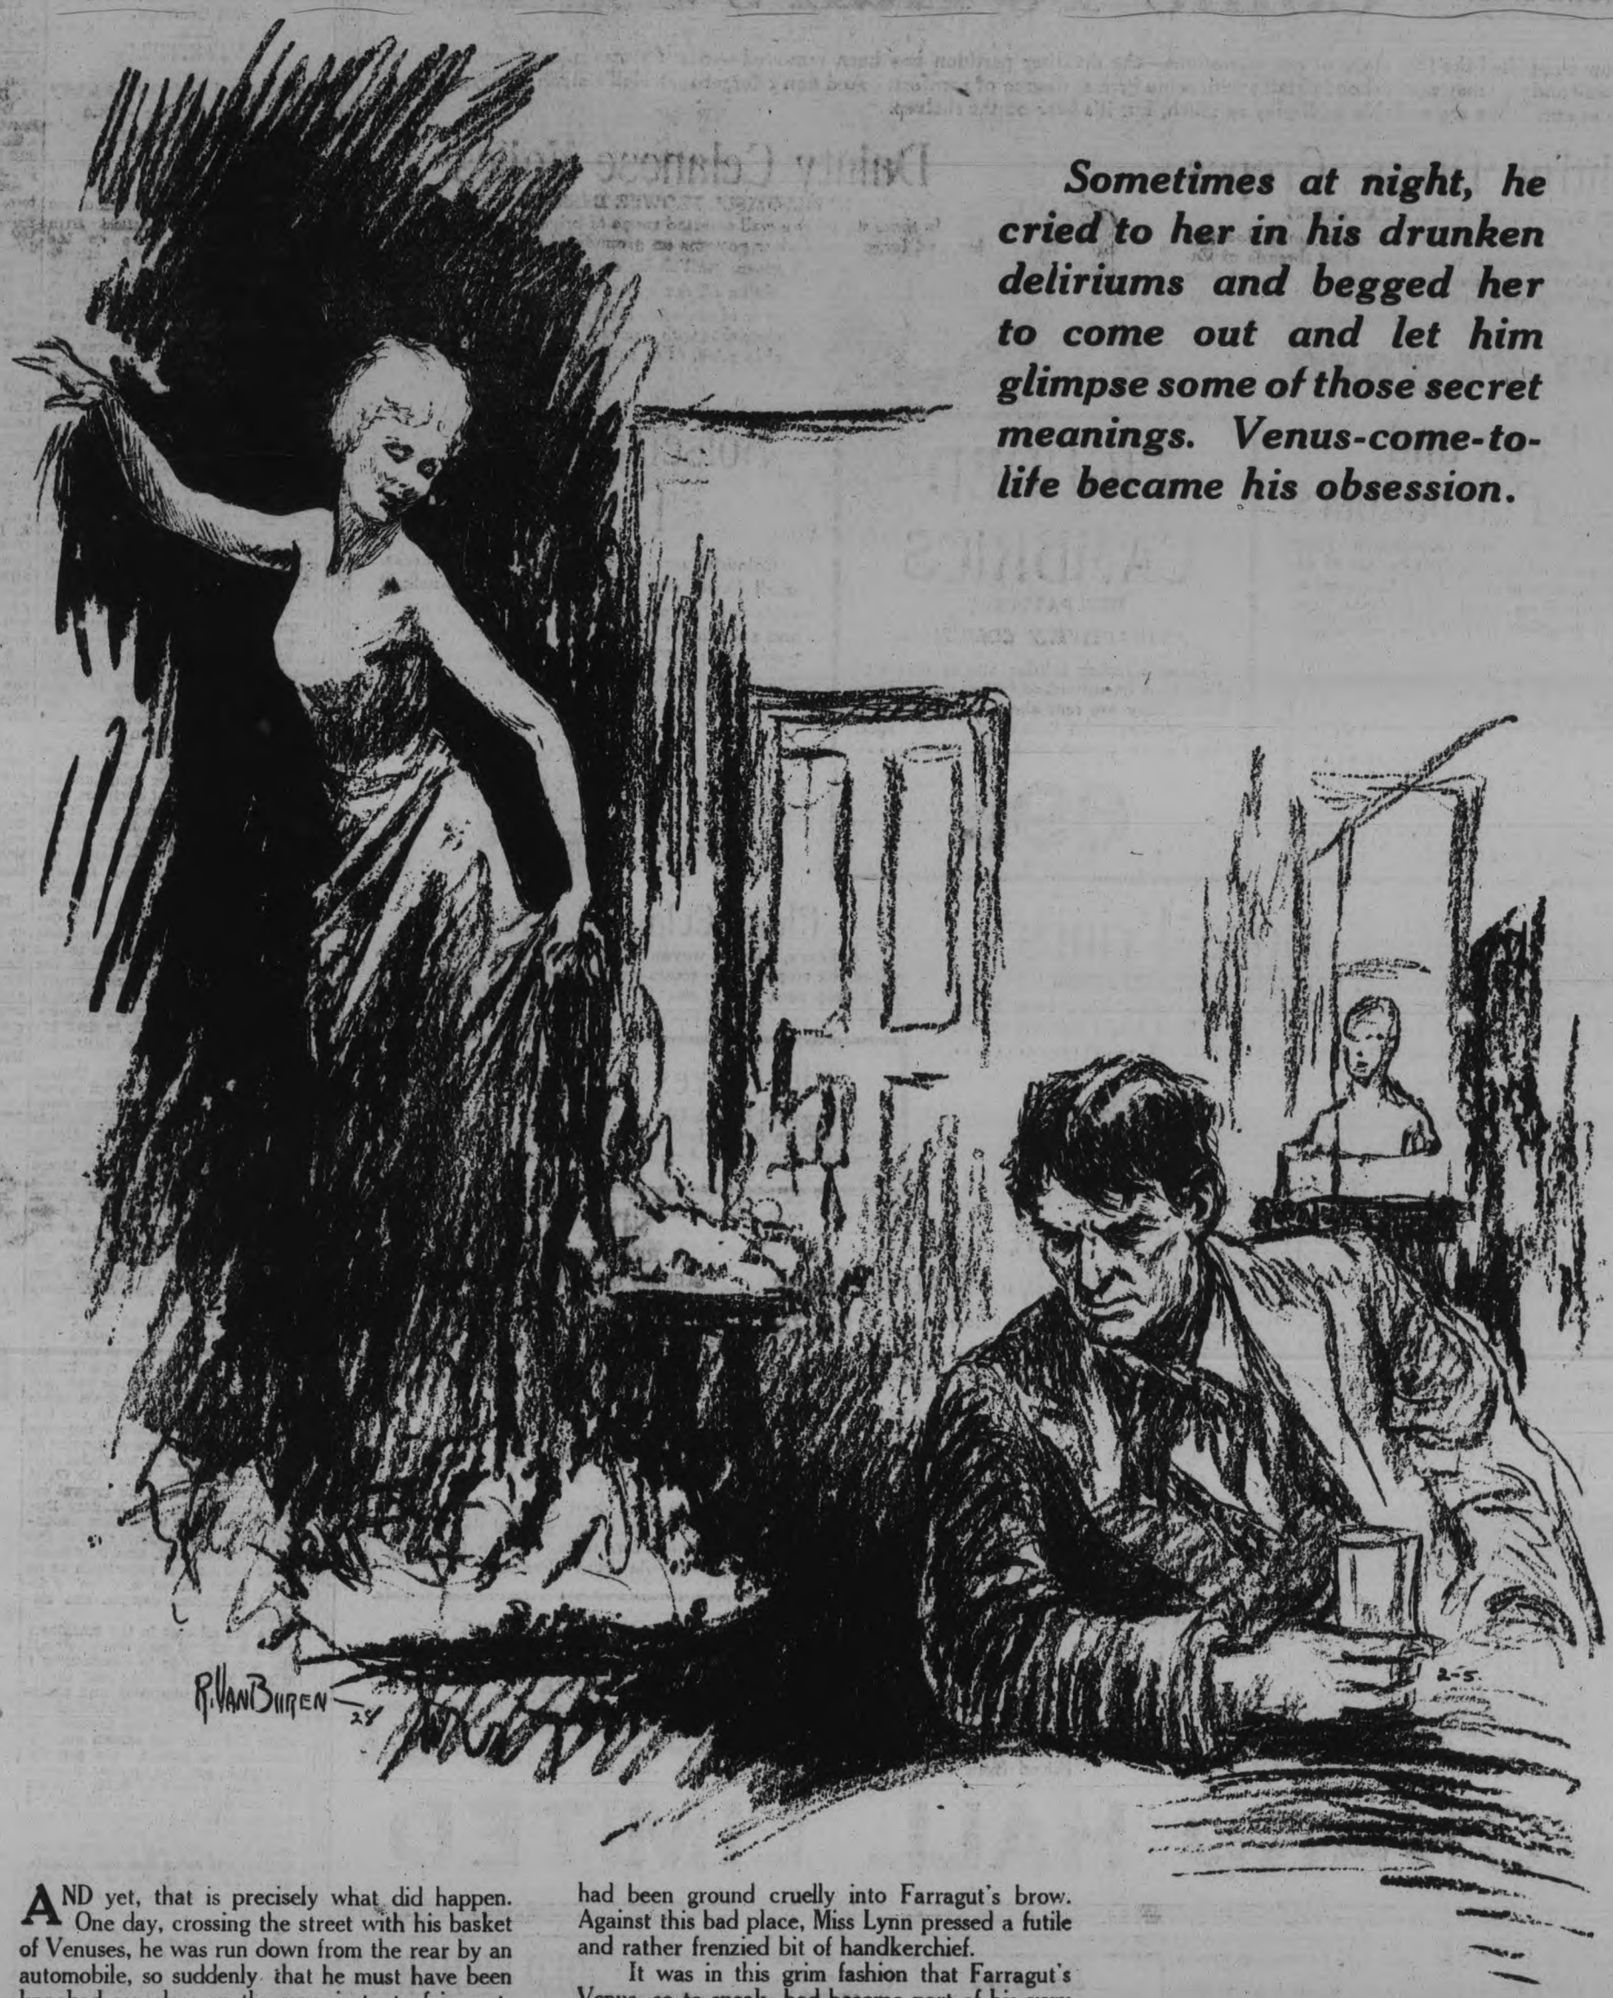
Sometimes at night, he cried to her in his drunken deliriums and begged her to come out of that tower and let him glimpse some of those secret meanings.

That after a while, became his obsession.

Venus-come-to-life.

Venus-come-to-life.

And of course, in the telling of this story, it would seem offhand that for Farragut, the sodden one, there was no way of bringing the Venus to life.



Sometimes at night, he cried to her in his drunken deliriums and begged her to come out and let him glimpse some of those secret meanings. Venus-come-to-life became his obsession.

AND yet, that is precisely what did happen. One day, crossing the street with his basket of Venuses, he was run down from the rear by an automobile, so suddenly that he must have been knocked senseless on the very instant of impact, because even after he came to in the hospital three days later, it was impossible for him to understand what had happened to him.

What had happened to him was just one of those incidents that are summed up in the daily press in such cursory fashion as this:

HEIRESS RUNS DOWN PEDDLER

Miss Mercedes Lynn Carries Unconscious Victim to Hospital In Own Car

The head of Farragut, towsled and gray, had lain in the lap of Miss Mercedes Lynn for the fifteen-minute ride from the scene of the accident to a hospital that owed its existence to Lynn endowment.

A bit of one of the plaster-of-Paris Venuses had been ground cruelly into Farragut's brow. Against this bad place, Miss Lynn pressed a futile and rather frenzied bit of handkerchief.

It was in this grim fashion that Farragut's Venus, so to speak, had become part of his very being . . . part of his flesh.

It was with her that he sank into immediate unconsciousness after the accident, from which he did not emerge until after three days.

When he did awaken, there were flowers in his room and salmon-colored, unhospital-like walls and salmon-colored dotted-swiss curtains and two gray-clad nurses, giving a total effect somehow of awakening in a garden. The kind of garden that dimly belonged to Farragut's student-days when there had been holidays in Normandy.

IT was practically the loveliest awakening Farragut had ever known—the sweetness and the gray-and-rose garden and the flowers in vases and the cool linen that was like the cool air of the evenings in Normandy that he remembered.

Except that as Farragut tried to move, he was suddenly and horribly on fire with pains that tore up through his legs and into his heart; with stabs of nerves that shot through him like javelins. It was horrible.

It was then that Venus came to life in the form of Miss Mercedes Lynn, who opened the door and walked in with roses for him in her arms.

Venus-come-to-life.

She came towards him, the most radiant one of all, the perfect incarnation out of the years of plaster-of-Paris.

It was easy and beautiful to die then, with Venus-come-to-life coming towards him with roses in her arms.

CADETS MAKE GOOD SHOWING AT INSPECTION

High School Corps Make Neat Appearance on the Parade Grounds.

AT LAKEFIELD.

Grove School Cadets Also Carry Off High Honors—Rifle Association Meets.

LAKEFIELD, May 20 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Wednesday morning the annual inspection of the Cadet Corps of the Lakefield High School cadets took place on the grounds of the school. The attendance of parents and interested citizens was larger than ever before, which betokens a growing interest in this movement, as each year sees an increase. The corps was larger than ever before, this year numbering sixty-two cadets, and in their marching, their trim appearance and their esprit de corps they were a credit to the Lakefield school and the community.

Ever since the Cadet Corps was organized in the school in 1915, the standard has been finer and better and a broader school spirit has grown up, loyalty to the old school and a pride in the appearance of the corps which has been a definite link between the citizens and the school as the village is proud of the Cadets although one cannot but say that they have not clamored about it much.

When the first Cadet inspection was held at the High School in 1915, war clouds hung over the land and in the mind and heart of many of the older boys was the firm resolve to enlist at the earliest opportunity. That many did so is evidenced by the roll of honor which hangs in a conspicuous place in the school. This year, as in all the intervening years, one saw a group of fine young Canadian lads learning the lessons of discipline, personal neatness and cleanliness in the ranks of the Cadets, shining buttons and boots, well brushed and pressed uniforms and bright faces greeted the inspecting officer, Captain Isbester, of Kingston, who has succeeded Captain Heron as Cadet Inspector of the district. Lt.-Col. Hill, of Ottawa, of the General Headquarters Staff, was present also, which gave a special touch of distinction to the ceremony. The boys in their company and platoon drill and their physical training comported themselves splendidly, and were a credit to their officers and to the Cadet Instructor, T. W. Chaplin.

The Cadet captain was Ronald Kemp, with Wallace Hendren second in command. The flour platoon commanders were Jack Nicholls, Dominic White, Donald Dener and Clayton Fitzgerald. The quartermaster was Harold Schwark, and Ralph Moore was sergeant-major. The brave little drummer boy was Jack Hendren. Reeve Tanner was present, and the following members of the school board: J. W. Ridpath (chairman), B. Q. Dench, Rev. W. J. Creighton, Dr. J. C. Smith, and H. R. Wager. Rev. J. J. Garvey and Rev. S. A Kemp were also present.

Lt.-Col. Hill addressed the Cadets in a manner which could not fail to inspire loyalty and pride in this great movement. There are now 133,000 Cadets in Canada, and the Lakefield corps is part of the big chain which plays an important part in our national life. Every private is responsible to his platoon commander who in turn is responsible to the Cadet captain, who is responsble to the Cadet inspector, and he to the general officer commanding the Military District No. 3, who is in his turn responsible to the headquarters staff at Ottawa. Lt.-Col. Hill, who is a member of the staff is responsible to its head. Each person has an individual obligation, definite and elevating.

"We are all cogs in the machinery of this wonderful work and we should take a great pride in contributing a little bit towards making good, wholesome citizens, physically and otherwise fit." Col. Hill congratulated the corps on the excellent manner in which the drill was carried out, the steadiness on parade, the personal cleanliness, and the manner in which the clothes were laid down for the physical drill. He urged the boys to take part in the rifle shooting contest which is held each year. The range is 25 yards and the government supplies the rifles and the ammunition, while the matter of the range is up to the local school authorities.

This shooting contest is an Imperial contest with a trophy presented by King George as first prize, two shields and the swords carried by Admiral Jellicoe and Earl Haig during the late war. These are the five principal trophies.

The King's trophy was won by Canada in 1927, but it was lost to South Africa last year, who won by sheer weight of numbers, as they had 12,500 boys entered, while Canada had only 4,800. The team consists of 3,000 boys, and South Africa with its large number was able to eliminate the low scores.

In closing, Colonel Hill suggested that a half holiday would be in order, which was granted by Mr. Ridpath, who complimented the boys on their proficiency and said the holiday was well deserved.

There were cheers for His Majesty the King, Lt.-Col. Hill, Capt. Isbester, Mr. Ridpath and the school staff.

The boys wound up with a route march through the village, followed by a crowd of admiring youngsters.

Grove Inspection

"The Grove" Cadet Corps were inspected by Lt.-Col. Hill of the General Headquarters Staff, Ottawa, and Cadet Inspector Capt. Isbester of Kingston, on Wednesday afternoon, and the instructor, T. W. B. Marling, and the school staff have reason to be proud of the showing made, whch surpassed even the high records of previous years. Trim, well turned out, well groomed and well behaved, the boys marched like veterans and handled their rifles in a smart manner well calculated to make a good impression on the officers. Their company drill and platoon drill showed good training and first class discipline, and the physical drill, always a special feature, was even better than last year. Col. Hill was well pleased and complimented the headmaster, Rev. A. M. Mackenzie and the instructor, Mr. Marling, on the showing made. This year the corps has a bugle band of eight pieces, which is a great asset and proved its worth by the efficient manner in which each member performed his part of the function.

The following are officers of the corps: O.C., H. Peck; 1st Platoon Commander, A. Bagg; 2nd Platoon Commander, W. Leggott; Bandmaster, Norman Bell; Section Commanders, Paul Hedley, J. Macauley, J. Goven, W. De Winn; Officer of the Colors, H. Dawson; Guards of the Colors, R. Lavery, W. Macrae.

The corps is about seventy strong and is a credit to The Grove and its pupils.

Among the large crowd of spectators, interested and admiring, none enjoyed it more than Ben and Sam, the Eskimo pupils at the school. Practically the entire High School corps attended and were deeply interested. There is a friendly rivalry which is a benefit to both schools, the rivalry which stimulates both to greater effort and which benefits not only the schools but the community.

Rifle Association Meets

A meeting was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, May 14, for the purpose of re-organizing the Lakefield Rifle Association for the season of 1929. Owing to the inclement weather, the attendance was small but what the meeting lacked in numbers was made up in enthusiasm.

W. A. Payne was elected captain and B. Q. Dench, A. E. Webster and A. Darling elected to the executive. George H. Spence was re-elected secretary and F. Moon was appointed official marker. It was decided to enter the silver salver competition again this season and four shoots will be held on dates to be decided later.

A practice shoot for prizes will be held on May 24, and another shoot of the same character on Labor Day. The membership list closes by May 24.

Card Party

Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was small at the card party on Tuesday night by the Catholic Women's League. Six tables were played, the prizes being won by Miss Grace Watson and Maurice Meade, while Mrs. Keith Wannamaker and William Hamblin won the consolation prizes.

Receives Word of Death.

News was received in the village last week of the death of Mrs. Medd at her home in Auburn, Ontario, near Goderich. Mrs. Medd was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Duff, formerly of Lakefield, and the family were well known and respected in the community. The deceased lady was a niece of Mrs. Lewis Hunter, Miss Duff, Miss Ray and Mr. Robert Duff.

Are you just below par? avoid Constipation

LACK of proper elimination is a universal evil. Doctors tell us so. If you are living each day—half-sick—half-well—lacking that punch, that energy which only comes from Health, beware of CONSTIPATION.

Many people can avoid this evil if they include sufficient roughage in the diet. Post's Bran Flakes, eaten regularly every day, helps to furnish needed roughage in a delicious form. You'll revel in the goodness of these brown, crisp-toasted flakes.

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer. Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal, with milk or cream. You will find it as delicious as it is effective.

Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel, and that you have been "regular" all the time. But don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity. Post's Bran Flakes is sold by all grocers, in a wax-wrapped package. Ready to eat.

Write for free trial package to Canadian Postum Co., Limited, Sterling Tower, Toronto 2, Ontario.

Cases of recurrent constipation associated with too little bulk in the diet should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal consult a competent physician at once and follow his advice.

FENELLA SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Much Business Transacted At Annual Meeting of Women's Institute.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FENELLA, May 20.—The annual meeting of the Fenella Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harrison George on Thursday afternoon. Carl McNaught, caretaker of Bethany cemetery met the Branch, and suggested placing flower beds each side of drive in cemetery. After some discussion, it was decided on motion that this matter be laid over for the present season.

On motion it was decided that the secretary's salary, and a bill for varnish for sign boards be paid.

Mrs. John Mouncey was appointed to arrange for the ordering of refreshments for the summer meeting.

The secretary's report showed a balance on hand of $13.28 after all expenses were paid. Mrs. W. J. Jibb reported for the auditors and said the books were found to be correct.

The secretary was requested to communicate with the director of the play, being put on by the Baltimore Young People's League, to arrange for the play to be given in Fenella as early as possible.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. Harrison George.
Vice President—Mrs. A. Nill.
Secretary—Miss Ruby Adams.
District director—Mrs. W. Rogers.
Organist—Mrs. N. C. Leach.
Assistant organist—Mrs. Teressa Brenton.
Auditors—Mrs. S. Leach and Mrs. Montgomery.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers for their faithfulness during the past year. Mrs. W. Rogers, the retiring president, responded, saying how much she had enjoyed the work, and thanked the members for their support during her term of office.

Mrs. Harrison George the president elect, took the chair for a few moments. She thanked the members for the honor they had bestowed on her, and asked for the co-operation of all members, so that the coming year might be a most successful one in Institute annals.

Mrs. W. Sandercock and Mrs. C. McNaught were enrolled as new members.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Nill in June.

Owing to the lateness of the hour no program was given. Mrs. George, assisted by the girls of the Institute, served a sumptuous lunch.

floated. She seemed to float for a long, long time; she felt as though eons must have passed her by when she opened her eyes slowly and saw that she had drifted back—to the white sand.

"You plucky little thing!"

Hope turned.

What she saw sent a sudden wild flutter through her heart. He was a young man with a brown skin and a pair of eyes that laughed at her and admired her and mocked her all at once.

"I'll race you to the edge of the surf," he said, studying her.

Now she was conscious of how she looked in his eyes. She glanced down hurriedly at her old black suit; she put up a timit hand to the knot of dingy black that kept her hair from wetting.

"Coming?"

Hope hesitated. Then she swallowed all her prejudices, all her timidities and gave him a shy smile. It was she who took the first breaker ahead, it was he who won the race; but as they came gasping back to the beach once more he said slowly:

"How jolly you'd look without all those bulky things to hinder you from swimming!"

"Goodbye," she answered, and fled surreptitiously up the beach to the house on the edge of the sand where she had her room and board.

That night almost guiltily she sat down and wrote to a big department store and ordered a new bathing suit. When two days later, she tried it on before her mirror and saw the soft satin of it gleam and crinkle beneath her caressing fingers a sudden feeling of having wings came to her. Almost guiltily she crept down to the yellow sand.

He was there.

"I've been waiting for you," he said gravely, "for two days."

Then his eyes fell on her satin figure. He was laughing at her. Hope could see it and she blushed hotly and made a sudden run for the sea. The blue waves sparkled and danced as she laid a rosy cheek against their salty caress.

"Do you think," he smiled, catching up to her in two strokes, "that you could swim to the sandbar?"

When they reached the beach again he had not asked her name, she did not know his. She said goodbye a trifle breathlessly.

The next morning she went fearfully down the beach.

He was not there.

She went slowly down to the sea. All the sparkle had left the waves, the breakers roared in, like white sea-horses, their foamy manes blowing, their breath a salt salute. She shivered as the cold water touched her body.

At supper her landlady joined her.

"Heard that young Marlow's been seen?" she asked. "You know, Marlow, who's been house-breaking hereabouts. Him with the blue eyes and the brown skin and the pleasant way with him. I ain't had light nor sight of him!"

Hope lowered her face over her plate. Her cheeks were blazing hot; she lifted her fork with a hand that trembled. Blue eyes. Brown skin. A pleasant way with him.

The ocean thundered like drums in the wilderness. She caught up her shabby little coat and went down to the beach. Sunset still lingered in the sky, but she was not looking at the sky, but at a figure, tall and strong and brown, that came walking to her across the sand.

She held out a hand with a beseeching gesture.

"They're looking for you," she said; her throat was very dry; she could scarcely make the words come out. "Go—now—I'll put them off! I'll send you money. You can begin again. I know how hard it is. I work. I'm often desperate too—"

The mocking light had left his eyes; something new and strange lighted them.

"I don't know your name," he said, his voice was almost husky.

"Hope."

He came up closer to her and took both her hands in his. "We've only known each other, five days, is it Less? But I've found something new—Hope. No, I'm not going to let you pull away your hands, I'm not going to let you run away. I'm not young Marlow, as you think, but just an ordinary man who's come away from all the sham and unreality of life back there—in the city."

Her cheeks were poppy-red. She could not lift her eyes. Her breath came brokenly from her parted kips.

"I suppose we've got to know each other's names and what we do; but all that comes later. Nothing matters much now except that I've found Hope."

"I've—I've got to go," she whispered.

"But this time I'm coming with you."

She gave him a sudden exultant look.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By BETSY CALLISTER

The wise housewife never saves a bit of left-over food that she does not turn to account. She realixes that there is no virtue whatever in saving things for a day or two and then throwing them away. It is far better to decide at once whether a bit of left-over fish, a few cooked onions , a quarter of a cabbage or some cut-up fruit can be turned to account than to go the extra work of storing them away and later deciding that they are useless.

It is a good plan never to put anything away in the refrigerator without having a definite idea of how you are going to use it. A little hard sauce—creamed sugar and butter—made for a pudding may be used in making cakes or muffins, to take the place of some of the sugar and butter called for in the recipe. Left-over fish may be freed from skin and bones and flaked and used for salads, a scalloped fish dish or fish-and-potato balls. A few cooked onions may be cut up and added to a meat dish. Left-over vegetables may be chilled and used for a salad. If you have left-over cut-up fruit or berries that have been sugared it is better to stew them up with a little more sugar and a very little water at once. Some left-over foods had better not be saved for a future meal at all. Sliced cucumbers become soggy if left even in a cold place. Sliced bananas do not long remain fit. Left-over sliced tomatoes should be stewed at once ,to be used later for soup or tomato sauce.

ORANGE CREAM PIE

1 cup Strained Orange Juice,
1 cup Boiling Water,
2 tablespoons Lemon Juice,
Grated Rind of 1 Orange,
¾ cup Sugar,
6 tablespoons Flour,
¼ teaspoon Salt,
2 Egg Yolks,
2 tablespoons Butter,
¼ pint 32% Cream.

Mix flour, sugar and salt, add the egg yolks, beaten until light. Pour over this mixture the boiling water, add butter and cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. Remove from stove, add orange juice, lemon juice and grated rind of orange. Pour into a baked pie shell. When cool cover the top with whipped cream.

IT took years of research to produce a perfect shortening. Canadian housewives, after actual test in the home, agree that Domestic Shortening is perfect.

It is a purely vegetable product made by a special process. As a shortening, superior to lard. Better to use than the best butter for two reasons—you use ¼ less and it costs much less.

Domestic means wonderful pastry—delicious biscuits—cookies that melt in the mouth—rich, smooth-textured cakes. You can use Domestic over and over again for frying—it will not carry taste or odour from one food to another—it will not smoke at the high temperatures required for good frying.

Domestic is homogenized to add smoothness and finer texture.

THANKFUL MORNING THOUGHTS

Do you ever lie abed for those few extra luxurious moments and do a little thankful thinking—you know those moments when you think you would give an arm or an eye for a half-day more of unbroken rest? Ah! well, we are better off than our grandmothers; even if, as they say, we have neither their strength nor their will.

What set me thinking along these lines was the low, sweet tinkle of my new alarm clock and the almost simultaneous click of the mechanism of the drafts of our furnace that adjusts the temperature of our house for the day. When grandmother was a girl the best of alarm clocks was a terrifying affair in the early morning, crashing one back to wakefulness with a disturbing shock; and then the fires had to be lighted in chilled rooms.

But day after day the many servants of our generation have found new comforts for us to enjoy—not only comforts but luxuries in every department of life, and as each one finds a new thing, be it food or pleasure, or lovely new fabric, or a cheaper motor car, or a new lotion for the face and hands, he cries out the news that all may hear.

Every day's newspaper tells us of some way in which the roads of daily life have been made smoother and easier for us to travel.

HOPE

By RUBY EVANS

Hope thrust one toe into the water, withdrew it, shivered, cast a frightened glance behind her and then slipped down suddenly under the next great wave.

She forgot that she just was spending two weeks alone at Noise Beach, she forgot that she was aching in every part of her brain and her body from weariness. Now, for this afternoon, she was part of the sea and the sky and the sand. The waves that rolled in were no more playful than she, the whitecaps tossed no more frothy spray than her sudden laugh.

Oh, she could swim! And she wanted to swim out, out, out to the tuft of green island that laughed under the sun! But when she had gone half way and felt her breath come harder, she was frightened suddenly.

She turned over very deliberately and

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

LET YOUR CHILD'S BACK BE EXAMINED.

One of the difficulties that faces the school physician sometimes is the unwillingness of the parents to have their children remove their clothing during the examination.

Now you can readily see that while throat, nose, eye, and ear conditions can be learned, that the physician cannot find out the condition of heart lungs, and spinal column.

A little curvature of the spine discovered at the school age, can, by properly directed exercise, be brought into a straight line, and the youngster's health and appearance thereby improved

In former days before the use of the X-rays became general, there were cases of spinal curvature that seemed to resist all efforts to correct them.

Now however, the X-ray will show the physician the exact position and condition of the bones of the spines.

By pulling the patients body as straight as possible and pulling on arms and legs by means of weights, the exact shape of the little bones can be seen.

If the spinal column can be straightened by extending the body in this way, then the physician knows that by gymnastics and massages he can straighten the spine and remove the curvature.

However as Dr. K. Gangiee points out, no matter how severe the condition, that is where there is this unevenness of one of the bones, the curvature can be prevented from becoming worse by continued gymnastics, massage, and supporting apparatus.

So give permission to your youngster to allow the school physician to examine the spinal column with the clothes off.

If the spine is straight, so much the better. If there is a curvature, the treatment, begun in the school age, will not only straighten the spine if it is a simple curvature, but even with the severe type the child will be so helped that the curvature will be scarcely noticeable.

Further, if treatment is neglected until the youngster is nearing manhood or womanhood it may be impossible to help the condition, and you will feel badly to think that you did not do all that was possible for your child, when treatment would have prevented the deformity.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"DO NOT HEED HER WARNING"
(Reply to the 'Gypsy's Warning')
(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

Lady, do not heed her warning,
Trust me, thou shalt find me true;
Constant as the light of morning
I will ever be with you.
Lady, I will not deceive thee,
Fill thy guileless heart with woe;
Trust me, lady, and believe me,
Sorrow thou shalt never know.

Lady, ev'ry joy would perish,
Pleasures all would wither fast,
If no heart could love, or cherish,
In this world of storm and blast;
E'en the stars that gleam above thee
Shine the brightest in the night;
So would he who fondly loves thee
In the darkness be thy light.

Down beside the flowing river,
Where the dark-green willow weeps,
Where the leafy branches quiver,
There a gentle maiden sleeps;
In the morn a lonely stranger
Comes and lingers many hours—
Lady, he's no heartless ranger,
For he strews her grave with flowers

Lady, do not heed her warning,
Lay thy soft, white hand in mine;
For I seek no fairer laurel
Than the constant love of thine.
When the silver moonlight brightens,
Thou shalt slumber on my breast,
Tender words thy soul shall lighten,
Lull thy spirit into rest.
(Selected from "Meta's" Written Scrap Book)

My mother I would fain have you know,
That now I see how much I owe
For all the love you gave to me,
Poured out so unremittingly.
But surely I'd have loved you more
If only I had seen before.
You always tried to make us glad,
When you, yourself, were feeling sad,
And often, when you gave a smile
Your heart was aching all the while.
But I'd have smiled a little more
If I had understood before.
And what it meant when you were tired
And saw tasks waiting that required
Your hand—because no one could do
Those special duties, just like you.
I see—but I'd have helped you more
If I had known all this before.
I understand now, mother dear,
So many things that were not clear
But understanding comes so late
And you have had so long to wait—
Yet all your love and toil and pain,
God helping me—shall not be vain.

Local Runners Win Honors at Millbrook Meet

HERB TRANTER IS WINNER OF SENIOR EVENT

First Track Meet of Season in This District Held at Millbrook

DISTANCE RUNNING.

Goheen and Stewart Put Up Great Battle in Junior Event.

The first track meet of the season in this district was held on Saturday afternoon at Millbrook under conditions that were almost ideal for distance running, except that the course was slightly upgrade, and the runners faced a head-on wind for the first mile and a half.

Herb. Tranter, representing the C. G.E. Track and Field Club, clipped off the three miles in 15 minutes 59 seconds in the senior event to win by a good margin, while Willby, who finished second in 16.10 was given a run for his money by Sam Freeman, who finished less than a second later. Dick Bates took fourth place in 16.31.

The course was laid out from Harold Nattress' barber shop in the centre of the town to a point one and a half miles straight down the main street and return. All the seniors were bunched at the half-way mark, but soon after making the turn Larmer, the only Millbrook boy to enter the race, developed an acute pain in the side, which forced him to stop three times and killed his chances of winning although he was able to finish.

Junior Event Even Contest.

The junior event was very keenly contested by Art Goheen from the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. and Stewart from the C.G.E.. The former set a fast pace and took the lead at the half-way mark, finishing strong in the splendid time of 10 minutes flat and Stewart crossed the tape 2 seconds later. Bob McWilliams finished third, and Dick Williams fourth.

The races created a great deal of interest among the townspeople, and credit for this event goes to Jim Larmer, who arranged all the details, and was assisted by the hearty co-operation of the merchants who donated the prizes. It is hoped that Millbrook will be able to hold another meet later in the season, which would give the boys plenty of time for training and would go a long way towards promoting athletics in the town.

St. Lawrence Reaches Highest Level in Past 37 Years.

WHARVES FLOODED.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 18 (Canadian Press).—Flood waters continued to menace a widespread area in Eastern Ontario to-day, owing to the high water stages of the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa Rivers.

Considerable damage was reported from Iroquois, Ont., where the St. Lawrence had reached the highest level recorded within the past 37 years. The Government wharf there was partially submerged, a number of boat houses were wrecked by the pounding of waves, while cellars of houses along the river front were seriously flooded.

Wharves and cottages along the Lake Deschenes water front near Ottawa were also damaged and a washout on the eastbound tracks of the Hull Electric Railway, necessitated a temporary re-routing service.

PLAY SMART BALL.

MONTREAL, Que., May 20 (Canadian Press).—The winter months did not serve to cool the hot rivalry that existed last season between the Montreal Royals and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Wet grounds and generally adverse conditions yesterday called a halt in the sizzling series, but Saturday saw a re-enactment of those fierce duels that were staged last year.

The Leafs just barely stalled off a final assault of the Royals to score a 7-6 triumph and even the series at one victory apiece.

Like Friday's game, which the Royals captured by the same score, all the action was packed in the last inning of the struggle.

Soccer Feat Accomplished Ball Kicked Off Tree

Records have been accomplished and broken in local soccer circles, but on Saturday afternoon, in the game between Quakers and the Canadian General, Robb accomplished a feat that has never been done before in the city. In an attack on the C.G.E. goal, the defence man punted the ball skyward and it landed in the trees that border on the playing pitch on the north side. The game was stopped until another ball was provided. As soon as Robb got possession of the second ball, he kicked it skyward with such accuracy that it hit the ball resting in the tree about fifty feet up in the air to get the two. Alexander Anderson holds the other unique record. He scored from a penalty and he saved one when he acted as goalkeeper.

SHORELINT WINS 70TH KING'S PLATE

Thorncliffe Stable Racer Beats J. C. Fletcher's Ichitaro and Lindsay.

TORONTO, Ont., May 20.—(Canadian Press).—Shorelint, gallant son of Oilman-South Shore, carried the Thorncliffe stable's colors to victory in the 70th running of the Kings Plate at Woodbine Park Saturday. Out-gaming the stubborn opposition offered him by Ichitaro and Lindsay of the J. C. Fletcher stable along the back stretch and around the turn, the brown three-year-old streaked his way to the front in the drive to the finish and won going away by a good length over Ichitaro. Lindsay finished third three lengths behind the tiring Ichitaro and five lengths ahead of Ryland H. New's Vestip. The rest of the field of eighteen came along in bunches, with Cuddle Down, Assail, Dushka, Meteor Sparks, Master Bobbie and Daisy Pair, in the order named, followed in order by Dance Circle, Son of Harmony, Airdome, Circulet, Irish Sphere, Pander and Brilliant Diamond. Carey was pulled up after going three-quarters of a mile.

Nearly Equals Record

Shorelint went the mile and a furlong in 1.57 3-5, four-fifths of a second slower than the plate record, made by Fairbank of the Fletcher stable in 1925. The distance for the great turf classic was reduced from a mile and a quarter in 1924. In addition to the gift of 50 guineas by His Majesty the King, the race carried a value of $10,765 to the winner, $2,500 to second and $1,000 to third; and $500 to fourth. The breeder of the winner received $1,000 and the owner presented with a silver cup, the gift of the club.

Shorelint's victory on Saturday marked the first time since 1922 the Thorncliffe stable has triumphed in aCnadas premier turf event that for continuous running outranks any race classic on the North American continent. In that year South Shore, the dam of the new champion, swept through to victory.

A colorful throng of more than 25,000 jammed "The Woodbine" for the opening of Canada's 1929 racing season. In the vice-regal box were Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross and Hon. G. H. Ferguson, premier of Ontario.

CAN. GENERAL WIN DECISION BY ODD GOAL

McMaster Brothers Score Two Goals Each—Craig and Warde Brilliant.

SMART GAME.

Quaker Defence Cracks in the Closing Moments of the Play.

Excellent fare was produced in the soccer game between the Canadian General and the Quaker Oats, on Saturday afternoon, when the former gained a victory by the small margin of one goal, in the count of four to three, before a good attendance of spectators. This win gives the winners another two valuable league points.

Craig of the Quakers, was the most profitable man on the run of the play, with Warde not far behind. The brother McMasters got two tallies each for their team. It was a really good game that the fans enjoyed, in fact the winners were lucky with two of the goals, while the losers had a poor full back defence and requires strengthening.

Opening Exchanges Even.

There were no favors shown in the spin of the goin, although the Quakers preferred to kick into the east goal. A break away by Watkins gave the C.G.E. custodian a fright when the ball hit the cross-bar. Robb transferred the play to Fowler's charge, where the Quakers' defence man conceded a fruitless flag-kick.

B. McMaster Opened Scoring.

Canadian General's right wing broke away fast on the wind. They drew the defence into that vicinity, which proved costly because the centre forward was left unmarked. He accepted the opening quickly by letting drive with his right foot, a low grounder that found the inside of the post. The Quakers retaliated in quick fashion through Warde, who harassed the C. G. E. defence inside the goal area.

Ball Landed in the Tree.

In a clearance upon the C. G. E. goal the ball was sent skyward until it found a resting place in the trees on the north side. Another ball was produced and Robb was delegated to send it up in the air that sent the first ball down again.

Halves Prominent.

Time and again the forwards would try to break through the defence but found both half back lines giving no latitude. At this point of the game the Quakers received two fruitless flag kicks and kept up a bombardment that was productive of poor shooting, although Wade handled all ranged at him. A few minutes later the C.G.E. custodian was penalized for over-stepping the law; nothing resutled therefrom. Both goals went under minor raids, with the Canadian General adding to their socre.

J. McMaster Made it Two.

The Quakers ranged all kinds of shots for goal but were cleared easily. Blowers punted up the field to his right wind. Bruce trapped the ball on the run, to centre quickly, where the C. G. E. inside man connected with a right footer, within two minutes to go in the first half. Half time: Canadian General 2; Quaker Oats 0.

On Resuming.

On resuming the Quakers took up the attack right away but Mitchell frustrated them with long punts. The C.G.E. right wing replied in close dribbling that upset the intention of the Quakers' defence. Fowler run out of his goal to stop the players' progress, but he was too late when B. McMaster headed into the open goal.

Two Snappy Goals by Ward.

Quicker than it takes to write, Ward of Quaker Oats rattled on two goals that baffled the opposition to a standstill. He picked the ball off the full back's foot, with lightning drives past the goal-keeper. Encouraged by their success, the Quakers were masters of the ensuing play. Goal-kicks and throw-ins attracted the atteniton of the players. A scrimmage in front of the C.G.E. goal caused them a great amount of anxiety until Figg relieved the pressure. A foul against Blowers outside the penalty line for handling compelled the C.G.E. players to pack their goal to prevent a tally.

Brilliant Saves by Fowler.

A visit to the Quakers' goal in the next few minutes saw Fowler pick the ball from all angles and he received praise for his display between the sticks.

Defence Broke Down.

Exchanges continued even until Figg got the losers' full back too far up the field. He stopped the left winger nicely and passed the ball along the ground to his right wing. They evaded the opposition quickly; that left J. McMaster in possession, who gave the custodian no chance to save. Nothing interesting transpired thereafter, until three minutes before time, when the Quakers raided the C. G. E. citadel to gain a penalty kick that Robb gave away inside the dreaded area. He was very much displeased at the decision but this did not deter Tommy Craig's parting shot as it went past Wade for number three and the gentle grunt from the custodian who accepted the defeat good humoredly. The losers tried hard to even up the count before the final whistle. Full time: Canadian General 4; Quakers 2.

Goal scorers: J. McMaster (2), B. McMaster (2) for the Canadian General. Johnny Ward (2) for the Quakers.

The Teams.

C.G.E.: Wade, goal; Mitchell and Blowers, full backs; Robb, Mann and Rankin, halves; Bruce, J. McMaster, B. McMaster, Figg and Burgess.

Yankees Defeat Red Sox 3-0 in Five Inning Game At New York.

TRAGEDY MARS MERRIMENT.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 20 (Canadian Press). — The Yankees defeated the Red Sox by 3 to 0 here yesterday in a five-inning game broken up by rain in the home half of the fifth, and followed by a tragedy as 50,000 spectators surged toward covering runways to escape the downpour.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig entertained the crowd with one home run each in the third at the expense of Jack Russell, and the crowd was merry, until the tragic touch put upon the afternoon when the storm broke.

Babe's drive was his seventh, and Gerig's his ninth. Score:

YOUNG GIRL KILLED.

NEW YORK, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Two persons were killed and about sixty injured when a bleacher crowd at the Yankee-Red Sox baseball game started a wild dash for the exit stairs to escape yesterday afternoon's deluge of rain. The two killed were pinned under a struggling mass of humanity. One was a 17-year-old Hunter College girl, who had taken her small brother to the game, and the other was a teamster. Many of the injured were young boys, for at each game they congregate in the right field bleacher, where the accident occurred. For some years the section has been called "Ruthville," because it is there that Babe Ruth usually knocks his home runs, and his youthful followers sit there.

PENALTY KICK AWARDED C.P.C. ALLOWS PACK ERS 1-0 VICTORY

Smelters and Local Team Battle to Close Decision at Mining own.

GOOD COMBINATION

Packers Play Superior Soccer in First Half of the Game.

MARMORA, May 20.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A penalty kick awarded C.P.C. in the first ten minutes of their game with Deloro on Saturday gave the purple clothed team the solitary goal of a closely contested game, the issue of which was uncertain until the final whistle blew. Cousins by purest of accidents, handled the ball and Buchanan was allotted the kick which he neatly took in scoring. In that same half Deloro almost equalized when Griffin negotiated in sensational fashion, Sproul's clinging shot.

For the first ten minutes of the game, the Packer's exhibition overshadowed any play seen so far on the Deloro ground this season but after that, they fell back somewhat and play was more evenly divided. Deloro made two changes in their team, T. Cousins going to right half and J. Sproul taking outside right. Packers kicked off defending the eastern end. Many pieces of good combination caused Green to be tested but with sound play on his part, no score ensued. Foster caused much disappointment among visiting fans when from his shot, the ball hit the goal post. Laidlaw also missed a possible chance to register. After Packers had ineffectively taken the first corner of the game, the incident occurred for which the penalty was awarded. Play from the kick off was taken to the other end where W. Brown had the misfortune to kick wide.

Packers again broke away and Green left the goal to intercept a visiting forward. Failing in his effort, a goal looked imminent but Nicholson came to the rescue and kicked the ball safe. O'Hallaran who was playing a good game at centre missed a moment later with a stiff shot. Deloro now got going and some pretty combination ensued. Griffin gave of his best in keeping out two splendid shots. Five minutes later Deloro advanced again when Griffin made a sensational save. Sproul's shot looking a sure goal getter. The visiting custodian made several more good saves before the interval at the other end. O'Hallaran high and Foster chance. Half time saw the Packers leading by 1.0.

Make Strong Attack

On the resumption of play, Deloro strongly attacked but found Westwood and Downer too good. O'Hallaran and Murray sent in good shots for their respective sides, only missing by inches, but play for the main consisted of heavy checking until the final came with the score, unchanged, C.P.C. 1, Deloro 0.

The teams lined up as follows:—

C.P.C.—Goal, C. Griffin; backs, T. Weswood, (capt.), A. Downer; half backs, T. Wilson, J. Buchan, A. Bromley; forwards R. Carmichael, T. Foster, A. Beggs, S. Laidlaw, A. O'Hallaran.

Linesman—W. Rickard.

Deloro—Goal, D. Green; backs, R. D. Murray, C. F. Nicholson (capt.); half backs, T. Cousins, J. Hart, W. Savage; forwards, J. Sproul, G. Brooks, E. Brown, W. Brown, T. M. Gresham.

Linesman—W. Simmons.

Referee—A. Aitkenhead, Peterborough.

THORPE DOES "HAT TRICK"

First Time Ever Accomplished By Member of Local Cricket Club.

DEFEAT GROVE SCHOOL.

The Peterborough Cricket Club defeated The Grove School at Lakefield on Saturday afternoon by 17 runs. The game was full of interest from start to finish. Batting first, the Lakefield started disastrously, losing their first 5 wickets for 6 runs. Thorpe accomplished the "hat trick" by taking the wickets of Begg, Leggott and Lavery in three successive balls. This is the first time that this has been accomplished by any member of the Peterborough club since the game has been revived in recent years. Mr. Marling, one of the Lakefield masters, came to the rescue and along with Burrows carried the score to 25 before being separated. Elliot and Hamilton were now sharing the bowling and did such good work that the innings was brought to a close with the addition of 15 runs. Elliot captured 3 wickets for 8 runs, Thorpe 4 for 11, and Hamilton 2 for 11. Jefferson, who also bowled well, took the other wicket for 8 runs.

The Peterborough innings started fairly well, Imming and Hamilton scoring 13 runs before the former was caught by Burrows off his own bowling after playing well for 10 runs.

The next wicket fell at 19, Hamilton being bowled by a splendid ball after batting well for 8 runs.

Thorpe was run out before he had scored.

The next three wickets fell quickly, 2 runs only being added to the score. Gore put his leg in front of a straight ball and was given out l.b.w. Lee was bowled and Barton caught; 5 wickets were now down for 21 runs, leaving the game looking rosy for Lakefield, Jefferson, however, played steadily and punished any loose balls, and with assistance from the last three bastmen, finally gave Peterborough a comfortable win. Jefferson carried out his bat for a brilliant 19.

Peck and Marling were the most successful Lakefield bowlers, the former claiming 3 wickets for 13 runs, and the latter 3 wickets for 8 runs.

CRICKET CLUB WINS FIRST GAME OF SEASON.

The Peterborough Cricket Club scored its first victory of the season at the expense of the Grove School Masters and Pupils. The game was played in a true sporting spirit, worthy of the fine old game, members of each club being given applause when earned.

The fielding of the Lakefield team was at times most brilliant, and the bowling of both teams was good. The Peterborough bowlers were especially dead on the wicket. Archie Hamilton, the young Peterborough player, is improving his batting immensely and with more experience should be one of the best batsmen on the local team. Thorpe was applauded on securing the "hat trick." Jefferson's batting helped to save Peterborough.

The members of the team are asked turn out at the Oval on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week, as the playing pitch has to be put into condition for the match against Toronto St. Edmunds, on Friday, May 24. The team will be selected on Wednesday evening.

GIBSON MAKES DEBUT AT TORONTO.

"Hoot" Gibson, last year star twirler with the Belleville Nationals, made his debut in Toronto with the St. George's team in the Pit League on Saturday. "Hoot," twirling the same brand of ball that carried the Nationals past the Windsor Chicks to the Provincial championship, downed Vermonts 9 to 3. He held the opposition to two hits.

According to an estimate of the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, the human race uses in its foods about two-tenths of one per cent. of the solar energy captured by plants.

Evers Is Suspended By League President

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 20 (C.P.).—Suspension of Johnny Evers, assistant manager of the Boston Braves, for three days for "umpire-baiting" was announced to-day by President Heydler of the National League.

Evers had a run-in with Umpire Quigley over the batting order at Boston Saturday in the first game of a double-header with the Giants.

The suspension was effective yesterday, so Evers may be back on the field Wednesday.

AT THE CAPITOL

THE GREAT COURT ROOM DRAMA "THE BELLAMY TRIAL" A MOST BAFFLING MYSTERY AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY—ALSO GOOD VAUDEVILLE.

"You're honor, I object!"

The fiery prosecutor is on his feet, snapping his protestations. The defence wishes to call a surprise witness who has just come forward after the closing arguments have been made.

Can the witness be called?

That is just one of the many ticklish legal questions that Monta Bell had to answer when he was filming "The Bellamy Trial," which is playing at the Capitol to-night.

To obtain a reply to the question of the witness' eligibility to testify after the taking of evidence has ended, Bell sought the advice of Attorney Jerry Geisler, prominent Los Angeles criminal attorney, who expressed the opinion that the witness might be called at the judge's discretion.

The attorney declared that very few cases were to be found on record where such a situation arose but stated that the court's discretionary powers are of sufficient latitude to permit him to overrule the prosecutor's objection.

In the filmization of the sensational magazine serial by Frances Noyes Hart, Bell has taken great pains to preserve the gripping atmosphere of realism and the entire courtroom action was filmed under the critical observation of prominent lawyers, law professors and judges.

Leatrice Joy plays the leading role in the murder drama, heading a stellar cast which includes George Berraud, Kenneth Thompson, Betty Bronson, Margaret Seddon, Charles Middleton, Polly Moran and Charles H. Mailes.

A good vaudeville team, Ross and Flynn, will also be on the program.

THORPE DOES "HAT TRICK"

First Time Ever Accomplished By Member of Local Cricket Club.

DEFEAT GROVE SCHOOL.

The Peterborough Cricket Club defeated The Grove School at Lakefield on Saturday afternoon by 17 runs. The game was full of interest from start to finish. Batting first, the Lakefield started disastrously, losing their first 5 wickets for 6 runs. Thorpe accomplished the "hat trick" by taking the wickets of Begg, Leggott and Lavery in three successive balls. This is the first time that this has been accomplished by any member of the Peterborough club since the game has been revived in recent years. Mr. Marling, one of the Lakefield masters, came to the rescue and along with Burrows carried the score to 25 before being separated. Elliot and Hamilton were now sharing the bowling and did such good work that the innings was brought to a close with the addition of 15 runs. Elliot captured 3 wickets for 8 runs, Thorpe 4 for 11, and Hamilton 2 for 11. Jefferson, who also bowled well, took the other wicket for 8 runs.

The Peterborough innings started fairly well, Imming and Hamilton scoring 13 runs before the former was caught by Burrows off his own bowling after playing well for 10 runs.

The next wicket fell at 19, Hamilton being bowled by a splendid ball after batting well for 8 runs.

Thorpe was run out before he had scored.

The next three wickets fell quickly, 2 runs only being added to the score. Gore put his leg in front of a straight ball and was given out l.b.w. Lee was bowled and Barton caught; 5 wickets were now down for 21 runs, leaving the game looking rosy for Lakefield. Jefferson, however, played steadily and punished any loose balls, and with assistance from the last three bastmen, finally gave Peterborough a comfortable win. Jefferson carried out his bat for a brilliant 19.

Peck and Marling were the most successful Lakefield bowlers, the former claiming 3 wickets for 13 runs, and the latter 3 wickets for 8 runs.

CATTLE HERD IS INSPECTED

R. O. P. Inspector Makes Official Test of Cattle at "Windermere Farm."

COUNCIL MEETS.

MILLBROOK May 20.—(Examiner Correspondence).—An official test of the pure-bred herd of Holstein-Fresian cattle at "Windermere Farm" W. Fred Fallis owner, was made last week by R. C. Gray, of Bancroft, Ontario, R.O.P. Inspector, who is making his rounds in Durham county at the present time. The result was as follows:—

Alice Rue Vale, 4 per cent.; Alice Vale Rauwerd, 3.8 per cent.; Alice Lulu Rauwerd, 3.8 per cent.; Lulu Alice, 3.7 per cent.; Jean Segis Alice, 3.7 per cent.; Rauwerd Alice 3.5 per cent.; Alice Iosco Vale, 3.5 per cent.

Mr. Fallis' herd is fully accredited and the record performance test listed above is a good showing, as is usually the case with the "Windermere Farm" cattle.

The dairy industry has grown so rapidly in recent years in Canada, it is interesting to note that the first cow brought into the country was in 1608, when Samuel de Champlain landed it from his sailing vessel with considerable difficulty. Yet from that distant event dates the origin of Canada's present position of world importance in the dairying business.

Upwards of four thousand cattle were known to be in Eastern Canada sixty years later, but it was practically one hundred years after the time Champlain had 'introduced' the first cow to this country, that Cadillac, another explorer, performed a similar service for Ontario, and the first cow found pasture in this province. It is thought that it was not until 1823 that the first herd of cattle grazed on the prairies of what is now Manitoba, while beyond the range of the Rockies cattle were not known until 1837.

The success of the cheese industry in Canada has kept pace with that of dairying, yet the first cheese factory of which record can be found was not built until 1864 and the original creamery came some years after that date. With their building the foundation was laid for the placing of dairying as a definite industry in Canada, and now it adds millions of dollars to the revenue of the country annually.

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, May 20.—(Examiner Correspondence)—At the meeting of the Cavan Council on Wednesday, at 1.30 p.m. communications were received from: The Department of Highways with a statement of the work and subsidy for the roads for 1928, and stating that no more than $6,000 is paid in a municipality where the grant has been increased to more than 30 per cent; from the superintendent of the Canadian National Railways stating that he would meet a committee from the Council at Carmel; from the Department of Public Health asking for a detailed report on the condition of all cemeteries in the township.

James Douglas and James Kennedy waited on the council asking a grant for cement for a proposed sidewalk in Cavan village.

On motion it was decided that council purchase the cement for the Cavan sidewalk, said walk not to extend in length more than 200 yards, and that each member of council bring in a report at the next meeting of the condition of the cemeteries in his division.

Concession 7, $2.75; J. Armstrong, paysheet Road No. 8, East, $27.50; W. Widdis, paysheet Road No. 4 west, $37.10; E. E. Eakins, acc't $30.85; V. Jones, pay, west Q.L. The council adjourned to meet Saturday, June 1, at 10.30 a.m. for a first meeting as Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll for 1929, and that a regular meeting of Council be held on the same date.

FELT MISERABLE ALL THE TIME

Headaches and Tiredness Ended By "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Some people suffer for years with Headaches, without every trying to find out what is the CAUSE of the pain. They get all run-down, and seem to think this weak, depressed feeling is the result of headaches. As a matter of fact, chronic Headaches are the result of poisoned blood, due to faulty action of the bowels, kidneys and skin. "Fruit-a-tives" stops headaches because it regulates the bowels, kidneys and skin—frees the body of waste matter which poisons the blood—and thus keeps the blood pure and rich. As Mrs. Michael Coulis of Killaloe, Ont., writes—"I used to feel tired out and run-down and have severe Headaches. After using 'Fruit-a-tives' the headaches and tiredness quickly disappeared and for two years now I have been in the best of health." And you? Do you suffer? Mrs. Coulis shows you the way to get well—take "Fruit-a-tives." 25c. and 50c. a box—at dealers everywhere.

FESTIVE WEEK IS BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Joyland Midway Closes Shows After Successful Run at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 20.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)—Today the market square presents a bleak appearance when compared with its gay lights and blaring music which last week heralded the presence of Joyland Shows, the all-Canadian mid-way which is owned and operated locally and is generally known throughout the district as Campbellford's own midway. The midway was sponsored during its run here by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and the coffers of that organization have been enriched in no small degree as a result. To-day the same attractions and some additional ones are operating in Toronto where they have contracted a three weeks' run.

As was advertised in the beginning, the midway this year is bigger than ever before and the attractions are much improved. The big Eli wheel did a big business both afternoon and evening. Fun on the Farm found more curious people than it ever did before. Most of them entered with the firm belief that there was nothing to it. When they came out they were more convinced that there really was some fun on a farm. Young and those not quite so young patronized the old favorite Merry-go-round and its automatic organ, and its newly painted horses. It was always the first ride to get started and the last to be in popular demand. The Chair-o-plane provided the major thrill of the midway and was not a place for the timid. Several of the younger set found much enjoyment in swinging far out almost in the horizontal plane, while their girl friends shrieked from the very thrill of it.

There were, of course, the usual number of concessions, fortune tellers, games of skill and so forth. Several times each day the two clowns gave an excellent exhibition of tumbling, balancing, contortionism and general tom-foolery. Their stage was the elevated platform which forms the front of Fun on the Farm.

TWO SECTIONS CHURCH LEAGUE

Entries For Softball Loop Must Be Handed in By May 22

TWO PLAYING FIELDS.

The executives of the Church Softball League held a meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Friday evening to make final arrangements for the season. The entries for the league are to be in the hands of the Secretary, H. T. Rehill by Wednesday May 22 and are to be accompanied by a list of the players along with the entry fee of five dollars. The League will be divided into two sections, junior and senior. All those who have not reached their 19th birthday by May 1 will be eligible to play in the junior division. No player will be permitted to play in the Church League who is a member of the City softball league.

The following is a list of the teams who have expressed their intention to join the junior section: Mark street, Murray street, George street, Trinity, St. Andrews, St. James, All Saints, St. Johns, Knox. It is the intention of the executive to have the League started immediately after the 24th, therefore it is most urgent that the entries be in as soon as possible. Through the courtesy of the public school board and the exhibition board, permission has been granted to use the Central School grounds and the Exhibition grounds for playing fields.

In Police Court

Week-end parties, fights and escapades had their aftermath in Police Court this morning, and it was a large docket that greeted Magistrate Langley.

Four young lads, Oscar Charles, Weller Emery, Garfield Emery and James Dalton, filed into the box, charged with disorderly conduct in a public place, to wit a cafe on Simcoe Street, contrary to By-law 395 of the City of Peterborough. It was stated that they came in about 11 o'clock on Sunday night and ordered a meal, and then started a fight among themselves, in which all joined in. The brawl was a rough and tumble affair, and during the excitement the coal stove containing hot coals was upset, causing smoke and dust to spread throughout the cafe. The proprietors had to close up early because of the coal dust and gas. The lads all pleaded guilty, and were fined $10 and $4 costs. Garfield Emery, 16, got off lighter with only $5 and costs.

Leslie Booth appeared, charged with reckless driving on Water Street on Saturday night. He pleaded guilty and was fined $40 and $4.25 costs. In explaining the cause of the accident in which Booth's car crashed with a car driven by an Ennismore man on the corner of Water and Hunter Streets, it was stated that Booth had just bought his car and was not used to driving it. Both cars were badly wrecked in the collision, and it was stated that Booth was going at forty miles an hour at the time of the impact.

Two local young men pleaded guilty to drinking in other than a private residence, and were charged the minimum of $10 fine and $3 costs.

Cecil Munro was charged with selling or exposing liquor for sale. He pleaded not guilty and the prosecution asked for a remand for one week. Bail was fixed at $500.

SONS OF ENGLAND ATTEND ST. ANDREW'S UNITED CHURCH

Constitution Adopted in 1874 Recalls to Mind Story of Jewish Exiles.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

Members From Visiting Lindsay Lodge Parade With Organization.

St. Andrew's church last evening was the scene of the annual church parade of the Sons of England. Sixty to seventy-five members filled the front rows of the central section of the church. Eight or ten visiting members of the Lindsay Lodge were also present at the service, while a large congregation filled the church. James Runnett acted in the capacity of Marshall for the parade.

The front of the church was beautifully decorated with greens and roses that were supplied by this organization and by the ladies of the church.

The Rev. C. V. McLean, pastor of St. Andrew's United church, preached a sermon that was in harmony with the occasion, taking his text from Isaiah chapter 40, verse 1: "Comfort ye my people."

After welcoming the visiting lodge the minister spoke of the conditions that prevailed in England in 1874 when the Sons of England Benefit Society was organized in Toronto with the resolution to bind together all the Englishmen who had to leave their homes because of the social, religious and industrial conditions. Many in England were forced to leave new homes overseas at that time. These voluntary exiles felt impelled to bind themselves together, and organized with three aims: First was to help each other; second to protect Protestantism; and the third to protect democracy as understood in the British Constitution.

The conditions existing in 1874 recall to mind the Jewish exiles in Babylon, who were disappointed, disillusioned, and disorganized, when a great prophet, impelled by the Divine Spirit, felt summoned to comfort: "Comfort Ye My People." This prophet proposed to comfort by the following means: Firstly, to supplant criticism by confession. Many a movement has begun at this point. The prophet called the people to admit their equality, the one with the other and such an equality lies at the basis of British democracy.

"Then the prophet asks his hearers to have confidence in the great God who guides the stars in their course, who weighs the mountains by scales, the hills in a balance, and the water in the hollow of his hand! So mighty a God can surely be relied upon to lead the exiles from their present deplorable condition into the land of their hearts' desire.

"If we desire to improve conditions at the present time," stated Mr. McLean, "we would do well to keep in mind the message of our prophet, to believe that reform must begin with confession; we must insist on human equality and must be inspired by faith in the Almighty and an all-loving God.

During the service special music was rendered by the choir, which is under the very capable leadership of John Crane. The numbers that were greatly appreciated by all those in attendance were: The anthem: He shall Feed His Flock (Simple), the solo parts being taken by James Johnson. A solo by Mrs. Ford Turner, "The Land of Hope and Glory" (Elgar), was rendered, and made delightful by the chorus being taken up by the full choir. Edward Humpage was heard with great favor in a solo: "There is a land"—(Allison. These numbers as part of the service were very fitting when the condition of England was recalled during the sermon as Mr. McLean told of the reasons for which the Sons of Englandland were organized.

SKILLED LABOR IS IN DEMAND

Farm Help Is Also Found Scarce at Labor Bureau Office.

DOMESTICS WANTED.

Labour conditions in the city of Peterborough are quite satisfactory, according to the secretary at the Labor Bureau. The majority of the best of the men are employed, but the drifter is always present. There is a great demand for skilled laborers, especially in the iron trades and the demand for domestics is brisk, with a scarcity of applicants.

One difficulty that is arising at present is the placing of the older men. There are a number of these seeking employment who do not realize that there are many younger who are taken by employers in preference.

There is the same difficulty this years as last year in respect with the securing of farm help. The men during the last two years do not seem to be anxious to do this type of work.

On the blackboard at the office are the following trades that are open: Iron and brass moulders, stationary engineer, waitresses, boat builders, sash and door makers, lock fitters, paper hangers, farm laborers and domestics.

HON. G. N. GORDON PRAISES CHOIR

Honorary President of Choir Congratulates Members On Their Efforts.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., is honorary president of Peterborough Male Voice Choir, and has always taken great interest in its work. On the occasion of its entry into contest in New York next week-end, Mr. Gordon thought it worth while to send a letter to the executive and members, which is self-explanatory, and appreciated by the choir:

T. E. Gilchrist, Esq.,
Secy., Male Voice Choir.

Dear Sir.—I have been watching with interest the time approaching for the choir to go to New York to enter a contest which is one of the outstanding features in the musical world.

Peterborough has never acquired such prominence by a choir before.

I wish to congratulate you upon the success that has attended your efforts, and I desire to extend to you my best wishes for your successfully winning the first place. I will watch with a great deal of interest results on May 24, and hope to be able to hear the competition by radio.

With the kindest wishes to each individual member of the choir; I remain, Yours faithfully,

G. N. Gordon.

STORES WILL BE OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

Victoria Day Coming This Week Makes This Necessary As Agreed Upon By Local Merchants.

By practically unanimous consent, the half holiday on Wednesday afternoon will be dispensed with for this week—owing to the fact that Victoria Day comes on Friday—making an entire day's holiday on one of the most important shopping days of the week, the merchants felt that it was necessary to remain open on Wednesday, all day, to give the people every chance to do their week's shopping unhindered as far as possible.

This is only following out the usual custom of dropping the half holiday on weeks in which a whole day is taken for a public holiday.

ROTARY SUPPORT OF LEAGUE URGED

he would represent the Peterborough club at the convention of Rotary International in Dallas, Texas, next week. President Morris also gave notice that, in co-operation with Rotary-annes, the club would present a musical show next autumn, October 24 and 25 being the probable dates.

Miss Murphy, in beginning her exposition of the League of Nations and Canada's share therein, pointed out that while Canada's representative first went there they felt that nothing could be accomplished, so apparently slow were the proceedings and so reluctant were the representatives of the various countries to come to the point in any discussion. Later, they were able to appreciate what was to be gained by associating with statesmen of so many different countries.

Canada's position in the League, Miss Murphy stressed, was peculiar. She was the only representative of this whole continent, inasmuch as the United States and Mexico were two of the seven countries in the world that had not joined the League. Again she was the only country in which both English and French were official languages and her representatives most of whom are able to speak both languages, have an advantage. Canada, too, is a link between the United States and Great Britain, knowing both countries better than either of them know the other. For that reason, her presence in the League was of great importance.

From that presence she secured insurance against war at a cost of $165,000 a year, while the cost to the whole membership of this insurance was only five million dollars a year.

Miss Murphy urged Rotarians to give the League of Nations every support, pointing out that it is only as strong as the force of public opinion behind it.

Rotarian Dr. M. A. Morrison expressed the thanks of the club to Miss Murphy, and President Morris reminded the speaker of the day that Rotary's sixth object was the promotion of international peace.

Rotarian Doug. Loomis for the boys' camp committee asked the active support of the member for a rummage sale, which is designed to provide funds for a new outboard motor for the camp.

Rotarian S. R. Armstrong, attending luncheon for the first time since his illness, was given a hearty round of applause when he entered. Later on in the meeting he moved a resolution in regard to the recent communication from the club of Bilboa, Spain.

understood to have reached no decision. After its conclusion, Secretary Stimson issued a formal statement saying the gathering had been for the "purpose of acquainting the leaders of the two Houses of Congress and the appropriate committees thereof with the purpose of the experts committee on reparations which has been meeting in Paris."

At the present, American claims against Germany are being paid in annuities. Under the Dawes plan the United States was to receive $250,000,000 for the expenses of the army of occupation, and in addition to be paid 2½ per cent. of all receipts from Germany minus deductions for certain claims given priority status.

The agreement, signed in Paris in January, 1925, for distribution of the Dawes plan annuities, provided that annual payments be made by Germany to the United States for reinmbursement of the army of occupation costs and also for awards of the mixed claims commission established under the German-American agreement of 1922.

This agreement gave the United States approximately $13,000,000 annually. Under the 1925 agreement the amount the United States would be entitled to under the 2½ per cent. payments would be limited to a maximum of 45,000,000 gold marks per year.

IN MEMORIAM

PLUMPTON.—In loving memory of Roy Plumpton, who passed away May 19, 1927.

It caused us bitter grief
To see him slowly pass away,
But could not give relief.

Sanitary Conveniences For Patrons Being Installed in Local Cafes.

INSPECT HELPERS.

Law Does Not Compel a Separate Stairway Members Are Told.

The inspector of the Board of Health has been busy checking up on the sanitary conveniences for patrons of the local restaurants and all but three have met their requirements or are taking immediate steps to comply, was the report made at a short meeting of the Board of Health held this morning It was further reported that the only difficulty that had arisen was compelling of separate stairways to ladies' and gentlemen's wash rooms. It was stated that there was no law to compel separate stairways and in most local cafes one stairway leading to both washrooms would have to serve. Immediate steps will be taken to compel the remaining three cafes to have such sanitary arrangements to satisfy the Board, completed by July 1.

Suspects Helpers

Chairman J. J. Turner made the suggestion that perhaps it would be well if all persons serving food in eating houses in the city should be compelled to have a certificate of health. This Dr. Young thought was a very big step, but an investigation will be made to find what power the Board has to compel such a rule.

Dr. Young reported a very clean bill for the city during the month of April. There were: one case of diptheria, two cases of diptheria carriers; five cases of whooping cough and three of mumps. There

Twelve Boys Between Ages of 13 to 16 Found Operating Still.

HOPED TO MAKE MONEY.

All Went Well Until One Became Ill and Told Parents

TOWANDA, Pa., May 21 (C.P.).—A. J. Bell, field secretary of the Law Enforcement League, to-day disclosed that a group of boys of Luther Mills High school, near here, have been operating a home-made still during noon recess and after school hours.

The boys, numbering about a dozen and ranging in age from 13 to 16 were inspired, Bell charged, by stories of fabulous sums made by bootlegging.

The still was set up in a woods near the school.

District Attorney William Rosenfield said a thorough investigation would be made, but he did not expect to make any arrests.

Bell said the boys constructed their moonshine apparatus from pots, kettels, and crocks they had removed from their homes. Sugar and raisins were purchased from neighborhood stores, the Field Secretary charged. All went well, he said, until one of the boys became ill and told what was being done.

LORD ROSEBERY DIES AT EPSOM EARLY TO-DAY

Great English Statesman Is Called By Death At His Country Home.

82 YEARS OLD.

Although He Had Splendid Political Career He Retired 30 Years Ago.

EPSOM, England, May 21. (C.P.)—Lord Rosebery, statesman, author and sportsman, died at 2.42 a.m. today.

The Earl had celebrated his 82nd birthday only a fortnight ago by driving from his country home, "The Durdans," to Epsom town, in a barouche and pair, driven by a postillion, in true Victorian style.

Last Friday he caught a slight cold which grew rapidly worse.

Yesterday his illness took a turn for the worse and his physicians and family remained at his bedside until the end this morning.

It would be difficult to point to a man of present day English life who has had so brilliant and varied, and yet strange a career. After a meteoric career as prime minister in 1894-95, the earl has been for thirty years completely retired from political activity.

Won Great Derby

During this period he has devoted himself to literary labors, in which he has had great success, orations and social functions. He is the only prime minister to win the Derby while in office and has won that race three times. Highly popular on the turf, in society and in literature, it has seemed strange he did not push on the political career he began so brilliantly.

The loss of a son in the great war caused him great grief. He suffered so from insomnia he was accustomed to take midnight drives in his carriage with postillions in an endeavor to quiet his mind. His interest continued in all phases of life although failing health in recent years kept him from active participation in social affairs.

Archibald Philip Primrose, fifth Earl of Rosebery, who became prime minister of England at the request of Queen Victoria, on the retirement of William Gladstone, in 1894, was born in London, May 7, 1847. Although an aristocrat he was known as a friend of the common people. He predicted that he would do three things—win the Derby, marry an heiress and become premier of England—all of which he did. In fact, he was three times winner of the Derby..

Educated at Eton and Oxford, Lord Rosebery was a contemporary of Mr. Gladstone and John Morley. He became secretary of state for foreign affairs in Mr. Gladstone's government in 1886. Meantime he had attained considerable reputation as a reformer. The Liberal ministry remained in power for only a short period, but in 1892 Gladstone regained sway in the British government and Lord Rosebery again became foreign minister.

Lord Rosebery was premier for only about one year and, in 1895, he was succeeded by Lord Salisbury. Subsequently, as opposition leader, he exerted considerable influence in British politics. When Mr. Gladstone urged intervention in Turkey because of Armenian atrocities, Lord Rosebery refused to support the demand at the risk of a European war and resigned the Liberal leadership. His settlement of a great coal strike when 300,000 miners were on the verge of starvation in 1892, firmly established him in the confidence of the people.

Lord Rosebery came of distinguished stock. The house of Rosebery had been prominent in Scottish and English history for many generations. It was raised to the peerage in 1700, through the services of an ancestor's sword in support of "Bonnie Prince Charlie." Lord Rosebery married

Canada's Wartime Premier Desires Prolonged Rest

Sir Robert Borden Tenders His Resignation As Chancellor of Queen's University To Senate and Board of Trustees.

SUCCEEDED E. W. BEATTY, K.C., OF MONTREAL, PRESENT CHANCELLOR OF McGILL FIVE YEARS AGO

James Richardson, of Winnipeg, Is Being Prominently Mentioned As a Successor To Sir Robert— Presided at Convocation of Arts and Science Graduates Two Weeks Ago.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 21 (Canadian Press). — Announcement was made at Queen's University to-day that the Chancellor, Sir Robert Borden, has tendered his resignation.

Canada's wartime Prime Minister was elected to the Chancellorship five years ago to succeed E. W. Beatty, K.C., who was chosen as Chancellor of McGill University, Montreal. Sir Robert presided at the convocation of Arts and Science graduates at the University nearly two weeks ago.

The name of James Richardson, of Winnipeg, is being prominently mentioned as a successor to Sir Robert, although nothing has been said at the University. Sir Robert's resignation will be considered by the Senate and Trustees of the University.

Sir Robert, in a letter to the authorities at Queen's, stated that he was resigning merely because he desired a prolonged rest.

"I am deeply sensible of the honor which was conferred on me five years ago," he said in his letter. "During the intervening period Queen's has made distinct progress, which I believe will be uninterrupted in the future."

POPE PIUS WILL LEAVE VATICAN

Plans To Take Part in Procession On Feast of Corpus Christi.

NO UNDUE POMP.

ROME, May 21—(Canadian Press)—Piccolo to-day said Pope Pius would make his first official exit from the Vatican on May 30, the feast of Corpus Christi, to participate in procession and mass at St. Peter's. The paper said the decision was reached last night and preparations were discussed early to-day by Vatican officials.

The pope plans, according to the paper, to attend mass at St. Peter's—probably to be celebrated by the Cardinal Merry Del Val, Priest of the Basilica. His Holiness then himself will take the sacred host in the chapel of sacraments and lead the eucharistic procession from the "piet" chapel out through the left door of the basilica to the square.

No Undue Pomp

He will go on foot as far as the second line of steps of St. Peter's and then raising the golden censorium with the host over his head will bless the throng assembled in the square. The pontiff desires this exit, the first any pope has made from the Vatican since 1870 to be made afoot and for purely religious motifs. There is to be no pomp such aso nce accompanied the papal exits heretofore.

Arrangements for the exit were perfected this morning at a meeting between Monsignor Cacci Dominone, the Pope's chamberlain; Archbishop Pellizzo, Administrator of St. Peter's, and police commissioner Rosati of the "Borgo" district adjoining the Vatican city. They established between them the route in which this year an unusual number will participate.

The pope will walk under a rich baldaquin held up by a number of prominent prelates. His imposing cortege will be composed of students of the Vatican minor seminary, of the college of Roman parish priests headed by the chamberlain, archbishops and bishops residing in Rome, chapters of the major basilicas and the college of Cardinals.

INCREASE OVER 1924.

Sir John Simon Is Having Strong Opposition in Spen Valley.

LONDON, May 21 (By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).— An analysis of the complete returns from yesterday's nominations for the general election to be held on May 30 shows a larger total number of candidates and a larger representation from each of the major parties than in the last general election in 1924. The total number of candidates in the race is 1728, compared with 1,428 in 1924 The Conservatives have the larger number of candidates, 596 compared with 536 in 1924. Labor is running 571 against 514 in 1924, the Liberals have 514 compared with 344 in 1924, and the Communists are represented by 26 candidates, compared with 8 in the last election. The number of Independents and other candidates this year is slightly lower, 21 against 26 in 1924. There will be 489 triangular and 33 four-cornered fights. There are 615 seats in the House, and seven candidates have been elected by acclamation.

Has Two Opponents.

In Spen Valley, Sir John Simon, chairman of the Indian Statutory Commission, will have both Labor and Communist opponents. The latter is Shakat Usmani, described as a trades union official of Bombay. He is now in jail in Meerut India, awaiting trial on a charge of sedition His candidature is a Communist protest against the activities of the Simon Commission and British rule in India. Usmani's nomination paper was signed by ten people, eight of whom are married couples.

Sir John will probably ignore the Communist candidature, although he

SECONDARY SCHOOL COURSES ARE OUTLINED TO PARENTS

Members of Home and School Association Attend Concert in Collegiate.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

Various Speakers Explain Different Courses of Study Taught.

A meeting was held last evening in the Collegiate Auditorium under the auspices of the Home and School Association for the purpose of giving the parents of the boys and girls in the Entrance classes as well as the pupils themselves, an idea of what the High school work involved. An explanation of the courses was given by the various instructors of this secondary school. Mrs. (Dr.) C. H. Edwards, president of the Home and School Association, occupied the chair.

A very pleasing musical program was enjoyed, as well as the instructive addresses by Messrs C. E. Jamieson, who spoke in behalf of the commercial department; L. J. Pettit, who spoke from the academic point of view, and Mr. Moon, speaking for the vocational school, and Misses S. M. Kendall and H. Jarrett, who explained to those present the household arts of the school.

A very fine orchestra from George Street Sunday school, under the direction of W. H. Cunningham, furnished music that was highly appreciated. G. A. Liddle led in community singing and rendered a pleasing selection in "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise." Miss E. Wand sang "I Love a Cottage" (Geoffrey O'Harris), and Mrs. Liddle sang "The Toy Balloon" (Fox). Mr. Liddle acted as accompanist.

A very pleasing feature was the appearance of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, which rendered a very heartily received number, the test piece for the New York competition, "The Lullaby of Love," by Fletcher, and encored with songs of a lighter vein.

Mr. Jamieson, in speaking for the commercial department, believed that such a meeting was a very good thing in vocational selection. He was very enthusiastic in his line, and believed that he was justly so, as three-quarters of the boys and girls left after two years of high school work. The commercial department in this time gave them a certificate that even a machinist would benefit by.

For the girls the certificate is accepted in nursing qualifications as well as the academic ones. Business to-day has many avenues, after which

BANDITS SECURE $85,800

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 21. — A widespread search was on to-day for three men who shot to death two Mexican special police officers and escaped with $85,800, the week-end receipts of a resort company at Agua Caliente, Mexico, while the money was being brought to a bank here.

CONSERATIVE MEMBER TERMS SINKING OF SCHOONER I'M ALONE DELIBERATE PIRACY; ACT OF WAR

C. H. Cahan Suggests U. S. Coast Guard Was Instructed By Washington.

CRITIC IS CHIDED.

Premier King Says Time Is Inopportune For Discussion of Question.

OTTAWA. Ont., May 21.— (By the Canadian Press). — The I'm Alone incident, soon to be the subject of arbitration proceedings between Canada and the United States was thrown into the House of Commons yesterday on motion to go into supply for consideration of estimates of the Department of External Affairs. C. H. Cahan, Conservative Member for St. Lawrence—St. George, in a speech which reviewed International negotiations between Great Britain and the United States with respect to the liquor traffic, expressed dissatisfaction with certain features of the correspondence conducted by the Canadian Minister to Washington on the I'm Alone case, and condemned the act of the United States coast guard.

Act Unlawful

"It seems very clear to me—and I say this deliberately—declared Mr. Cahan, with emphasis, at the conclusion of his speech, "that under the tariff laws of the United States as they may be construed by their express terms, the coast guard of the United States was not authorized to seize British or any other shipping save perhaps American shipping, at any point more than 12 miles distant from its coast.

In this case (The I'm Alone) the evidence seems clear that this pursuit of two days continued to a point on the high seas 215 miles from the coast, and in my opinion the coast guard vessel, The Dexter I think which came upon the scene later, never sank British ship 215 miles from the coast unless by wireless she had received direct instruction from the political authorities of the United States to commit that which, if authorized by the executive political authority of that country,was an act of war or if not authorized by that political authority but done on the initiative of the coast guard alone, was an act of deliberate piracy."

Premier Mackenzie King followed Mr. Cahan in a brief speech. In view of the fact that the I'm Alone incident was about to be the subject of arbitration proceedings, he questioned the propriety of discussing the matter at the present time. The Dominion government was prepared to take full repsonsibility for the correspondence submitted by the

Movies Are Blamed For Aiding Of Crime

CHICAGO, Ills., May 21 (C.P.). London cut clothing, overstuffed furniture and rich living room trappings shown in the movies were cited to-day as corrupters of the morals of American children.

The American Crime Study Commission was told that immigrant homes in the United States breed crime; that too many laws cause law violations; that Chicago has touched bottom in crime and now is on the way to surface and sunlight.

The motion picture played an insidious role in the propagation of crime among poor children because it gave them a chance to compare rich interior movie sets to their own sordid environment, one speaker held.

Ratepayers Come To Blows Over Teacher Which Board Of Trustees Had Discharged

KINGSTON, Ont., May 21. (C.P.) — Fisticuffs and challenges for further bouts marked developments in the dispute between the two factions in School Section No. 7, Pittsburgh Township, over the week-end. The Board of Trustees recently decided to dispense with the services of A. J. Dilworth, the teacher, but many of the ratepayers have protested, and wish to have Dilworth retained.

Feeling ran so high between Vincent Redmond, secretary of the Board of Trustees, and Thomas Allison one of the ratepayers favoring the dismissed teacher, that they came to blows. Redmond's ear was badly torn in the fight and his eyes blackened.

R. K. Campbell, chairman of the board, said he was willing to meet Dilworth any time, and any place, to settle the controversy in the good old-fashioned way.

Over Mile of the River Below the Dam Patrolled Without Success. .

PERILOUS WORK.

Current Makes It Impossible To Keep Grappling Irons Dragging Bottom of River.

A tireless search for the victims of Sunday's triple drowning is being made with hopes for their recovery still high. The members of the fire department are especially tireless in their vigil as they carry on the work. Members of the night platoon have offered their time and are working during the day, while in the evening the members of the day shift take over the task and work unceasingly till dark.

Over a mile of the river was patrolled yesterday without success. Three motor boats and three punts with numerous drags and ropes were called into use. The dangerous current below the dam makes the work very perilous, but from daylight until dark the work is being carried on.

Fear was expressed by some that the bodies might not have been swept away as far as it is feasible to believe but have been caught under the bank or below some sunken log or obstacle.

Drags Forced to Top.

The swift current is making it impossible to keep the grappling hooks dragging along the bottom of the river. When the books are slowly dragged upstream against the terrific rush of water the heavy grappling irons are forced up from the bottom and do little good, men who are engaged in the work stated. The only time the grappling iron remain on the bottom is when they are dragged down stream, it was explained.

The Boy Scouts have volunteered to aid the search by patrolling the shores every evening until dark.

Meanwhile those engaged in dragging are trying to hit upon a plan to make their efforts more useful by keeping the hooks on the bottom.

Bowmanville Secures Share Of $300,000 Legacy

AFTER 20 YEARS' LEGAL BATTLE ONTARIO TOWN'S RIGHTS ARE RECOGNIZED BY U. S. COURT

Bowmanville Is To Divide $300,000 Washington Property With Toronto Man.

LARGE OFFICE BUILDING.

More Than $100,000 of Earnings Have Piled Up in Recent Years.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., May 21.—(C.P.)— Following 20 years of legal strife this little Ontario town will now receive the legacy of real estate in Washington, D.C., left it by the late James H. McGill. The legacy is valued in the neighborhood of $300,000.

Bowmanville was to-day pronounced the owner of a seven story office building in Washington by a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. The court refused to reconsider a decision of the lower courts against William and Henry Larkin who sued to set aside the will.

For the last 20 years the legal battle has continued but the rents from the office building more than paid the costs of the court. In the 20 years of the property is believed to have doubled till Bowmanville now estimates that its real estate in the United States Capital is worth $200,000. In addition there is more than $100,000 of earnings from the building piled up waiting for court decision.

Bowmanville made a civic issue out of the court proceedings over its legacy. More than one Mayor has been chosen on the platform of getting action on the legacy. The present Mayor, M. J. Elliott, is the only one to realize his pre-election promises.

There are no restrictions attached to the legacy, and Bowmanville, it it said, can do what it likes with the property. What the town will do with the money if the building is sold has not yet been decided.

John McGill, Toronto, brother of James, will share equally with his town in the profits derived from the sale of the building, according to the terms of the will.

TEN INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Automobile Crashes Occur Yesterday in Various Parts of Province.

FEW ARRESTED.

TORONTO, Ont., May 21 (Canadian Press).—Ten persons sustained more or less serious injuries as a result of automobile accidents in various parts of the province yesterday and last night.

P. Palumbo and Vincent Bellsumo, both of Dundas, Ont., suffered cuts and bruises when their automobile was crowded off the highway and wrecked. Miss M. Beitch, Guelph, sustained a fractured wrist and a severe cut above the eye when she became confused in traffic at a Galt intersection and ran into the side of a bus. All three are in Galt Hospital.

Samual Battams, Jr., Gananoque, received a fractured collar bone and another passenger of the car, in which they were riding, that went into the ditch near that town, received severe head cuts.

Plunged Into Ditch.

Mrs. William Davidson is in the Stratford Hospital as a result of injuries received when a car driven by her husband plunged into a ditch near Shakespeare.

Harold Dean, 23, Windsor, is being held by police for investigation after Max Gleason, aged 3, received internal injuries when, according to Dean, the boy walked into the path of his car.

Fred Chesham, 12, and Herbert Button are in Victoria Hospital at London after being struck by the same car in different parts of the city. Eugene Murphy, driver, knocked down Private Button, who was on parade with the Seventh Fusiliers, while he was rushing the Chesham boy to the hospital after knocking him down. Neither was seriously injured. Murphy was not held.

A QUICK WAY TO END BABY'S UPSET SPELLS

"Like other young mothers, I worried every time Baby cried," says a Syracuse, N.Y. woman. "Several times when she was upset or constipated, I tried castor oil but she couldn't retain it. Our doctor told me to try Fletcher's Castoria because it is harmless and babies like it. That ended my worries and I've used it since for all my children." Castoria never fails to delight mothers by the quick way it ends those upsets of babies and children, such as colic, constipation, colds, etc. That's the reason for its tremendous sale and popularity. Like all good things, it's imitated, but genuine Castoria—the purely-vegetable product—always bears the Fletcher signature.

THREE PHASES OF SERVICE FOR ALL ROTARIANS

Alex MacCall Outlined District Convention To Campbellford Club.

PLANS STREET FAIR.

Duty of individual To Put More Into Life Than He Takes Out.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Alec MacCall was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon in the St. Lawrence hotel dining room yesterday, when he sketched the substance of three addresses given at the Rotary convention held recently in Erie, Pa. His subject was the development of the individual Rotarian in his desire and capacity for service. He adopted the expository method of address, which he claimed had been used by ministers several years ago. Now, he claimed, they selected a text as a starting point and a starting point was something to which the runner should not return.

There were three phases in which a Rotarian could be of service, he said, in his club, in his business and in his community. These were the phases dealt with by each of the three speakers at the convention. Rotary must develop or die by the work of each of its members, not by the club. Kipling had said that the strength of the pack was in the wolf and the strength of the wolf in the pack. So with Rotary the strength of the club was in the individual and the strength of the individual was in the club. There was also necessary, a desire to do good, which was a mental quality that increased with action. The corollary was also true, that the action increased with the desire and so the process continued to increase ad infinitum.

Life, he said, was a service and it was the duty of the individual to put more into it than they took out if civilization were to be advanced. At the Erie convention, one of the speakers had pointed out how one club had used its influence to keep boys at school longer than they would ordinarily remain. They believed that by giving them a better education, they would give to the world a better service. After school days were over, there was an opportunity for the members to use their influence in the right direction to make the boys better citizens.

Carried Too Far

Attendance at club meetings, he thought, was a good thing, but the desire could be carried too far. There were cases where members had been carried into the room on stretchers. Others where members had not missed a luncheon for several years. This was all right as far as it went, he agreed, but he wondered if these ardent members had ever furnished the club with any good ideas or such things to promote its interests. He himself was interested in the activities of Rotary as a means to an end, the assistance of the needy. Money, however, only went so far. A kindly word, opportunely spoken often went much further.

In his vocation there was another opportunity for the Rotarian to display his ideals. They should be put into effect in his everyday life and work. There were other things in life besides dollars and cents, he claimed. A prominent man had once said that our face was our own fault after we had reached the age of fifty. Alec thought there was quite a lot of truth in it, and believed that a man's eyes were the mirrors of his soul. Life was a living thing, he thought, and could not be bought with gold.

The local club is planning a street fair, and the event was open for round-table discussion yesterday. Nothing definite was done, but it was understood that it would be held during the month of July, and every member has pledged himself to take an active part in the activities.

"We are all here but the two Bobs," said Secretary Edge, in giving his report at the close of the meeting. "I hardly need remind you why Bob Scott is not with us. Bob Tait accompanied him to Knowlton."

'HUSKY SURELY ENDS STOMACH PAINS QUICK'

"I Did Not Dare Eat Any Heavy Foods Before I Took This Medicine," Says Wholesale Grocer.

JAMES McCOY

"It is wonderful to take Husky and feel the gas and pain leave your stomach," said James McCoy, wholesale grocer, of 74 Catherine Street South, Hamilton, Ont., who says this medicine has relieved him of trouble he has been having for two years.

"My stomach was in such bad shape," he said, "I would not dare eat any heavy food. I knew how it was going to make me suffer. I was nervous and at night I would awaken every few minutes. When morning came I often felt like I had never been to bed.

"I first heard of Husky through a friend and then I got a bottle. I am certainly pleased with what it has done for me. I can eat anything I want now as Husky has taken the pain from my stomach. I get a good, sound night's sleep now without any disturbance from my nerves. I wouldn't do without Husky now."

When stomach trouble and indigestion afflict you, it generally means catarrh or a similar trouble is irritating the delicate stomach lining and causing it to secrete mucus. This mucus fills your stomach, surrounds the food you eat, causes gas and avidity and constipates you. Weakness, headaches, dizzy spells, nervousness and other troubles follow as your food is a soured mass and sends impurities, instead of rich, red corpuscles into your food.

Husky's ingredients cleanse the system of this mucus and soothe the irritated membranes. That's why Husky makes you feel better so quick and why a treatment of several bottles gives permanent relief. Begin using Husky to-day and see how soon food tastes better, you sleep more sound and feel stronger. The expert from the Husky Laboratories is now at Bond's Drug Store here for the purpose of giving free information about this medicine to local sufferers. Call on him to-morrow and let him explain to you how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

FRENCH NAVAL AUTHORITIES GIVE HYDROGEN FOR ZEPPELIN

Big Air Liner Expects To Start For Home End of Week.

TWENTY-ONE PASSENGERS.

Seven French Naval Officers Have Been Invited To Make Journey..

CUERS, France, May 21. (C.P.) — French naval authorities here to-day supplied the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, with 3000 cubic metres of hydrogen lifting gas necessary to enable it to make its return trip to Friedrichshafen later this week.

It was explained that the big ship's lifting gas supply had been carefully apportioned to the load to be lifted, and which while sufficient for the trip to America was not sufficient for the three additional persons on board who intended flying back to Friedrichshafen in the dirigible.

Captain Lehmann by increasing the gas content of the bag a thousand cubic metres per person, could offset this extra weight. Until the French came forward with their offer he had foreseen the necessity of further delaying the trip back to Germany or leaving behind some of those who wanted to go along.

The dirigible will have 21 passengers in addition to the crew of 40 on the return trip, which should be made on Thursday or Friday. There were 18 passengers on the outbound trip.

Four of the original 18 have abandoned their booking aboard the air liner, but seven French naval officers who have accepted the invitation of Dr. Eckener, master, have more than made up for them.

CHURCH EUCHRE PARTY HELD UP

Forty Members of London Holy Name Society Face Marauders.

NO MONEY TAKEN.

LONDON, Ont., May 21 (Canadian Press).—Forty members of the Holy Name Society heard a table knocked over, and turned from their weekly euchre match in the parish hall of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church last night to face three armed, masked robbers.

Two of the players, Joseph Pevler and Thomas Mockler, escaped through a rear door to telephone the police and shattered the plans of the hold-up men and before their demand for money could be met they were compelled to beat a retreat.

Rev. E. J. McMahon, an assistant of Mgr. M. J. Brady, the rector, was in the parish hall during the evening, and the Holy Name men had with them several friends, both Protestants and Catholics. The first intimation that the bandits had arrived came when the table was knocked over. The leader stood close to the cluster of tables, wearing a black mask and carrying a nickel-plated revolver. He wore a brown suit and grey cap, and seemed quite young. His two companions wore white handkerchiefs to cover their faces.

It is claimed that the leader alone spoke and he uttered only two sentences, the first a command: "Line up and put your money on the table," and the second a shout to his companions to prevent the escape of Mockler and Pevler through the back door.

Realizing that an alarm would bring the police, he kept the men covered with his revolver and backed out toward the Lyle and York Streets entrance, the others backing out with him. A moment later no trace of them could be found.

Twenty Countries Report Season Most Backward

TORONTO, Ont., May 21.—(C.P.)—Twenty of the Ontario counties reporting to the Department of Agriculture on crop conditions yesterday declared spring seeding backward, a condition due to the cold and wet season. Government representatives in Glengarry termed the situation serious, as 75 per cent. of the farmers have not sown grain yet. In Kent county one of the earliest sections, it is stated seeding operations in general are three weeks behind compared with the average year.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 21. — The butter market yesterday was a shade firmer, and Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized was 35½ cents per pound. There was no New Zealand butter offering. Receipts were 170 boxes. It was stated by dealers yesterday that when receipts became heavier, which should be soon, prices are expected to be lower. To the retail trade the prices were unchanged, being 37c for solids and 38c for prints. Cheese was a little firmer. No 1 Ontario colored were quoted at 17⅞ cents per pound, and No. 1 Quebec colored at 16⅞c. Receipts were 2,465 boxes.

Egg prices showed a firmer feeling, some dealers asking 1 cent higher from the retail trade. In the wholesale trade quotations were unchanged. Receipts were 3,427 cases.

Potatoes were a little cheaper again yesterday. There were about 64 cars on track, where sales were made in car lots at 60c for New Brunswick Green Mountains and 65c for shipment, per 90-pounds in bulk; Prince Edward Island whites at 70c per 90 pounds in bags and 75c for shipment, with Prince Edward Island Green Mountains for shipment selling at 80c per 90 pounds in bags.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Ont., May 21. — Egg prices held steady on the local wholesale produce market yesterday, and dealers were quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; firsts, 25c to 26c, and seconds, 22c to 23c per dozen.

Monday is usually a very quiet day on the egg market as shipments for this week do not reach the market until Tuesday. However, receipts weer fairly heavy, and indications are that large shipments of fresh eggs will reach the market this week. Production is holding up well, and the conditions throughout the country are much more favorable for loading supplies.

Butter Firmer.

A distinctly firmer feeling was in evidence on the wholesale butter market, and No. 1 finest New Zealand creamery was quoted at 36 c per pound, with No. 2 grade 1 cent on domestic supplies in the near lower. Trading is more active and dealers expect to be operating solely future.

Trading remained quiet on the wholesale cheese market, and the price of No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government graded supplies ranged from 17½c to 18¾c per pound.

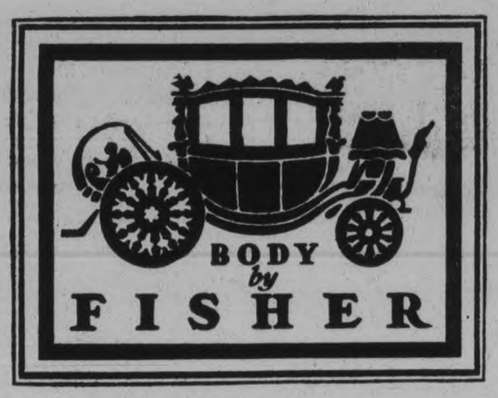
CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 21. — Helped by a bigger decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total yesterday than expected, the wheat market here showed a distinct upward trend. Additional strength to wheat values resulted from the fact that for the first time the late crop reports had a distinct unpromising flavor. Disagreement of the House and Senate at Washington regarding debenture legislation failed to put a stop to the upturn in prices.

Wheat closed firm, 1⅛c to 1¼c to 1⅝c net higher; corn, ½c to 1⅛c up; oats, ⅛c to ¼c to ½c advance; and provisions varying from 2c decline to an equal gain.

Highest quotations of the day in the wheat market were current at the finish. Unlooked-for magnitude of the falling off in the domestic visible supply, 5,127,000 bushels during the last week, had much to do with the strength which the market displayed in yesterday's final transactions, whereas earlier a conspicuous stimulating influence was buying on the part of houses that asserted price rallies were to be expected after recent drastic downturns. Meanwhile crop advices, especially from the South-west, were in general more or less relatively unfavorable.

Special notice was taken of despatches from a leading Chicago crop expert, who telegraphed from Dalhart, Texas, that wheat shows irregular condition throughout Texas and Oklahoma. Inasmuch as this region is where the 1929 wheat harvest is either already under way or is fast approaching, the news given tends noticeably to encourage commission house buying, and so likewise did bessages from Winnipeg saying that there had been very little growth of Canadian crops in the last week, and that warm weather is needed.



GENERAL MOTORS OF CANADA, LIMITED

Perhaps the Biggest Fact in the motor car business today is the startling difference revealed by stepping into a car and then into any other

NO specialist or expert is needed to point out Fisher Body superiority—the greater richness and beauty and quality stand out so sharply and convincingly that all argument is ended. ¶ This is one of the most important facts in motor car buying today because it has to do with value—with what you get for the purchase price. ¶ You are bound to admit at once in your own mind—that in solidity of construction, in paneling, in the quality of the upholstery, in the hardware, in the interior fittings, in the clarity of the genuine plate glass, and in the substantially constructed roof—the Fisher Body car is worth several hundred dollars more. ¶ Keep this contrast—these points of superiority—in mind. Consider the many hours you spend in your car and how much of your ease and comfort and satisfaction and pride depends upon the body of your car—and you can come to only one conclusion.

Wedding Bells

GUTHRIE—PLUARD.

LAKEFIELD, May 21.—A very pretty wedding took place in Lakefield on Saturday, April 27, when Viola M. Pluard, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pluard, became the bride of Clifford C. Guthrie, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Guthrie, Rockfort. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Garvey.

The bride wore a becoming dress of blonde crepe trimmed with crystal and rhinestone ornaments, and wore crystal necklet and earrings, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. Her attendants were her sister, Miss Eva Pluard and Miss Marie Pluard, who were becomingly dressed in harmonizing shades of blonde and beige lace dresses, and wore shoulder bouquets of Columbia roses and sweet peas. The groom was attended by Jack Cochrane.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the bride's home, where a dainty wedding dinner was served to the immediate friends and relatives.

The grooms gift to the bridesmaids were gold novelty rings and to the best man, white gold cuff links.

The afternoon was spent in music and dancing and later the young couple left amid hearty wishes on a motor trip via Toronto, Niagara and through New York state. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie will reside at Rockfort.

LINDSAY, May 21.— (Examiner Correspondence).—The death occurred on Sunday of Mrs. Jane Neil Reesor, sister of the late Robert Neil of the Neil Shoe Store, Peterborough. Her husband, Mr. B. F. Reesor, died seven years ago. She is survived by one brother, Nathaniel Neill, of Brantford, and one sister, Mrs. E. Gregory of Lindsay. Interment took place at Little Lake Cemetery Peterborough to-day.

GEYLE SCOTT

CAMPBELLFORD, May 21.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—To show their respect for Geyle Scott and to express their sincerest sympathy for the family so tragically bereaved, scores of citizens attended the funeral of the twelve-year-old victim of the double drowning fatality which occured at the mouth of Trout Creek Saturday afternoon. The funeral service was held at nine o'clock Sunday evening at the home of the parents. As many as could, were inside the house but there were as many more who stood respectfully outside, listening to the service which was beautifully simple. The Rev. R. C. Tait, minister of St. John's United Church, officiated. He spoke in glowing terms of the young life that was so suddenly ended, and also spoke reassuringly to those who were left to mourn.

Yesterday morning the remains were taken to Knowlton, P. Que., where they will be interred. The Rev. R. C. Tait accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Scott and family who left by motor.

Surveyors Doing Field Work In Lindsay District

(Special to The Examiner.)

LINDSAY, May 21.—A group of surveyors under the supervision of A. E. Atfield, surveys engineer of the Department of National Defence, Ottawa, are doing field work here getting information for the "Lindsay sheet" of the topographical map of Canada.

The "Lindsay sheet" will take in about 420 square miles of territory, the boundaries of which are manilla, Argyle, Bobcaygeon and Omemee.

Topographic mapping is a means of depicting on paper the natural and artifical features of a country.

The trout sees what is above his eyes, but will swim over food that is directly below him even if he is hungry. Carp and suckers can see only what is below them.

TO CHECK THE DOG POISONER.

Dr. Thomas Johnston, president of the Peterborough branch of the Humane Society, did a good service at the meeting of the organization in Toronto last week when he called attention to the prevalence of dog poisoning in this city and district and to the ease with which individuals who are guilty of this revolting practice obtain the strychnine to carry out their deadly work.

There is nothing but condemnation in the hearts of most people for those who are low enough and cowardly enough to sentence helpless animals to a painful death.

The man who will deliberately set out poison for a harmless dumb animal is a murderer at heart, and may be a murderer in actual fact should a little child happen to come into possession of the deadly stuff, a development that might easily happen.

If the law can be materially tightened so that dog poisoners may find it difficult to secure a supply of strychnine, public opinion will be strongly in favor of such an amendment.

Apparently under the present regulations there is no particular trouble in securing enough poison to dispose of a whole army of dogs.

WATER HAZARDS.

With the coming of summer weather the hazard of Ontarios rivers and lakes has entered into competition with the motor car to determine which is the most prolific death agency.

Over the week-end eight lives were taken in this Province by drowning, five of these deaths occurring in our own district, three right here at home.

The majority of these accidents were the result of people taking chances, venturing into places where danger lurked, and the whole story of the week-end tragedies shouts a warning to the public to follow safety first principles in this respect.

Sunday's triple drowning here should suggest to the authorities the desirability of providing lifebuoys, pike poles and other rescue apparatus for the east side of the river at the locks.

The west side of the river is furnished with such equipment, but on the opposite shore where a number of drownings has taken place there is nothing with which a person in danger in the water can be rescued.

The absence of lifebuoys at this point may have been partially at least responsible for the three lives taken by the Otonabee on Sunday.

DR. BABCOCK AND SHORT SKIRTS.

A Los Angeles evangelist, at present visiting Toronto, informed his hearers in the Parkdale Tabernacle on Sunday that short skirts were unsightly in the eyes of God.

"Think how ashamed you would be to appear before God with bare knees, he exhorted his audience.

There are many people who will wonder just what conception the Rev. Dr. Babcock has of God, and just where he obtains authority for his belief that the human body is something of which to be ashamed.

It may be that the present style of women's clothes are not what they should be, but that is because humanity has not reached that stage of purity of mind that enables it to rise above thoughts of the flesh, and not surely because the body that God has given us is a shameful thing, as this Los Angele divine would apparently have us believe.

Condemnation of scanty clothes as a possible danger to public morals possibly may be justified, but it is a different matter to go beyond this and dogmatically declare that the sight of a human body is offensive in the eyes of God—which is exactly what Dr. Babcock means if he means anything.

KEEP AWAY FROM THE RIVER.

The Examiner would once again emphatically emphasize the warning that, while the Otonabee River is at its present level, that boating parties be postponed, especially in the vicinity of the locks.

In spite of the lesson that is plain in Sunday's triple drowning, two other people came close to death at almost the same point a couple of hours later when they foolishly risked their lives in a boat a short distance above the locks dam.

If the craft had drifted only an inch or two farther out from shore nothing could have saved them from going over the dam, and their chances of escape would have been very slight.

Small boats should shun the stretch of river from Little Lake Cemetery to the locks, for the rushing current at this point is, as pointed out last night, a deathtrap.

And inexperienced people should as far as possible keep out of boats altogether on the Otonabee—at its best there are sections that are no place for novice boatmen.

It is noticeable that many of those involved in river accidents are newcomers who are doubtless not aware of the danger.

Those people who have boats to hire should regard it as obligatory upon them to warn novices of the risk they are taking and of the need of being careful.

ONTARIO NEEDS IT.

The Government of Ontario is about to spend a quarter of a million dollars on an extension and rebuilding of its offices in London, England. There will possibly be criticism of the scheme—it seems to be the business of an opposition to criticize public expenditure, whether justified or not—but anyone who has seen, or been inside the offices of the Province of Ontario in London will agree that it is high time the improvement was made.

Situated in that famous artery, the Strand, the Ontario offices have for many years occupied insignificant quarters in premises less than most of the stores on Talbot Street. It has one small window in which are crowded exhibits and printed advertising that boosts Ontario. The interior lacks light, and the whole place is a mighty poor advertisement for the most prosperous Province in the Dominion. t is almost opposite a huge and palatial building owned and occupied by the Government of Australia, with a dozen windows having the finest kind of displays calculated to appeal to intending emigrants.

Ontario's showing in the heart of the Empire gives the people of London a wretched impression, which, compared with the offices opposite, suggests that Ontario is not the sort of place to go to for opportunities.

The Province of Ontario must put up a good "front" in London. The enlarged frontage which is to be provided should produce the "front."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MARRIAGE IN THE BLUE BOOK.

(From the Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Now and then there comes a Government blue book that demands attention, for there is always present the expectation that it may be possible to extract some information from between the two covers that may have in it the germ of information and the instinct of warning.

Thus we turn to the annual perusal of the report of births, marriages and deaths for the Province of Ontario "for the year ending 31st December, 1927, printed and published by the printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty," etc.

For the present let us consider marriages, dealing with the subject in the impartial light that shines through the close columns of official figures.

June continues to hold its premier position, so that those who wish to refer to the June bride can go ahead and do so, knowing that their statement has the backing of official records. For in June there were 3,693 brides, and, we presume, an equal supply of bridegrooms. September ranks second with 3,017, while February, the dwarfed month of the year, made a showing of about 1,380, being the low month of the entire year.

Then there is that question, much discussed by married people, of who seeks marriage the second time, the widow or the widower. Ah, that is a rare topic for household conversation.

Many a wife is certain that upon her departure her bereaved partner would be casting about for his second wife; she even doubts if he would wait long enough so that the neighbors wouldn't start talking about him. Yes, he would be off in pursuit of another wife, to spend on her the money which the first wife, by thrift and self-denial, had helped him to accumulate.

* * * *

And turning in the other direction, have not husbands declared that they suspect their wives have a notion already of the direction in which they would turn for the second disposal of their affection? They argue that an attractive widow turned loose in the community leaves the younger single ladies a small chance of capturing the most eligible man in the place.

It is needless to argue any longer because the blue book settles it. Of all the marriages in the Province 5.5 per cent. were widows, and 7.8 were widowers. Therefore the wives win the argument, and when they contend that their husbands would hassten off to marry again they have official sanction for their belief.

A year or so ago this paper presented a review of the ages at which people get married, and we believe the figures before us bear out contention at that time, viz., that there comes a time when the marriages of brides are frequent, between the ages of 18 and 22, and right then the chart shows that the numerical array declines.

Here are the ages at which brides and bridegrooms married:

	Brides.		Bridegrooms.
16	410	16	0
17	847	17	0
18	2063	18	231
19	2222	19	570
20	2064	20	937
21	2254	21	1833
22	2070	22	1916
23	1859	23	2029
24	1741	24	1944
25	1317	25	1878
26	1195	26	1787
30	525	30	951
35	227	35	407
40	141	40	227
45	92	45	137

Now, we submit, there is a table every young lady should clip out and study carefully. Not that we desire to cause alarm, or any undue haste, but figures are stubborn things, and the law of averages cannot be lightly thrust to one side.

* * * *

It is clearly shown that if the young ladies desire to enter that charmed circle where they can use that magic phrase "my husband," they must be up and doing. Notice the large numbers that hop off between the ages of 18 and 22, then follow the manner in which the figures seem to dwindle; at age 26 they are almost cut in two; at 30 they have been quartered; at 35 they have been reduced to an eighth.

The men seem different. Perhaps it is they need some time to save up enough to buy a kitchen table, a couple of chairs and a motor car before they can start housekeeping, or else it is that they prefer to run around unattached for a longer period. Why, there were 2,036 brides at 18, and only 231 grooms at that tender age. The marrying age runs longer and stronger when men have more maturity in point of years. At age 30 there were but 525 brides and 951 grooms.

Do what you like with the figures. The Government, we presume, issues the tables because it feels that it must be done as a matter of record. We feel it our duty to pass them along as a matter of information, and, shall we say—warning.

A Thought

IF ALL THE SKIES

If all the skies were sunshine,
Our faces would be fain
To feel once more upon them
The cooling plash of rain.

If all the world were music,
Our hearts would often long
For one sweet strain of silence,
To break the endless song.

If life were always merry,
Our souls would seek relief,
And rest from weary laughter
In the quiet arms of grief.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY THE SUPERIORITY COMPLEX IS BETTER THAN THE INFERIORITY COMPLEX.

The inferiority complex is responsible for 99 per cent of our failures. We fail because we expect to fail. Failure results in inferiority complex. The inferiority complex in turn causes you to fail further.

The superiority complex, on the other hand, is your greatest asset to success. Success breeds superiority complex which, in turn, brings victory and success.

Both the superiority and inferiority complexes are mental attitudes which are developed through personal reaction to the facts of life. Disposition has a great deal to do with it. The less energetic and less confident, the timid and fearful person is more likely to develop an inferiority complex. The energetic, the optimistic, the self-assertive type of person is more likely to develop the superiority complex.

The inferiority complex simply builds upon the innate timidness we feel in the presence of a new and difficult task, while the superiority complex capitalizes the elated feeling we have in meeting with success and in overcoming opposition.

If you must have a complex be wise enough to get a superiority complex. It is much more pleasant and profitable than an inferiority complex.

Of course it is not the pleasantest thing in the world to live with a person who has a superiority complex. The better-than-thou attitude of such a person is decidedly unpleasant. It grates on our own self-importance. We hate the egoist, the swaggerer, the vain and boastful fellow. Nevertheless, when it comes to getting results, such a person has a better chance than the timid fellow who dare not say his soul is his own.

The superiority complex is better than the inferiority complex because of the law of auto-suggestion. By suggesting success to yourself you have a better chance to succeed than if you suggest the opposite. The idea in the mind is bound to make a difference. It gets control of the muscles and the brain centers and directs, modifies, and otherwise affects your action so as to bring about the expected results.

This is the whole secret of Coueism. It aims to take advantage of the laws of suggestion and the superiority complex by constantly repeating, "Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better." It is good psychology. Many a man has made a fortune or won his fair lady's hand by constantly thinking in terms of success.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Wednesday, May 22, 1929.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Sun.)

Astrologers read this as a fairly lucky day for most lines of activity, but warn against buying. Speculators in stocks should beware.

Merchants and manufacturers to-day should profit through enterprise that reaches into new fields.

This is a lucky day to begin any novel enterprise and should be fairly fortunate for promoters, many of whom will be excessively active through the summer months.

Bankers should progress rapidly in large projects that have for their aim the development of communities.

Greath growth of towns as well as leading cities is predicted for the year and the summer may be a time for many flittings from one state to another.

All important transactions should be made early to-day as the late hours are not fortunate.

There is a sign indicating lack of judgment and too much tendency toward overconfidence in making investments or in entering into speculative ventures.

Improvement in the post office service of the United States is foretold and communication will become amazingly rapid, even to all who patronize the air mail routes, the seers prophesy.

Telegraphy somehow is to be linked with the routine of letter distribution, if the stars are wisely interpreted.

France next month may show a military spirit that will be unfortunate for international amity, astrologers foretell.

Mexico, Venezuela and the West Indies may suffer next month from destructive storms of extraordinary violence, it is prognosticated.

July is to be a month most favorable to banks and general business. Aviation and shipping also will be well directed by the stars.

Persons whose birthdate it is, may be subject in the coming year to too much advice and much jealousy.

Children born on this day probably will be very fond of travel and excitement. The subjects of this sign usually are exceedingly charming and diplomatic. They have great opportunities, oftentimes, that they use marvelously well.

LONDON, May 21.—An old house off Cheapside holds one of the strangest parties in England. Once a year city men and women gather here for a feast. Since the custom has been instituted, however, champagne has been served only 15 times.

Life Steps In

By RUBY M. AYRES

CHAPTER XLV

Ana folded the letter up and went back to her room. She felt stunned. She could not realize what had happened. She kept telling herself that Mollie had gone forever—that Mollie had run away with a married man, and that soon Anthony would be free, but it all sounded sheer nonsense. She dressed slowly—her fingers were so clumsy and shaking that she could hardly fasten her clothes.

Breakfast was ready long before she had finished dressing the General. The little maid's eyes were large and round with curiosity as she brought in the tea and toast, but she dared ask no questions and Ana volunteered no information.

If only there had been somebody to whom she could turn for help and advice, but there was nobody except Tom Drake, who was angry with her, and whom she never wished to see again, or the First Prayer, whose cynical if kindly outlook on life would only be a jarring note in the circumstances.

"I must just wait," Ana told herself. "I must be patient and wait till Anthony comes."

And then her pulses began to race so at the thought she could hardly breathe.

There would be no need to part from him again—soon he would be free. The thought was a delirious happiness—a happiness too great for fulfilment, so Ana told herself as she went about her duties in the little cottage and answered the General's ceaseless questions.

How soon would he come? She did not know. Mollie had given her no definite information. It might equally well be either to-morrow or next week or next month!

Or turn the quiet corner of a street
But hope is in my heart.

A justified hope now! Perhaps to-morrow, perhaps even to-day—but Ana dared go no further with that thought.

She must just be patient and wait.

The day seemed endless.

The General was fretful and difficult. The sunshine of the morning had vanished and given place to gray clouds and a chill breeze.

Ana's nerves were on edge.

Every step on the road, every knock at the door almost stopped her heart beating. For hours after the little maid had washed up and gone, and the General had been bathed and put to bed, she sat in the sitting room, her hands clasped tightly, every nerve in her body strained to attention.

Once she was positive she heard Anthony's voice outside, but when she dragged herself, half fainting, to the door, it was only the man from the next cottage to tell her that one of the back windows was unfastened and banging to and fro in the rising wind.

"You'll get it broken," he told her. "There's a storm coming up."

"A storm!"

Ana's face blanched in the light of the lamp she held, and the man asked if she was nervous of storms.

"Some women are," he said with a tolerant amusement.

Ana shook her head.

"Afraid! Oh, no!"

But she had been thinking of Anthony's ship—perhaps still far out at sea.

Supposing something happened at this, the eleventh hour, to rob her of him?

"I'll shut the window. Thank you for telling me," she said, and the man went away.

The storm came up very suddenly, and by midnight the thunder was crashing overhead and the rain coming down in torrents.

Ana wished she could go out and look at the lightning over the sea. She felt that to be out in this battle of elements would soothe the unrest and impatience of her soul. But she could not leave the General alone, so she knelt by the window in his room and watched the vivid flashes against the sky, outlining the tree tops and roofs of the cottages opposite.

Anthony would not come to-night she knew, but all the same she could not rest, could not close her eyes. He did not come the next day, either, though she had everything in readiness for him, and fresh flowers in the sitting room.

For a week he did not come, and Ana began to feel as she had felt during those terrible days at Wimbleson when she waited in vain for his promised letter. Was life going to step in again now as it had then? It was only with difficulty that she kept back her rising panic.

Then the First Prayer appeared. She motored down unexpectedly and expressed herself amazed at the speed with which her first knock upon the cottage door was answered.

"Heavens! Who on earth were you expecting?" she demanded bluntly.

Ana flushed.

"Nobody, of course, and I'm delighted to see you."

"You didn't look it. There was blank disappointment in your eyes. May I come in?"

"Of course."

They went into the sitting room, and the First Prayer looked around critically.

"Who sent the roses? Tom Drake, I suppose."

"No, I bought them."

Jessica's eyes twinkled. "Then you are expecting someone," she accused Ana.

"No, I promise you—"

"All right, all right, I'm only teasing you, and I haven't come to stay. Only it looked so like a storm I thought I'd ask for hospitality till it's blown over. I'm going on to Exeter. One of my numerous aunts is there, dying, and she's asked me to be in at the death, so to speak," Jessica explained flippantly. "What a bandbox of a cottage! How do you all squeeze in?"

"There's only me and the General here now."

"I see. Mollie Hambledon is away. There's the first clap of thunder. Ugh! I do hate storms. Is Mollie away?"

"Yes."

The First Prayer grimaced.

"You've heard the news, of course?"

"No—what news?"

"About Mahon. It was in the paper this morning, but I suppose you don't see the papers in this sylvan retreat, do you?"

"Of course we do, but I haven't looked at the paper this morning. What news is it?"

"Only that Mahon's poor wretched little wife is dead, at last. She died in the south of France.

Jessica's eyes twinkled.

"I'm just wondering what move the beautiful Mollie will make now," she added maliciously.

NATIVES OF ONTARIO.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In reply to Miss Reinhardt, quoted in the Peterborough Examiner in pre-reference to the history and customs of the Indians of this country, I would like to make a few remarks. Everything is interesting, only one thing being overlooked: The Indians of Canada came over with Jacques Cartier, the second explorer of Canada who ascended the St. Lawrence River to Montreal in 1535.

We are the Mississaugas, remnants of the tribes, direct descendants and actual Indians, who came from the north shore of Lake Ontario and first inhabited this country, noted long before Christopher Columbus, the first explorer in 1492, John Cabot in 1497, Cortereal in 1500, Samuel de Champlain in 1603, Jacques Cartier in 1634, and Joe Cook, who was overpowered by natives on one of the islands in Australia.

We had no schools, churches, and missionaries long before the whites came, and our forefathers had no scholarship, which made it impossible for them to write and count. They had to go by the sun and moon, the growth of the grass and the water flow. That is why no creature can tell exactly where and when, but when the first explorers landed, the bronze and silver medals were given to the head men of the tribes. The date is on them and the King's head and their initials, showing they were once the powerful race and once owned the Dominion of Canada.

Jacques Cartier, who sailed around the New Brunswick shore was delighted with the soil and climate there. In July he visited these regions and also kidnapped two Indian natives, as he afterwards learned, of a region higher up the St. Lawrence. These Indians were carried with him to France, his own country, and brought them back the second time as guides. I have no space now, but anybody who wants to see my medals and books, is welcome, showing that we are originally from Lake Ontario and originally natives of this country. The Hurons and Algonquins might have inhabited Central America, but were not with us at Mud Lake.

Tribal Chief.
